President of Shoe Machinery Company Alleges Unprofessional Conduct.

Attorney Charges Favoring One Set of Interests Against Another.

C. S. Mellen Says He Has No Facts to Give Committee.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, President Wilson's nominee for the supreme court bench, was attacked today before the senate sub-committee investigating his qualifications, by Samuel W. Winslow, president of the United Shoe Machinery company of which Mr. Brandeis was formerly a director and counsel and by Hollis R. Bailey, a Boston attorney with whom Mr. Brandeis was associated years ago in litigation over an estate.

Mr. Winslow charged that Mr. Brandeis had been guilty of unprofessional conduct in that after leaving the shoe machinery company he had used knowledge gained through his association with it to attack as illegal and criminal "the very acts and system of business which he assisted to create and which he advised were legal."

Mr. Bailey charged that Mr. Brandeis, representing at the same time the lessees and lessors of the Warran Paper Mills and involving a $21,000,000 estate, had been guilty of acts

STEAMER KEEPS IN THREE-MILE LIMIT

Presence of Cruisers Off Coast Causes Captain to Be on Guard.

Newport News, Feb. 15.—The presence of two Entente allied cruisers off the Virginia coast resulted yesterday in the trial of the American steamer Standard, formerly the German tanker Jupiter being run within American territorial waters. Two Germans, one the ship's chief engineer, and the other a member of the owning company, were aboard the Standard and it was feared that if the vessel went outside the three-mile limit it might be overhauled by the warships and the Germans removed. The Standard, which changed to American registry soon after the war began, was partly burned off Port Arthur, Texas, early last December, the wreckage being hauled and rebuilt at the local shipyard.

PARLIAMENT REASSEMBLES

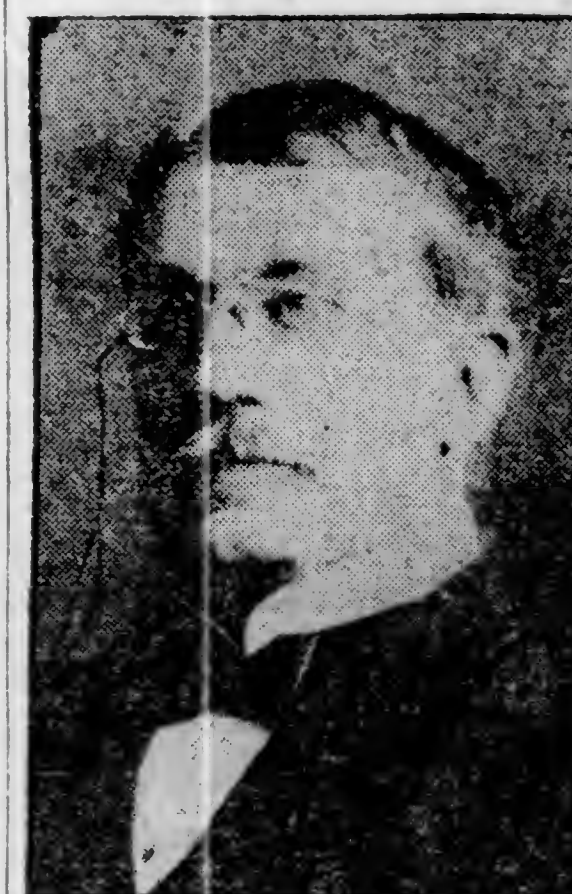

Sixth Session Is Opened By Royal Commission of Five.

King's Speech Praises Spirit of People and Their Allies.

London, Feb. 15.—Parliament reassembled today. King George's speech from the throne followed: "My lords and gentlemen: It has been my duty to summon you after a short recess to renew your deliberations. The spirit of my allies and my people, who are united in this conflict by ever-strengthening ties of sympathy and understanding, remains steadfast in the resolve to unprovoked and unjust aggression and to effectual safeguards for all nations against the aggression of a power which mistakes force for right and expediency for honor. With a proud and grateful confidence I look to the courage, industry and resource of my navy and army, on whom we depend for the maintenance of the king's speech, which was finally approved at a meeting of the privy council this morning.

TO DEMUR TO INDICTMENTS

Walter Smith's Attorney to Request Postponement of Trial.

Pickit Also Gets Bail and Returns to His Home.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas R. Kane will in all probability either demur to the three indictments charging Walter J. Pickit, former state treasurer, with grand larceny of state funds or make a motion to quash the indictments entirely when the case is called in the Ramsey district court Monday. Such was intimated today by Mr. Kane, who is representing Mr. Pickit.

It is probable that when the case comes up Mr. Kane will endeavor to have the matter continued over the March term.

The case against R. C. Pickit, former clerk of the state board of investment, who is charged with second-degree forgery, is set for Monday.

Pickit was today released from the county jail and returned to his home. He appeared in court today with his bondsmen, Horace E. Pickit, his brother, and Vernon F. Wright, both of Vergis Falls, and his release was granted.

MILLIONS MORE ARE NEEDED BY CANADA

Budget Statement Provides Plans for New Taxation.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 15.—The annual budget statement, outlining new taxation and war appropriation schemes of the government for the coming year, will be made in the house of commons this afternoon by Sir Thomas White, finance minister. While the series of taxation innovations introduced last year by Sir Thomas and the general revenue have exceeded anticipations, and while Canada now has a large trade balance in her favor, the constantly increasing number of soldiers being recruited—the establishment aimed at is 100,000—will necessitate the raising of more money by new taxation, while another war appropriation is expected. Already $150,000,000 has been borrowed, and it is expected that with the larger army now being supported, the government will be asked for a much larger sum, something between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000.

The details of the new taxation have been carefully guarded, but it is rumored that the increased earnings of certain concerns handling war munitions will receive attention. It is not likely that an income tax will be imposed after Sir Thomas' careful explanation last year of the difficulties attached to its computation, while the farmers will not be affected either.

Police Looking for Principals in Plan Unexpectedly Revealed.

Anti-Clerical Organization of Destroyers Said to Exist.

Attempt to Blow Up Joliet Prison Also Indicated in Letters.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Search was started today for the principals in what is believed by the police to have been a plot to destroy buildings and kill members of the clergy and laity in a dozen cities in all parts of the United States. Discovery of the alleged plot, according to the police, resulted from examination of the personal effects of John Allegrini, confidant of Jean Cronos, who is charged by the authorities with putting poison in soup served at the banquet given Archbishop Mundelein and causing the illness of more than 100 guests.

After studying letters found in Allegrini's apartment, the police today announced that they considered the fact established that there existed an anti-clerical organization of "destroyers." It was said that among Allegrini's letters were found plans and specifications for the destruction of many large buildings, as well as plots for the death of clergy, church-goers, bankers, businessmen and others.

Cronos has not yet been captured. Allegrini is in jail charged with conspiracy.

SAILORS PUT OUT FIRE ON BIG BATTLESHIP

Jump From Bunks and Extinguish Blaze on the North Dakota.

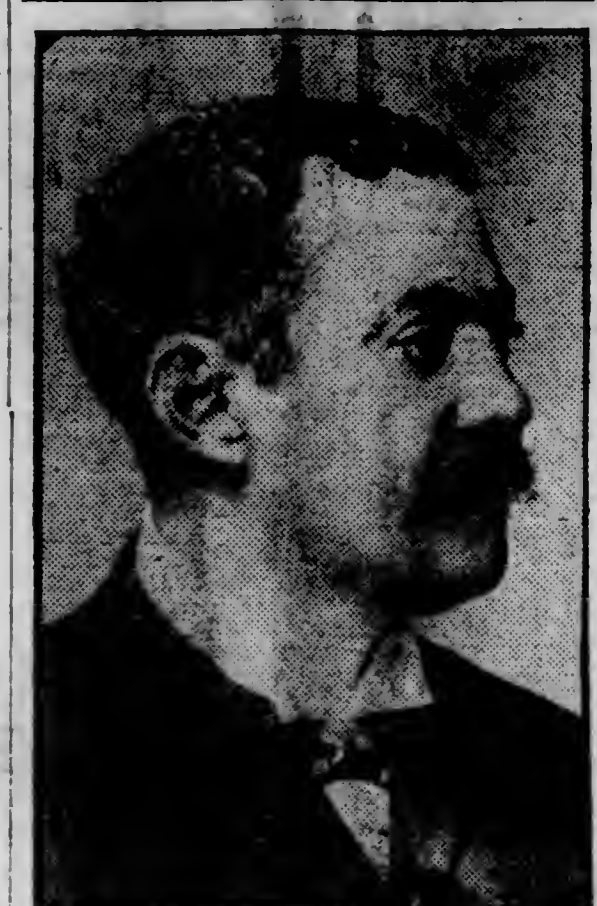

Philadelphia, Feb. 15.—Quick work by sailors on the battleship North Dakota at the Philadelphia navy yard saved the ship from serious damage by fire last night. They jumped from their bunks at the sound of the fire alarm and extinguished a slight blaze in the engine room in about three minutes. The fire was started by the blow-out of a fuse in a dynamo. Oil caught fire and ignited woodwork.

The fire was a good test of the efficiency of the fire drills on the various warships.

EVIDENCE OF DRUG CLERK

May Assist in Clearing Up Mystery in Orpet Case.

Search for Bottle Containing Poison Girl Took Continues.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 15.—Charles W. Haessinger, a clerk in a local drug store who provided William H. Orpet with an abortive drug through William Zick, a chum and roommate of Orpet's at the university, and who also, it is said, provided Orpet with an empty two-ounce bottle, was today in the hands of the police in connection with the death of Marian Frances Lambert.

Searching for Bottle. Search for the bottle in which was contained the poison which caused the death of Marian Frances Lambert, Lake Forest high school girl, was continued today by detectives who are endeavoring to establish a connection between the girl's death last Wednesday and the absence from Madison of a drug clerk in Madison has admitted he sold Orpet an empty bottle and poison crystals have been found in an ash heap in the cellar of the Orpet home.

Orpet's father explained the presence of the poison in the cellar by stating the poison was to have been used as a tree spray, but was of inferior quality and was thrown away.

Orpet continues to maintain that he is innocent.

SCORE LOSE LIVES IN MINE

Nine Bodies Already Recovered From Anaconda Company's Workings.

Fire at 1,200-Foot Level Still Burning But Under Control.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 15.—Twenty-one men have probably perished according to the rescue workers at the Pennsylvania mine of the Anaconda Copper Mining company in a fire which broke out on one of the levels while 220 miners were at work last night. Nine bodies had been raised from the mine before noon and twelve were unaccounted for.

The fire at the 1,200-foot level of the shaft was still burning at noon, but was under control.

Neil Brennan and William Mitchell, assistant foremen, were among the first of the rescuers to go underground, and they came up several times before they were finally overcome. Their bodies were recovered by Assistant Foreman Jake Bartlett and a miner named Tumelli, who were also engaged in rescue work.

RUMORED PLOT TO BLOW UP WARSHIP

Officials Believe It Story to Injure United States Consul.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Carranza officials have informed the state department that they have heard reports of a plot to blow up the battleship Kentucky, in Vera Cruz harbor, in which Consul Canada is alleged to be involved, the object being to force American intervention.

The state department regards the report as a continuation of the fire the consul has been under from Carranza officials who charge him with antagonism to their government.

FRENCH FORT BADLY DAMAGED BY SHELLS

Berlin, Feb. 15, by wireless to Saville.—Advises from Swiss sources to the Overseas News Agency say the shelling of the French fortress of Belvoir recently by heavy German guns has done great damage. It is said about fifty houses have been destroyed, that entire streets have been damaged badly and that the well-to-do inhabitants have fled to Switzerland. The number of dead and wounded is not known.

AVIATORS KILL SIX AT TOWN OF SCHIO, ITALY

London, Feb. 15.—Reuter's correspondent at Vicenza, Italy, says that hostile aeroplanes bombed the Italian town of Schio, fifteen miles from Vicenza yesterday, killing six persons and wounding others.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Interest in active operations in the European war continues to center in the fighting along the western front where the Germans have recently been driving heavily at the French lines in several sectors, notably in the Ardennes and the Champagne, with successes at various points in these regions.

It is announced semi-officially in Paris that despite the seeming great activity, the German attacks in question are in reality only feints, actions without gain of significance. It is declared that the French could easily undertake similar actions but are refraining from doing so because the results are not worth the price that has to be paid.

German news sources report great damage to the French fortress of Belvoir in the recent shelling by long range German guns.

Following their visit yesterday to Milan, Austrian air craft have raided Monza, ten miles to the northeast, one person being killed and five injured by bombs dropped. Airmen, who appeared over Brescia were driven off by anti-aircraft guns.

Heavy fighting in German East Africa between German forces and Belgian troops who are invading the colony, is reported. Both sides have suffered heavy losses, and the results so far seem inconclusive.

Sittings of the British parliament were resumed today with the reading of the king's speech by the lord high chancellor, King George not attending in person because his medical advisers considered against his doing so while not completely recovered from his recent accident. Premier Asquith's speech following the war situation was awaited with much interest. The discussions are expected to cover a wide range of subjects connected with the war.

The letter of Cardinal Mercier, archbishop of Malines, and the other members of the Belgian Catholic episcopate addressed to the cardinals and bishops of the Central empires and appealing in the name of their common religion for truth and justice to the clergy and faithful of Belgium, is to be answered in a collective statement by the cardinals and bishops of Germany and Austria, according to Rome advices received in Paris.

The Glass Block StoreCONNERS' PLAN IS DELAYED*Lehigh Valley Injunction Suit Halts Package
Freight Merger.*Word Received That Conners Will Have Some Boats Next Season.

It seems fairly well established that the injunction proceedings brought by the Lehigh Valley railroad, to prevent interference with the operation of its package freight steamers, despite the divorce of the interstate commerce commission, has halted the merger of W. J. Conners of Buffalo, N. Y., in forming a merger line of the package freighters put out of business by the order.

A letter, received yesterday by a Duluthian interested in the matter, so declared, the writer asserting that he knows for certain that until some decision is arrived at in the injunction proceedings, Mr. Conners will do nothing further in the matter, but let matters remain in the condition into which they have arrived.

For the greater part of the last year, since it became known that the railroads and lake lines must dissolve partnership, Mr. Conners has been investigating the advisability and prospect of taking over the boats of the various lines affected, forming them into one large package freight line company and operating them on the routes that have been operating for years. Since last fall, Mr. Conners has been active in those connections, and was for some time, has the organization pretty well perfected.

For some weeks, it has been almost momentarily expected that announcement would be made that the company was formed and the purchase of the boats effected. Vessel men here have been looking for such announcement any time, now the Lehigh Valley company, which, a short time ago, appealed to the interstate commerce commission for exemption from the order of divestiture, on the ground that it was a physical impossibility for its railroad lines to compete with its lake lines, but without success, has stated in the injunction proceedings, as mentioned, that it is believed that this will be disposed of in a short time, and the atmosphere cleared up.

The writer of the letter mentioned, said that it is reasonably certain that, no matter how the injunction proceedings turn out, Mr. Conners' company assumes a stagnant appearance, and it leaves vessel men, and particularly those connected with the package freight business, in an uncertain frame of mind.

Doctor Says Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate People 200% in Ten Days

In many instances—persons have suffered untold agony for years doctoring for nervous weakness, stomach, liver or kidney disease or some other ailment when their real trouble was lack of iron in the blood—How to tell.

New York, N. Y.—In a recent discourse Dr. E. Sauer, Specialist, of this city said: "If you want to make an actual blood test on all people who are ill you would probably be greatly astonished at the exceedingly large number who lack iron and who are ill for no other reason than the lack of iron. The moment iron is supplied all their multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear. Without iron the blood at once loses the power to change food into living tissue and the best food you eat does you any good; you don't get the strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers as wide apart that the mill can't grind. As a result of this continuous blood and nerve starvation, people become generally weakened, nervous and all run-down and frequently develop all sorts of conditions. One is too thin; another is burdened with unhealthy fat; some are so weak they can hardly walk; some think they have dyspepsia, kidney or liver trouble; some can't sleep at night; others are sleepy and tired all day; some fussy and irritable; some skinny and bloodless, but all lack physical power and endurance. In such cases, it is worse than foolishness to take stimulating medicines or narcotic drugs, which only whip up your sagging vital powers for the moment, making at the expense of your life later on. No matter what any one tells you, if you are not strong and well you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without feeling tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again. You will wonder how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous run-down people who were ailing all the time double, and even triple their strength and endurance and much more, and all without obtaining any benefit. You can talk and please about all the wonders wrought by new remedies, but when you come down to hard facts there is nothing like good old iron to put color in your cheeks and good sound, healthy flesh on your bones. It is also a great nerve and stomach strengthener and the best blood builder in the world. The only trouble was that the old forms of inorganic iron like ferrous iron, iron acetate, etc., often caused indigestion, constipation, and were not assimilated and for these reasons they frequently caused the very symptoms they were intended to cure. The new form of organic iron all this has been proved. Nuxated iron for example, is pleasant to take, does not irritate the stomach and is almost immediately beneficial.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Nuxated Iron have such unbounded confidence in the potency that they endorse the announcement that they will forfeit $100,000 in any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under sixty who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or more in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. Also they will refund your money in any case in which Nuxated Iron does not at least double your strength in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Bruce Drug Store and all other druggists.

FEAR SUICIDE
OR FOUL PLAY*Sever L. Boyum, State Officer of Beavers, Disappears From Home.*Intent to Take His Own Life
Letter.

Foul play or suicide is feared in the case of Sever L. Boyum, deputy state organizer for the Benevolent Order of Beavers, who disappeared last week, taking with him his wife and child, near Clouet, where his wife and children reside.

Boyum has resided in Duluth for four or five years, says his friends, and since last June he has been active as a state officer of the Beavers' organization. He has a home on R. 2, D. 2, No. 3, near Clouet, where his wife and children reside.

Suicide Intent Shown.—Others can care for our family better than I can," read a letter which friends say Mrs. Boyum received Saturday night from her husband. "As for me, I am going to walk out across the lake until the ice gives way—and that will be about all for me."

Attempts to verify the report concerning this letter were unsuccessful, as Mrs. Boyum telephoned police, mislaid the letter and began to worry about him. She said nothing about anything being wrong, except that she had not heard from him.

"On Feb. 9," Mrs. Boyum said, "my husband left, saying that he was going to walk across the lake. He said he would be gone several days, and that he would be back on Friday or Saturday. He had not heard from him since."

On the other hand, other officials of the lodge today told The Herald that Boyum was in the city until Friday or Saturday.

"He called her up Friday night and said he was going away and that he didn't have time to talk just then, but that he would write a letter and give her the particulars," said one official.

"Then Saturday morning," he continued, "Mrs. Boyum got the letter, and found about the walk across the lake. We don't know what to make of it."

Committee Search.—A committee composed of George Gray, K. A. Franklin and C. D. Bowen left Duluth on Saturday morning for Clouet, where they will make an attempt to locate the missing man, or to obtain some trace of the missing lodge records.

In her report to the police, Mrs. Boyum described her husband as a man about five feet eight inches tall and weighing about 165 pounds. He is light complexioned and has gray hair. This description was telephoned to the Clouet police department this morning.

VETERAN FIRE FIGHTER QUILTS SERVICE WORKED FAITHFULLY TWENTY-TWO YEARS

When Capt. Kenneth McDonald of the fire department walked out of Engine Company No. 3 house this morning and started home for breakfast, he no longer was an active member of the department, but a private citizen.

Twenty-two years of fire fighting, thirteen of which he has passed as captain at No. 3, ended at 7 o'clock, for a resignation which Capt. McDonald yesterday handed to Chief Joseph Randall became effective at once. He will retire on a service pension.

"I am losing one of my veteran fire-fighters," said Chief Randall, "for Capt. McDonald was one of the 'smoke eaters' of the old school. He could be counted one of the most expert firemen in the North. Always judging correctly the amount of apparatus necessary, he was a valuable man."

Capt. McDonald was appointed fireman on Feb. 22, 1894, and in January, 1902, was promoted to lieutenant. A year later he was promoted to captain and received his appointment as captain. He served under Chiefs Jackson and Blythe before Chief Randall, the present department head, took office.

He was a close personal friend of former Assistant Chief F. E. Grandson who was killed in an automobile smashup while responding to an alarm last night. Capt. McDonald was with him at the time.

He was injured several times, and was out of service for twenty-two days while recovering from one of his injuries. "The shortest run I ever made," said Capt. McDonald today, in going over some of his many experiences, "was less than a block. The longest was 1 1/2 miles."

He worked sixteen hours and sixteen minutes at a stretch during the Scott's mill fire several years ago. One of the closest calls he ever had was on the old incline. We took a chemical upon the car to the pavilion fire and the car shot down. If we'd been a few minutes slower, we'd have had a real ride.

"Thirteen persons have been killed in fires that I attended," he said, "including seven men, two women and four children. Two firemen have been killed near me at fires and a good many others injured."

Although Capt. McDonald, in common with other "smoke eaters," is reticent about himself and his record, he planned to leave his company without telling the men about his resignation, but the report of his resignation leaked out and members of No. 3 gave a banquet in his honor at the fire hall last night.

Capt. McDonald will become a special officer at the St. Louis hotel.

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS
POLICE COURT*TWO TAKEN FROM WINTER QUARTERS*Police Break Up Happy "Home" of Vagrants in Old Steamer.

Snuggly quartered for the winter in a graveyard, Martin Raymond, 49, and Albert Cotnam, 44, were unearthed by Chief R. D. McKercher and Driver L. A. Root early this afternoon, when the officers answered a call from Fourteenth avenue west and the bay fronted a "home" for the homeless.

The "graveyard" in question is a building placed for "dead" ships which do not sail, but have long since been destroyed by fire or crippled by storms. The building, which was built by the city, was a "home" for the homeless, and was a "happy" place for the vagrants.

At least they never work, and just now they are waiting for the gentle zephyrs of spring, which will resume their helter-skelter journey along the broad highway.

For the winter they intended to live in the abandoned hulk of the steamer "Olympia." A hole in the ground was dug, and the vagrants were placed in it, and similar luxuries, and their "suite" was safe from prying eyes.

When the Northwestern Oil company reported the loss of a considerable quantity of brass, the chief rounded them up. A third man escaped. Raymond has a record as a junk metal thief, police say.

They will be arraigned on vagrancy charges this afternoon.

TO "HEXPLAIN" TO COURT
I. Ahearn Refuses to Pay for "Hoysters;" "Hordered" Beef.

J. Ahearn—James, however, not Jake—ordered a good old English beef stew last night.

"Not 'arf bad—beef stew—eh, what?" James said to the waitress.

"Sorry," she replied, "best stew's all gone. Got oyster stew."

"No hoddas was Jeems' cheery response," being.

When half through with the meal, the waitress told Patrolman Granger a few minutes later, the cookery refused to pay for it.

"Hordered beef, don't want bloomins' hoysters," he said.

He started to walk out, and the policeman followed him. The waitress told Patrolman Granger a few minutes later, the cookery refused to pay for it.

At headquarters today Jeems said he was no relative to the man who tried to get away with the money from him recently. He also said he wasn't drunk.

Judge C. B. Kelly will hear his explanation this afternoon.

Sheriff at Chicago Must Authorities.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Thomas Kelly of Winnipeg, wealthy contractor, held by the government on charges of having fraudulently obtained $1,600,000 in connection with the construction of the parliament buildings in Winnipeg, has been allowed too much liberty recently, according to Federal authorities here. Sheriff Griffith was to appear before District Attorney Clyne today and explain why orders affecting Kelly, from Washington, have not been obeyed.

The prisoner is fighting extradition and since his arrest, according to the Federal officers, has roamed the streets of Chicago, returning to Waukegan at late hours.

The sheriff claims Kelly has been in the custody of two guards on his trips from Waukegan.

dered. Both signed their names to a bond of $5,000.

Pickit's Successor.

State Auditor Preussley announced the appointment of O. N. Dornberg of Austin as investment clerk in his department. Mr. Dornberg takes the place of R. C. Pickit, now under indictment for forgery.

Walter J. Smith, after pleading not guilty on arraignment yesterday on three charges of grand larceny, was released on $10,000 bail furnished by Frank B. Thompson and Louis F. Dow of St. Paul, and Secretary of State Julius Schmalz, and returned at once to the Minneapolis sanatorium.

Mr. Smith, when he appeared in court had the same pleasant smile that won him election as state treasurer in three campaigns. He had every appearance of composure and cheerfulness but coughed considerably, and often put his hand to his chest, as though suffering pain. His face was pale and his eyes lacked their normal brightness.

Thomas R. Kane of St. Paul announced that he appeared as state waive the reading of the three indictments.

Asks Two Weeks' Delay.

"I will ask that the cases be set over one week," said Mr. Kane.

"Oh, make it two weeks," interjected the prisoner. "I want to get away for a while."

"We can fix that later," said Mr. Kane.

"Excuse me for butting in," said Mr. Smith, sotto voce to his attorney.

The clerk then called for a plea on the first indictment.

"Not guilty," responded Smith, in a firm, resonant voice.

To the second indictment he made the same response. When the third indictment was presented to him he seemed a bit surprised and responded in a lower tone, as though he had not expected so many.

Reserves Right to Change Plea.

Mr. Kane said his client reserved the right to change his plea at a later time.

Mr. Kane then asked that bail be fixed. Judge Dickson said he would make it $10,000 on one charge, and permit Mr. Smith to go on his own recognizance on the other two. Frank B. Thompson, president of the Minnesota boxing commission, and Louis F. Dow, president of the Capital City Boxing club, both St. Paul business men, were the bondsmen. They were sworn to make disclosures of their property.

Mr. Thompson said he had unencumbered real estate, aside from his home, worth $50,000 to $60,000.

Dow said that he had only $2,000 in such real estate, but had $50,000 to $100,000 in personal property. County Attorney O'Brien demurred a little at Mr. Dow's showing. "I guess we can accept Mr. Dow's offer," said Judge Dickson.

During the proceedings, Dr. Fox stood close to Mr. Smith with a physician's case in his hand, and Mr. Cardoff was on the other side. Deputy Sheriff Clarke also remained close at his side.

May Ask Additional Indictments.

Mr. Smith elects to fight, said Mr. O'Brien. "I will ask the grand jury to bring in new indictments, jointly charging both Smith and Pickit with forgery in the second degree and grand larceny in the first degree. There is no question but what forgery has been committed, and that both men profited by it, but there might be a question as to who perpetrated the forgery."

These indictments would enable the county attorney to place Smith and Pickit on trial together.

Boys' Conference of Upper Peninsula Going to Lock City.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 15.—The next boys' conference of the Upper Peninsula will be held in Sault Ste. Marie in 1917 according to decision reached at the meeting just held here.

Alternating with the business proceedings and serious talks were several entertaining numbers, in which stellar honors went to Stanley Lamb of Duluth, who gave a number of amusing impersonations. "Michigan," Mr. Lamb, was sung by the entire delegate body, after which C. Jacobson of Gladstone, entertained the audience with a few crayon sketches. E. C. Foster of Detroit gave an address on the four parts of a boy's life—social, spiritual, mental and physical.

Nervous Periodical Headaches

This trouble commonly called "sick headache," is said to be due to the retention of uric acid in the blood. It is a condition of the blood is a cause of these headaches, or that it is a nervous condition, and in certain cases, no doubt this is true.

Where treatment is demanded, it is more for the pain than anything else, and Dr. A. F. Schellhardt of Louisville, has found a remedy in the form of a prompt and satisfactory relief. "Rest should be insisted upon," he says, "and the patient should go to bed, darken the room, and all the attendants and family should be as quiet as possible. An emetic will sometimes shorten the attack. The bowels should be kept open with 'Aristol' or 'hot bath' and a thorough rub-down with a coarse towel, often given grateful relief. Two anti-kamnia tablets when the first signs appear, will usually bring about a cure. The tablets are obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K tablets. They are also unexcelled for nervous headaches, neuralgia and all pains.

which favored one set of interests against the other.

Charles S. Mellen, former president of New Haven railroad, today notified the senate sub-committee investigating the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston to the supreme court, that he had no facts to substantiate charges of C. B. Rogers, a Bostonian, that Mr. Brandeis had "helped wreck the New Haven road."

The nomination of Brandeis on the nomination was resumed today Senator Walsh read this telegram from Mr. Mellen: "I have no information to give you, but I am sure that you will find that Mr. Brandeis has no bearing on the case. Under these circumstances may I not be excused from further testimony?"

Senator Walsh said that in the absence of Chairman Chilton he wired Mr. Mellen:

"Mr. Brandeis testifying before judicial committee Thursday afternoon could testify to facts establishing the charge that Brandeis was employed to wreck the New Haven road. I have in mind your telegram of today, please wire whether you can give me any information on the subject shed light on truth or falsity of the charge."

Has No Information.

To that Senator Walsh received another message from Mr. Mellen, stating that he had no information whatever on the subject.

Mr. Brandeis, in a letter to the committee decided to leave open the question of whether Mr. Mellen should be subpoenaed.

Senator Clark, said he had supposed Mr. Brandeis was quite familiar with the charges against him, and that he had read statements from Mr. Mellen "assailing Mr. Brandeis in the most malicious manner."

Bill of Equity Filed.

A bill of equity was filed in Massachusetts courts alleging that this was twice as much as could fairly be charged. It appeared on the hearing that Mr. Brandeis had acted as counsel for the lessees and also for the lessors and for many years had the trust and confidence of all beneficiaries.

"A suit growing out of dissatisfaction of some heirs, Bailey said, was settled out of court."

"It appeared," he continued, "that as a result of a provision in the lease by which Warren personally with his associates was bound to make repairs and that Warren as trustee was bound to make additions or improvements, considerable sums had been charged to the additions or improvements account that should have been charged to the repair account. Our charge was that Mr. Brandeis, as a lawyer for Mr. Warren, who had about this time retired from the law firm, was instrumental in making the plan for conducting the business; that he wrote an opinion for the beneficiaries holding that the plan was not fair to the individual liability as partners and was a proper arrangement."

"None of the beneficiaries had other counsel until 1905, when Edward Warren employed William S. Youngman, with whom I became associated about 1910. Mr. Brandeis, I think, drew a will for Mr. Warren and one for Edward Warren."

"We contended that the lease to Samuel D. Warren was not fair to the beneficiaries and was one in which regard was had for his personal interests rather than to his duties as trustee."

spiracy to commit murder.

Plan to Blow Up Prison.

That all attempts to blow up the state penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., was one of the plans of the alleged band of plotters, police said today was indicated from the contents of one of the Algrine letters.

Recently it became known that dynamite in quantities sufficient to wreck many buildings had been found secreted in the penitentiary. Its presence was revealed through a trusty who overheard other prisoners discussing a plan to escape.

The letter which the police say links the prisoners with the dynamite, which they characterize as a nation-wide plot to injure and destroy, was not signed. It read:

"There are many good men penned up like dogs in Joliet. What a wonderful thing would it be if we could free them. It would be hard. You know I am there."

The police at once communicated with the prison authorities.

The Federal secret service co-operated today with the police in the investigation of the alleged nation-wide plot to damage and destroy property and harm individuals, one of the ramifications of which, according to the police, was the attempt to poison the guests at the banquet in the University club.

Charles F. Cline, United States district attorney, and an assistant conferred today with State Attorney Mayne and discussed the various angles of the investigation. Arrangements were made by the Federal and state prosecutors to co-operate in the prosecution.

BELITTLE REGENT GERMAN ATTACKS

Paris Story Says Activities Are Really Only Local Actions.

Paris, Feb. 15, 8:30 a. m.—A semi-official communication issued here affirms that the frequent German attacks on the French front during the last few days, while intended to give the impression of great activity, are in reality only local actions without consequence and without gain for the attackers. After citing instances to substantiate this statement the communication says:

"The same is true of the attacks east of the Tabbure to Somme-Py line. We could in our turn undertake similar operations and strive for success, but we take good care to refrain from doing so, because the gains to be obtained are inconsequential when compared with the sacrifices involved and because these attempts invariably result in reducing the value of the attacking troops."

Thin Men and Women

Here's a Safe and Easy Way by Which You May Gain 10 Pounds or More of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I don't get fat. I eat plenty of good nourishing food. The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste."

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them.

Working to overcome this sinful waste of flesh-building elements that has been so widely sold in America in recent years. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and see if your cheeks don't grow fuller and your body more rounded.

Healthy flesh from over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. Boyce drug store and other good druggists have Sargol or can get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each large package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Note: Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.—Advertisement.

Two children were burned to death and their mother was perhaps fatally injured in a vain attempt to rescue them, when fire destroyed the home of Gust Mackyol at 2620 Minnesota avenue shortly after 7 o'clock last night.

Rescuers from neighboring cottages arrived in time to carry the unconscious form of the mother to safety, but Flames drove them back and when firemen reached the scene, they found the charred bodies of Adeline, age 3, and Frederick, age 4, in their little bed.

Adeline's tiny arm encircled the neck of Dick, the Mackyol family dog, which selected to stay with his little friends when he found that his frantic efforts to drag them into safety were useless.

Mrs. Mackyol is at St. Mary's hospital, suffering from serious burns on the face, neck, shoulders, arms and lower limbs. She was unconscious for some time and is in a serious condition because of the shock, but physicians say she has a good chance for recovery.

Fire Origin Unknown.

Just how the fire started probably never will be known. Firemen, after an investigation, stated that they were of the belief that the flames originated from a nearby stove in some manner. The house was lighted with electricity, so that an overheated lamp could not have been the cause, as one report stated.

After tucking them into bed at 7 o'clock, Mrs. Mackyol opened the door so that Dick, the dog, could "say good night" to the children. She then went

Orrine Destroys Liquor Craving

We would not under any circumstances endorse a remedy for the liquor habit, until we had absolutely satisfied ourselves that it did all claimed for it. ORRINE is the only treatment for the liquor habit that has sufficient merit to be sold under a positive guarantee to refund the money if the desired results are not obtained. It has stood the test of years and we know of many whom it has cured of the drink habit.

You have nothing to risk and everything to gain in giving ORRINE a trial, because the guarantee in each box thoroughly protects you. ORRINE is in two forms: No. 1 for secret use and No. 2 for those who wish to take it voluntarily. Costs $1.00 a box. Ask us for free booklet. W. A. Abbott, 219 West Superior St., 932 E. AMENDMENTS ARE INDORSED

Voting System, Arterial Highways and Assessments Considered.

The charter commission at a special meeting in the council chambers last evening indorsed three amendments to the city charter.

The amendments to be redrafted at another meeting next Monday and later presented to the city commissioners with a request that they be submitted to the voters at a special election follow: Non-partisan voting system to replace the preferential ballot declared illegal by the state supreme court, the laying out of arterial highways and assessing for the improvements by spreading the cost over the time of paying, and extending the time of paying, from three to five years and from 7 to 6 per cent.

The new voting system includes a registration day the second Tuesday in March, 1917, and every two years thereafter, a combined registration and primary day on the following state day and the regular election day on the first Tuesday in April. Both first and second choice votes will be cast at the primary and the two highest candidates will be placed on the ballots for the regular election.

The charter commission will meet again next Monday evening.

For Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

Here in America there is much suffering from catarrh and head noises. American people would do well to consider the method employed by the English to combat this insidious disease. Everyone knows how damp the English climate is and how dampness affects those suffering from catarrh. In England they treat catarrhal deafness and head noises as a constitutional disease and use an internal remedy for it that is really very efficacious.

Sufferers who could scarcely hear a watch tick tell how they had their hearing restored by this English treatment to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven and eight inches away from either ear.

Therefore, if you know some one who is troubled with catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be easily prepared at home for about 75c and is made as follows:

From your druggist obtain 1 oz. of Parmit (double strength), about 75c worth. Take this home, and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take a tablespoonful of this three times a day.

Parmit is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling of the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are usually remarkably quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this recipe a trial and free themselves from this destructive disease.—Advertisement.

RELIGION IS MANY-SIDED

Modern Church Should Be Open Every Day and Be Active.

Must Socialize, Educate and Evangelize, Says Dr. H. G. Beeman.

Modern religion is no longer confined to the one-room church and one sermon a week according to Dr. H. G. Beeman, pastor of the First Baptist church, St. Paul, who addressed 175 members of the Baptist Union of Duluth at the First Baptist church, Ninth avenue east and First street, last night. His subject was "The Downtown Church," and he discussed its various problems and possibilities.

Functions of Church.
"The work of the modern church is to socialize, educate and evangelize," said the speaker. "The present idea of the function of the church is not to have one sermon a week preached from a one-room church, but rather to have a church large enough for many activities and to have it open for service every day in the week."

Dr. Beeman, who is pastor of the First Baptist church of St. Paul, a religious institution in the downtown district of the city, is one of the leading exponents of the doctrine he preached last night. He has kept the activities of his church in the crowded tenement district as well as among the more wealthy districts, and advocates an active Christianity that works for the betterment of industrial and home conditions as well as the more common lines of church work.

One of the speaker's leading ideas was that the brotherhood plan of life should be carried out and that all should strive to improve the everyday conditions of life.

The address followed a banquet given by the young people, and W. B. Patton, president of the organization presided. An interesting program was given as follows:

Entertaining Program.
Piano solo, Miss Ayla Glover; tenor solo, O. G. Olson; reading, "The Brake-man at the Church," Miss Dorothy Patton; piano and violin duet, Miss Nina Morey and Mrs. Pearl Oberger; quartet, "The Glory," Mrs. C. E. Oberger, Mrs. M. Giesberg, Mrs. L. Gunther, Miss Pearl Deatherage; trio, "Saved by Grace," W. Paley, F. G. Hanson, M. Giesberg.

The Baptist Union of Duluth is a mission organization to a large extent and conducts evangelistic meetings in various places. Activities are carried on at two harbor locations, Lakeside, Homecroft, Morgan Park, New Duluth, Adolph, Grand Lake, Elm Creek.

FARMERS SHOULD KEEP ACCOUNT BOOKS IS QUICKEST METHOD TO MAKE PROFITS

SAYS H. G. LARSON
There are many good reasons why a farmer should keep a farm account book, according to H. G. Larson, county agricultural agent, who is urging the rural population of St. Louis county to adopt business methods in keeping their accounts. Discussing the matter today, Mr. Larson said: "Sometimes we have asked a farmer if he keeps records on his farm. Occasionally he tells us that he hasn't time for such foolishness. It's too much work. He's too busy that. But he perhaps does not know that it is the easiest, the quickest and surest way to success. Business men have sometimes increased their profits as much as 300 per cent simply because they knew what they were doing. The farmer has an opportunity to increase his business the same way."

show that the average Minnesota farmer receives about hired man's wages for the work of himself and sons, if 6 per cent be allowed as interest on the investment. The most successful farmers have labor incomes of from $1,000 to $5,000. Some farmers receive nothing for their work and only about 3 per cent on their investment."

Sample Books on Hand.
Mr. Larson declared that sample farmers' account books, which have been compiled by S. R. Cleland, farm management demonstrator, were available at his office for distribution among those farmers who were interested enough to call or write for them.

Mr. Larson returned yesterday from a trip throughout the county after visiting farmers' creameries. He declares that four new creameries are to begin operation in the spring. They are to be located at Five Corners, Aurora, Cook and Eveleth.

POSLAM SOOTHES MOST FIERY SKIN

No Risk in Trying It—Cannot Possibly Harm.
You take no risk in trying Poslam, the skin remedy, as an experiment. To see what it can do. It is absolutely harmless. And the burden of proof is on Poslam—it must show results, visibly, or you will not continue to use it. Much less recommend it to others as thousands are doing.

That Poslam possesses a merit most unusual in healing skin diseases is apparent from first application when itching stops and in improvement day by day, until the skin is clear.

Poslam Soap never irritates. Leaves an after "feel" of pleasant wholesomeness.

CHALLENGES BRYAN TO JOINT DEBATE

Publisher Would Meet Former Secretary on Preparedness Question.
Omaha, Neb., Feb. 15.—Richard L. Metcalfe, former governor of the Panama canal zone and now a publisher of a weekly paper in Omaha, yesterday sent a telegram to William J. Bryan at Miami, Fla., suggesting a joint debate on the question of preparedness before the voters of Nebraska. It has been stated in the press that Mr. Bryan intends to deliver in Nebraska, between March 20 and the date of the state primaries, April 18, a series of speeches in opposition to the administration preparedness policy. Mr. Metcalfe asks that six joint debates be arranged, one in each congressional district of the state, during this time.

Bryan Makes No Reply.
Tampa, Fla., Feb. 15.—William J. Bryan declined to discuss the challenge to a joint debate sent him by Richard L. Metcalfe of Omaha, Neb. Press dispatches telling of the challenge were brought to him over the telephone, and he replied only word that he had "no reply to make."

Exhibit of David Ericson's Work Is Rare Treat For Duluthians

In this day of futurist and cubist work where mere point and technique are the most prominent features, it is a decidedly refreshing feeling to find pictures that have the soul and personality of the artist expressed in a complete and harmonious manner.

As soon as one enters the exhibit of pictures at Engel's art store the spectator feels that David Ericson paints because he feels it.

Mr. Ericson's work impresses you as being very personal (which is the most important thing in art) and the exquisite loveliness and distinction of his pictures should give you a feeling of the beautiful a great pleasure on being able to visit this exhibition—not once, but many times.

Mr. Ericson's most recent work, a striking portrait of Dr. J. J. Eklund of this city, is attracting a great deal of interest and comment and is considered by Mr. Ericson to be his best portrait. The portrait is richly and luminous in coloring, the depth and perspective being exceptional—while the eyes, so invariably flat and lifeless in most portraits—fairly glow with life and feeling.

"Twilight on the North Sea," the blue green of turquoise set in a frame of gold, seemed a complete expression of poetry—of David Ericson's poetry—which is so versatile in its many subjects. One fairly felt bathed in a golden atmosphere upon turning to "The Cedars," a picture full of sunlight and painted on the Hudson. From the golden tones of the Hudson to the silver symphony, "The Beauty of Bruges," seemed a far cry, but again one immediately finds himself falling into the restful almost sad, quality of a late winter afternoon in Bruges.

"Across the River," a scene painted in Holland—is like a piece of tapestry in its subdued quality of colors and throughout the exhibition is this sense of delicacy and refinement.

There is a wet-looking, breezy scene from Holland called "The Rain," which is cool and refreshing. There is "Early Morning," as exquisite in its composition as the simplest Japanese print—peaceful, lovely and still, like a mirror tone and most appealing in its distinction.

"The Dutch Cow," which is especially appreciated by artists because of its clever drawing, was done in one setting by Mr. Ericson, the cow "holding the position" with commendable foresight.

Another remarkable bit of coloring and realism is of one of the streets of Bruges with the spire of St. Jacques showing in the distance, the old bridge with its arches and reflections underneath, the white swans swimming about making up a picture distinctly picturesque and appealing. Then there is the "Breezy Day" painted in Holland and charming in its motion and color, and so on indefinitely until one wishes there were more time and many more opportunities to enjoy the rare expressions of such a distinguished artist as Duluth's own David Ericson.

GRAND SHOW WEAK.

Milt Wood and Playlet Are But Mildly Diverting.

The show at the New Grand, which opened a three-day engagement yesterday, was not up to the standard usually maintained by that playhouse. There was a sad lack of "punch" in the leading acts. Good-sized audiences were present at all performances.

Milt Wood is but mildly diverting as an entertainer. His act consists of stories, songs and dancing. Gertrude Lee Folsom and her associate players appeared in a comedy sketch entitled "The Gold Cure." While there are some clever lines in the playlet, the plot is time-worn and the jokes

Makes Athletics Popular. "The Young Women's Christian association has been one of the most active agencies in popularizing physical education as the foundation of health and happiness in the lives of girls and women," says a report sent out from the association building.

There is now regular class work in more than 100 association gymnasiums, and the registration in 1914 showed an increase of 18,000. The statistics for 1915 have not yet been fully compiled, but the increase for last year bids fair to be well over the mark for 1914.

Ten years ago the association had no swimming pools. Today there are fifty-four in active operation.

"Then there are the summer camps, which are bringing girls the outdoor joys and privileges which their more fortunate brothers have had for several years."

"Wide spread attention has been focused on the need of emphasizing good posture as fundamental to health and a great aid in promoting cheerfulness of spirit, capacity for work and powers of endurance. The standard approved by the national board of the Young Women's Christian association was the basis of the national posture contest for which prizes were awarded at the Panama-Pacific International exposition.

have long since lost their power to create a thrill to any large degree. Several "stunts" in the act border on the vulgar.

The three Lilliputs, reputed to be the three thinnest slaters in vaudeville, show their elastic dimensions in their act of songs and dances; and they are also amusing because of their size. They appear in elaborate costumes, all of which are becoming.

The four Kasting Keys have a fairly clever ethnic and acrobatic turn with several good features.

Probably the most interesting feature of the whole show was the three-reel Vitaphone photo-drama, which tells the story of a girl cured by an operation of criminal tendencies acquired from an injury on her head. "The Get-away," a photodrama, are among the interesting film features.

Today and tomorrow there will be another instalment of the Singsaree series of photoplays, which have become very popular with Grand patrons.

Theater Gossip. Patrons of burlesque will participate in a unique voting contest next week to determine who is CHORUS GIRL the most popular girl among "theaters," who take possession of the Lyceum.

Each patron will be given a card on which are reproduced the likenesses of the twenty chorus "Tempters" and instructed to mark an X in the square beneath the picture of the girl favored.

At the last performance the number of votes during the Duluth engagement was awarded a gold prize. The votes cast during each performance will be plainly marked on the boards both on the stage and in front of the theater immediately after every performance.

One of the most merry burletta which will open "The Tempters" show, during the action, is a scene in full view of the audience in the record time of forty seconds, which is presented, "Circus Life" is the title of the closing burlesque.

If you were a man, cast upon a desert island with two beautiful women—one a blonde, the other a brunette—what would you do?

If it were these women were madly in love with you—one professing her love in passionate appeal, the other in quiet entreaties, which direction would your conscience bid you turn?

And this is only part of the plot of the thrilling story, "The Island of Surprise."

William Courtenay, the distinguished dramatic star, who has the title role in this feature, needs no introduction. He is a stage and a screen star of excellent abilities. He is ably assisted by Eleanor Woodruff, a sensational string cast.

"The Island of Surprise" will show for three days commencing with tomorrow's matinee. The Lure of Hearts Desire starring the brilliant actor, Edmund Dreesse, will show at the Zelda for the last time with tonight's performance.

There are some striking scenes in a action mill in "The Price of Power," the Fine Arts Triangle play in which the Didit's playing at the Rex today, tomorrow and Wednesday. Between them they have certainly made a fortune.

Mr. Arbuckle and Miss Normand in the roles of newlyweds, with Arbuckle as an old schoolmate of whom Arbuckle is intensely jealous—a novel little stunt that has never before been done in the pictures. TODAY IN HISTORY.

Battleship Maine Destroyed, 1898.

History so far simply relates that the battleship Maine was blown up in Havana harbor on the evening of Feb. 15, 1898, and that 266 of her crew were killed. How it happened is still unsettled. At any rate, the tragedy gave birth to the cry "Remember the Maine," and prevented the settlement with Spain that was under way by precipitating the Spanish-American war, which gave the United States Puerto Rico, Guam, the Philippine Islands and Theodore Roosevelt. The war lasted from April 23 to Oct. 31, and 2300 Americans lost their lives—all but 306 by disease.

READING (available in Duluth public library)—H. C. Lodge, The War With Spain (comprehensive, probably the best for popular reading); George Kennan, Campaigning in Cuba (experiences rather than history, but interesting).

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH.

It is the day after the fair for the protectionists who are clamoring for a return to the bygone days of unrestrained tariff loot that characterized the heyday of the Republican party.

The play is ended. The curtain has been rung down. The audience has departed and the lights have been turned out.

Never again will the excesses of the Dingley and McKinley tariff laws be possible in this country; and those who are crying for a return to them are wasting breath.

Why? Because it would be impossible to return to them. Because a return to them would be a disaster unparalleled in the history of the country.

The basis on which those tariff subsidy excesses were possible was what was called a "favorable balance of trade"—that is, that we exported more than we imported—that we sold more than we bought. We did this thinking it good business and prosperity.

It looked like a profitable business, because most people measured it in terms of private commerce. But the only thing that made it possible was that America was in debt to Europe, and had to pay interest on that debt. These payments were made in goods—the only way international debts CAN be paid. So, to pay our debt to Europe, we sold more than we bought.

But it will be a new world when the war is over. America will no longer be in debt to Europe. Europe will be in debt to America. The balance of trade MUST turn the other way, so Europe can pay its debt and the interest on its debt—in goods, the only way it is possible to pay.

England has grown rich with an enormous balance of trade against her—simply because England had tremendous investments abroad, and took the interest and dividends in goods.

When America is the world's creditor, the balance of trade will be "against" America, simply because it will be no longer paying interest and dividends abroad, but will be collecting interest and dividends from abroad, and it will have to collect them in goods.

If, as now seems likely, this country changes from a debtor nation—only a debtor nation can have a "favorable balance of trade"—to a creditor nation—a creditor nation must have the balance of trade against it in order to collect its just dues—then just as surely as the sun rises tomorrow, it will have to import more than it exports, and no tariff law imaginable will change that situation.

For that reason, if for no other, it is the day after the fair for the ultra protectionists. The situation that gave them their case exists no longer. Mighty changes have come about, and no tariff law that human ingenuity can devise will bring back the old order. Nor will anybody be seeking the old order, for the new will be vastly more profitable than the old.

Yet there are other reasons, too, why the day of the ultra protectionist is done forever.

One of them is this: that hereafter this nation will look more to foreign trade than it ever has before. To sell, a nation must buy. No nation can erect tall tariff barriers against foreign goods and expect to sell across that barrier. It cannot be done. Not alone because we cannot expect nations to buy from us if we do not buy from them, but because it is impossible. International trade is not selling a yard of calico for fifteen cents; it is exchanging fifteen cents' worth of calico for fifteen cents' worth of sugar; and in the exchange both parties profit, or there would be no trade. The old clarion calls to the fleshpots of tariff subsidies will fall on deaf ears hereafter. The generation of today will be thinking the thoughts and meeting the conditions of today. It will care nothing for the conditions of a former generation that no longer prevail. It would be no more possible to go back to the conditions of the day of Dingley and McKinley and Hanna than it would be to bring those dead men out of their graves.

There will be tariffs, and there may be some "protection" in them. But neither tariff nor protection will be devised any more as they were devised by Dingley and McKinley and Hanna, because the conditions that made their operation possible exist no longer. To strive to turn the wheels of industry with economic devices that are obsolete is as futile as it is to hope to turn the mill with the water that has passed.

Thirty-eight below zero in New York state! That is worse than anything Duluth has seen yet this winter.

MR. CUMMINS'S FAINT KEYNOTE.

Senator Cummins of Iowa, invited to place himself on show in this state, where the Republicans are about to vote for him for the presidential nomination largely by default, spoke an interesting piece at the Lincoln's birthday banquet of a St. Paul standpat Republican organization.

Mr. Cummins invited Republicans to "get together," but offered—aside, inferentially, from himself—utterly nothing to get together on but the negative platform of opposition to the Democratic administration. He had much to say about the tariff, about foreign relations, and about Mexico—and on the last subject he grew actually positive, and from his picture one might draw the conclusion—if it is news—that matters in Mexico are in rather a distressing state. But all this matter was simply what you would expect from a Republican, making a Republican speech at this time.

It is easy enough for partisans of the "out" party to "get together" on that basis. They are together on it now, of course. But partisans do not decide elections, and there wasn't a trace of anything in all Mr. Cummins's long speech to attract the great body of independent citizens who decide presidential elections.

His speech is a screed of criticism, of deliberate fault-finding which deliberately evades every good thing in the opposition; and even in his fault-finding, at some of the most critical points, he betrays an inward conviction that he could hardly have done better himself.

How easy that sort of a speech is, and how fruitless and inconclusive, you can discover by an experiment.

Take the best man you know, your best friend in the world. Cultivate toward him a spirit of enmity, of envy, of unreasonable hostility, and then analyze him and his character.

You could make quite a speech, then, cataloguing the faults of this good man, and the attributes which mean hate can twist into faults.

That, in a large sense, is what Mr. Cummins, a candidate for president, attempted to do in his St. Paul speech with Woodrow Wilson, president.

And in this sort of campaign year partisan criticism, the greater the success of the "in" party, the bitter and more frenzied the efforts of the "outs" to belittle and discredit its efforts.

There was not in all this speech a word of constructive program. There was not a suggestion of improvement upon the policies criticized. At its most effective, it was mere rhetoric. It was an invitation to the country to "go Republican" blindly and take a chance on the results.

And this, mind you, to a country prosperous and at peace under the administration so attacked, and with its great problems being worked out by that administration sanely and wisely!

Some people's real objection to farm-work is that it includes too much arm-work.

A GENERAL NOT UP TO DATE.

Overseas expeditions always have been very expensive and as a rule disastrous. To cross the Atlantic or Pacific ocean to land in the United States would be a very serious undertaking.—General Nelson A. Miles.

General, we marvel at you!
How could you possibly have fallen so far behind the times?

There is hardly a cheap magazine that hasn't exposed your ignorance in several successive issues. There is hardly a magazine writer—aged about twenty-five, experience nil, and composed of seventy-five per cent eponymy, twenty per cent rhetoric, four per cent study and one per cent common sense—who hasn't time after time, in articles published and articles rejected for want of space, shown how little you know about war.

General Miles ought to read some of these articles, and he wouldn't be talking that way. It is the simplest thing in the world. Some European country gets it into its head that there is plunder in the vaults of America, and comes after it with a fleet of warships and transports carrying an army. The United States navy confronts it, and a midshipman in the bow of the leading hostile vessel blows a deadly missile through a peach-socket. The American navy is no more.

The great guns of the coast defenses begin firing at the advancing fleet, but are silenced in about four minutes by the guns from the enemy's vessels.

The army, supplemented by the militia, makes a stand against the invaders, but a mere handful of marines from the invading fleet fires a round, and the army is gone.

The country is at the mercy of the barbarians, and our liberties have gone.

That's the way the cheap magazines have disposed of this country so many times that they can't be counted. Judging by these experts, the easiest thing in the world is for a handful from Europe to invade and over-ride the United States, and the American people would sit back with a silly grin, letting them do it.

Doubtless General Miles, having served a lifetime in the army, thinks he knows what he is talking about. Yet there is hardly a fledgling journalist just out of college who can't show him how grievously mistaken he is.

In defense against St. Paul's ice carnival reputation, you can at least tell your friends that St. Paul weather lacks the modifying benefits of Lake Superior's influence.

Belittling the Pulpit

New York World: To retire from the pulpit for the purpose of pursuing literary work or filling lecture engagements seems reasonable enough, but to give up a conspicuous ministry, as the Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton does, because he feels a call to devote his voice and pen to "the great work of spiritual and social reconstruction made necessary by the present war," appears illogical.

No rostrum, no book and no periodical is such a vehicle for the dissemination of spiritual instruction as the pulpit. Everywhere we find refutation and controversy. The pulpit has a message and the gift of proclaiming it powerfully, speaks with more authority than any layman. Failing to make an impression in the pulpit, he is not likely to be more convincing elsewhere.

It is early yet to record final judgments on the causes of this war, but every citizen should realize that the world, church and unchurched, is asking more and more insistently, as the horror goes on, why and how religion failed in its duty to guide and uplift. The pulpit is still as much the guiding principle of nations as it was before the dawn of civilization that sometimes vaults itself as Christianity.

Insistent upon great works of spiritual and social reconstruction, the Apostle Paul, Chrysostom, Peter the Hermit, Loyola, Luther, Knox, Savonarola, Whitfield, and the Wesley's, have been the great spiritual leaders of the ministry a help rather than a hindrance to their labors. It might be so today.

Brandell's Legal Soundness.

The New Republic: His approach is that of the true lawyer, because he seeks to tame isolated instances to a rule as possible, and thereby to make the great reconciliation between order and justice. Mr. Brandell would extend the domain of law, as he only very rarely does, to the realm of the social sciences, by absorbing the facts of life, just as Mansfield in his day absorbed the law merchant into the common law.

"This is the Oregon case," says Mr. Brandell, "and it is a case which law alone can be founded leads him always to insist on establishing the machinery by which they can be ascertained." Practically a new technique in the presentation of constitutional questions. Until his famous argument on the Oregon ten-hour law before women, social legislation was argued before our courts in vacuo, as an abstract question unrelated to a world of factories and child labor and trade unions and steel trusts. In the Oregon case, for the first time, there were marshalled before the supreme court the facts of modern industry which reasonably called for legislation limiting hours of labor, and the decision of constitutional cases, and resulted not only in reversal of prior decisions, but in giving to the courts a wholly new approach to the most important cases of present-day constitutional issues.

As advocate Mr. Brandell has secured the approval of every constitutional case for the most important cases of present-day constitutional issues. He has secured the approval of every constitutional case for the most important cases of present-day constitutional issues. He has secured the approval of every constitutional case for the most important cases of present-day constitutional issues.

Why Not Pay the Army?
The New Republic: One reason why the protagonists of bigger armies have lost is that they have not been able to keep even our present meager army and navy up to their full complement. Our recruiting method is so faulty that we cannot get enough ordinary men to enlist at sixteen dollars a month we can get short-handed. We accept the principle of paying for property for lost property, but we never necessary to compete with industrial employers, but reject the principle of paying for labor at rates to compete with industry. Property is not expected to serve us except for adequate pay; labor is expected to serve us partly for pay and partly out of patriotism. Put labor on the same basis as property, and we shall not have serious trouble in recruiting. The financial burden will be greater, to be sure. That is the real difficulty with the voluntary system in time of peace.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason

Workers.

It's good to work, with might and main, until the workday ends; it's good to work, in sun or rain—but do not work your friends. The toiler's worthy of his hire, wherever he may be, though he be punishing a lyre or chopping down a tree; though he be furrowing the loam, that harvest may abound, 'tis labor brings the bacon home, and makes the wheels go round. Renown for toiling with a vim the true distinction lends; so work until the light grows dim—but do not work your friends. The willing worker seldom sees the lean wolf at his door; he has his weinervurst and cheese and other grub in store. Men's admiration he commands, no matter where he wends; he does his work with both his hands, but does not work his friends. There is no sadder, punker sight, in any neighborhood, than is the husky, lazy wight who's cut out work for good. We all have seen his maulin tear, have heard his whining tones; a guilder there, a kroner here, from all of us he bones. To gain a dime this shameless shirk to lowest depths descends; for when a man quits useful work, he starts to work his friends.

Hammy Moore's "Ridiculousity"

By Savonar.

Washington, Feb. 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Our dear, delightful Republican brethren are sorely distressed because President Wilson has changed his mind regarding certain subjects. They seem to think it irreparable, if not impious. They are for "preparations," but resent the fact that Wilson is for it, too, because he did not insist on it a year ago. They are for a tariff commission, but they can see nothing but atrocious profligacy in Wilson's advocacy of it because, under very different conditions, he was not for it during the life of the last congress.

Their talk is childish. What are they going to think of Abraham Lincoln, who made one of the most radical changes in a political way, on record between March, 1861, and September, 1862? In his inaugural address he declared that he had no legal right to interfere with African slavery in any of the states, and that certainly he had no disposition to do so. Eighteen months thereafter he issued his famous emancipation proclamation, that, politically speaking, brought freedom to the negro. And what do they think of the Republican party itself? The day after Bull Run, in July, 1861, with two negative votes in congress, they adopted the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, a Pennsylvania Abolitionist, and Henry C. Burnett, a Kentucky Secessionist—the famous Crittenden resolution, pledging the government to the maintenance of slavery in the states. That resolution also passed the Republican party with but one or two dissenting votes.

So it will be observed that if Lincoln and his party had not "changed," the negro might have been in bondage at this blessed moment. "Flopped," I believe the Hon. Hammy Moore calls it.

Much water has flowed under the bridge since the Underwood tariff was enacted. Times have changed. The most tremendous physical struggle in the history of mankind continued, and the only way to escape it is human being in civilized land, Christian or Pagan. Policies that were sound before that awful war opened may be, and many of them are, full of faults today. The president of the United States is in a position to know more about present conditions than any other man in America. If he is an honest man, is it not his duty to make his mind known to the circumstances demand a change? And why should the Hon. Hammy Moore of Philadelphia from his seat in congress challenge the president of the United States?

His party has pretended to advocate ever since Jonathan P. Dolliver knocked down, cruelly beat and bruised and dragged out, the United States senate, a year ago, in the summer of 1908? What hurts is this: Neither Hammy Moore nor his party was ever in favor of a tariff commission. It is a case of the devil being sick, and he's got to tell the truth.

This tariff commission that Moore and his party are blabbering about was invented to take the place of reciprocity and to keep the tariff out of the hands of the people. For years the C. O. P. was going to cure the leprous malady of protection with a dose of free trade, that, receding into the past, the McKinley administration appointed John A. Kassen to negotiate certain reciprocal treaties with foreign countries, which he did, though it was not intended that the convention would be elected in 1921. The convention would be submitted to the people in 1922 and would be effective January, 1923. Thus it is seen that if a new Constitution could be put into effect, and this is providing everything moved smoothly and with dispatch, usually there are hitches and delays.

It is plain, therefore, that if a new Constitution is needed, of which there seems to be little doubt, the sooner the matter is taken up the better.

Duluth and The Herald

Subjects and Subjects From The Press.

This Is Logical, Anyway.

Mankato Review: The Duluth Herald is asking answers to the questions, "Which are the ten worst faults a man can have and which are the ten best virtues?" Unless The Herald insists on specific enumeration of vices and virtues, the following should be a satisfactory answer: The ten worst faults are, those which we are free from but which some of our fellow men are addicted to. The ten best virtues are those that we can claim as our own. Modesty (one of these virtues), forbids that we should go into details either with respect to the other nine virtues we possess or the vices that we are free from.

Here's Wishing All Success.

Williams Northern Light: The Duluth Herald beat us to it by printing a picture of the Northern Light's new building before we could get our own paper out. Everybody thinks we've got some printers, and they think right.

This Seems to Cover the Case.

Walker Pilot: Duluth churches are organizing and passing resolutions against the proposed lifting of the Indian lid, and the Mesaba Ore rises to ask what business these churches have in extending their endeavours into territory that doesn't concern them. Why, brother, Hibbing isn't so awful far from Duluth churches when it comes to doing missionary work. Take Africa, for instance!

Well, Let's Have One, Then.

Anoka Union: The Duluth Herald exclaims in a long editorial that "Minnesota needs a new Constitution." This is no doubt of that and there is no argument against it.

Begin to Get Busy Now.

Hutchinson Leader: The Duluth Herald renews the proposal for a new Constitution for Minnesota and calls attention to the fact that the campaign must be made before the next legislature is elected. Beginning now, it would be seven years before a new Constitution could go into effect.

Perhaps.

Ladysmith, Wis., Journal: "Possibly some of the resentment felt toward Mr. Brandell by certain senators is due to their realization of the difficulty of explaining a vote against him."—Duluth Herald.

And some of it probably to the difficulty of getting votes enough against him.

A Seven Years' Job.

Worthington Progressive: The Duluth Herald of Jan. 21 comes to our desk with a strong argument in favor of a revision of the state Constitution. There is no doubt but that the government of the state, like most states where constitutions have become hoary with age, has become, as the editor says, "unwieldy, clumsy, inefficient, extravagant and wasteful." Our legislature is too large for effective work and there are too many commissions and heads of bureaus and departments. These have crept in gradually and there is no telling where the end will be.

But constitutions are hedged about by so many safeguards, and rightly so, that it takes a long time to arrange for and effect a change.

Arrangements to put the question to a vote of the people cannot be made until 1917; the vote would be taken in 1918 for the calling of a convention. The members of the convention would be elected in 1921. The convention would meet in January, 1921. The Constitution would be submitted to the people in 1922 and would be effective January, 1923. Thus it is seen that if a new Constitution could be put into effect, and this is providing everything moved smoothly and with dispatch, usually there are hitches and delays.

It is plain, therefore, that if a new Constitution is needed, of which there seems to be little doubt, the sooner the matter is taken up the better.

The Old Man

Robert J. Burdette: Ichabod, my boy, methought I heard you speak of your father this morning as "the old man." You are 18 years of age, are you not?

Just so.

That is the age when callow youth has its first attack of bighead. You imagine at this moment that you know it all.

I observed by the cut of your trousers, the angle of your hat, the tip of your head, the flavor of your breath, the style of your toothbrush, shoes and the swagger of your walk that you are badly gone on yourself.

This is an error of youth which your uncle can overlook but it pains him sorely to hear you speak in terms of disrespect of one you should never mention save by the sacred name, "father."

He may not be up to your style in the modern art of making a fool of himself, but ten to one he forgets more in a week than you will ever know.

He may not enjoy smoking gutter-smokes chopped fine and inclosed in delicate tissue paper, but he has borne a good many hard knocks for your sake, and is entitled to all the reverence your shallow brain can muster.

By and by, after you are through knowing it all, and begin to learn something, you will be ashamed to look in the glass and wonder where the fool-killer kept his knife when you were ripe for the sacrifice.

And then, when the "old man" grows tired of the journey and stops to rest, and you fold his hands across his bosom and take a last look at a face that has grown beautiful in death, you will feel a sting of regret that you ever spoke of him in so grossly disrespectful a manner; and when other sprouts of imbecility use the language so delighted you in the germinal period of manhood, you will feel like chasing them with a thick stick and crushing their skulls to see if there is any brain tissue on the inside.

When the Snow is on the Prairies.

When the snow is on the prairies,
And the stock is put away
In their stanchion stall to rummage
In the sweet alfalfa hay.

Well, I like to loaf among 'em,
Like a parson makin' 'em,
When the snow is on the prairies
And the cattle's in their stalls.

Like to stroke their dusty noses
When they lift their heads to see
If I've got an extra carrot,
Or a turnip 'long with me;

Stroke their alken sides and listen
To the rustle of the hay,
When the snow is on the prairies
And the stock is put away.

Oh, for visitin' in winter,
Give me just the cattle shed,
With the cooter of the chickens
And the pigeons overhead.

For it starts a pleasant feelin'
In a feller's breast to know
That the cows are warm and happy
Though the prairie's under snow.

When the snow is on the prairies
And the stock is put away,
Oh, I like to hear 'em rustle
Of the sweet alfalfa hay.

There's a heap of satisfaction
In that old familiar sound,
When the cattle's in their stanchions,
And the snow is on the ground.

The Changes of One Short Year

Editorial in the San Francisco Bulletin.

In almost all outward aspects the United States as it was in February, 1915, and where it is not the same it is a material way, bettered. For 75 per cent of our population, perhaps, there has been no great change. The war has been a tragic story, growing drearer as weeks went by, but not coming directly into everyday life. The machinery of production, worked by the obscure majority, has been operated with but slight changes. The war industries are small in comparison with the staple national industries which go steadily on, in good years and in bad. People must be fed, clothed, housed and entertained, whatever the course of world events.

Yet the country is hardly the same that it was a year ago. Its thoughts are on different subjects. It is a great deal less calm and a great deal more confused. It listens first to one authority and then to another, and is conscious of vast issues which have not been specifically presented. Leaders whose steadiness it depended have proved as fluctuating as weather vane. Hints of vague dangers have been whispered in its ears. New ideals of citizenship have been suggested. Those that used to be spoken only in quiet places are now maintained in the newspapers and magazines and on the speakers' platforms. Brought up to believe that the people own the state, the nation is suddenly confronted with the imported dogma that the state owns the people. Democracy, won as a series of privileges, is now treated as a series of duties. Abstruse metaphysics, concealing possible tyrannies, is being dragged shrinking into politics. There are those who would supercede the ideals of the Declaration of Independence with fantastic Hegelisms and Bernhardisms. A period is known by the principles which it accepts without argument, and the nation is in a period of freedom and tranquility which were once articles of universal faith are now lightly denied.

The changes of thought are footprints of history. The immediate future of this democracy—if it is still to be called that—depends not at all upon anything material, but upon the popular conception of democracy and of the things which affect democracy. No hostile navy waits outside our ports, but a hostile idea is on the threshold of our national consciousness.

DENIES THAT THE GOSPEL APPROVES PREPAREDNESS

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your issue of Feb. 7 a part of Rev. R. E. Miller's sermon was published, in which he argues that Christ was an advocate of "preparedness."

"He asked what arms the disciples had with them, and they produced two swords," says Rev. Miller. "Jesus said two swords were enough for their purpose. Perhaps He feared that if too great armament among the disciples were shown, it would lead to violence toward them on the part of the soldiers, just as reasonable means of self-defense would lead to a wholesome respect."

Could anything be more silly or shallow? It has been said that God is on the side of the biggest guns. This is doubtful, but there is no question but that the majority of preachers on that side; therefore, more preparedness. Let me tell you, that an armed multitude was coming to attack him? Why, then, did He say that two swords were enough for their purpose?

When Christ ordered the disciples to purchase swords, He added: "For I say unto you that this that is written must be accomplished in me"—here quoting the prophecy. When Peter or the bystander cut the ear of the priest's servant, Christ said: "Put up again thy sword into his place; for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword."

To Pilate, Christ said: "My kingdom is not of this world. If my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews."

It is plainly seen here that Christ considered war as being worldly and sinful. And, by the way, there is not a syllable in the entire New Testament which by any stretch of religious credulity can be construed as sanctioning the taking of human life under any circumstances.

Many clergymen claim that the present world war will ultimately be a blessing on account of the "spiritual awakening" and increase in church membership which it will bring about. If this proves true, it will be of a temporary nature only, for fear and anxiety will not make people permanently pious. Many, and Christ, is the god of a large number of the clergy.

"AVOID ICE CARNIVALS," SAYS THEIR FOUNDER

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your editorial, bucking the St. Paul ice carnival is timely and good, and ought to be followed up with the strongest kind of warnings against a repetition of the mistake of the winter. I was primarily to blame for the ice carnival nearly a generation ago, but my excuse there is that I was exceedingly young, sporty and enthusiastic. I came from a cold country and enjoyed winter sports, and found Minnesota with all the facilities and advantages for the latter, but the fellows virtually dominant at that time had designed the ice palaces in Montreal and I had much to do to get the carnival, and succeeded by dint of the hardest kind of work to start Minnesota in the same sinful way, away back in the early 80s.

Traveling around the country as I did in those days and brought into contact with people who did much traveling, I heard many comments and received many letters that clearly indicated the trend of public opinion and conclusively proved to me that the ice carnival was the worst kind of advertising Minnesota could possibly have. As enthusiastic as I was in building up the thing, I dropped completely and fought as hard to buck it from then on. We

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, MD

Reserve Power of the Heart

Given a case of valvular defect (caused by scar deformity following some former inflammation of the heart lining), or a case of permanent high blood pressure, or one of arterial hardening, or one of typical Bright's disease, the important question in diagnosis and prognosis is the reserve power of the heart.

A normal heart has sufficient reserve power to withstand sudden or temporary physical strain, such as running to catch the last car home, going through an attack of typhoid fever or pneumonia, or chastising someone who misjudges one's character.

When you run for some distance you get short of wind, and then presently you get your "second wind" if you keep running and your heart is normal. This "second wind" is largely a response on the part of the reserve power of the heart. People with defective reserve power get short of breath on slight exertion and remain so until complete rest is obtainable, or even in spite of complete rest.

There are various factors which reduce reserve power in the heart. A leaking valve obviously makes greater demands upon the reserve power in order to keep sufficient blood circulating. A high blood pressure from any cause demands a more forcible heart beat to drive the blood through the arteries, and the extra work is done by drawing on the available reserve.

Dr. Brady will answer all sized letters pertaining to Health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through this column; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individual cases, or make diagnosis. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper. Protected by The Adams Newspaper Service.

was successful in not having the thing repeated then. The only reason for this year's slip-up, the one that comes to my mind, is that so many of the old boys who knew what happened before have "gone on"—to their reward I hope.

The railroads, that one would surmise would be the most cold-blooded about anything of that sort, saw the mistake and helped to prevent its recurrence. One would think that they carried so many people to these carnivals that the profit accruing to them would blind them to the later harmfulness to general business. But they were quick to observe that though the travel during the actual carnival was heavy, for a long time after and during the summer, even inquiries were made all over the country, and the reason was plain: the carnival had been a black mark on the record of Minnesota and was known mainly as a region of perpetual ice and a good place to stay away from.

Why, our ice palaces knocked the bottom clear out of our real estate transactions, and for the longest kind of time, in St. Paul and Minneapolis and Duluth, and even way down in Southern Minnesota. Not any mere incidences or supposition, but losses directly traceable to a known cause.

By all means buck the ice carnival. Raise your voice in a powerful protest to anything of the kind, and offer instead any suggestion that occurs to you. Vals, regattas, anything to carry the idea that Minnesota is not in the polar region.

I have long worn, figuratively, of course, sack cloth and ashes for the part I played, as a youngster, in St. Paul's first and subsequent ice jamborees, though I must confess that during their actual duration we certainly did have a Dickens of a good time. Sincerely, D. W. FITZPATRICK.

Diseased kidneys, tobacco, alcohol, worry, irregular hours and overeating all tend to exhaust the heart's reserve. It is bad business to live on your savings.

Reserve power may be built up much as a bank balance is built up. One way is by rest in bed, for persons with heart disease. Then perhaps passive movements and brine baths. Then by graduated walks, first on the level, then upgrade for steadily increasing distances day by day.

There is nothing like walking to strengthen a heart. And nothing like running to store up reserve power.

An athlete who has trained scientifically, not in a week or two of amateur football or gymnasium training, has more reserve power than anyone else. A clean-living, healthy man has enough reserve power in his heart for any ordinary emergency. The individual with heart trouble has a reduced reserve power, and hence must beware of strains and excesses of all kinds. But by scientific treatment the reserve power of the defective heart may be so well built up that, to all practical purposes, the patient is normal.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Some Bad Guessing.
 One doctor I consulted told me I had weeping eczema. Another said it was itching piles. Neither examined me. I obtained no relief from either prescription. Will you kindly suggest something?

Answer:—We would suggest that you protest against paying the doctor a fee if he forgets to examine you. It might be leprosy or the seven-year itch for all he can tell without an examination.

Only Cure for Rupture.
 Is operation the only cure for rupture in a man 28 years old?

Answer:—Yes, and the sooner done the better.

To receive attention every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. This is for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Edwin W. Johnson, Cloquet, Minn.: Last Saturday, Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday, a discussion arose as to the proper position to take in the afternoon. One contended that the flag should be raised at half past in the afternoon and at a full mast in the evening. Will you please advise in next issue, the conventional position on the mast, on an anniversary of a birth?

Ans.—Full mast all day, being raised not earlier than sunrise nor later than 8 a. m.

"E. B. H." Duluth: Please have this problem figured out in your next column: Suppose a traveling salesman sells $250 of his expenses were $45.00; what would be the net profit? On this sale it cost at the rate of 22.5 cents per hundred weight.

Ans.—On this sale it cost at the rate of 22.5 cents per hundred weight. Of course no general selling expenses could be ascertained from this one deal.

"C. A. S." (1) What is the legal (maximum) rate of interest in Minnesota? (2) Has the rate been changed in recent years, and if so what was the previous rate?

Ans.—(1) The legal rate is 6 per cent; the maximum allowed under the United States government is 10 per cent. (2) Not in recent years.

C. McKinnon, Duluth: In an argument over where the extra cent a mile for the first five miles, passenger rate was $1.00, and a state law passed in 1913. B says it goes to the United States government, and a war tax. Which is right?

Ans.—A, except that the law was passed in 1915 instead of in 1913.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely, so do this. Just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

It is not a question of itching, and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

Bring sorrow in his old folks' way All through that pack of cards. The last scene of all I beheld with much sorrow. There was the scene of the gambler's black art. No thought had they of the awakening tomorrow. For then they'd repent, but to find it too late. The bright gold was stacked by the side of each player's chair. The miser's black greed was in every man's heart. As quickly the bets passed 'twixt backer and layer. And ruin was king in the devil's sleazy mart. 'Til stake a hundred on this game."

Next day two little maids each other miss. Quarrels are soon made up—sealed with a kiss. Then, hand in hand again, happy they go. Friends all through life to be, they live each a happy so. School days soon pass away, sorrows and bliss; But we remember still quarrels and kisses. In sweet dreams of childhood, we hear the cry: "You can't play in our yard," and the old reply: "Chorus."

The Pack of Cards.
 One night as I sat by my fireside, Dreaming of friends who were far, far away. Though memory brought many tales sad and dreary, Yet others came, too, which were cheerful and gay. When all of a sudden I found my eyes resting On something which brought many scenes to my mind. 'Twas an old pack of cards, and some tales interesting. I thought that I might in their history find. The first scene that I saw that night I thought it quite a pleasant sight—A grand old room, ablaze with light. Whistled kind regards, Whilst round the board sat young and old. They played for love and not for gold. But joy and sorrow all untold Lay in that pack of cards.

The next scene I saw I beheld with much pity. It was a young man, and his parents I knew. Their only son, whom they had sent to the city To study and grow up a gentleman true. His weekly allowance they thought would suffice him. To live on the best, and for study to pay. They knew not that evil companions enticed him Away from his studies at poker to play. I saw him as he left his seat. He never thought his pals would cheat. Each time he played he met defeat. But still he called them "pards." But there will come a reckoning day And he will, through his foolish play

MEN AND WOMEN NOW ON EVEN BASIS IN HERALD'S VICES AND VIRTUES CONTEST

Drunkenness, Indifference to Religion, Lack of Courtesy and Failure to Promote Household Happiness Are Considered Among Men's Worst Faults—Love, Sympathy and Virtue Are Woman's Leading Virtues.

Men and women are now on an equal footing in the Vices and Virtues contest being conducted by The Herald. For a time it looked as if the men were going to get the worst of it, but they have been stirred to action.

The letters received today will be the last eligible for the contest as the contest closes today. The letters are coming from many states in the Northwest, and Kansas City, Mo., is heard from today.

Men are accused as being irreligious, drunken, indifferent, and lacking in the qualities they should have to help make a happy home. Men who trifle with the affections of women are treated without mercy. Sympathy, love and virtue are considered women's best virtues. Following are several of the latest letters received:

L. J. Comber, General Delivery, Duluth: "A mere man has been badly battered in this Vice and Virtue contest and the contest editor is suspected of partiality. I will give my views with some doubt as to results:

"2. Gambling.
"3. Dishonesty.
"4. Slothfulness.
"5. Slovenliness.

"7. Profanity.
"8. Ill-temper.
"9. Jealousy.
"10. Piety."

B. C. Kansas City, Mo.:
"But ten worst vices all you ask. In big, bad man—not such a task. I weep sad tears as I write these lines. For my soul with sorrow and anguish wrings."

"First comes jealousy—a bit is spice. But in abundance, 'tis sad and vice. Then the man selfish through and through. He thinks more of 'I' than little you. And, oh! the story—Ah, me, so sweet. As he ogles the girls going down the street."

"Street angel, house devil," how much that implies.
"Lovely weather, Mrs. Jones; Home! All's wrong till wife cries. Forget not the cad, sans conscience, homebreaker. Smokes your cigars as he steals your wife, then cooly forsakes her."

"Then the blasphemer whose pet words are far from choice. Air polluted, sunbeams darkened by the foul sound of his voice.
"Oh, Lord! Deliver us from sissies as from temptation. The dear, dotes on croquet, wrist watches, hesitation.
"Who said women gossip had not heard men. Honors blighted, secrets given as they rip, knock and pan.
"And last but not least, the man who will not know God. Who sneeringly rebukes Him—till laid 'neath the perfect man, ah, me! 'tis a question. With each person modeled in a different mold. But the virtues 'necessaire,' vices under the ban.
"I here unfold in my version of man. The two most essentials to make man a man. Are great love of God—brotherly feeling for man. With this firm foundation, man can't be but right. What matter the world's odds that he must fight.
"But with lack of this, ah, me! the wrongs. That fill many tales and many songs—Men sell their souls knowing not their worth. Are traitors to friends they've known from birth.
"But, oh! if they know God and brother, too. They forget about 'I' and think of 'you.' They fill the mission God 'tended them for—By being good husbands and fathers, friends to the core.
"They don't gamble and rob the poor, their wealth to prop. If they drink, it's in reason, they know when to stop. They are kind and true and thoughtful of you. Homeloving, considerate, conscientious, too.
"They respect woman—more so, if she's fallen, raise her—give her chance for life. They don't scold and nag—swear as many men do. Are not jealous, but trust, courageous and true.
"And this is my summary of man as man. We don't ask for angels, but be as good as you can. You 'can't fathom us—don't know us,' many say—a tip—treat us 'fifty' and we'll meet you halfway."

TRADES BODY INFLUENTIAL

Has Immense Weight in Nation, Declares Watson
S. Moore.

Returns From Meeting of Chamber of Commerce
at Washington.

Watson S. Moore of the Duluth Board of Trade returned this morning from Washington, D. C., where he attended the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He is the first of the Duluth delegation to that meeting to return. Mr. Moore was the only representative of the board of trade, although another member of the board of trade was present, M. L. Jenks going from Duluth, representing the Commercial club, and Julius H. Barnes, also a representative of the Duluth Commercial club, going on from New York. Other representatives of the Duluth Commercial club present were: Secretary H. V. Ewa, Chairman Henry Notie and W. E. Richardson. The other Duluthians will not be back for some days, and some of them will be absent for several weeks yet, going to other Eastern and Southern points from Washington.

"An immense amount of work was done," said Mr. Moore, "this morning, but most of it has been reported in the daily dispatches. The delegates were generally favored among the delegates to the chamber, and there is no question but that Congress felt the weight of the chamber's influence in this regard. Secretary Garrison was to have addressed the delegates on the evening of the day his resignation was announced, so we did not hear his farewell note."

"Strong action was taken regarding the developing of a merchant marine, but Congress has a bill before it on the same subject, and there is no telling what effect the chamber's ideas will have."

"No further action was taken on the matter of the council of conciliation or on the trade extensions further than the actions taken on the referendums."

"The Chamber of Commerce of the United States is becoming a body of immense influence. It is representative of all sections and lines of business, sectionalism and private interests are subordinated to general interest and nobody is allowed to grind any pet ax. Do you want to know the exact cost for any kind of a pavement laid in front of your residence?

Then clip out the accompanying chart and file it away; for it gives a table of improvement costs per lineal foot of frontage for every material used in road construction. The chart was prepared by Otto Brownell of the city engineer's office.

Here is the explanation of the chart: In the first column are the various materials and their grades; the second column shows the estimated cost per square yard of the material alone, not including curbs, earth excavation and gutters; K is the cost per additional foot in width of pavement, the subgrade to be included in the original width of 20, 22, 24, etc., so that if a pavement is 23 feet wide, then the cost for the extra 3 feet will be added to the cost of the 20-foot column. The following columns show the prices per front foot for pavements of various widths in streets 66 and 80 feet wide. The figures include the price for a concrete curb and if sandstone or granite curbs are selected, 50 and 80 cents, respectively, should be added to the cost. For excavating one foot deep a charge of 50 cents per cubic yard made and included in the original cost, but the following scale is used for lower depths: In 6-foot streets, 10 cents; in 8-foot streets, 15 cents; in 10-foot streets, 20 cents; in 12-foot streets, 25 cents; in 14-foot streets, 30 cents; in 16-foot streets, 35 cents; in 18-foot streets, 40 cents; in 20-foot streets, 45 cents; in 22-foot streets, 50 cents; in 24-foot streets, 55 cents; in 26-foot streets, 60 cents; in 28-foot streets, 65 cents; in 30-foot streets, 70 cents; in 32-foot streets, 75 cents; in 34-foot streets, 80 cents; in 36-foot streets, 85 cents; in 38-foot streets, 90 cents; in 40-foot streets, 95 cents; in 42-foot streets, 100 cents; in 44-foot streets, 105 cents; in 46-foot streets, 110 cents; in 48-foot streets, 115 cents; in 50-foot streets, 120 cents; in 52-foot streets, 125 cents; in 54-foot streets, 130 cents; in 56-foot streets, 135 cents; in 58-foot streets, 140 cents; in 60-foot streets, 145 cents; in 62-foot streets, 150 cents; in 64-foot streets, 155 cents; in 66-foot streets, 160 cents; in 68-foot streets, 165 cents; in 70-foot streets, 170 cents; in 72-foot streets, 175 cents; in 74-foot streets, 180 cents; in 76-foot streets, 185 cents; in 78-foot streets, 190 cents; in 80-foot streets, 195 cents.

For avenue improvements, property within 200 feet on either side is assessed in the following manner: First 50-foot lot, 44.44 per cent; second lot, 22.22 per cent; third, 11.11 per cent; and fourth lot, 5.55 per cent. Here is an example: If you own a 50-foot lot and a one-half acre concrete pavement, thirty feet in width, is to be laid with a sandstone curb, you will pay $14.44 plus 80 cents, making $15.24 per front foot, or a total of $251.50 for your fifty feet of frontage. Keep this chart and you will never have to bother anyone for paving information.

Landscape Gardener Fined; Neighbors in Court
During Trial.

Horace B. Keedy, landscape gardener, paid a fine today for depositing manure on lots owned by him on London road.

After a long postponement, in order that it might be tried before Judge F. H. Cutting, the case was called in municipal court today, and many citizens living near Keedy's place at Seventeenth avenue east and London road were present in the courtroom.

When first arraigned, Mr. Keedy refused to be tried before Judge H. W. Lannan and the city retaliated by refusing to have him tried before Judge W. H. Smallwood.

Neighbors said that Keedy dumped ashes, manure and garbage on open lots near their homes, and that the place constituted a nuisance. The gardener, who also operates a garbage collection business, said the mixture was being prepared as a special fertilizer.

DULUTH FIGHT PROMOTERS WANT BIG HALL AND BIG BOUT

Ed Whalen Would Like to Stage a Big Contest in the New Armory; What is the Future of the Minor Leagues? Some Persons Hope Moran Beats Jess Willard.

An effort is being made by the Duluth Athletic club officials to secure the new armory for an early show that is being planned. Ed J. Whalen is of the opinion that if a large hall can be procured and the prices raised from that demanded by the hot polio to choice seats that the athletic business men and merchant prefer, the club will be able to show a neat profit on the next bout.

It is stated that the next bout of the club will be held either in the auditorium or the new armory. Should Whalen be able to negotiate for the use of the new armory in which to stage the next bout of the club, it is believed that an effort will be made to match Jeff Smith and Tommy Gibbons, as was announced some time ago by Matchmaker Abrams. It is believed Abrams has the consent of both the boys and is only deferring announcing the date of the bout pending the procuring of the armory.

VETERANS TO BE IN DEMAND

Ten Eyck Will Need Old Oarsmen to Make Great Showing at Home.

Few Oarsmen Will Quit It Is Believed—Syracuse Boys Begin Work.

BY BRUCE.

Talk of veteran oarsmen of the Duluth Boat club giving up the rowing ghost will probably quickly subside should the efforts of Duluth to land the regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen be crowned with success. Those who have declared they are through will most likely row at least one more year, should the national regatta be held on the St. Louis bay course.

The two Moores, Dug and Phil, Max Rheinberger and Dave Horak have talked some of quitting the game. It is hardly likely that this famous quartet would desert the game when their services would be needed so greatly to make the first national held out in this country in years a decided success.

Ten Eyck will have need of all his veteran material to swing together a great eight. If the Moores, Rheinberger and Horak remain in the running there will be no worries or doubts or qualms regarding the senior four. But there will be a lot of veterans needed for the eight.

It is believed that the landing of a national regatta for Duluth would serve as a decided stimulus in the securing of candidates for the various crews. Some veteran material will be needed, as the Duluth bantam graduated last year, and some junior material could be used, although Duluth's 1915 juniors are still juniors through their defeat at the hands of the St. Paul eight in the Northwestern of last year.

Syracuse Hard at Work. A letter received from the elder Ten Eyck today conveys the information that sixty-three freshmen crew candidates have reported for work in the big tank at Syracuse. A meeting was scheduled to be held in the gymnasium yesterday afternoon, when the preliminary work of the season was to be started.

Preliminary work will begin on the machines. According to the statement of the veteran coach, there are some very promising candidates among the first year men.

Real work will begin for the varsity oarsmen on Thursday of the present week. From all accounts this looks like a great year for Syracuse, a school big stew that Tom Jones is takin' around with the circus. You ask me why, Bill, I want to see this big clown beaten and I can't say just why, but I do just the same. Maybe it makes me soar that he gets so much money in so easy a way while I gotta to stick around the boiler factory until the whistle blows at sick o'clock or look for another job.

You ask me why is I soar at Jess Willard, well I dunno, exactly. But this Moran looks more like a regular guy than the big stiff and I would be tickled to death to read that he had knocked the can off'n Willard. It used to be when I was a kid that everybody was with the champion and especially was that true when old John L. Sullivan was the champion of the world. But it don't seem like that way any more. Every time a champion gets a purse of $47,000 there is a lot of blokes who sits up and says they hope the other fellow knocks his can off'n. I guess we is all members of the anti-prospect society, cause we is all rootin' for the other zebub to wallop the champion. I guess that Socialism has got to work in connection with us fans. Anyway, Bill, I hopes Moran knocks that big stew into the middle of the week after he fights.

LITTLE LOUIE ZORBAS FINALLY GETS BIG MATCH

Duluth Lightweight Wrestler to Meet Owen Dailey in Lincoln, Neb., for the Title—Has Trained With Many Stars.

Little Louie Zorbas has to have a chance at the lightweight wrestling title. The stocky little Greek who has been wrestling in preliminaries and semi-finals around these parts for years, is to journey to Lincoln, Neb., and meet Owen Dailey, claimant of the lightweight crown, in the Nebraska city.

Louie has a host of friends in this town. There are many who believe the Greek is one of the greatest grapplers of his weight and size in the city. Louie has worked with every star of the Greek defeat in the past. His training started back in the days when Sallor Jack was creating some of the greatest wrestling strength and remarkable powers of endurance. Ed Adamson took a few whirls on the mat with the kid, then Walter Miller, Mike Yoke and Waino Ketonen have in turn given the little Greek some valuable pointers about the game.

In Dan who is the rage of the Nebraska country. Down in the tall grass land they believe Dailey invincible. The result of the meeting will be awaited with considerable interest by followers of the Greek. It would prove a decided boost to the local wrestling colony to have the Zenith Greek defeat the Nebraska star.

Zorbas is training hard at the present time. He works with the Carr match and is also doing a lot of running over the Duluth hills.

ANTE-SEASON DOINGS IN BASEBALL WORLD

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 15.—President Johnson of the American league was here yesterday in conference with C. W. Somers and the National league committee in charge of the financial affairs of the Cleveland baseball club. Johnson said the club would be sold before March 1, and also intimated that at least three Chicago men would be in on the deal.

He refused to give the names of the purchasers and left for Chicago. Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 15.—Charles Johnston, former Pacific Coast league outfielder, has refused to report to the Brooklyn Nationals who bought him from the New York Federals. Shortly after the coast league sold him, Johnston signed with the Federals. After Johnston's refusal, Ebbetts bought his release from Sinclair, the former Newark owner. Johnston claims that Ebbetts has declined to assume the contract he signed with the Federal league.

MEMOMONIE PLANS FOR BIG TOURNEY

Fourth Annual Basketball Meet of Northwestern Wisconsin in March.

Menomonie, Wis., Feb. 15.—Monster preparations are being made for the fourth annual Northwestern Wisconsin interscholastic basketball tournament to be held at Menomonie on March 16, 17 and 18. It is planned by those in charge to make this the largest and best tournament ever held in Menomonie.

Of the twenty-one counties to be represented at this tournament are to the effect that the teams in this district are of unusually high caliber, and this, of course, means a high class tournament. As yet no teams are sure of representing their district, due to the close competition and evenly matched teams.

The tournament is to be held under the auspices of the Stout Athletic association. Contrary to the tournaments held by the normal schools in this state, who send one team to the state championship meet at Milwaukee, the local tournament will send two teams to the state championship to be held at Appleton on March 30, 31 and April 1.

NEW YORK SPORTING GOSSIP

Advocating Holland as Field for Resumption of International Sports After the War—Motor Trophies Held Up.

New York, Feb. 15.—In the midst of the great European war the idea of international sport and competition will not down. The advocates of these games are constantly advancing plans for such meetings, to take place during hostilities or immediately following the declaration of peace. It is repeatedly pointed out that such friendly engagements in the realms of sport will either help in bringing about peace or act as a balm for the bitterness engendered by the conflict.

An example of these frequent efforts is shown in plans for an international sport meet after the war, to be held in Holland, the land of the international meetings. This interesting idea is put forward in a particularly interesting Dutch newspaper by a sport enthusiast. The writer argues that when peace comes, economic necessity will soon draw the present belligerents together again and prepare the way for international sport, which will, in its turn, react favorably on the relations of those now engaged in so bitter a struggle with gun and bayonet.

Such international sport meetings, however, he points out, call for diplomatic and careful preparation. One cannot, for instance, expect to see a football match, Germany vs. Britain, in Berlin, in the first post-war season. Hence, Holland's opportunity to perform a delicate task, with the support of America and other neutrals, by making the country a center of contact. The aim of such an international meeting would naturally have to be delicately masked, but once representatives of the present belligerents had met on a Dutch playing field the process would develop of itself very quickly, leading to a full restoration of the valuable international sport.

To any pessimist inclined to ask whether the warring nations will have any men to spare for sport after the present slaughter, the writer points out that football is still being played week by week in Britain, that a Belgian eleven quite recently played a leading Hague team, that a football match took place three weeks ago at Vienna between Austria and Hungary, and that football is being regularly played just behind the fighting front.

Furthermore, he states that there are at present cycle races, cross-country races, and even a few horse races in war-ridden Belgium; cycling and running races in Berlin, and that German soldiers obtain leave from the front to go and participate in the latter contests.

Reports from those close to auto racing authorities at the effect that the Vanderbilt Cup and Grand Prix trophy races will not be allotted for speedway competition during 1918. It is said that the members of the Motor Cups Holding corporation are strongly opposed to shifting these automobile race classics from roads to track courses. Unless there is a change in the deeds of gifts it appears as though these two best known of American auto-racing trophies will go uncompleted for during the present year.

Several Eastern polo teams are expected to enter the Coronado Country club tournament at Coronado, Cal., next month. The tournament, which runs from March 1 to 29, will include several valuable trophies such as the California challenge, Pacific Coast Junior championship, Pacific Coast All-American and other valuable prizes, some of which have been in competition almost a decade. Among the Eastern experts who have sent strings of ponies to the far coast for early polo play are Malcolm Stevenson, C. Perry Headleston, G. M. Heckscher and Thomas Le Boullenger.

Alma Richards, winner of the high jump at the Olympic games in Stockholm four years ago and American Decathlon champion, has taken up pole vaulting. Richards, who has won many points for Cornell in the high and broad jump, as well as the shot put, believes that he can clear better than twelve feet in the vault. Trainer Jack Moskley is not particularly keen for the Cornell star to compete in this event for fear that he will injure himself and deprive the Ithaca university of several points in the intercollegiate championship next May. Moskley has had a specially heavy and strong vaulting pole made for Richards and has limited his vault to date to 11 feet 6 inches. Richards has had little difficulty in clearing the bar at this height and is ready to try the 12-foot leap as soon as Moskley gives his consent.

NOTED SKI JUMPER LOSES HIS RIGHT LEG Madison, Wis., Feb. 15.—Axel Hendricksen, who has defied death 100 times or more in looping the loop in skis while 100 feet in the air, has submitted to an operation in St. Mary's hospital, having his right leg above the knee amputated. He was injured last Friday.

At the hospital his progress is reported as favorable.

Prince a Sprinter. London, Feb. 15.—Prince Henry, third son of King George, ran fourth yesterday in the annual junior mile race, at Eaton. His time was 4:54. The winner was a young schoolboy named Tom. The race was a most strenuous one, owing to wind and rain.

Bike Riders Suspended. New York, Feb. 15.—The National Cycling association, it was announced here last night, has suspended all the bicycle riders who competed in the six-day race at Chicago recently and all amateurs who competed in the preliminary events at the Coliseum, which were promoted by Packer McFarland and his assistants.

that is closely linked with Duluth interests, from the fact that numerous boys from this city have rowed on various regattas and freshmen crews of Syracuse.

Link Brown, Coach.
Link Brown, coach of last year's senior eight of the Duluth Boat Club, is to become a rowing instructor. Word from Syracuse declares that the diminutive coach is to take charge of the rowing department of a Western preparatory school.

Joe Wright Scores.
Some of the Duluth oarsmen will be interested in the statement that Joe Wright, former coach of the Argonauts, is making a great hit as coach of the University of Pennsylvania oarsmen. The big Canadian has taken the place of Vivian Nickalls and is scoring heavily with the student body.

Syracuse and Annapolis.
According to the announcement of the Duluth Boat Club, Syracuse has scheduled an eight oared crew to race the Annapolis. The schedule of the race will mark the resumption of rowing relations after many years that have passed without contact. The only three veterans left in the Syracuse eight, however, there are a number of very promising candidates who made a great showing in last year's freshman regatta.

It might prove interesting to state that in 1909 Syracuse defeated the Annapolis eight with Jimmy Con Eysie striking the Syracuse eight.

CATHEDRAL TO PLAY SUPERIOR

Catholic Basket Ball Quint in Fine Form for Hard Contest.

After a successful trip to Ashland, where the Cathedral boys took the team representing Northland college of that place into camp, the boys have started another week's grind in preparation for the game with the Superior high school to be played in the Cathedral gym Wednesday evening. In the game with the college team the boys showed a complete reversal of form from that shown against Central and this form is expected to last throughout the year.

The Superior team is represented by practically the same team that it had last year and a game which is expected to be a hummer from start to finish is in store for the followers of the Cathedral boys. The boys are going to be a matter of or do with them when they hook up with the Cathedral boys.

Coach Daugherty thinks that the boys have struck their stride in defeating a team of Northland's caliber and is starting in to remedy their few faults in preparation of the Superior game.

On Washington's birthday the Cathedral will meet the thus far unquarable Nelson Deywys of Superior on the Cathedral floor. The Nelson Deywys team has defeated every team which it has met and the strength of the Cathedral boys will be shown in the Catholic boys.

LEAGUE GAMES REACH FINALS

Commercial Quints Will Play Decisive Contests at Y. M. C. A.

Kelleys vs. Fenton-Dubys for Top—Others for Cellar Position.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.
	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Kelleys	4	1	.800
Fenton-Dubys	3	2	.600
Big Duluths	2	3	.400
Northerns	1	4	.200

The Commercial Basketball league season of 1916 will be brought to a close this evening when the Kelleys meet the Fenton-Dubys and the Big Duluths take on the Northerns at the Y. M. C. A. These are the last games of the season and both of them are expected to be fast.

The meeting between the crack Kelleys and the Fenton-Dubys aggregation is expected to be the greatest game of the season. At present the Kelleys are at the top of the percentage column, but should they lose to the Fenton-Dubys this evening an extra game would be required to determine the pennant winner. The Fenton-Dubys have been going at a fast clip all season. They got a poor start but soon picked up and have been going at a breakneck gait towards the end of the season. The Kelleys also have been cleaning up everything in sight.

Both Out For Blood.
The teams are old rivals and they are both out for blood. Their meeting should bring out some of the very best basketball that has been seen this season.

The Big Duluths and the Northerns will battle for the cellar championship. At present the Northerns are at the bottom but should they defeat the Big Duluths this evening there would be a tie for the basement honors. The Northerns have a good team but they have not had much luck all season and have lost most of their games by close scores. The Big Duluths are practically as good as anything in the league, having lost their three games by narrow margins. They will make a great fight to stay out of the cellar.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 15.—Jack Dillon of Indianapolis floored Vic Hanson of Los Angeles, six times in the third and fourth rounds of their eight-round bout here last night, and won an easy decision. Hanson clinched frequently after the fourth round. The men fought as light-heavyweights.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 15.—Frankie Callahan, Brooklyn lightweight, defeated Benny Palmer of Memphis here last night in a slow ten-round bout of a double windup card, while Len Rowlands, Milwaukee welterweight, substituted for Soldier Bartfield, was shaded by Art Magrill of Oklahoma.

CALUMET TO PLAY DULUTH

Hockey Fans Will See Lively Game on Wednesday Evening.

Duluth hockey fans will see the Calumet A. C. team in action against the Duluth hockey team tomorrow night at the curling rink. Incidentally, there will be skating after the game, for which music will be furnished.

The Calumet team was defeated last evening in St. Paul by the A. C. team of the Minnesota capital city, and will play there again tonight. On their way home, they will stop off at Duluth and try conclusions with the Duluth septet, and the Duluth hockey league's management really believes that despite the strong organization that Calumet has, Duluth has a better one and will beat the visitors. At any rate, it is felt certain that there will be a lively contest.

Several old players of the Duluth association hockey team of last year and other veterans are on the Calumet team, and the line-up will be recognized by the fans as a strong one. Joe Lindner, Nicholson, Mahan and Barkell, who played last year in Duluth, will be the ice with the Copper country uniforms on. Following will be the line-up of the Duluth and visiting teams.

O'LEARY MAY FIGHT HERE

Jeff Smith and Tommy Gibbons Also Considered as Next Boxing Card.

Johnny O'Leary, the Canadian lightweight champion, may be the next boxing card staged by the Duluth Athletic club. No opponent has as yet been selected to oppose the Seattle biffer.

An option has been secured on the Auditorium and the first street arena will most likely be used for the next fight. O'Leary is expected to succeed in securing the new armory.

Efforts are still being made to secure Jeff Smith and Tommy Gibbons for the next show. Hope has not been entirely abandoned as yet. Matchmaker Madison Square Garden has a big card and has hit upon the Jeff Smith-Tommy Gibbons contest as one of the best that can be brought here. It is understood that the local matchmaker is in negotiation at the present time with both fighters.

It is believed that a Smith-Gibbons contest would pack any hall in Duluth and would prove more class than any bout that has ever been staged here. Both men weigh in at 158 pounds, and the match is made.

BIG FIGHT MAY BE POSTPONED

Willard III With Bad Cold and Unable to Train.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Jess Willard's fight with Frank Moran, March 8, may have to be postponed because of trouble which the big fellow is having with a cold which has settled in his throat. He lost several days of training a week ago because of the cold. Then he went at it again, but lacked vigor, and yesterday he remained at home.

The report that the fight might be postponed is said to have originated in a long-distance telephone conversation between one of the promoters in New York and his representative here. The latter will see Willard today, it was reported, to learn the champion's views as to the advisability of deferring the combat.

New York, Feb. 15.—Tom Jones, manager for Willard, declared here last night that the heavyweight champion was so ill that he might not be able to come to New York until late in the week. He said that Jones and Willard were very weak and he could secure no heartiness from him. He said that under no circumstances would he consent to have Willard enter the ring with Moran here on March 8 unless the champion is in perfect physical condition.

New York, Feb. 15.—Tex Rickard, the promoter of the Willard-Moran bout, scheduled for March 8 in this city, said today that no application for a postponement had been made to him. Tom Jones, Willard's manager, came to me last night, said Rickard, "and told me that he feared from Willard over the long distance telephone that the champion was ill with the grip in Chicago. I understand that."

Willard, who is now in Chicago, is expected to return to New York for the fight.

WAGES OF CAR MEN BOOSTED

Street Railway Company
Voluntarily Increases Scale.

Minimum Raised and Time to Reach Maximum Shortened.

A voluntary increase in wages of all carmen in the employ of the Duluth-Superior Traction company, amounting to from 5 to about 15 per cent, was the valentine handed out by the officers of the company yesterday afternoon. The new schedule was posted at the carhouse at 4 o'clock.

The new rate of wages will go into effect on March 1. It places the minimum wage at 23 cents per hour and the maximum at 30 cents. The latter scale will be paid practically one-third of the present number of employees. The company's present scale of wages is a minimum of 23 cents per hour for the first six months of employment and a maximum of 28 cents per hour after being in the service for eight years. There are about twenty men now drawing the company's maximum scale.

Shorter Time to Reach Maximum.
With the lessening to six years of the length of service for which an employee can receive the maximum wage, the increase will mean an increase of wages amounting to 4 cents an hour for many of the men. About forty men now in the service have been employed about six years and are at present drawing under the present scale 28 cents an hour. To these men it will mean an increase of 4 cents an hour or about 15 per cent in their wages.

The following is the new scale: First six months, 23 cents per hour; second six months, 24 cents per hour; third year, 25 cents per hour; fourth year, 26 cents per hour; fifth year, 27 cents per hour; sixth year, 28 cents per hour.

These rates will also apply to all men on the extra list, but provision is made that no extra man shall receive less than $2 per day. This provision is made that no extra man shall receive less than $2 per day. This provision is made that no extra man shall receive less than $2 per day.

The proposed increase of wages will more than double the wages paid employees of the company in the early days. Prior to April 1, 1893, motormen and conductors were paid on a monthly basis. The average wage was about $50 per month, the employees being required to work twelve hours or more each day of the month. This wage was equivalent to from 11 to 12 cents per hour. Since that time the wages have been increased in the following manner:

On April 1, 1899, the rate was made 15 to 17 cents per hour.
On May 1, 1900, the rate was made 17 to 18 cents per hour.
On June 1, 1902, the rate was made 18 to 20 cents per hour.

On June 1, 1906, the rate was made 20 to 22 cents per hour.
On June 1, 1907, the rate was made 21 to 23 cents per hour.
On July 1, 1912, the rate was made 22 to 24 cents per hour.

On March 1, 1916, the rate will be made 23 to 30 cents per hour. In the sixteen years the increase in the minimum rate has been 109 per cent and the maximum rate 122 per cent. About 65 per cent of the men will receive 2 cents per hour increase, these now serving their second, third or fourth years. Less than 20 per cent of the men now employed have been in the service of the company under one year.

Many Are Affected.
The new rate of wages will affect about 235 conductors and motormen in Duluth and about 140 conductors and motormen in Superior. The increase in wages will amount to about $11,000 annually in Duluth and about $3,500 annually in Superior.

"It is to be hoped that the new scale of wages to take effect March 1, next, will be considered by the motormen and conductors now in the company's employ as an expression of the company's appreciation of their loyal service and attract to the service of the company from time to time, as needed, new men of equal loyalty and efficiency," said Herbert Warren, vice president and general manager of the company, this morning.

"We are proud of our staff of employees in all departments and challenge any city in the country to produce a better lot of conductors and motormen than those serving the public on the street cars of Duluth today."

Is Entire Surprise.
The posting of the bulletin calling attention to the increase of wages at the clubrooms of the carhouse yesterday afternoon caused the welcome news to spread like wildfire among the employees. It was an entire surprise. The increase of wages was certainly a decided surprise," said August Halgren, the company's "oldest" employee. Mr. Halgren has been in the service of the company for twenty-seven years.

"It is a welcome surprise and all of the boys appreciate it. I worked for the company when the wages were $50 per month and we had to work anywhere from twelve to sixteen hours. Now we are able to get about $75 a draw well over $80 each month."

GLADYS SINCLAIR.

Little Miss Gladys Sinclair was the guest of honor at a birthday party given in honor of the first birth anniversary by her mother, Mrs. John Sinclair, 120 North Eighteenth avenue west, yesterday afternoon. The room was prettily decorated with pink tulips, hyacinths, hearts and cupid. A card, bearing a picture of the baby, was presented to each of the guests. The latter were Marian McPhail, Lella Staley, Grace Bradley, Neumann Swartz, Dorcas McPhail, Margaret Carlson, Laura Hager, Beatrice Moulton, Hazel Minos, Audrey Horton and Gertrude Horton. Mrs. George Swartz, Mrs. Edward Treuman and Misses Lucile and Ethel Schwartz assisted the hostess.

ALL-DAY MEETING AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will hold an all-day session at the church tomorrow. Invitations have been extended to all women interested in missionary work.

Miss Lavinia Meade, who has served several years as missionary to Japan, will be one of the principal speakers. Among the others who will address the gathering will be Mrs. A. P. Gale of Minneapolis, state president of the Women's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society; Mrs. Hilson Flinn, who will speak on "Our Spiritual Advance."

Others who will take part in the program will be Mrs. Carl Oberg, Mrs. V. Lindor, Mrs. A. C. Ritchie, Mrs. J. D. Haynes. A musical program will also be given and a basket lunch will be served at noon.

TRY AGAIN FOR POLICE STATION

Another police station for the West end will be sought by members of the West End Commercial club. The present jail quarters are said to be insanitary and unfit for keeping prisoners over night.

According to one of the patrolmen of the West end, a man who obtained lodging there was nearly frozen during one of the cold nights recently. "If we had arrived an hour later at the jail the man might have been dead," declare the officer. "It is impossible to keep warm and during the cold nights the place has been unbearable."

Members of the West End Commercial club propose to take the matter up at the meeting of the club Thursday evening. They aver that this section of the city is entitled to a branch station where a man can be reached at any time of the day or night if wanted. Such a place has been considered the asset, for years past but has been put off from time to time.

The proposed public market for the West end will also be a theme of discussion for the members at the meeting. Another site than that formerly offered will be considered for the location of the public market. Two former locations, which were considered and said to have been rejected by the committee, because the owners want too high rentals.

COTTAGE MEETINGS.

A series of cottage meetings will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in connection with the revival meetings being held at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The meetings tomorrow afternoon were announced this morning by Rev. Milton Fish follows:

Miss Minnie Gustafson, 2532 West Second street; William Hanson, 531 North Twenty-second avenue; Carl Mellin, 305 North Twenty-second avenue; Albert Anderson, 327 Vernon street, and Mrs. Jace Haskins, 2601 West Huron street.

Church Entertainment.

Plans for serving a supper and holding a fancy work sale tomorrow evening in the church basement were completed last evening by committees representing the Ladies Aid Society of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. The supper will be served tomorrow and Thursday evenings, between 6:30 and 8 o'clock.

The women in charge tomorrow evening will be Mrs. M. Iverson, Mrs. H. Wenstad, Mrs. Nygaard, Mrs. A. O. Anderson, Mrs. Tallekson, Mrs. Ed Thorstad and Mrs. N. Solseth. The women in charge Thursday evening will be Mrs. J. Strom, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. J. Harum, Mrs. Ek, Mrs. J. Sorenson, Mrs. C. Nelson and Mrs. O. M. Jorgensen.

West End Briefs.

Miss Elizabeth McFarlane, 325 North Twenty-sixth avenue west, will entertain Thursday afternoon for the D. and S. Card club. Five hundred will be played.

The Duluth Musical society of the West end will entertain at a Valentine party last night for a number of her friends. Games and music featured the entertainment. There were twenty guests.

Albert Halse of St. Paul was a guest of relatives in the West end yesterday.

EXPORT BIDS BULL WHEAT

Market Advances on Exporters' Buying on Seaboard and in Southwest.

Flaxseed Gains Moderately With Good Bidding By Crushers' Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 14.—The market was strong at the close with final prices at the top.

May wheat closed 1 1/2c up and July 1 1/2c up.

Oats closed 1/2c up at 40c for on the track; rye unchanged at 82c and barley unchanged to 1c off at 65 to 71c for on the track.

At Winnipeg, May wheat closed 1/2c up at 40c.

At St. Louis, May wheat closed at 41 1/2c, bid, and July at 41 1/2c, bid.

At Kansas City, May wheat closed at 41 1/2c, bid, and July at 41 1/2c, bid.

At Minneapolis, May wheat closed at 41 1/2c, bid, and July at 41 1/2c, bid.

After being quiet during the early trading at a fractionally higher level than yesterday, the wheat market turned strong and fairly active today, an advance of over 1c being recorded during the first three hours operations.

The reported working of a substantial tonnage for export at Kansas City and better all-round foreign inquiry, furnished the impetus for the advance.

Liverpool was strong, 1/2d higher for spot wheat, and supplies were reported to be scarce. Expectations are that English operators will be compelled to come into this market on a more extended scale in the near future, to supply their needs. In view of the high Argentine freight rates and scarcity of shipping, this country and Canada hold the first place as the nearest and most available sources of wheat for the larger stock remaining in elevators and farmers' hands in all parts of the country. An aid in creating bullish sentiment today was the information that the prospects for the free importation of Canadian wheat during the crop year are now practically nil. A free wheat resolution was introduced in the Canadian parliament last night, but discussion of it was deferred, it being thus placed at the foot of the order paper, making it improbable that it will be again brought up at the present session of the house.

Advices were again received to the effect that the British government might take action shortly to regulate ocean freight rates on grain. That is interpreted as bullish marketwise. In the meantime another advance in the rate on wheat to Liverpool was announced again today.

Cash wheat was strong on the Duluth market, with the basis on No. 1 Northern raised to 2c over being paid for choice wheat by millers. Last night, but the debate on the question was adjourned and the resolutions are expected to be probably dead for the present session.

Bradstreet's report that world's visible supply of wheat increased 369,000 bu. last year, it decreased 1,674,000 bu. compared with 1914, and against last year, an increase of 1,674,000 bu. but that they increased 205,000 bu. the last visible supply of wheat is 216,844 bu. against 179,844,000 bu. last year.

Broomhall's report from Liverpool: "Market was quiet at the opening, but it later developed firmness with arrivals limited. American demand good. Spot market was very firm with all grades exhausted with the exception of hard winter wheat which is 1/2d higher. Cargo and parcel market is strong. Manitoba, 1 1/2c to 3d higher; wheat, 1c to 1 1/2c higher; plates, 6d higher, and sparingly offered."

Broomhall says: "Continental quantities are omitted this month and it is believed that these will no longer be available to the total is $124,000 bu. against 60,160,000 bu. last week, showing an increase of 1,734,000 bu. against the increase of 1,447,000 bu. last week, and a decrease last year of 5,900,000 bu."

Argentine offers are smaller and actual shipments of wheat are disappointing. Australian offers are fair. Shipments during February and March will be moderate. It is thought.

European four situation is light. Duluth office, Mr. Hagen has operated at the high level with stocks moderate. France is purchasing freely and the large bulk of grain from North America continue to be a striking feature. It is believed that these shipments will continue on an enlarged scale.

Argentine and Australia continue to ship very moderately of wheat and flour.

At Liverpool, Feb. 15.—Wheat—Spot No. 1 Northern, 1 1/2c; No. 2 Northern, 1 1/4c; No. 3 Northern, 1 1/2c; No. 4 Northern, 1 1/4c; No. 5 Northern, 1 1/4c; No. 6 Northern, 1 1/4c; No. 7 Northern, 1 1/4c; ERZERUM, PRINCIPAL CITY OF TURKISH ARMENIA, HAS FALLEN INTO HANDS OF RUSS TROOPS

CITY TAKEN AFTER LONG BOMBARDING

Fortifications Extend Twenty-Four Miles Along High Ridge.

New Forts Recently Constructed By Turks Under German Directions.

Field Marshal Von Goltz Said to Be in Command There.

London, Feb. 16, 5:35 p. m.—Reuter's Petrograd correspondent telegraphs that Erzerum has been captured by the Russians.

Petrograd, Feb. 16, via London.—The war office issued last night the following supplement to the official communication of the day:

"In addition to the two Erzerum forts already announced as captured by our forces, seven other forts have been taken. There is thus a total of nine Erzerum forts now in our hands."

The Erzerum fortifications extend in a straight line for twenty-four miles along a ridge intersecting all important roads from the Caucasus. It has recently been stated that the Turks under German direction have constructed new forts to the right and left of the old fortifications.

A dispatch to the Giornale d'Italia from Petrograd, dated Feb. 1, said that German Field Marshal von Der Goltz was in command of the Turkish troops at Erzerum, and that there were 80,000 men locked up in the city with provisions for only a fortnight. A dispatch to the Central News from Amsterdam on Feb. 3 said that Turkish reinforcements sent to the relief of Erzerum had been beaten off by the Russians and that eighty wounded men had arrived at Trebizond. An Athens dispatch to the Daily Mail of London stated that Turkish First army corps had been sent to the relief of Erzerum, but could not reach that city before the middle of the present month.

Erzerum, the principal city of Turkish Armenia, is situated on a large plain about 6,000 feet above the sea. It has belonged to Turkey since the early part of the sixteenth century and has figured as a bulwark of Armenia in the Russian wars. Col Shushkevich, the Russian military critic, was quoted on Jan. 29 as saying that an important motive of the present active operations by the Russians in the Caucasus is to relieve the pressure on the British in Mesopotamia, and ultimately to form a junction with the British forces in the region.

WOMAN PERISHES IN MIDLAND, MICH., FIRE

Midland, Mich., Feb. 16.—One person was burned to death, one is said to be missing and damage estimated at $15,000 was caused by a fire which destroyed a block of Midland's business district early today. Miss Della Taylor, a milliner, escaped from her rooming place but later attempted to save some of her belongings and perished. It is rumored that a man who rushed into the building and tried to rescue her also lost his life. The postoffice, a general store and jewelry and shoe stores were among the buildings burned.

Rehearing Refused. Washington, Feb. 16.—The interstate commerce commission today refused to reconsider its recent decision increasing rates on agricultural implements about 2 cents a hundred pounds. The National Implement and Vehicle association had asked for a rehearing.

SPECTACULAR REGENERATION

Of Internal Russia Now Apparent to All Observers.

Army Now Fully Equipped With Rifles and Ammunition.

Petrograd, Feb. 16, via London.—The beginning of a tremendous, if not spectacular, regeneration of internal Russia is strikingly apparent to any observer of Russian affairs who, familiar with the disorderly condition in Russia six months ago, compares it with the efficient industrial and military machinery of today.

An Associated Press correspondent, writing from Russia, says that military forces were at the lowest ebb, with an inadequately provisioned and untrained army, and inefficient internal management not only defeating the chances of military achievement for the moment, but creating a spirit of uneasiness and criticism among the people that threatened national solidarity. MACHINERY AT CEMENT PLANT IS TESTED; WILL OPERATE NEXT MONDAY

UNIVERSITY STUDENT CHARGED WITH MURDER OF LAMBERT GIRL.

WILL BLOW IN NEW FURNACE

Additional Pig Iron Producer Will Begin Operation Thursday.

Brings Daily Capacity of Steel Plant to 1,000 Tons.

Tomorrow afternoon the second blast furnace at the Duluth steel plant will be blown in. The officials are as yet unable to announce the exact time, but according to present expectations the ceremony will take place late in the afternoon.

With the putting in commission of the second furnace, the production of pig iron will reach the maximum capacity within a short time. The company has two of these huge monster furnaces, each with a daily capacity of 600 tons. The product of the one that has been in operation since early in December is being daily consumed by the open hearth furnaces.

The two monster furnaces will consume a large quantity of raw material. To produce 1,000 tons of pig iron it will take 2,200 tons of iron ore, 1,000 tons of coke and about 500 tons of limestone.

The starting of the furnace will give steady employment to forty-two men each shift. The total number required for the twenty-four hours on the two furnaces is 168 men.

Mayor Power Enters Case at Request of Iron Range Men.

Conference Held in St. Paul With Smith and Attorney.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—An all-morning conference with every avenue of information carefully guarded against leaks, was held in St. Paul today by friends of Walter J. Smith, former state treasurer, now under indictment for alleged malfeasance in office. In the conference with former State Treasurer Smith were Frank B. Thompson, St. Paul, his principal bondsmen, Victor Power, mayor of Hibbing, and Thomas R. Kane, his St. Paul attorney. Shortly after noon the conference (Continued on page 11, fourth column.)

Power Is Turned on and Fires Started in Dryers.

First Clinkers Will Be Turned Out Next Week.

Finished Product Will Not Be Made for Several Weeks.

The initial process of the manufacture of cement in Duluth began yesterday afternoon at the Universal Portland Cement company's plant at New Duluth. The power was turned on for a short time and some of the large kilns were given their first turning over.

The storing of raw material, such as coal, limestone and slag, began this morning. Large quantities of these materials will be used in the manufacture of the product and it is expected that before the end of this week sufficient will be on hand in advance to assure continuous operation.

Fires in the mammoth dryers will be started probably today, where the raw material will put through the first process. There are, in all, eight of these dryers, four to be used for drying the slag and two each for drying the stone and coal. The drying process will take place after the material has been broken up.

INQUEST AWAITS TESTING OF POISON

No New Evidence Is Discovered in Case of William Orpet.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The coroner's inquest into the death of Marian Frances Lambert, the Lake Forest high school girl, found dead in the woods on the Cyrus McCormick estate, will not be resumed, it is believed, until a report has been received from experts who are testing poison crystals found in the girl's hand in an effort to definitely establish the exact nature of the poison which caused her death.

No new evidence of an important nature regarding the alleged connection of Will H. Orpet, University of Wisconsin junior, with the girl's death, has been discovered, according to authorities.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE LOSSES TOTAL MILLIONS

STEAMSHIPS ARE BURNED

Bolton Castle and Pacific Destroyed at Brooklyn.

Steamers Loading With War Munitions, Some for Russia.

New York, Feb. 16.—The steamships Bolton Castle and Pacific, a 500-foot pier belonging to the New York Dock company at the foot of Pioneer street, Brooklyn, were destroyed early today by the most disastrous fire on the Brooklyn water front in years.

Another steamer, the Palladia, was damaged, about twenty-five scows and lighters were partly or wholly burned and upwards of forty of the coolies from the Bolton Castle and Pacific were missing after the fire. The loss is estimated at considerably more than $1,000,000.

The origin of the fire is unknown but suspicions that it was incendiary were aroused because of the fact that some of the steamers were loading with war munitions, some of which was intended for shipment to the Russian government and to be delivered at Vladivostok.

A watchman aboard the Bolton Castle discovered that the buildings on the pier were on fire soon after 1 o'clock this morning.

Fire in Cargo. New York, Feb. 16.—Fire was discovered yesterday on the cargo on board the steamship Veendyk of the Holland-American line, as the vessel was passing out to sea. Capt. Lieuw quickly turned about and put back to the pier at Hoboken. It was said that after thirty firemen had fought the fire for more than six hours the fire raged a cargo of about $200,000 worth of oil cake, consigned to Rotterdam.

FIRE IN SUGAR IS SUSPICIOUS

Cargo of British Ship at Philadelphia Damaged $100,000.

One Man Loses Life When American Club at Toronto Burns.

Philadelphia, Feb. 16.—Investigation is being made to determine whether the fire which damaged the sugar cargo of the British steamship Dalton at a wharf here last night was of incendiary origin. The loss is placed at $100,000. The fact that the fire started in two sections of the hold is regarded as suspicious.

Officials of the steamship company point out that the fire was the sixth to occur on British steamers loaded with sugar within the last month. The Dalton was to convey the sugar to West Hartlepool, Eng., for the British government.

New York Committee Rejects Proposal After Long Debate.

Administration of Whitman to Be Approved By Convention.

New York, Feb. 16.—The committee on resolutions of the Republican state convention decided by unanimous vote today to endorse the administration of Governor Whitman, but to attach the endorsement to a separate plank dealing with state issues.

It became known while the committee on resolutions was in session that endorsement of former Senator Elihu Root for the presidency was proposed and that it became the subject of long argument.

Mr. Root's name was proposed by John A. Bleicher, and Henry L. Stimson supported Bleicher's motion in a vigorous plea in which he argued that Mr. Root was the best man for the job. The matter was the subject of debate (Continued on page 11, fourth column.)

ALLIES TO PAY LOSSES OF SALONIKI GREEKS

Paris, Feb. 16, 10:10 a. m.—The French and British ministers to Greece have given assurance to the Greek government that the allies will pay indemnities to all merchants and private individuals who suffered damage from the recent Zepelini raid on Saloniki, a Havas dispatch from Athens says. Payments are to be made after the Balkan campaign is ended.

Erzerum, the chief city of Turkish Armenia and the principal Turkish stronghold in this region, has been captured by the Russians, according to a news agency dispatch from Petrograd.

Yesterday's Russian official statement announced that one of the forts of Erzerum already had fallen before the forces of Grand Duke Nicholas, who is in chief command of the Russian campaign in the Caucasus, which has resulted in the reported capture of this important point in the Turkish defense.

Although no further progress by the Germans in their offensive in the West is announced, Berlin declares they have maintained in the face of counterattacks all the ground won recently by their drives both in Flanders and the Champagne.

Southeast of Ypres, where the British had lost several hundred yards of trenches they made determined efforts to regain the position, delivering three successive attacks. All of these were fruitless, the German bulletin claims.

In the Champagne along the road from Tahure to Somme the French also were aggressors, hammering back at the Germans in a struggle to re-

FALL RIVER FIRESWEPT

Most Disastrous Conflagration in History of the City.

Total Loss Approximately $2,000,000; Cause Unknown.

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 16.—Estimates made by owners of property and proprietors of stores in the section of the business district swept by fire early today indicated that the total loss would be approximately $2,000,000. A score of buildings, including an apartment hotel, and several of the largest retail stores in the city were destroyed and many others were badly damaged. There was no loss of life and no one was injured.

Police and firemen early in the day were unable to put forward any theory as to the probable origin of the fire. It started in the basement of the four-story brick building at the corner of South Main and Spring streets, occupied by the department store of the Steiger company. The night watchman in this store, Michael O'Rourke, said today that when he made his last round shortly before midnight he saw no fire.

Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, today presented to Secretary Lansing the latest draft of the Lusitania agreement, embodying the changes suggested by the American government and also one change suggested by Berlin. The indications were that the agreement in its present form probably would be acceptable to the United States.

Count von Bernstorff presented formally the draft of the agreement and, it is understood, was informed it could not be accepted as final until it had been submitted to President Wilson. The indications were it seemed satisfactory to Secretary Lansing. As now drawn and formally signed by the German ambassador the agreement is in reply to the last American draft.

Refers to Former Assurances. BANDITS ACTIVE IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald).—Bandits robbed and bludgeoned a pedestrian at the door of the courthouse, tried to hold up the dwellers in an apartment building and the woman keeper of a store on East Franklin avenue, took roads worth $600 in an automobile raid on a tailor shop and robbed two flat buildings last night and early today.

In one instance, the men are believed to have been the desperadoes who killed Samuel R. Beam early Monday when they held up the occupants of Mrs. H. E. Johnson's rooming house.

"DID JOHN M'ALPINE TAKE HIS OWN LIFE?"

That Is the Question District Court Jury Must Answer.

No Verdict Has Been Reached in the First Four Hours.

"Did John McAlpine commit suicide?" This question has been squarely put to a district court jury and upon the answer hinges the chance of Sarah K. McAlpine, widow, to recover on a $24,000 accident insurance policy issued by the London Guaranty & Accident company.

The jury retired about 10:30 o'clock this morning and up to 2:30 this afternoon no verdict had been reached. The charge was delivered by Judge Dancer, who presided at the trial. After the jury had retired it was recalled and the court told the jurors to disregard that part of the charge wherein it stated that the verdict was of importance to the friends of the late John McAlpine. In his charge, Judge Dancer stated that the jury's finding was of great importance to the plaintiff, and to the defendant, and to Mr. McAlpine's friends. Attorney Howard T. Abbott of counsel took exception to this part of the charge and the jury was immediately recalled and was directed to disregard the part referring to the effect of the verdict on Mr. McAlpine's friends, as they were not concerned, and was told that the statement was made through inadvertence.

Closing Argument.
Mr. Abbott made the closing argument for the defense yesterday afternoon, outlining to the jury his theory of the case. He declared that the facts pointed to suicide and he attributed the motive not only financial troubles, but also domestic troubles which arose out of the marriage of his step-son, Dale McAlpine, with Alice Spaulding. He declared that since the last trial he, personally, had not believed that Mrs. McAlpine was responsible for her husband's death. He charged her, however, with having knowledge of the fact that her husband had committed suicide and with having attempted to conceal it. He further stated that the insurance company was obliged to go to Mr. McAlpine's best friends to get at the truth of his life.

financial condition and that they were compelled to dig into private family affairs to get at the facts with reference to what happened in the house during the few hours before Mr. McAlpine's death.

Attorneys Scored.
Attorney C. O. Baldwin summed up the case on behalf of the plaintiff and in doing so bitterly arraigned the attorneys for the insurance company for having charged Mrs. McAlpine with murder in the answer which they had filed in the case and then abandoning the defense with the statement that they did not believe in this theory of the case.

Mr. Baldwin suggested that Mr. McAlpine might have been shot by a burglar, who was either in or out of the house. He declared that he might have gone down in the basement to look for burglars and stepped on a piece of coal and stumbled, shooting himself as he fell in an accidental way.

"BUTTON, BUTTON" IS CITY'S GAME

Transfer of the incinerator plant back to the safety department is not settled yet.

Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, said this morning that he will not agree to the transfer of the $572,600, which was incurred by the city department for the collection of garbage statistics, to be included in the expenditures, nor will he permit the employment of the special inspectors used by Commissioner Farrell. A report prepared by O. B. Thayer, chief of the city department, shows that a total of $212,500 was spent for the collection of statistics for garbage during the year 1915 and December.

"At this rate of expense," he said, "it is not worth the while."

NO FOOLING NOW! GET WALKS CLEAN

Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, will make another and the final move in his efforts to enforce the snow ordinance.

This time he plans to annex to the snow and ice ordinance, so that it will include more of the hillside section and the residence districts in the west end and that section beyond Sixteenth avenue east, the boundary line in the present limits of the measure.

In addition, he proposes to introduce a resolution, meeting in the council Monday, instructing the works division to remove snow and ice from all streets and sidewalks, and to assess the costs against the property benefited.

The present ordinance makes the removal of snow and ice compulsory in the downtown business district, the hillside section and the west end parts of the West end and as far east as Sixteenth avenue.

By introducing the resolution, Commissioner Silberstein hopes to give the works department full power to go ahead and remove the snow and ice from walks included in the districts specified in the ordinance. The owner of a building, its owner or the owner of vacant lots must clean snow and ice off walks, according to the ordinance, and, unless this is done, the city has the power to do the work and assess the cost against the property, as is done for street and sidewalk improvements.

About a week ago Commissioner

Silberstein sent out an official note, urging the public to clean off all walks in order to avoid paying the work department money. Very few persons have heeded this request and the safety head proposes to take the final step in enforcing the law.

HIGHWAY IS FAVORED

City Commissioners Indorse Plan for Duluth-Twin City Road.

City commissioners are in favor of the proposed highway to the Twin Cities, as outlined in The Herald last evening.

Commissioners Voss, Farrell and Silberstein all expressed themselves as being in favor of the proposition, believing that such a road could be built by the counties, with the co-operation of the state highway commission. Assistance by the St. Louis county board in paying for the cost of a two-mile stretch on the side of the city limits, extending to the Grand avenue pavement, the cost to come out of the one-half mill appropriation levied for this purpose, has also been suggested.

Spending from $100,000 to $200,000 a year on the Duluth-Twin City road in maintenance and upbuilding will never give Minnesota a real good highway," said Commissioner Silberstein. "The wisest plan would be to build a concrete highway, even though the expense is heavy, although the improvement could be extended over several years, thus saving all future costs and appropriations for the maintenance of the road."

"I would also favor a concrete road to Hibbing and the range towns."

"The idea is a splendid one," said Commissioner Voss, "but, of course, the expense must be considered. However, once the road is built, there the expense ends. It would mean much for Duluth and the towns along the highway which should be encouraged by every resident of the state."

Commissioner Farrell said that this summer his engineers would start on a survey in West Duluth for the purpose of obtaining a better hillside grade for the Twin City road in case the county should decide to spend its 1/2-mill levy for a concrete pavement on this side of the city limits.

"If we build a suit road, as it is called, it should be on the best possible grade. The Thomson road is rather steep after leaving West Duluth proper and we propose to find a more suitable grade. The idea of a concrete highway is a very good one and I am sure will appeal to the people throughout the state, especially in the Twin Cities."

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless—Advertisement.

FOLLOW UP WORK URGED

Normal Schools Should Keep in Touch With Their Graduates.

Extension Work Discussed at Meeting of State Board.

That the state normal schools should follow up the work of their graduates more closely and thus help raise the standard of the work in schools taught by normal graduate teachers, was emphasized at the recent meeting of the state normal board in St. Paul, according to Dr. Eugene W. Bohannon, president of the Duluth normal school.

Extension work, however, on a large scale was not recommended, he says. Dr. Bohannon said today that he had long advocated the following up of the normal graduates in their teaching work. Much benefit, he said, might be given the public schools of the state by the normal schools extending a hand.

Extension work was one of the chief topics discussed at the meeting of the board and the board reported from normal school presidents on this phase of work as done in several states. The educators, however, have come to the conclusion that normal extension work through the medium of study centers is best adapted to thickly settled communities with towns all about and with ready trolley service.

It cannot be entered upon extensively by the board, while all of the subjects have allowed some of the subjects to be studied by correspondence, the number of the subjects has been kept within a very limited scope.

The demand from county superintendents for advice and help in rural schools is especially strong, and it was suggested that a visiting normal school teacher could help in this line. It was also suggested that the normal schools send speakers to address farmers' club meetings.

BABIES' TRAGIC DEATH UNBALANCED MIND OF PARK POINT MOTHER

Frightened into a form of hysteria over the Mackay fire at 3620 Minnesota avenue Monday night, in which two babies were burned to death, a Park Point mother living not far from the Mackay home was taken to St. Luke's hospital last night.

"Something like that might happen to my own baby," she is said to have remarked when neighbors first told her of the blaze which snuffed out the two lives.

The incident preyed on her mind, and obsession grew until last night, when she became temporarily unbalanced.

Police made a record run to the home and took the mother to St. Luke's hospital, where she was at first thought to be in a serious condition.

Hospital attendants today reported that she was improving rapidly, however.

FIRE IN ROOM WITH POISON EXPOSURE

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Fire in a locker room in the city health department quarters in that city hall near where the samples of soup from the University club banquet and the chemicals and explosives found in Crones' room are stored as evidence in the poison plot was being investigated today as having a possible connection with the poison case.

The fire was discovered by the medical inspector in charge through the early hours of the day. The blaze was quickly extinguished, the only damage being the scorching of the woodwork in the locker room. Whether the fire was due to spontaneous combustion or other agency was inquired into.

A broken bottle retaining the odor of oil was found on the floor of the locker room.

Dr. John Dill Robertson, health commissioner, said that a complete investigation of the fire would be made.

WILL POWER PLAYS BIG PART IN LIFE

Rev. H. A. Ingham Speaks to Big Audience at Revival Meeting.

Rev. H. A. Ingham, pastor of the Endowment M. E. church, spoke on "Excuses, Not Reasons," before a large crowd at the revival meeting of seven West end churches, last night at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. Special music furnished by a joint choir under the direction of Mrs. J. J. Daniels was rendered.

Rev. Mr. Ingham said that it is the will that plays the most important part in the life of the soul. "Delay, neglect, procrastination, these are the robbers on the great highway of life," he said. "You may offer your excuses to these robbers, or you may, but will you try to form one that you would be willing to risk in the great day of judgment. There is one excuse we cannot offer on that day and that is that God has not given ample warning."

WHY THE INDIAN LID DOES NOT TO DULUTH IS EXPLAINED IN DETAIL

Order of President Taft on Feb. 16, 1911, Revoked Clause of Indian Treaty of 1854 Covering Sale of Liquor.

Despite repeated explanations to the contrary, the impression still prevails in many quarters that if the treaty of 1854 with the Chippewa Indians is enforced, saloons in the northeastern corner of Minnesota, including Duluth, will have to close; and the latest statement to that effect comes from no less a source than that of the United States, well, first president of the University of Minnesota.

That Dr. Folwell has overlooked the fact that part of the treaty covering this portion of the state was revoked by President Taft's executive order, is well known to the residents of Duluth, who have been interested in the matter.

Dr. Folwell's statement comes in a week that he is writing, "A Critical History of Minnesota," and concerning it he said:

Territory Covered.
"The Chippewa treaty of 1854, covering that territory north of Lake Superior and east of the Vermilion and St. Louis rivers, contained a clause excluding the introduction of liquor until that clause should be revoked by the president. In 1855, six months later, a treaty covering much of northern Minnesota from these rivers westward to the Red river contained the same clause, except that it was to remain in effect until revoked by congress."

It is possible that the president at some time or other revoked the clause in regard to the northeast angle, but I have found nothing of such an order here and to get information for my book I wrote last week to the commissioner of Indian Affairs. I have had no answer yet."

Yesterday, W. G. Calderwood, the prohibitionist leader, sent Dr. Folwell right in answer to a query. Mr. Calderwood said:

"Duluth is within the limits of the 1854 treaty, but the anti-liquor provision of that treaty was revoked by the president. With three other treaties of the same character it was modified by presidential order in 1911."

A leading Duluthian, who keeps posted on such matters, has made a request made by the city of Duluth, to give the details of the matter, has furnished the following concerning the liquor situation in the local territory, but with the false idea concerning the application of the treaty to portions of Michigan and Wisconsin:

Laboring Under Mistake.
"For some time past, communications have appeared in the press, and the press throughout the Northwest has had articles to the effect that within the territory in which Duluth lies, in northeastern Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, no intoxicating liquors could be sold or introduced on account of the provisions contained in the treaty made with the Indians in 1854. The press, as well as the various parties, have been laboring under a serious mistake."

"On Sept. 30, 1854, the Chippewa of Lake Superior ceded to the United States all lands theretofore owned by them in common with the Chippewa of the Mississippi lying east of the following boundary line: From a point where the power vested in the Snake river crosses the south boundary line of the Chippewa, thence running up the said branch to its source, thence north in a straight line to the mouth of the St. Louis river, thence up the St. Louis river, thence up the East Swan river, thence up the source, thence in a straight line to the most westerly bend in the Vermilion river, thence down the Vermilion river to its mouth."

"The territory so ceded was all of that lying east of the above boundary line, from Floodwood to the Sauk River, thence up the Sauk river to the mouth of the Vermilion river, thence up the Vermilion river to the mouth of the St. Louis river, thence up the St. Louis river to the mouth of the East Swan river, thence up the source, thence in a straight line to the most westerly bend in the Vermilion river, thence down the Vermilion river to its mouth."

"Liquor Provision in Treaty."
"Article 7 of the above cession shall be made, sold or used on any of the lands herein set apart for the residence of the Indians, and the sale of the same shall be prohibited in the territory hereby ceded, until otherwise ordered by the president."

"On Feb. 16, 1911, President Taft issued the following executive order: 'By virtue of the power vested in me by the provisions of article 7 of the treaty of Sept. 30, 1854, I do hereby revoke the provisions of article 7 of said treaty which prohibited the sale of liquor on the lands herein set apart for the residence of the Indians, and the sale of the same shall be prohibited in the territory hereby ceded, until otherwise ordered by the president.'"

IS SENTENCED FOR FORGERY

Monette, After Dodging Justice Six Years, Is Sent to Prison.

Arthur B. Monette, fugitive from justice for the last six and one-half years, who was recently apprehended by the police, today pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with forgery, committed in 1909, and was sentenced by District Judge Dancer to a term of not more than ten years in the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

Six years ago, two indictments were returned against Monette. One charged that on Oct. 9, 1909, he passed a forged check for $18.45 on Frank E. Blodgett and the other accused him of having defrauded the Kelley Hardware company out of $18.45 by the same method and on the same day. After Monette had entered a plea of guilty to the former charge, the second indictment against him was dismissed on motion of Mason M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney.

Homeless-Knows His Undoing. Monette escaped arrest at the time of his previous trial and went to Canada. Recently he was overcome with a desire to visit Duluth and, believing that he would not be recognized, he returned. He walked eighty-four miles through the Pigeon river country to reach the city.

Monette told the court that he was a heavy drinker at the time he committed the forgeries, but that during the last few years he had abstained. The court recommended that, after having served the minimum sentence, he be given consideration at the hands of the parole board.

PETITION COMPLETE

Enough Legal Signatures Are Secured for Armory Referendum.

The armory referendum petition now has sufficient number of signatures. This announcement was made unofficially shortly before noon today by City Clerk Bergen after he and several assistants had checked the 625 additional names filed yesterday afternoon by State Senator Jones, one of the leaders in the fight against the sale of the old armory to the Shriners.

"There are very few illegal names on this additional petition," said Clerk Bergen, "and I am positive that the measure is now valid with more than 1,322 names, the number required under the provisions of the charter. I will make an official report to the council this afternoon or tomorrow."

After the city clerk's report is made, the petition will go before the city commissioners, but it is expected that no action will be taken on the measure until Judge Dancer hands down his decision in the case to establish the locality of the first petition filed by Senator Jones on Feb. 4. Should he decide in favor of John Jensvold, Jr., who brought the action in behalf of the Shriners, then the building will be transferred to the fraternity. On the other hand, if the court rules that the referendum petition can hold over for ten days for additional signatures, then the council will take official action on the clerk's report and either repeal the original ordinance authorizing the sale of the armory or call a special election this winter.

Out of the original referendum petition, the clerk has certified to 940 legal signatures and this morning the check showed about 475 names out of the 525 added yesterday will be found valid. This will bring the total to above 1,400, while the charter's requirements place the number required at 1,322, or 10 per cent of the total vote cast at the election last April, when the total poll was 13,225.

BRITISH MAKE FIERCE ATTACK

Attempt Three Times to Recover Trenches Lost to Germans.

Berlin, Feb. 16, via London, 3:15 p. m.—Three attacks by the British in efforts to recover the trenches southeast of Ypres, in Belgium, which they lost to the Germans, are announced today by army headquarters. All the attacks are declared to have been fruitless, as were those of the French in attempts to regain ground lost northwest of Tathure in the Champagne.

French Statement. Paris, Feb. 16, via London, 3:45 p. m.—The following statement was given out at the war office this afternoon: "There were no important events last night. In the Champagne we recaptured, by means of attacks with hand grenades, certain trench sections to the east of the road from Tathure to Somme-Py."

Switch Offensive. London, Feb. 16.—Switching their offensive from the Aisne and Champagne regions in France, to the Belgian sector around Ypres, held by the British, the Germans have smashed their way by artillery bombardment and infantry attack into a British front line trench over a distance of between 600 and 800 yards. Berlin gives the distance as 800 yards and the British official communication in admitting the gain, asserts that it was on a front of 600 yards.

Berlin says that a majority of the defenders of the trench were killed, and that an officer and several dozen soldiers were taken prisoner. In the Aisne region between Lens and Bethune, the crater of a mine blown up by the Germans was occupied by them, while the French guns have been shelling German organizations in the neighborhood of the road to Lille.

The French also bombarded German positions north of Vich-Sur-Aisne and to the northeast of Soissons, and the Argonne exploded a mine and occupied the crater.

In Champagne, Berlin asserts French infantry attempts to regain lost positions north of Tathure were repulsed as likewise were similar attacks in the Vosges near Ober-Sept.

ROSEAU COUNTY PORKER CONTEST Roseau, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Farmers' & Merchants' the First National and Citizens' State banks of Roseau have purchased thirty registered gilts for boys' pig-growing contest.

These animals consist of select gilts of the Duroc Jersey, Yorkshire and possibly Berkshire breeds. A unique plan will be followed in carrying out the arrangement. Each boy will be required to feed under the direction of the local agriculturist, Mr. Williamson, and make monthly reports, which will be posted in the bank of the original donor. The gilts, together with their litter and a written report of full cost of production will be exhibited at the Roseau county fair where liberal prizes will be contended for. The pigs will then be sold at public auction for breeding purposes and the original donor reimbursed without interest. Each boy entering in the first year's contest is required to start another boy the next year, on exactly the same terms. No winner of previous contests may enter in competition with new members. This makes a continuous chain performance that promises to make the movement for better stock in this community permanent.

Another, at $26.75, is a fine Gabardine in the new blue; the coat box-pleated in front and back, and patch pocketed, with a full gathered skirt and the smart "square" effect which is one of the newest tendencies. WHO'LL HELP?

To the Editor of The Herald: I wonder if some reader of this paper has or knows some one who has an organ they are about to discard? In the house with us live a Norwegian family, whose father is dead and whose "head winners" are all under 20 years old. There are five children and mother and all are real music lovers, and are all more or less gifted. Buying an instrument is out of the question, as it is hard to manage the real necessities. I think there is hardly a day that I don't hear the mother and children singing their sacred songs, and every few days they are here playing on the battered, toneless old reed. I keep an aching heart. Think how much pleasure and enjoyment such people would get out of an organ that, perhaps, is only in your way. I would pay drainage myself for every joy of seeing their shining faces. Hoping some one will take this chance to do a deed that would be worth while, I am,

Duluth, Feb. 15, "INTERESTED."

WHAT SHOULD A MAN DO WITH HIS LITTLE SAVINGS?

To the Editor of The Herald: In an article entitled "How Money Grows," page 2 of the 24th ult., I would add a little more illumination. I mine will be "How Property Grows." I assume a six-year-old boy, that a young man saved up $500 the first year, and made a partial payment on a quarter of good black prairie at $10 an acre. In three years he would have that paid for, as the rental would meet the interest.

I allow him one year to take breath, to go out and dig stone and get acquainted with his land and see if it is properly plowed, and see if he likes farming. After the next year of saving, he not only has a quarter of land, but $500 of rent. Now he can buy another quarter at $20 an acre and make an annual payment of $1,000. In three years he has that paid for and another chance to rest, etc. Also build a house, etc. Now he only needs to save two years more and he has $1,000 savings and $500 of rent, which he can buy more land, stock and machinery, and become a lordly farmer with a revenue of $4 or $10 an acre, which on a basis of 10 per cent makes his land worth $20 or $100 an acre. But at $50 an acre his land will sell for $2,500. This statement is extreme only as to the initial price and the man's savings.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

The Medulla Oblongata
Call it just the medulla and never mind its shape. It is the upper enlarged part of the spinal cord, the bulb, about an inch long, and lies upon the base of the skull just within the opening where the spinal cord enters.
In the medulla are the nerve centers which control the most vital functions—the centers of respiration, swallowing, breathing, the vasomotor center, centers governing heart action, the sneezing center, the coughing center, the center governing the act of vomiting and others.

In vivisection it is a common practice to slip a slender probe-like instrument into the medulla and break the soft substance up. This kills the animal instantly and painlessly—without more pain than would be caused by a hypodermic needle.
In this little medulla of man, a structure only an inch long, are contained all the essential parts of the brain; the spinal cord is essential for carrying impulses to and from the brain and the limbs, but life itself requires only an intact medulla. The breathing center has been supposed to be the vital point. When it is destroyed the animal feels no desire to breathe. But it is incorrect to say that death occurs simultaneously with the cessation of breathing. Any normal person can hold his breath forty seconds, and by first breathing just a trifle more deeply for two minutes he can easily hold his breath for two minutes.

Dr. Brady will answer all queries pertaining to health. If your question is of general interest it will be answered through this column; if not it will be answered personally if stamped, addressed envelope is received. Dr. Brady will not prescribe for individuals cases or make diagnosis. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper. Protected by the Adams Newspaper Service.

Smallers would work out proportionately. And sixteen years ago I could have bought all the land I wanted at $5 an acre.
To illustrate further: I know a little Swede who came to America seven or eight years ago and worked some years for a rich neighbor; now he has nine heavy young horses, two colts, a complete set of farm machinery, and he only got half the crop for three years, as the landlord got the other half. This shows the profitable it is to own a farm that is immediately available for a crop, like a prairie, so as to pay some dividend by doing money at 6 per cent interest when the annual average purchasing power of their money is 8 per cent. These conditions correlate with an increasing quantity of gold coming from the mine.

I quote from the same authority: "The production of gold in the Transvaal for November was increased by $1,381,000 over the preceding month," and another recently noted that the United States output had increased to a cold $100,000,000 for the past year. The question is whether the small owner keeps his money at a paltry rental in the bank or turns it into a dividend-paying farming land, even if it is only a partial payment. To use the expression of a lawyer, "When good times come, a man cannot run in debt too quick." The little piece of prairie for $20 an acre is $40 an acre. His interest is only $3.20 an acre; if his net revenue is only $5 an acre, he is making $1.80 an acre on a small piece of land. This is easy money, all right, and $5 an acre is not half what my neighbor got last year for his share of the crop.

Some men seem to think that the piece of farm land is only a boom or inflated or imaginary value. No more so than the value of land in the prairie is based solely on the rental it pays. Add to this that the land will go broke, burn up or run away, and you have an explanation why the land owners of Iowa and Nebraska are willing to accept 4 per cent on their money. It may be said that small children of money cannot swing a $5,000 or $10,000 deal; but they can easily pool their money, either in the hands of a trustee or else by taking an undivided share in the deed. I suppose a word to the wise is sufficient.

POTATOES IN THIS COUNTY.
A FARMER.
Superior, Wis., Feb. 14, 1916.

To the Editor of The Herald: Some days ago it was stated in The Herald that there were 500,000 bushels of potatoes in St. Louis county at this time to be sold and that Hostetter and Larson were going to make an effort to get cash buyers for them. It sounded fishy to me, and I asked Mr. Hostetter if it was true that he had said said even 50,000 bushels, and he said that such a statement should be credited to him. Such gross misstatements do not boost the county at all, especially when outsiders find out that we have a few bushels to sell at this time and are running up against such unwarranted statements. The consumers in the city are not profiting by it, for the extra gain goes into the pockets of the dealer. Farmer, no matter how good his stuff is, will have to sell from 10 to 25 cents per bushel below the average price, and dealers expect to make more per bushel than potatoes sold for last fall.

Muncie, Minn., Feb. 13, 1916.
(The writer of the above evidently misread the statement referred to, which was that a market for 600,000 bushels of potatoes from this county is being sought.—The Editor.)

POEMS ASKED FOR.
Requests have been received for the following:
"The Shadow of the Swords," first published in 1871, from George M. Brown of Brooklyn, Minn.
"Cast Aside," "There'll Come a Time, Some Day," "Ten Nights in a Barroom," "The Wreck of the Hesperus," from Roberta Ritchie of Thomaston, Mich. (If the poem "The Face on the Barron Floor" is meant, it was published in this column on Dec. 2 last. "The Wreck of the Hesperus" can be found in any collection of Longfellow's poems. It is too long and too easy obtained to admit of its publication here.

Daisies Won't Tell.
There's a sweet old story you have heard before.
Here among the daisies let me tell for a rich neighbor, now he has nine heavy young horses, two colts, a complete set of farm machinery, and he only got half the crop for three years, as the landlord got the other half. This shows the profitable it is to own a farm that is immediately available for a crop, like a prairie, so as to pay some dividend by doing money at 6 per cent interest when the annual average purchasing power of their money is 8 per cent. These conditions correlate with an increasing quantity of gold coming from the mine.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Thinning the Blood.
I am informed that one part cream of tartar and three parts of water dissolved in twenty parts of water, teaspoonful on rising and at bedtime in a little cold water, is good to thin the blood.
Answer—It would tend rather to make the blood more concentrated. It would tend to lower blood pressure, which, we fancy, is what people mostly need when they think they have too much blood.

Pain and Cancer.
Is pain the first symptom of internal cancer?
Answer—Not always. Cancer may be far advanced before pain is noticed, which, we fancy, is what people mostly need when they think they have too much blood.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS.
Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.
Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.
Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.
At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of the impurities.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

FINDING A SENSIBLE CIGARETTE IS JUST PLAIN, COMMON SENSE

All you have to do is to look for three points. Take any cigarette you know. Then ask yourself—
Is its taste just what you like best?
Is it comfortable to your throat and tongue—free from bite or hotness?

Will it allow you to smoke as often as you'd like to smoke without any mean after-feeling?
Fatimas aren't the only cigarettes that answer "yes" on all of these points. There are other sensible cigarettes. But facts seem to indicate that Fatimas are the sensible cigarette for most men. Because they now outsell every other cigarette in the world costing over 5c.

Doesn't it seem reasonable that you, too, will like Fatima best? Try them—TODAY.

"TELEAUTOGRAPH" SYSTEM IS INSTALLED PROVIDES FOR SILENT COMMUNICATIONS

AT DULUTH BANK
The First National bank of Duluth is just now installing a "teletograph" system between its departments, which permits communication between the tellers' cages and the bookkeeping and accounting department in the rear of the building on a silent plan and without the "give away" noise of the telephone.

The teletograph machine duplicates at almost any distance, a message or signature written on it. In the bank—and banks all over the country are using them—in case a man presents a check to one of the tellers and the teller feels doubtful as to the extent of the account on which the check is drawn, he can simply write on the copper plate of his teletograph "What is Mr. Blank's balance?" and the message is duplicated, even to the characters of the handwriting, in the accounting department half a block away. The teller can then ask about it looked up, the answer is transmitted in the same way, and the customer waiting at the window is unaware that any inquiry has been made.

The steady and emotionless business of banking does not crush a sense of humor out of those engaged in it. It was shown this morning when the new machine was being demonstrated. One of the tellers, who had the affair worked, told a teller: "Ask how my balance stands; I'm not afraid of showing it."

The teller wrote, and instantly came back the answer: "Overdrawn."

It is claimed that the teletograph is being reduced to instruction and report work in connection with the big coast-guard guns, where telephones are shaken out of commission and communications and general battery-wrecking happenings. The teletograph does the business and with less chance of error, it is claimed.

MILWAUKEE GERMANS FAVOR PREPAREDNESS

Chicago, Feb. 16.—"Contrary to warnings, Germans in Milwaukee were found to be in favor of preparedness, almost to a man," declared William B. Brewster, here to persuade Mayor Thompson to join the conference of mayors on preparedness at St. Louis, March 3-4.

"I was told I would meet my Water-loo in Milwaukee in organizing this movement," said Mr. Brewster, "but instead I found almost every citizen of German birth there indorsing preparedness."

"The churches are generally against preparedness," said Mr. Brewster, "but they are touting the country in the interest of the St. Louis meeting. Farmers also, as a class, do not take kindly to the idea. On the whole I find that the people are asleep. Municipal officials are the most awake. Out of seventy mayors with whom I have talked, only three were against preparedness. Only three governors out of twenty-five were against it."

NEW SPRING GOODS ARRIVING DAILY.

NEW INDUSTRIAL LIFE AT MORGAN PARK

SAYS MCCARTHY

AN EASTERN MAGAZINE BOOSTS DULUTH

It is getting so that nearly all magazines devoted to community development, and some others of a more general nature, are giving Duluth much space of late. The latest to advertise this city in the way of a special article is the American City of New York. In fact this is the second or third time that this magazine has done so. In the current issue, Duluth gets boosted in two departments. One is an article by George D. McCarthy, assistant secretary of the Duluth Commercial club, on "Morgan Park—A New Type of Industrial Community," and the other is simply a picture illustrating another article, showing Duluth sewer building by the unemployed in winter. In the larger article numerous illustrations are given, well illustrating Duluth's industrial settlement. Mr. McCarthy also announces in this article something new as to "Morgan Park," which will be an athletic field, and says: "This ground reserved for the purpose forms a natural amphitheater and will be suitable not only for sports and contests, but for festivals and pageants."

This athletic ground will be on the west side of Morgan Park as now laid out, and is in a hollow section of ground, with gradually sloping sides and having a large area of flat ground or such that would be easy to level off. Mr. McCarthy also speaks of the plans the steel company has for industrial housing in the future. This will be done to the tract back of the present community, where the company will erect concrete houses and apartments which may be rented more cheaply than the type of house already up.

RESERVES OF IRON ORE ENORMOUS

No Conservation Necessary to Prevent Exhaustion, Says Speaker.

New York, Feb. 16.—No conservation of iron ore is necessary to prevent exhaustion of natural resources according to O. K. Leith of Madison, Wis., who addressed the annual meeting of the American Institute of Mining Engineers here yesterday. He declared the reserves of iron ore in North and South America are so enormously in excess of the requirements of the present generation, that there is no likelihood of a shortage for centuries to come.

"In the conservation propaganda which has been so vigorously waged in recent years in the United States," he said, "the emphasis has been entirely on the welfare of posterity, implying sacrifice to the present generation, without raising the question whether this sacrifice is in all cases warranted, and without attempt to balance the welfare of the present and the future."

"For the government or other public bodies to formulate rules for conservation, which require sacrifice of the individual to distant generations, would necessitate a considerable exercise of public power backed by strong public sentiment, which does not seem to be needed in the case of iron ores because of the enormous quantities available, which make it reasonably certain that posterity will not lack an adequate supply."

HERALD'S "VICE AND VIRTUE" ESSAY CONTEST IS CLOSED

Prize Winners Will Be Announced Within Few Days.

Lakeside Man Submits Elaborate Chart of Woman's Characteristics.

The women appear to be getting the best of it in the Vices and Virtues contest conducted by The Herald, according to the letters opened today. Yesterday was the last day for receiving letters and only those received before the expiration of the allotted time will be considered. The prize winners will be announced as soon as the judges have time to consider all the letters, meanwhile the letters will be published.

Only one letter took up the fight in behalf of the men. In this epistle lying was taken as woman's worst fault, with gossiping and vanity running next.

Truman G. Brooke of Lakeside submitted the accompanying drawing during the contest. It shows a most careful study and excellent craftsmanship in the execution of the idea.

Men were treated with considerable harshness and their lack of faith, especially in religion, was considered one of their cardinal vices. The use of liquor, tobacco and other bad habits were severely criticized. Some of the letters follow:

Lewis A. Kirkpatrick, Bismarck, N. D.:
"A woman's vices—
"1. I consider a woman who habitually lies as possessing the worst vice of all.
"2. I would name the gossiping woman because she is a nuisance and a trouble-bearer wherever she goes.
"3. The woman who possesses vanity.
"4. A deceitful woman is to be avoided by all.
"5. The extravagant woman possesses a vice which causes much unnecessary trouble and wrangling.
"6. The selfish woman is false to her sex.
"7. The woman possessing malice-makes no lasting friends.
"8. A woman who is spiteful is a disgrace to herself.
"9. An immoral woman is rather to be pitied than censured.
"10. There is absolutely no excuse for the careless woman and she is the one whom it is hardest to put up with.
"A woman's virtues—
"1. A chaste woman is to be honored above all others.
"2. We find the society of a wise woman is profitable.
"3. A loving woman is a joy and comfort to all with whom she comes in contact.
"4. One enjoys the company of an amiable woman.
"5. A faithful woman is appreciated by her friends and respected by her enemies.
"6. A kind woman is a blessing to her associates.
"7. A considerate woman is an inspiration to her companions.
"8. A gentle woman is a rebuke to her less careful sisters.
"9. A modest woman is like an oasis in a dry and dusty desert.
"10. The righteous woman will possess all these virtues and many more. In fact this virtue is the most necessary of all."

is, Minn.:
"The ten worst faults a man can have are:
"1. Infidelity.
"2. Unfaithfulness.
"3. Jealousy.
"4. Chewing tobacco or snuff.
"5. Lack of respect for old age.
"6. Making disrespectful remarks about women.
"7. Selfishness.
"8. Cruelty.
"9. Penitence.
"10. The ten finest virtues a man can have are:
"1. Honesty.
"2. Honor.
"3. Love of children.
"4. Respect for his elders.
"5. Neatness.
"6. Love of his home.
"7. Morality.
"8. Attending church.
"9. Love of duty.
"10. Respect for women."

Apply to Women Also.
Mrs. Ed. A. T. H., 222 South Seventh street, Duluth:
"I have been reading vices and virtues of men and women. I think women are too quick to judge and do not see their own faults. Let him who is guiltless, cast the first stone."
"To my way of thinking the ten commandments of the Holy Bible are man's virtues and if not lived up to are his vices, but this applies to women as well as men."

Men Lack Faith.
Ruth Drew, Duluth:
"In my opinion the ten worst faults in a man are:
"1—Lack of faith.
"2—Lying.
"3—Cowardice.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

"6. Dishonesty especially in dealing with those who have no influence, little money and few friends.
"7. Miserliness, refusing to help the poor, turning a deaf ear to their cries.
"8. Shirkng his duty to his country. Treachery to his country's government.
"9. Intemperance.

BIG EXPORTS OF CONDENSED MILK

Amount Sent to Europe in 1915 Valued at $6,000,000.

Washington, Feb. 16.—American condensed milk is enjoying a vogue in Europe that it never knew in peaceful times. The exports from this country in 1915 amounted to 76,600,000 pounds valued at $6,000,000, according to figures furnished by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, and the bulk of these exports went to Europe. In normal times the value of condensed milk sold abroad varies between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000, and ordinarily the best customers are Cuba, Panama, China and Mexico.

The increased exports of condensed milk to Europe are easy to explain, under the circumstances, but there has been an increase in imports from European countries that is puzzling. Italy's recent participation in the American trade has caused some comment on the fact that Holland and Switzerland sold much larger quantities of milk in the United States in 1915 than ever before. It is considered more remarkable for these two countries have access to practically all markets in Europe. The total imports in 1915 were valued at practically $2,000,000, or one-third of the exports, and although Canada furnished more than half, Holland did a business approximating $400,000, as against less than $300,000 the year previous. Switzerland now is selling to us at a rate of $200,000 a year, where formerly practically no milk came from that country.

HAS FAITH IN HUSBAND

Mrs. Walter Smith Says He Is Innocent of Deliberate Crime.

Wants to Tell Jury of Indicted State Treasurer's Life.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jager, says, to tell judge, jury and public of "the true man as he really is." Mrs. Walter J. Smith, wife of the indicted former state treasurer of Minnesota, yesterday declared that if permitted she would gladly take the witness stand in his defense.

It was the first time Mrs. Smith had allowed an interview since the disclosure of irregularities in the state treasurer's office that led to her husband's indictment.

Pride showed in her eyes as she told of her husband's career—how he had worked his way through school, had been mayor of the iron range town in which he lived and finally had risen to the office of state treasurer.

Pride gave way to threatened tears when the story reached its climax—the storm of trouble that has descended upon the family in the last week.

It was eighteen years ago, when she was just out of a convent school, that she first met Smith. He was a hard-working, ambitious youth who had left an orphan when 11 years old and had worked his way through the high school and later through a business college.

Mrs. Smith was then Lillian McManis, daughter of N. McManis, a former representative in the state legislature. When Smith sought her hand in marriage, she accepted him.

Became Mayor of Eveleth. They had made their home in Eveleth on the iron range. Hard work and ambition combined to make Smith mayor of the town. Everybody liked him. Everybody, his wife most of all, was proud of him. Six years ago he was elected state treasurer.

The wife's pride and adoration increased. She thought she had found about the best husband in the state of Minnesota. She still thinks so, she insisted yesterday, despite the storm of trouble that broke last week out of a seemingly clear sky.

Faith Is Unshaken. "I am stunned," said the wife in the last of her interview, "but my faith in Walter is unshaken."

"If I had these dreadful charges against him in any way I know that Walter did the things unconsciously—that he is as innocent of deliberate wrongdoing as a more child."

If public opinion should turn against him, the court falls to see that he is innocent of deliberate crime. "I will tell the court and the people of the state of the true man myself," she declared.

Trusts With Attorney. Mrs. Smith, a tall, handsome, Auburn-haired woman, turned to stroke the hand of her 15-year-old daughter, Marcella, who prays daily for her father's acquittal. The wife is in constant touch with her husband's legal advisers and thinks of nothing save the case.

There is no need to ask her whether she is going to stand by her husband.

"The intoxicating success of the self-made man," Mrs. Smith calls it, "was responsible for any unconscious mistake her husband may have taken, she said."

Asks Public to Be Fair. "Can't the people see," she demanded, "that my husband did not have risen to the public trust and confidence as he did if he had not honest and fairly in business?"

P. I. Harrison, formerly of Dallas, Tex., a mining broker with offices in Toronto, was found suffocated just inside a window on the third floor. Edward Johnston, night watchman of the Mechanics bank, next door to the American club, was dangerously injured when he was struck by a falling beam which fell into the street. Capt. The Lenox hotel, diagonally across the street from the Steiger store, was one of the first buildings to suffer. The guests were hastily roused and made their way out by fire escapes and doors in the rear. The front of the hotel was then in flames.

Throughout the progress of the fire, drug stores, restaurants, and churches were thrown open for the relief of firemen and police and people driven from their homes. The guests at the Lenox hotel were given shelter in private residences.

The fire was the most disastrous in the history of the city. The majority of the structures burned were constructed of brick, three or four stories in height.

A heaviest individual loss was suffered by the Steiger company. Members of the firm estimated it at $500,000 on building and stock.

ALPHA COUNCIL.

MODERN SAMARITANS

TAKE NOTICE This is the night of the "Alpha Council" at the Grand Opera House. The program is as follows:

MACHINERY AT CEMENT PLANT IS TESTED; WILL OPERATE NEXT MONDAY

terial has passed through a crushing process.

Officials of the plant feel confident that by Monday the first process of the cement making, that of the manufacture of the first clinkers, will be in place.

With the exception of a few minor details everything is in readiness to start.

For a short time only one of the four monster kilns will be operated. The others will be put in readiness as soon as possible in order to bring the plant to a full capacity basis.

The raw material will be received directly from the Duluth steel plant. It is from the plant that all of the slag will be used.

It will require an average of about 575 tons of slag daily to keep the plant in full operation. It will also be necessary to use about 800 tons of limestone and one of the main purposes of the plant is to produce cement.

When the plant is on a full capacity basis the material will be brought directly to the plant by the monster storage bins. Separate bins have been provided for each material. The stuff being dumped into the bins from hopper cars.

Coal Is Crushed. The coal will be put through a crushing process which will reduce the size to not over 1½ inches. The coal is then placed into the dryers where it is put through a heating process.

These dryers are the first of a series of fifty feet long. From these the coal is removed and pulverized and the dust which by this time has been removed is highly combustible is used for the drying process.

WOMEN'S STOMACH TROUBLES

The Great Woman's Medicine Often Just What Is Needed.

We are so used to thinking of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy exclusively for female ills that we are apt to overlook the fact that it is one of the best remedies for disorders of the stomach.

For stomach trouble of women it is especially adapted, as it works in complete harmony with the female organism, since it contains the extracts of the best tonic roots and herbs. It tones up the digestive system, and increases the appetite and strength. Here is what one woman writes showing what this medicine does:

Newfield, N. Y.—"I am so pleased to say I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as an economical and beneficial remedy in most ailments pertaining to women. At least I found it so by only taking two bottles. I had indigestion in a bad form and I am now feeling in the best of health and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. BURN WILLIAMS, R.D. No. 29, Newfield, N. Y.

Many women suffer from that "all gone feeling," and "feel so faint," while doing their work. Ten chances to one their digestive system is all out of order. A tablespoonful of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after each meal should completely remedy this condition in a few days.

the drying process for the limestone and the stone and slag dryers are similar to the coal dryers with the exception of being slightly larger in diameter, being 6½ by 50. After the drying process the material goes through a mixer and is properly mixed and crushed and in time passes through to the final process of burning in the kilns.

These kilns are said to be the largest in the country, being 150 feet long and 10 feet in diameter. There are four of the latter, one of which is now ready to operate.

The company is now in position to receive all the power it requires from the Great Northern Power company. The company's own transformer station from where it will distribute the power as received from the power company was completed a short time ago.

The building in which this is located is equipped with large transformer and will redistribute the power as needed throughout the plant.

Everything on the plant will be moved with electrical power. The fifty motors in all will be used of which fifteen are of 250 horse power.

Each of the four kilns has its own individual motor for its operation.

Orders for cement are said to be piling in rapidly at the local plant and are said to be on hand to place the company's product for some time in the future. All orders for a full capacity basis about $25 men will find employment at the place.

The officials who will be in charge of the operating end of the plant, and who have been in direct charge of the building of the concern are: Ray S. Huey, general superintendent; Fred Robinson, assistant superintendent; O. Potter, master mechanic; H. M. Eiler, chief electrician; Elliott J. Aman, auditor; C. E. Carlson, superintendent of the construction end of the plant, and Frank Lemphre, chief engineer.

GERMANY'S REPLY

warfare around the British Isles was a reprisal for what is characterized as the "inhuman" blockade of Great Britain to starve the Central powers, and then promises indemnity for Americans lost on the Lusitania and other ships.

It goes on to say that the German government is "defining liability" for their loss, makes the proposals contained in the draft submitted today and then asks an additional question of reprisals against others than enemy subjects.

The change which the Berlin foreign office has made in the wording of the latter proposal has not been publicly discussed, but from the alterations which follow from the alterations, it was a general impression that the changes of the German government were slight.

All Changes But One Accepted. The German government has accepted all of the changes suggested by the American government except one, which is the demand for the return of the United States. While the nature of the exception was not disclosed, it was believed that it concerned the question of the conduct of reprisals had been modified. It was not regarded as material in the German circle.

Germany is understood to have agreed to the suggestion of the United States that the substitute the word "recognizes liability" for the word "assumes liability" in the tentative draft of the communication to settle the Lusitania case.

One of the bondsmen admitted that Mr. Power had placed himself in the case, but that he had no knowledge of the communication to settle the Lusitania case.

Mr. Smith's personal effects in the state treasurer's office have been turned over to him.

Public Examiner Fritz, who is still taking up the affairs of the state treasurer's office, said that nothing would be given out until the examination was completed.

WAGE INCREASE OF STEEL CORPORATION IS IN EFFECT

Fifteen Thousand Employees in This District Are Benefited.

Increase on Two Roads Alone Is $158,000 a Year.

Length of Service and Efficiency Taken as Basis.

Approximately 15,000 employees of the United States Steel corporation employed in Duluth and on the ranges benefit by the advance in the wage scale of the corporation, put into effect on the first of this month.

Announcements of details, as far as the corporation officials can make them public, given out this morning show that number to constitute the persons benefited. The announcements were made by W. A. McGonagle, president.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THIS HABIT AS WELL AS MEN

Don't Eat Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Glass of Hot Water.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin, a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions instead of the multitude of "nervous wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid yellow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation.

We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb poisons to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.—Advertisement.

dent of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, Howard Johnson, auditor of the Duluth & Iron Range road, in the absence of President F. E. House, and J. H. McLean, general manager of the Oliver Iron Mining company.

By companies, the numbers that will come in under the wage scale increase are: Oliver Iron Mining company, 12,000; Duluth, Missabe & Northern road, 1,400 to 1,500; and Duluth & Iron Range, 1,400 to 1,500.

The two railroads, constituent companies of the Steel corporation, will make wage increases, which will amount to, in round numbers, $158,000 a year. The Oliver Iron Mining company's increase comes in such a way that it is impossible for Mr. McLean to make an estimate of the amount involved at this time, but it is known to be very large.

Considering that the increase of wages of the 3,000 railroad men under different circumstances than that of the 12,000 employees of the mining division of the Steel corporation will mean an immense total sum.

Increase in General.

The wage increase was determined on by the chief officers of the corporation shortly before the first of the year, and Chairman E. H. Gary announced that it would go into effect in all the divisions of the corporation on Feb. 1, and much interest has been felt in this part of the country, where some of the chief subsidiaries of the big corporation are in operation.

In all instances of increase, here and elsewhere, the company's heads, in making the increase, have taken into consideration the length of service and efficiency of employees.

General Manager Gary, who announced some weeks ago that that company would put into effect on Feb. 1, said today that he is unable to tell what the increase will be.

"It will affect about 12,000 employees," said he, "but as we employ men under different circumstances than the railroads do, it is hard to estimate in advance how much the increase will be. However, it will be substantially large, I can say that."

Statements of Roads. President McGonagle of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road and Auditor Johnson of the Duluth & Iron Range road issued formal statements on the matter. The following is that of President McGonagle:

"The Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company has arranged to adjust the compensation paid to many of its employees to conform with wages paid by other companies who have already increased wages or are about to do so.

"The wage adjustment is effective Feb. 1, 1916, and affects approximately 1,400 men and calls for an increased compensation of approximately $80,000 per annum.

"Due regard has been given to time of service of each employee, and efficiency has been a prime factor in making the adjustment of wages."

Mr. Johnson's statement follows: "The Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company has arranged to adjust the wages paid to many of its employees to conform with wage adjustments made or to be made by other companies."

"This adjustment is effective Feb. 1, 1916, and affects approximately 1,400 and 1,500 employees, and represents an increased yearly wage compensation of approximately $75,000.

"In arriving at the increased schedule of wages paid, careful consideration has been given to the length of service and efficiency of the employee."

YANKEES BUY FRANK BAKER

Home-Run Hitter Sold by Connie Mack After Year's Retirement.

New York, Feb. 16.—John Franklin Baker, former star third baseman of the Philadelphia American league baseball team, has been bought by the New York Yankees, according to announcement made by Manager William E. Donovan of the Yankees. The price was not made public.

Baker signed a three-year contract. The negotiations were ended at a conference between Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics and Capt. L. Huston and Jacob Ruppert, owners of the Yankees. The price paid by the New York club was not announced, but it has been reported several times that Mack was demanding $25,000 for Baker's release.

Before the opening of the playing season last spring, Baker demanded a large salary, that called for under his contract with the Athletics, which had another year to run. Mack refused to grant the increase and Baker retired to his home at Trappe, Md., remaining out of professional baseball all season. Mack was quoted as saying that he would refuse to sell Baker until his contract expired.

"Home-run Baker" began his big league career with the Athletics in 1908 and developed into one of the most formidable batsmen in the game. He was the star in the world's series in 1911 when he bore out his reputation as a home-run hitter by making two circuit drives which virtually gave his team the championship.

In 1914 his last season, his batting average was .219. He was born in Trappe, Md., March 13, 1886.

Mack Through Selling.
Philadelphia, Feb. 16.—"I have sold my last ball player," declared Connie Mack, veteran manager of the Philadelphia American league team here last night, in confirming the announcement from New York that John Franklin Baker, the home-run hitter and hero of several world's championship contests, had been sold to the New York Yankees. Baker, who was here, also confirmed the announcement and said he signed a three-year contract with the New York team here yesterday.

Neither would it be surprising that Baker's salary nor the purchase price. Baker, in a statement, declared that when he announced his retirement from baseball a year ago, he meant it and had no idea of returning to the game in spite of so many flattering offers. He credited Vernon S. Bradley of Cambridge, Md., a mutual friend of Mack and himself, with convincing him that he "owed it to himself, Mr. Mack, and baseball to return to the game."

He said he feels confident he can play as good as ever and that he intends giving his best services to his new manager.

BIG FIGHT IS SET BACK NOTCH

Willard Too Ill to Train—March 25 Is New Date.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Dave Lewisohn, Chicago representative of the promoters of the Willard-Moran boxing match, stated last night that Saturday, March 25, has been tentatively selected as the date to which the fight will be postponed. Willard is said to have refused flatly to fight on March 8, the date originally set.

Willard, Lewisohn admitted, owing to illness from a cold, needs more time for conditioning.

"I suggested the new date in a telephone conversation with Tex Rickard at New York," said Mr. Lewisohn. "Tom Jones, Willard's manager, was here last night. He was in a bad mood, and neither he nor I were in a good mood."

However, the fate of the combat will be settled at Chicago tomorrow, when we will hear what Willard has to say.

Winneapolis, Feb. 16.—Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul shadow boxer, thrashed Willard, Wis., in a twelve-round bout here last night. The majority of newspaper men at the fight gave the St. Paul lightweight a shade in nine rounds.

New York, Feb. 16.—Jack Britton of Chicago outpointed and outfought Ted (Kid) Lewis of England in a ten-round match in Brooklyn last night. Honors were fairly even in the first five rounds, after which Britton had a decided advantage.

Cincinnati Man Wants Neat Sum From Cubs' Sale.

In his petition, Schmalstieg alleges he owned 100 shares of the stock of the Chicago club, which he sold to Taft for $55,555. He refused to turn over $55,555, Schmalstieg says, which was received for his 100 shares.

CLEVELAND CLUB SALE VIRTUALLY COMPLETE

Chicago, Feb. 16.—The sale of the Cleveland American league club to new owners, has been practically completed according to a statement made by President Johnson of the league, who declined to comment on the rumors that C. W. Murphy, former Cub owner, was to be one of the stockholders in the new club.

The sanction to the sale will be asked by Mr. Johnson at the American league meeting in New York later this week and the formal announcement will probably be made in Cleveland.

FENTON-DUBYS DOWN RIVALS

Kelley Hardware Quint Loses Out in Last Half of Contest.

New Schedules Made for Commercial League Will End March 7.

Standing of the Teams.

Fenton-Dubys 4 2 .665
Kelley Hardware 4 2 .665
Northern 1 6 .167

The crack Fenton-Dubys basketball quint last night found its true stride in the Commercial league ball game, when the sporting goods men downed their old rivals, the Kelley Hardware aggregation by the score of 24 to 5. The Kelleys were leading at the conclusion of the first half by the score of 6 to 4, but the Fentons came back strong, sweeping their opponents off their feet and piling up a total of twenty points while they held their rivals to no scores. It was one of the best "come backs" ever witnessed at the Y. M. C. A.

It had originally been intended to close the season with last evening's game, but the directors of the league decided to play another round, that is, to have each team play each other team again. The new schedule will close on March 7.

Up to last night the Kelleys were leading the league, but their defeat at the hands of the Fenton-Dubys makes a tie for first place. The Kelley Hardware aggregation, however, showed real class and deserved to win. Ray Fenton, star of the old days, showed that he had not forgotten all about basketball. He carried four brilliant goals and was the star of the night.

The Northern-Big Duluth game was a hot affair from the start. The first half was a close one, and the final whistle found the Northerners leading by a score of 19 to 17. The game was a very interesting affair, and at times developed into a corker. Oliver and Bill Nelson were the stars.

Indianapolis Club Disposes of Action Over Sanford Burk.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 16.—The injunction which was granted last summer restraining the local Federal league club from using or disposing of Sanford Burk, a pitcher, who jumped from the Indianapolis association team, was dissolved here last night. The motion to have the order removed was made by counsel for the Indianapolis team who said that the differences between the two clubs had been amicably settled.

The cost of the proceedings were paid by the local club owners. Burk was recently sold to the Minneapolis American association club.

DULUTH TO PIT REAL TEAM AGAINST CALUMET SEPTET

Amateur All-Stars Will Have Benefit of Both Practice and Experience in Contest; Linder and Barkell to Be in Lineup of Copper Country Team.

With Joe Linder, Russ Barkell and a number of other stars who have helped make the Calumet hockey team famous, the Copper country seven is here for a game this evening with the All-Star Duluth Amateur Hockey league organization. The game will be played in the curling club and will be called at the usual time, 8:15.

Opposed to the "big leaguers" will be the strongest team Duluth has placed on the ice during the season. The septet that will meet Calumet should be a faster and stronger organization than the team thrown into the breach to stop the crack St. Paul seven. The members of the All-Star aggregation have had an opportunity to practice and they have made the most of it. Last evening the Duluth team members put in a strenuous evening. While the winners of the game naturally believe Calumet will emerge from the contest a winner, there are many who believe Duluth will give the Copper country aggregation a real battle from the very first to the last of the game.

It will seem like old times to see Joe Linder, Barkell, Chabot and the rest of those other Copper country stars roaming over the ice. Especially will this be true in the case of Linder and Barkell. When old Joe starts a rush up the ice this evening, the chances are that he will be cheered almost as vociferously as when he was leading the Duluth curling club team to victory.

During all of the American Hockey league's season the Calumet septet has played a corking game. The septet that is to oppose the Duluth boys this evening is composed of the pick of Calumet's stars. As Linder is especially anxious to make a great showing here, the spectators are rather certain to witness a great game.

Duluth Is Favored.
It is believed that the Duluth boys learned quite a bit of hockey during the St. Paul game. The home kids went into that contest suffering from stage fright. With confidence and experience gained from that game, and benefited by several nights of strenuous work under the direction of Andy Grenner, the home boys should play a great game against the invaders from the north country.

The youngsters here are acquiring the fine points of the game in rapid manner. With the pick of the local talent especially trained for a real contest, the lovers of one of the great games of all winter games should be treated to a real contest in the meeting set for tonight.

MANY RINKS ARE ENTERED

"Blaze of Glory" Curling Event Will Be Decided.

Bradley and Gates in Finals of Local Bonselpiel.

A large number of rinks have already entered the Blaze of Glory event, which will be staged at the curling club in the near future. The "Blaze" gives every rink a chance to get in one more event and is a sort of crowning glory to the season's play. This year the event promises to outdo all past efforts.

Ralph Bradley and Clough Gates will meet in the local rink this evening in the finals of the Head of the Lakes event. The game is attracting a great deal of interest and is expected to prove a corking contest.

Bradley's rink has been defeated here but once during the present season. Clough Gates has easily the best rink on the other side of the bay tonight. The contest will bring the best curlers on either side of the bay together.

The following are the list of rinks entered for the Blaze of Glory and the draw for tonight with last night's results of the game.

THREE GAMES FOR Y. M. C. A. LEAGUE

Peytons and Business College Teams Appear the Strongest.

Three good basketball games are promised for the Intermediate Basketball league this evening at the Y. M. C. A. when the Peytons clash with their old rivals from the Central Business college, the Dormitory Blues meet the fast Enkays, and the Cubs take on the "Y" Juniors, formerly the Marines.

Some good basketball has been played in the junior basketball organization this season and some fast players are being developed. There are six teams in the race, most of them being evenly matched. At present the Business College five and Peytons appear to have the best of it, and their meeting this evening should result in a good game. The Enkays have been going at a fast clip all season and are tied for the league leadership, neither team having lost any games yet.

The "Y" Juniors, an organization picked from the high school gymnasium classes, will take the place of the Marines in the games to come. The games this evening are the semi-finals and the race will close next week.

BURMEISTER LOST MONEY

Northern League President Spent $5,200 Backing Superior Baseball Club.

Schedule of 1916 Season Will Be Completed at Meeting Here.

BY BRUCE.

According to John Burmeister's tabulation of expenses, it has cost him personally the tidy sum of $5,200 to attempt to foster, nurture and stimulate Northern league baseball across the way. While baseball failed last year in Superior, President Burmeister desires to show some of his carrying critics that the failure was due to his efforts to keep the game alive.

It cost Superior $1,000 to guarantee its franchise, and Burmeister went good for this sum. Then Steece borrowed $2,500 and Burmeister was the party that went on the notes and eventually paid the notes, he says. That foots up to $3,500. On top of this John kicked in with another $1,000 and on top of that loaned Steece $700.

During the present winter some of the Superior business men talked extensively of going out and "kicking" John Burmeister. In fact one Superior business man declared emphatically that John would not be president of the league during the present season. In some manner the Superior people seemed to blame John for Superior being out of the league. Perhaps this is the reason Burmeister came through yesterday with his side of the case.

As the case stands now, Superior is said to owe the Northern league the sum of $1,500. The business men across the bay decline positively and with the emphasis of consuming stubbornness that they will refuse to pay this sum. Right now it looks as if Superior will make good this promise.

There may be two sides to the controversy. Superior men who have thrown themselves into the baseball trenches in the desire to put that city back in organized baseball, have repeatedly voiced a grievance against Burmeister. It is but fair, under the circumstances, to state President Burmeister's side of the matter.

Schedule to Be Framed.
It is very likely that the schedule of the 1916 season of the Northern league will be fully completed and passed upon today. A number of the league managers have been summoned by wire to attend today's business meeting at the Spalding hotel.

Charles Moll, as was stated in yesterday's Herald, has completed a schedule and this will be submitted to the managers today. The Moll playing list consists of 130 games. If it is adopted without amendment, the 1916 Northern league playing season will begin May 4 and end on Sept. 4. Duluth will open the season at home.

It was announced yesterday that Fred Reynolds, last year first baseman for the Virginia team, will manage Fort William the coming season. Virginia, Fargo, Superior and Winnipeg have not as yet signed managers.

Moll most likely will be with Superior. There are rumors that Newt Randall, last year manager and given an interest in the Virginia team, will probably be back at Fargo.

While there will be but six clubs in the Northern league this year, the managers believed all indications portend a most prosperous season. Business conditions are greatly improved over those of a year ago, and in addition baseball men believe there is a keener interest in the game.

CENTRAL QUINT WORKING HARD

Duluth Boys Are Preparing to Meet Hibbing Players Friday.

The Central high school basketball quint is being put through a hard workout all of this week in preparation for the big game with the crack Hibbing high school five next Friday night at the range town. The rangers have a fast team, and playing in their own gymnasium they are exceptionally hard to beat.

Local quint has taken on a little confidence since defeating the Cathlamet and Superior Central, and they are practicing hard for the coming games. Coach Blake realizes that his men will have to do their utmost to win from the husky range aggregation, and he has been drilling them on some of the finer points of the game. The team will probably leave Friday morning and it is expected that there will be a fair-sized delegation of Red and White rooters to accompany the men.

The men who make up the Central team are: E. J. Mason, C. J. Shaw, and Chris. Peterson.

MRS. MEYER FOUND GUILTY BY JURY

Verdict of Second Degree Murder Against Wealthy Iowa Woman.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 16.—An agreed jury of only eleven men late yesterday returned a verdict of second degree murder against Mrs. Ida Meyer, aged 60, and reputed wealthy. The jury found her guilty of the murder of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ethel Meyer, last July.

It was announced that Mrs. Meyer probably will be sentenced by District Judge Applegate into the Wolverine reformatory for a term of years. She was released on bond of $30,000.

Mrs. Meyer said to be the oldest woman ever convicted on a murder charge in Iowa, was composed when the verdict was announced. The case was given to the jury at 11:25 a. m., and the verdict was announced at 4:45 p. m. It was reported that only two ballots were taken.

Mrs. Meyer is the second member of her immediate family to be convicted in connection with the murder of the Younger Mrs. Meyer. The other was Fred Meyer, her son and husband of Mrs. Ethel Meyer. He was also convicted of second degree murder and was sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary, but is out on bond, pending an appeal to the supreme court. Trial of Mrs. Meyer was begun a week ago Monday. One of the features was the jury of eleven men. A full jury had been obtained when one of the jurymen asked to be excused. This was agreed to by counsel for both sides.

Mrs. Ethel Meyer was found dead in her home near here on July 25, 1915, with a bullet wound in her head. A revolver lay at her feet. Mrs. Ida Meyer and her son charged that the younger woman had committed suicide.

ATTACK BY ELIHU ROOT

Policies of Wilson Administration Assailed By Former Senator.

Promises Strong Foreign Policy If Republicans Win This Year.

New York, Feb. 16.—The policies of President Wilson and the Democratic administration toward the international situations arising out of the European war and the Mexican disturbances, and as relating to domestic conditions, toward the tariff, were attacked by Former United States Senator Elihu Root today in his address as temporary chairman of the New York State Republican convention, in assembly here.

No other presidential election since 1864 has been so fraught with consequences so vital to national life as the one now approaching. Mr. Root said, and all ordinary considerations which play so great a part in presidential campaigns "are and ought to be dwarfed into insignificance by the promise that if the Republican party is returned to power the people may expect foreign policy which will leave "no doubt anywhere in the world of America's purpose and courage to protect her independence, her territory and the lives and just rights of her citizens under the laws of justice," and that the people may expect, also, that "the government will stand for full and adequate preparation by the American people for their own defense."

Mr. Root charged the present administration with "the lack of foresight to make timely provision for backing up of American diplomacy by actual or assured military force," with "the forfeiture of the world's respect for our assertion of rights by pursuing the policy of making threats and of failing to make them good," and with "a loss of the moral forces of the civilized world through failure to truly interpret to the world the spirit of the American democracy in its attitude toward the terrible events which accompanied the early stages of the war." These, said Mr. Root, were the administration's "three fundamental errors."

Discussing the domestic situation before the European war began, Mr. Root declared that, during the eighteen months of Democratic control there had been "a steady decrease of American production, in exports and in revenues, and a steady increase in imports and expenditures." Enterprises had halted, he asserted, and new undertakings no longer made their appearance, and the country's productivity industries "were laboring under a misfit tariff devised by the Democratic party in a spirit of suspicion, distrust and hostility toward American business enterprises." American commerce, he declared, had become "dull and despondent." The tariff commission created under Republican legislation to ascertain the facts upon which tariff laws should be based, Mr. Root said, had been driven out of business and no substitute provided. At Washington, he declared, "there was no sense of the need to do anything to make money," and "only of business success" was an electioneering slogan. "The administration of the laws," Mr. Root continued,

"The great war has not changed the lesson which we had already learned when it began. It has but obscured further demonstration of it. It has caused an enormous demand for some things which the United States has not produced in large quantities, and in these lines of production, while other industries still lagged, the demand has been extensive employment of labor, great expenditures and a great influx of money. But this is temporary. It must soon cease, and when the factories have stopped and their laborers are no longer employed, we must deal with a situation for which wise forethought should have made provision."

"More important still, the war has paralyzed the peaceful production of all Europe, and has stopped that competitive foreign production which in July, 1914, had almost entirely supplanted American products under the tariff law of 1912. The war has thus given to American products an immunity from competition far more effective than any possible protective tariff. It has thus made the American market comparatively invulnerable, and when the war is over, when foreign production begins again, the American market, compared with impoverished Europe, will be more than ever before the object of desire and effort. And we shall become the dumping ground of the world to the destruction of our own industries unless that is prevented by a wise and competent government."

Taking up foreign relations, Mr. Root said that for the first time within the memory of men now living these relations "are recognized as a problem, and a problem of the first importance, reviewing the situation when President Wilson was inaugurated." Mr. Root declared, "It was first to use his powers as president, to secure protection for the lives and property of Americans in Mexico and to require that the rules of law and stipulations of treaties be observed by Mexico toward the United States and its citizens. His duty was, a foreigner, to respect the independence of Mexico, to refrain from all interference with her internal affairs, from all attempt at domination except as he was justified by the law of nations for the protection of American rights."

Abandoned Both Duties. "The president of the United States failed to observe either of those duties. He deliberately abandoned them both and followed an entirely different and inconsistent purpose. He intervened in Mexico to aid one faction in civil strife against another. He undertook to pull down Huerta and set Carranza up in his place. Huerta was in possession. He claimed to be the constitutional president of Mexico. He certainly was the de facto president of Mexico. Rightly or wrongly, good or bad, he was there."

Mr. Root reviewed our subsequent relations with Mexico, declaring that the United States "intervened in Mexico to control the internal affairs by threat, by economic pressure, and by force of arms," and that the American government "ignored, condoned, the murder of American men and the rape of American women and the destruction of American property and insult to American flags and the defiance of the American flag, and joined itself to the men who were guilty of all these things, to pull down the power of Huerta."

Results Unfortunate. "The results of this interference were most unfortunate," Mr. Root continued. "If our government had sent an armed force into Mexico to protect American life and honor we might have been opposed but we should have been respected and respected by the people of Mexico, because they would have realized that the United States was acting in our international rights and performing a nation's duty for the protection of its own people. It would have been an armed force, into Mexico to determine the Mexican presidential succession, he created resentment and distrust of motives among all classes and sections of the Mexican people. "With the occupation of Vera Cruz the moral power of the United States in Mexico ended. We were then and

We are now hated for what we did, for our feeble and irresolute failure to protect the lives and rights of our citizens. No flag is so dishonored and no citizenship so little worth the claiming in Mexico as ours. And that is why we have failed in Mexico.

"And for the death and outrage, the suffering and ruin of our citizens, and the dishonor of our name in that land, the administration has accepted responsibility with whom it made common cause."

The European Policy. Mr. Root turned to the administration's European policy, declaring that some of the people were "dissatisfied for specific reasons, some with a vague sense of the power which a knowledge of leadership and a sympathetic response from the moral sense of our diplomacy. When our government failed to make any provision whatever for defending its rights in case they should be trampled upon, it lost the power which a belief in its readiness to afford protection to all Americans, and was planning to concentrate armed forces at Cienfuegos for another campaign against the Carranza government. This campaign, it was said, would again make a battleground of the state of Sonora."

HAS NO INTENTION TO FORCE INTERVENTION

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 16.—Friends of Francisco Villa denied yesterday that the outlawed Mexican chief had any intention of seeking for force intervention of the United States in Mexico by attacking trains on the El Paso & Southwestern or any other American railroad near the international boundary. They pointed to the fact that Villa had sent a messenger to this side of the border a day or two ago, bearing assurances that Villa had again decided to afford protection to all Americans, and was planning to concentrate armed forces at Cienfuegos for another campaign against the Carranza government. This campaign, it was said, would again make a battleground of the state of Sonora.

ASKS FREEDOM FROM DULUTH

Minneapolis Courting Ashland, Wis., as Its Lake Port.

Differential in Rates Will Be Maintained in Any Event.

Minneapolis is busily engaged in "wiping Duluth off the map" as a shipping and receiving port, and is enlisting the aid of Ashland, Wis., to which port it promises untold wealth if the town will make concessions so that the Soo road, by building in there direct from Minneapolis, will make it a port of call by package freighters. The leasing of a boat by Minneapolis and Ashland is talked of in this connection. Recently a delegation of Minneapolis business men toured to Ashland and told the people of the latter city what will be done for them if they join hands with Minneapolis in the way of concessions. The fact that the differentials in freight rates will be maintained anyway, does not seem to have entered into the calculations, and that Ashland has overlooked the fact that being a transfer point does not make a city or bring the dollars to the city, seems to have been lost sight of in the general excitement. As an instance of the agitation, one Minneapolis paper has this in its issue of yesterday: "Leasing of a boat by Minneapolis and Ashland, Wis., capital in order to bring about closer trade relations between this city and Northern Wisconsin is believed by financiers in the two localities to be the way to procure for the Twin Cities freedom from the ports of Duluth and Chicago. In these ports now the Minnesota cities as well as Northern Wisconsin are subjected to rate discrimination and congestion of freight."

DOCKS UNDER LEASE

"The boat-leasing plan is the latest idea offered by the men who are seeking to establish a new lake port which will be made a regular port of call of all the lake ships and who arranged for the visit of Minneapolis business men last week. The city of Ashland has leased docks which will remain under municipal control until 1922. This plan in favor of a few lines or boats. All will be given equal rights for the use of the dock and proposed warehouses. New approaches to the dock already are being made."

"Capt. John E. Doherty, a resident of Ashland, who has sailed on Lake Superior and particularly in the city's harbor, Chequamegon bay, for more than thirty years, told Minneapolis men when they visited the port Thursday and Friday, that a guarantee of $50,000 during the shipping season, would bring a boat to Ashland regularly. This he pointed out, is a small portion of the annual shipping of 1,000,000 tons from Minneapolis. He said that it is almost a regular port of call for lake boats. He also asserted that Minneapolis would be relieved of furnishing of its entire 30,000 tons since nearby towns would send some package goods out and he called particular attention to the Ash-

SAILORS HEAR OF SAFETY MEASURES

Traveling Commissioner of Lake Carriers' Association Gives Address Here.

"Safety first—that of yourself and your co-workers" might be the title of the illustrated lecture given the sailors at the lake carriers' assembly rooms, foot of Fifth avenue west, last evening by R. A. Harrison, traveling commissioner of the association. The illustrations were from photographs taken by Mr. Harrison during the past summer and showed the right and wrong way of doing things aboard the vessels. The pictures covered deck and dock work as well as flashlight pictures of the engine room and fire hold work and were explained in an interesting way as they were shown. About sixty people listened to the talk. The one-man or prone posture method of resuscitation was one of the most interesting series to the men, but the views of the afternoon, evening, engineering, and navigation classes being conducted by the association for the benefit of the sailors, were also well received.

The workings of the savings plan, whereby a sailor can deposit his money in a bank without leaving the vessel and have his bank book sent to him aboard the vessel were foretold illustrated by the pictures of a bank book

COMPILES FIGURES ON SCHOOLS OF COUNTY

St. Louis county has 332 public schools in operation at the present time, according to figures which have been compiled by N. A. Young, county superintendent of schools. The number of schools serving distinctly rural territory is 212, of which 130 are 1-room buildings, thirty are 2-room structures, and three are 3-room affairs. In the cities, villages and other centers of population in the county there are 120 schools of which eight are 1-room, fifteen are 2-room, nine are 3-room and seventy-seven are schools of more than three rooms. In the schools of St. Louis county, 1,377 people are employed to teach. The graded schools employ 1,112 and the high schools, 265. The distinctly rural schools employ 214 teachers, of which 113 are teaching in the unorganized or so-called county district.

TWO ATTORNEYS IN LIVELY EXCHANGE

Virginia City Attorney and Former Official in Heated Debate.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Michael Boylan's majority over William H. Eaton at the recent city election was thirty-nine votes, according to the findings of the canvassing board, which reported to the city council last evening. The findings of the board increased the mayor's majority by two votes. The error in the original election returns was found in the third ward.

A suggestion from Alderman Lein that the council make a report regarding the election was made. The council then passed a resolution ordering the city attorney to make a report regarding the election. The city attorney, Mr. Morgan, said that he had no objection to the council making a report regarding the election. He said that he had no objection to the council making a report regarding the election.

William Trichter declared the Star Convention committee was violating the city ordinance, which provides that all persons doing electrical work here, must have a license.

"The council cannot enforce the ordinance," said President Fred J. Morrison. "It is up to the mayor and the police department."

The mayor can do nothing in the matter, declared Mayor Boylan.

Barbers Want Privilege. The council last night, in granting Alderman E. F. Murray a license to place a barber pole on the curb in front of his barber shop, Chestnut street, resulted in four other barbers applying for like permission.

It is thought the latest barber petition will be denied. Elias Maki and Michael Lindke were among the barbers who signed petitions for poles. Alderman Lein is a barber and he protested last week against the city ordinance. He said that the city ordinance was a violation of the city ordinance.

Hair Often Ruined By Washing With Soap

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best, use most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali.

This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulford coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rises out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulford coconut oil at any pharmacy, is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.—Advertisement.

TIED ALL THE TIME

It is good to feel tired sometimes, when you have exercised sufficiently to cause a healthy feeling of fatigue.

But, you should be refreshed by rest. A tired feeling that does not disappear even after a night's sleep is abnormal. It means that you are anemic or debilitated, that you need a tonic to build you up and fortify your system against such a condition. If you do not you are inviting disease because thin blood means that the body's defense against the inroads of disease is lowered.

Thin blood is largely the sufferer's own fault. It results from neglect, because the blood can be built up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills supply the elements that the blood needs to make it rich and red and to enable it to carry more oxygen. Building up the red portion of the blood is simple but because thin blood does not call attention to itself is often neglected. Have you seriously considered taking a course of treatment with these blood-making pills? If you are in doubt write for information.

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or you will be sent a mail, postpaid, on receipt of price 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50 by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write now for the free booklet "Building Up the Blood."

ITCHING ECZEMA'S A CONSTANT BLOOD CRY

The Blood Reaches Every Part of the Body Every Twelve Seconds. There are approximately 70,000,000 pores or openings in the skin of a human body. These connect with the blood channels by means of little canals. These canals are sometimes filled with poisons, and thus the skin scales and blisters, becomes raw and the skin of man is like so much tissue fire. Salves and lotions, plasters, etc., do not reach the source of the trouble. To make the blood pure is the only sensible and scientific method of relief.

You must assist nature in the way she wants to be helped. S. S. S. is the natural cure for itching eczema. It is a natural cure for itching eczema. It is a natural cure for itching eczema.

BRANDEIS CAPABLE BUT UNSCRUPULOUS, DECLARES MEMBER OF BOSTON BAR

"Not to Be Trusted" Is

Charges Nominee With Helping Wreck the New England Railroad.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Moorfield Storey, a Boston attorney, charged before the judiciary subcommittee of the senate today that Louis D. Brandeis helped to wreck the New York & New England railroad in 1892 and 1893 with the result that it was absorbed by the New Haven road.

Asked as to Mr. Brandeis' reputation as a lawyer, Mr. Storey testified: "I think his reputation in the Boston bar is that he is very capable, very energetic, and if necessary to advance his objects, he is not scrupulous as to his methods, nor is he to be trusted." Storey had been summoned by the committee in its inquiry into the fitness of Mr. Brandeis for the supreme court. Senator Walsh told the witness that C. W. Eaton of Boston had told Brandeis was once employed to help wreck the New England railroad.

"I think that is true," said Mr. Storey. He described the New England as a competitor of the New Haven between Boston and New York.

Began to Harass Road.
"Shortly before the spring of 1892," he said, "the New Haven began to harass the New England, which ran part way to New York over the New Haven tracks. The New Haven first refused to advance freight for the New England. It seriously interfered with its trains and

SELECTION OF JURY TO TRY LORIMER BEGINS

May Take Two or Three Weeks to Select the Twelve Men.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The trial of William Lorimer on charges growing out of the failure of the La Salle Street Trust & Savings bank began today before Judge Dever in the criminal court. It was estimated that two and possibly three weeks would be required to complete the selection of the jury.

Argument of Lorimer's counsel to consolidate all indictments against him is expected to precede the examination of veniremen.

U. S. Marshal, who was vice president of the La Salle Street bank at the time the acts alleged in the indictments were said to have been committed, recently was convicted of conspiracy in connection with the failure of the institution.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 17.—Flood waters from the crevasse in the Mississippi river at Buck Ridge early today are near the town of St. Joseph. The water is taking a southward course after having filled Lake Bruin, seven miles below Newellton.

Hundreds of recruits have joined the resulting parties and organized efforts are being made to take the marooned persons to places of safety. Security of boats makes this work difficult.

The food situation is expected to present a serious problem at Newellton. There are several thousand negro refugees housed in mills and cotton gins around that town and few if any brought more than enough food to last through a day.

INJUNCTION DISMISSED

Fight of Cummins Managers on Delegates' Filing Is Ended.

About Thirty Names Are Withdrawn From the List.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fight of the Cummins presidential managers on a list of ten delegates-at-large filed last Friday by alleged proponents of the Estabrook campaign came to a quick finish today when H. W. West, acting for the Cummins managers, asked for a dismissal of the proceedings brought in the supreme court. The request was granted by the court without comment.

The attack on the list of ten delegates as filed was in the form of an injunction proceedings. The Cummins management secured from the supreme court an order preventing Secretary of State Schmah from placing the same on the official ballot. In the meantime, the Cummins management busied itself, and five of the number charged with bad faith were induced to withdraw. In addition a number of district delegates, who it was claimed had been induced to file by the Estabrook management, were also induced to withdraw.

Following the dismissal of the case, Fred B. Pike, acting for the so-called unfair list, appeared before Secretary of State Schmah and pleaded for the return of the name of Louis W. Traub to the list. He said that Mr. Traub had withdrawn, but that his withdrawal had been brought about by misrepresentation on the part of persons in the employ of Cummins' management. His request was refused because the ticket was in the printer's hands.

Altogether about thirty of those who made filings as Cummins delegates have withdrawn from the list. Most of them are district delegates.

JOHN McALPINE TOOK OWN LIFE, IS VERDICT OF TWELVE JURORS

NO RECOVERY ON INSURANCE

Decision Is Unanimous After Deliberation of Twelve Hours.

"My Husband Never Did That" Is Comment of Widow.

John McAlpine killed himself.

At least this is the unanimous opinion of a district court jury which this morning returned a verdict denying his widow's claim under a $24,000 accident insurance policy issued by the London Guaranty & Accident company.

The verdict was reached last evening at 10:20 o'clock, after the jury had been out for twelve hours and five minutes. It was sealed and was not opened until court convened at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

"My God, my husband never did that," was Mrs. Sarah K. McAlpine's declaration when her attorneys telephoned her the verdict this morning. It is reported that she is suffering from a nervous shock.

In addition to a general verdict in favor of the defendant insurance company, the jury answered "yes" to the special question, "Did John McAlpine commit suicide?" which leaves no doubt as to what theory the case was decided upon.

Since the early morning of Aug. 15, 1912, when Mr. McAlpine, well known Duluth lumberman, was found dead in Richmond, Va., Feb. 17.—The Seaboard Airline's Florida Limited No. 10, north bound, was wrecked today at Kingsland bridge, ten miles south of Jacksonville, Fla. The train was traveling at high speed. No one was killed but fourteen persons were badly injured and others less seriously hurt.

The engine tender jumped the track ripping up rails and ties and four coaches went down a steep embankment. The injured were brought to Richmond hospitals.

RUSS CAPTURED 100,000 PRISONERS AT ERZERUM

Petrograd, Feb. 17, via London, 2:15 p. m.—The official Messenger estimates the Turkish garrison at Erzerum, capture of which was announced yesterday, as 100,000 men.

It is also estimated that more than 1,000 guns were captured. It is said there were 467 guns in the outer forts, 374 in the central forts and 200 field guns at Erzerum.

WEAKNESS IN AIR DEFENSE BREAK WOULD BE DISASTROUS

Frank Admissions Made in Debate in British Parliament.

Failure to Develop Dirigible
Air Fleet a Great Mistake.

London, Feb. 17.—Debate in parliament on the air defense of Great Britain, was chiefly remarkable for the frank admissions made by the cabinet's spokesmen, that the present conditions are far from satisfactory.

Andrew Bonar Law, secretary for the colonies, A. J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, and H. J. Tennant, under secretary for war, all spoke in this vein. They declared, however, that the government was doing all that was humanly possible.

Mr. Balfour scored the sensation of the day when he declared that one of England's great mistakes in the days prior to the war, was her failure to develop a dirigible airship fleet along the lines similar to that of Germany. "With regard to Zeppelins," he said, "looking back on events, I am sorry that we did not develop that type of vessel, not so much for aggression and defense, as for maritime and other scouting. Such airships might have played for us an important part. Certainly Germany has had an advantage in possessing them."

"We are doing what we can to remedy this state of things, but I do not pretend, when we began the race ten years behind the enemy, there is any chance of catching up."

German Shipping Manager Reviews Relations With United States.

Says Any Breach Would Have Serious Effect
on Germany.

London, Feb. 17.—An Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says that the manager of one of the greatest German shipping companies, in an interview in the Bremen Tagblatt expresses a most pessimistic opinion concerning the effects of a possible breach of relations between Germany and the United States.

This shipper, who, the dispatch says, is believed to be Albert Ballin, director general of the Hamburg-American Steamship company, is quoted as follows: "A breach of Germany's relations with America would have a most serious effect. All America's money and munitions would be at the disposal of the Entente allies. We should have to take over the feeding of the Belgians, and America's attitude probably would induce other neutrals to attack us. All our ships would finally be interned in American ports. This would take enormous wealth from Germany."

"Our plight would be most difficult. When the war is over Germany will have to replenish her stocks of raw materials. Do not let us entertain any illusions with regard to England. She will continue commercial warfare long after military operations are over. She will take away all our trade with South Africa and Australia and it will take years for our passenger service to reach a condition anything like that which existed before the war."

OBJECTS TO SINKING OF ARMED STEAMERS WITHOUT WARNING

Question of What Constitutes Defensive Armament Will Be Determined in Some Way Later.

Germany Will Not Accept Present Suggestion That Liners Carrying Arms Should Be Immune From Attack.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Secretary Lansing today accepted the Lusitania agreement as acceptable to the United States as it relates to that case, but asked Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, for assurances that Germany will not carry its policy of sinking merchant ships without warning to liners even if they carry defensive armament.

The question of what constitutes defensive armament is to be determined later in a way not yet agreed upon. It is suggested that the United States may propose that guns mounted on the stern of ships and capable of being swung from 15 to 30 deg. in either direction might come within that class.

Will Not Accept Suggestion.
It was stated authoritatively that Germany, because of its unusual position, cannot and will not accept the suggestion of the United States that it was several years ago, when it was now stands, that liners carrying guns shall be immune from attack under previous assurances.

American officials expressed the opinion that the submarine controversy with Germany cannot be closed until assurances are given that the safety of neutrals and noncombatants at sea have not been altered by the last Germanic declarations. They fear that a long series of diplomatic exchanges and state that the situation is where it was several years ago, when it was described as "grave."

ANOTHER LOYAL INDIAN RULER IS AT THE FRONT

MAHARAJAH OF PATIALA.

The maharajah of Patiala is ruler of one of the states in the Punjab. At the beginning of the war the maharajah volunteered to go to the front and he is now on the fighting line. The maharajah's first great gas attack of war, drove back the French Algerians from the Canadian first division to block the way to Calais in a great four-day fight.

No Truth to Rumor.

London, Feb. 17.—A dispatch from Rotterdam to the Star says that the report that a Zeppelin had been blown adrift during yesterday's storm and wrecked at Etrik, in Holland, and there seized and interned by the authorities, is without foundation.

REPULSED BY CANADIANS

Dominion Troops Withstand Every Attack Made on Trenches.

Lots of Germans in the Trenches But All Dead Germans.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 17.—The Germans were repulsed in every attack upon the trenches held by the Canadian divisions in the recent fierce fighting around Ypres, according to dispatches received here today by the militia department.

These dispatches said the Dominion regiments were holding all their own trenches when the German drive had exhausted its strength. "We have lots of Germans in our trenches, whole platoons of them," the report states, "but they are all dead Germans. Our losses are very slight."

The report indicates that in the recent engagement the Canadians were stationed at almost the same point they held last spring when the German drive first broke through the lines. The report also stated that the Canadian first division to block the way to Calais in a great four-day fight.

To Investigate Grain Situation.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 17.—A thorough investigation of the terminal grain market situation, to ascertain conditions prevailing from Asia into Europe, in grain exchanges, is to be made by the Iowa grain association, according to an announcement today. At a session last night the convention voted $200 to carry on the investigation.

More than 1,000 guns were captured by the Russians when they took Erzerum, the Turkish stronghold in Armenia, according to estimates in a Petrograd official publication.

If these figures are borne out the Russian haul in cannon probably sets a record for the war in the capture of any fortress. When Novogeorgievsk fell the Germans took 700 guns.

The Petrograd estimate places the garrison of Erzerum at 100,000 men, giving ground for an assumption that the capture of this number of Turks is claimed. Previous reports had indicated that the garrison was bottled up in the fortress.

There has been continued fighting between Italians and Austrians along the Austrian frontier. Vienna reports a defeat for the Italians in the eighth attack by their opponents on the Austrian position at Javerc, while before the new Austrian position, in the Ronbion district the ground was covered with Italian dead.

It is given out in Washington that the Lusitania agreement with Germany has been received by Secretary Lansing as acceptable to the United States

so far as it relates to the Lusitania case itself. The German ambassador, however, has been asked for assurance that Germany will not sink liners without warning, even if they carry defensive armament.

Military observers in allied capitals, who regard Erzerum as the key to Asia Minor, expect the Russian success to facilitate the Russian advance on the Black sea coast to the north, giving possession to the Turkish gateway from Asia into Europe, while the Turkish forces throughout Armenia will be put in jeopardy. It is argued, and the pressure on the British in Mesopotamia will be relieved. Operations on a large scale by the Russians will now be possible for the forces of Grand Duke Nicholas, it is declared.

According to the official account the British Mesopotamian forces have heavy sufferers in the recent fighting. The British losses in the battle at Batha, west of Kerna, aggregated 2,000, it is stated.

Fighting on the western front has lessened in intensity, probably because of the prevailing bad weather and similar conditions prevail in Russia.

WARM WEATHER HITS THE LOGGERS

The prevailing "warm" weather is creating havoc in the woods these days, for roads are getting too soft to do much hauling. It is hitting the pole and the business particularly hard, for the swamps are said to be in bad condition.

The temperature at 2 o'clock this afternoon was 42 degs. above, and at 3 o'clock this morning was 33 degs. above, which is 1 deg. above the freezing point. Yesterday afternoon the mercury reached 48 degs. above and Mr. Richardson, weather forecaster, said that the high point today would probably be about the same.

Some point around freezing is expected tonight, and Mr. Richardson says that the weather may turn somewhat colder tomorrow afternoon and night, but no extreme weather is in sight.

HAS INTERVIEW WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL

From The Herald's Washington Bureau.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Joseph Wessel of Crookston, recommended for the United States marshalship for Minnesota, had an interview with Attorney General Gregory today. Neither the attorney general nor Mr. Wessel would say anything about the appointment except that it had been discussed. An announcement of the attorney general's intention regarding Mr. Wessel is expected in a few days.

MAY DREDGE CITY DUMP

Commissioner Has Plan to Provide Room for Refuse.

Would Be Cheaper Than Constructing Lake Shore Retaining Wall.

Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, who again has charge of the city incinerator plant, believes he has solved a pressing problem in connection with the collection of garbage.

For some time past city commissioners have been alarmed over the conditions at the city dump, which adjoins the incinerator plant, because there was no room left for dumping refuse and ashes. Property was secured in West Duluth to relieve the congestion, but a plan was under consideration to build cribs near the lake shore from First to Third avenue east, where refuse could be dumped.

This morning Commissioner Silberstein announced that bids will be advertised for shortly on dredging the present dump pile and then throwing the refuse into the lake. This work, according to figures obtained for the safety head by John de Waard, architect, will not cost more than $500, and will give the city sufficient room to dump its garbage for some time to come.

It is the plan of the safety head to dredge 100 feet square the territory now occupied by the dump adjoining the plant, to a depth of fifteen feet. Local dredge companies will be asked to submit proposals and the dredging is expected to begin in the spring. The dump is located right alongside a slip at Thirteenth avenue west and can be reached easily by tugs.

If this plan can be carried out successfully and indications are that no trouble will be experienced, city officials are of the opinion that the biggest problem will be solved. As soon as arrangements are made for the dredging, negotiations will be resumed for the construction of a new incinerator plant, Commissioner Silberstein said today.

According to figures obtained by the safety head, the construction of cribs on the lake shore for the purpose of dumping garbage would cost approximately $10,000. Large piles would have to be driven and a stone wall put in place in order to conform with the regulations of the army engineers.

HAS TAKING WAYS.

Things Just "Seem to Stick to Gust Eik's Fingers."

Gust Eik has a taking way about him. In fact police say, he has several taking ways. He is popular with the ladies, and he is lightfingered with change, timepieces, clothes, or anything else that happens to be handy.

Early in February Gust went to the work farm for fifteen days, after West Michigan street saloonkeepers told police that he had been hanging around, and that whenever they saw him, they were sure to miss money, or liquor, or other articles.

Last night Gust took a $3 mackinaw belonging to Frank Sawyer, but Patrolman Earl Le Beau was uncomfortable near, and the "taker" went to jail.

After the judge had sentenced him to thirty days at the work farm, it developed that Supt. Fred Ward was looking for Gust, confident that he had taken an extra pair of rubbers while he left the jail last time.

LOCAL AVIATOR WAS NOT KILLED

Charles O'Leary, former Duluthian and Hibbing resident, who gained considerable notoriety as an amateur aviator, and who, some time ago, was reported killed in Mexico, has been located. A communication from Mr. O'Leary received by The Herald today, announces that he is now at Onamia, Minn.

It was reported some time ago that O'Leary had been killed while operating an aeroplane over Mexico. The communication, however, he proposed to go into the service of the United States army, he did not state.

Two years ago Mr. O'Leary took part in aerobatic exhibitions given in the range cities.

Shipments last month amounted to 1,112,125 tons of all kinds of coal against 973,840 during the same month the previous year, an increase of 138,285 tons.

MUST WAG HIS TAIL.

Otherwise Judge Holds Dog Is Not Believer in Pacifism.

How can you tell whether a dog contemplates biting you or whether he is a peace-at-any-price advocate? Judge F. H. Cutting, in municipal court today, decided when Sir Dog refused to wag his tail, and when his hair bristled, he was liable to be unfriendly.

Acting on this belief, he fined John Slevik, a sausage maker, living at 506 Junata street, $25. Slevik was charged with having two vicious dogs, George La Grange, mail carrier who visits the Slevik home, and another he was sorry whenever there was any mail marked Slevik.

"How did you know the dogs were unfriendly?" asked the court.

"Oh, I had a hunch," Slevik replied. "I was darned careful to have a good sized stick handy."

Neighbors testified that they walked in the street when Slevik's brown dog stood on the sidewalk. Even Patrolman Nels Seltequist told about escaping once a couple of jumps ahead of one of the dogs.

QUESTION OF BADGER BASKET BALL TITLE

Appleton, Wis., Feb. 17.—This state tournament basketball committee today sent out a letter to every high school principal in the state defining the stand of Lawrence college toward the proposed meet to be held in Milwaukee under the direction of the several normal schools. It states that the committee does not desire to influence any team taking part in any local or general tournament which it thinks will serve its interests, but it does object to the normal school authorities saying the Milwaukee meet will determine the state championship.

The letter also states that any action taken in the Northwestern district in dealing with normal tournaments will be indirect but the committee, consisting of Principal A. B. McNeill, DeKalb, Ill.; J. H. Ballahan, Menasha, Wis.; and Principal C. F. Cole, Green Bay, will make the selection from the three teams of the Northwestern district without reference to the Oshkosh normal meet.

TWO GOLDBERGS AND TWO BOYLES IN ONE COURT CASE ARE CAUSING SORRY JUMBLE

There is a story which is going the rounds at the courthouse which is almost as involved and complicated as the famous "Nott" was shot and Schott was not a jumble.

Harry Goldberg was arrested at St. Paul for the St. Louis county authorities. He was wanted for trial at Virginia. Harry Goldberg hired B. M. Goldberg of this city to defend his case. B. M. Goldberg wanted bail furnished in Duluth for Harry Goldberg, so he sent his assistant, Harry E. Boyle, to see M. M. Forbes, first assistant county attorney.

Mr. Forbes telephoned E. L. Boyle of Virginia, second assistant county attorney, concerning Harry Goldberg, and the request of his attorney, B. M. Goldberg, to have the bail fixed in Duluth.

Mr. Forbes then instructed Harry E. Boyle to notify B. M. Goldberg to call E. L. Boyle concerning Harry Goldberg.

"I will have Harry E. Boyle fix the bail and B. M. Goldberg defending himself if I'm not careful," added Mr. Forbes.

HOW ENGLISH ARMY OFFICER'S WIDOW KILLED ALL HER SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

By Special Arrangement, She Offers Free Full Instructions How She Eradicated Hideous Growths on Face and Arms After 20 Years Failures with Electricity, Liquids, Powders and Pastes.

Remarkable Secret of the Hindoo Religion, now Exposed Freely for the First Time Enables any Woman to Be Rid of Superfluous Hair Forever.

Through the generosity of Mrs. Frederica Hudson, widow of Major Hudson of the Indian Army Medical Corps, 18th Cavalry, British Army, and American lady, can now secure quick and complete relief from the curse of Superfluous Hair.

Here is Mrs. Hudson's story: "For years I was severely afflicted with a heavy moustache, several tufts of hair and a hideous hairy covering on my arms. I also had a small tuft of hair on my chin. I had tried every remedy advertised, all of which made me grow all the worse. I also tried the electrolytic method, but found that for every hair I destroyed at least two more grew in its place. My husband who was Surgeon-Major in the British Army in India discovered (as any one can learn by consulting the Encyclopedia Britannica and other standard works) that Hindoo women are forbidden by their religion to have hair on any part of their body except their head. Even the faintest trace of hair on the face, chin or arms would forever ostracize a Hindoo woman. The Hindoo method of destroying hair, however, has always been a costly and dangerous secret, but just before his own death, my husband saved the life of a converted Native Soldier, and persuaded him to reveal the secret of the Hindoo Hair Destroyer. My husband gave me the entire formula. I tried it. The very first application made the hair weak and wimping. In a few days the hair entirely disappeared, and since then I have never had a trace of hair to show. And so having found this wonderful remedy absolutely killed my heavy moustache, the coarse tufts of hair on my face, and the heavy covering on my arms, from which I suffered twenty years' humiliation, I want every woman to have the benefit of the secret which my poor husband secured for me.

So write me today, sending me your name and address (please state whether Mrs. or Miss) together with a 2-cent stamp for return postage and I will send you free full and complete instructions so you can write for with entire confidence. She has secured an office in America for the benefit of sufferers from Superfluous Hair. Her full address is, Mrs. Frederica Hudson, April, 282 F. No. Main St., Attleboro, Mass.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Mrs. Hudson, belongs to a third family in English Society, she is connected with leading officials there and is the widow of a prominent Officer in the British Army, so you can write her with entire confidence. She has secured an office in America for the benefit of sufferers from Superfluous Hair. Her full address is, Mrs. Frederica Hudson, April, 282 F. No. Main St., Attleboro, Mass.

URGES BETTER CONDITIONS

Retired Fire Fighter Says Would Have Changes Made.

Men Should Have Another Day Off Each Week, He Says.

An unusual plea for better conditions in Duluth fire department was made yesterday by Capt. Kenneth McDonald, veteran "smoke-eater," who retired Monday after twenty-two years of fire fighting in this city.

Although proud of his connection with the department, and firm in the belief that the present motorized equipment ranks with any in the country, Capt. McDonald wants better working conditions among the men.

"A fireman is a stranger to his wife and children," he said, "and I would like nothing more than to see them given another day off each week. Many cities in the United States have adopted this plan for firemen. It is not a day off in any other line of work, for a fireman, while he is working, stays at the company house day and night, except at meal times. His time is never his own. Even on the day he has each week, he can be called out for service at any hour, and he may not leave the city.

"During my long term of service I used to see my wife and family at meal times that was about all. There would be a few hours on my 'off' but it is a pretty stiff grind when you get six days of twenty-four-hour service."

Mr. McDonald was appointed piquen on Feb. 22, 1894, and in January, 1902, he was promoted to a lieutenant. A year later he passed his examination and was promoted to captain, being assigned to engine house No. 3. He was there up to the time of his retirement.

As a close friend of former Chiefs Jackson and Black, and of former Assistant Chief Fred E. Greenow, who was killed last fall, Mr. McDonald was ranked as one of the best firemen in the city, if not the best.

He since has taken a position as special officer at the St. Louis hotel.

REAL AMERICAN HAS NO HYPHEN

Before an appreciative audience of foreign-born Americans at the Tanis school of English, last night, Dr. D. D. Murray gave a talk on Americanism. "There can be no such thing as a German-American, or French-American, or Irish-American," the speaker said. "When you take the oath of allegiance to the United States, you become American and cease to be what you were before."

He said further that even persons born in this country would often, in stating their nationality, say that they were Irish, Scotch, etc., implying that their parents or grandparents had lived in those countries. "We can all trace our lineage back to the countries beyond the sea," he said. "No one of us is better in that respect than his fellow citizen. It is not a question of where our parents were born. It is the spirit we manifest—our love for the country that shelters and shields us—that makes us Americans."

GROGERS PLAN FOR STATE CONVENTION

Friday Advertising Brings Congestion of Business on Saturday.

Preparations are under way to make the Minnesota convention of retail grocers and merchants, which will be held in Duluth July 15-20, the largest gathering of business men on record in this state, according to announcements made at the meeting of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association at the store of John Moir, 207 West Superior street, last evening.

Railroads and large wholesale houses throughout the state are issuing bulletins and publishing news of the convention in all trade papers, said George M. Peterson, secretary of the local organization. This indicates a statewide interest in the convention, he told the members, and a record-breaking attendance.

At the meeting last evening R. A. Bartholdi of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company gave a talk in The Herald's "Personal and Business."

The association approved the national bankruptcy act and the Stevens' bill, sanctioning the establishment of fixed prices by a manufacturer.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Moir served a luncheon.

Several of the members who have been liberal users of space in The Herald's Friday market basket, reported that the results have been so pronounced that many customers do their week's shopping after reading the Friday advertisements. This causes a congestion of business on Saturdays, and an effort may be made to distribute the over the week by advertising daily or featuring one or two additional days.

EDUCATORS CONFEE HERE

Fully 1,000 Teachers Are Expected for Opening Session.

Many Noted Speakers Are Scheduled for the Program.

Duluth is today playing host to 1,000 to 1,200 school teachers. Of these, approximately 500 are from outside the city, representing all of the range towns, Grand Rapids, Cloquet, Carlton and virtually every village and hamlet in the northeastern section of the state. This is the opening day of the annual convention of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association, which promises to eclipse all previous sessions.

While all of the Duluth hotels and many boarding houses of the city are comfortably filled with the host of invading educators, the late afternoon trains are expected to increase the number of visiting teachers and put accommodations at a premium.

The teachers represented by the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association are from the high school, primary to the high school. There is hardly a school in the entire north-eastern district of the state, however small and out of the way, that is not represented by at least one delegate. Schools are closed today and tomorrow in order to permit all teachers, principals and superintendents to attend the gathering here.

According to President Peter Olesen of the association, it is expected that the attendance at the convention will surpass that at all previous conventions in the history of the association. An unusually good program has been arranged for the whole three days of the convention, and the Bostonia Sextet and a number of other musical attractions will feature the program at the Central high school tonight. Dr. Jay William Hudson, professor of philosophy, University of Missouri, will be the speaker. His topic will be "American Ideals in Education." Among the well known educators who will speak during the convention are the following:

Noted Educators to Speak. Jay William Hudson, Ph. D., professor of philosophy of the University of Missouri. He has gained a national reputation through his vigorous lectures on public issues.

Willis Mason West, M. A., a veteran Minnesota educator. He was superintendent of Duluth, when the Zenith City was but a village and was for twenty years head of the department of history of the University of Minnesota. He is now on the faculty of the University of Wisconsin.

R. Nelson Cooper, D. D., Litt. D., president of Upper Iowa university, recognized by those who know him as a great inspiring teacher and lecturer on English literature. Dr. Cooper is secretary of the American Association of Colleges.

M. V. O'Shea, Ph. D., head of the department of education, University of Wisconsin. He has lectured extensively on educational subjects in America, England and abroad.

He was chairman of the American commission of education at Liege in 1905, and of the international congress of home education in London in 1910.

Lotus D. Coffman, Ph. D., the new dean of the college of education, University of Minnesota. He is the author of several books, and is already favorably known to most of the teachers of Minnesota.

Shailer Mathews, A. M., D. D., the dean of the University school, Chicago, and an eminent philosopher. He is president of many important social institutions as the Western Economics association and the American Council of Churches of Christ in America.

MANUAL TRAINING MADE COMPULSORY

Manual training has been made compulsory in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades of Duluth public schools and each student must qualify, unless he can give a doctor's certificate of physical defect.

A ruling to this effect was made yesterday by Supt. R. E. Denfeld, in an announcement to principals and teachers at the various buildings.

"No student will be assessed from the seventh to the ninth grade or from the eighth to the ninth unless his work in manual training scores up to the standard," Mr. Denfeld said.

"Manual training enables boys to apply themselves to the concrete things in life and the course will be of great benefit to all boys in the schools in this city," he said.

MILDER WEATHER BOON TO FARMERS

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.) With a spring temperature prevalent here for the past four days farmers in this locality are thinking more of plowing or planting than of a longer spell of winter. Last Sunday the mercury registered 34 degrees below here, and twenty-six hours later it showed 25 degrees, above a range of 59 degrees, since then it has been thawing here, and as a result the roads are well packed and open to traffic.

FIRE VICTIM WAS RESIDENT OF ASHLAND

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 17.—It was an Ashland man who lost his life in the hunting shack near Drummond. The charred remains have been identified as those of Mike Delewski, of 2114 East Front street, and were brought to Ashland for burial. The body was burned to a crisp but part of his pocketbook and the amount of money he was known to have had with him, served to identify him.

He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss. He was about 45 years of age.

Ancona publishes a report from Cairo dated Feb. 2 that the leader of the Senussi was requested by the British authorities to terminate the Senussi on the western frontier of Egypt, but replied that he was powerless to do so. The British have offered the Redifs (First Egyptian reserves), who multitudes must be suppressed with energetic measures.

"The khedive expressed to the British his intense pain that the Redifs had been fired on. He requested Gen. Sir John Maxwell, commander of the British forces in Egypt, to order the Redifs to be court-martialed, or if necessary, to order the execution of the Redifs."

The identity of the prince referred to is not clear. The reference may be to Yusuf Sadik Bey, chief of the Egyptian cabinet.

TURKS WIN VICTORY IN MESOPOTAMIA

Constantinople, Feb. 17, via London.—The losses of one of the British expeditions in Mesopotamia in a battle with the Turks near Baghdad, west of Korna, amounted to 2,000 officers and men, according to an official announcement given out by the Turkish war department under date of Feb. 16.

The statement also says that the Russians lost 5,000 men killed in a three-day battle on the Caucasian front.

The text of the statement follows: "Bombs Dropped on Kut-el-Amara." "Trak front: One of our seaplanes flew over the enemy artillery positions at Kut-el-Amara, successfully dropping twelve bombs which had great effect."

"After his defeat in the battle near Batha, west of Korna, the enemy left many dead on his road of retreat. The enemy losses in that battle as established up to the present, amounted to 2,000 men and 300 animals."

"Caucasian front: In the fighting which has been in progress during the last three days, despite cold weather and snow the enemy lost 6,000 dead and sixty prisoners."

"Dardanelles: A cruiser, a monitor and a torpedo boat of the enemy on Feb. 13 fired twenty shells on Kesse Burn and then withdrew before the fire of our coast batteries. The fire

OFFERS AMENDMENT TO SHERMAN ACT

Madison, Wis., Feb. 17.—An amendment to the first section of the Sherman anti-trust act to read that restraint of trade, as referred to in that section meant "restraint of trade that is detrimental to the public welfare," was offered by Charles R. Van Hise, president of the University of Wisconsin, in an address before the commercial and industrial congress here yesterday.

The retention of competition, permission for co-operation and regulation of co-operation, were urged by President Van Hise as means for correcting what he termed the few present evils still existing in the conduct of large industrial enterprises.

Help Your Kidneys

To maintain the health of the body, it is very important that the liver, as well as the kidneys, should be kept in a healthy condition, as its secretions play a very important part in the process of digestion and assimilation; if it becomes inactive or sluggish, various disorders arise, constipation is apt to follow, with the usual ill effects.

SUBURBS GROWING

Expansion in New Duluth and West Duluth Shown in Reports.

Amount of Fines Makes Gain of 20 Per Cent.

Rapid growth of the New Duluth and West Duluth district of the city are reflected in the annual report of George Hallada, deputy clerk of municipal court in charge of the West Duluth branch, filed today.

There was a 20 per cent increase in the amount of fines paid by prisoners, as well as a substantial increase in the number of cases handled, showing that the police are doing more business since the steel plant and allied industries started, and that a larger force is necessary.

Three hundred and eighty-one cases were handled by Asst. Judge Harry W. Launers and a total of $1,634.54 in fines and costs was paid in during the twelve months.

In number of arrests, drunkenness led the list, there being 183 offenders of this nature brought before the court. They paid $201 in fines. Trespass was the most common, next to drunkenness, and disorderly conduct was third. Twenty men convicted of disorderly conduct paid fines aggregating $291.85.

Judge Launers was severe with those who violated the provisions of the law covering concealed weapons, as nine men paid $184.50 in fines. Gamblers and gambling house proprietors also were given stiff sentences, the report shows.

About forty civil cases also were handled during the year. It is estimated that returns from the civil calendar amounted to $57.75.

The list, without distinction between state and city cases, gives the following data:

No. of	Fine Paid
Drunkness	183 $201.00
Trespass	24 28.12
Disorderly conduct	20 291.85
Carrying concealed weapons	9 164.50
Drunk and disorderly	15 154.24
Selling liquor without license	11 192.26
Gambling	19 186.96
Assault	12 146.94
Larceny	8 146.94

There was a marked decrease in the number of grand jury cases handled, six men being brought over to await further action, while charges against two were dismissed. Last year there were twelve cases, and eleven men were bound over.

CANADA STILL IN MOURNING

Business in Dominion Is at High Tide, Says Winnipeg Man.

John Nairn of Winnipeg, a world traveler, who is as much at home in Berlin, Paris, Glasgow, or even in Melbourne, Australia, or Johannesburg, South Africa, as he is in many of the larger cities of the United States and Canada, is a guest today at the Spalding hotel.

For the last few months Mr. Nairn has made his headquarters in Winnipeg. He is of the opinion that the greatest shock of the European conflict is somewhat less poignant than it was a year ago, though he hastened to add that there was a lesser wave of mourning for the Canadians who have lost their lives while valiantly fighting in Britain's cause.

"It is perhaps that the Canadians have become more used to the war and are displaying a more matter-of-fact attitude," said Mr. Nairn. "While business is on the uplift and there seems to be a healthy revival of trade, due no doubt to the tremendous grain crop that has given the country impetus to all lines of industrial endeavor, a traveler or sojourner in Canada is never disappointed in the amount to beget the fact that Canada, as a loyal and able colony, is doing her full share in the war effort."

A year ago there was a decided business depression throughout the dominion. Business conditions were bad and were aggravated by the war, which almost completely paralyzed trade for the time being. Today the unpriorities, then, we will go ahead and make far in the history of the dominion, and the activity of factories that have been closed for a long time, have brought Canada out of its commercial doldrums, so to speak, though the paths of the war, have left a deep and abiding mark on the people of Canada.

Mr. Nairn was a guest at luncheon today at the Spalding hotel, where he will leave this evening for New York.

FILIAUTRAULT IS CHIEF OF CAPTAINS

E. J. Filiautault has been chosen chief of the captains to have charge of the campaign to raise funds for St. Mary's hospital. At a meeting of 150 workers held last night at the Spalding hotel, Mr. Filiautault was unanimously elected.

An outline of the campaign was given at the meeting last night. The organization is now complete. Rev. Hugh Floyd, general chairman, Mrs. W. H. Nairn, chairman of the women's teams, and Mrs. E. L. Tuohy, associate chairman.

Among the new captains named last night was Mrs. J. T. Walsh, who is the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes hair soft and glossy. Advertisement.

HOW TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

This Home Made Mixture Removes Dandruff and Stops the Hair From Falling Out.

The following simple recipe which can be mixed at home, or put up by any druggist will quickly remove dandruff and stop the hair from falling out.

To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, 1 small box of Barbo Compound, and 3/4 oz. of glycerine. These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the hair of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, and relieves itching and scalp disease.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes hair soft and glossy. Advertisement.

VIOLATION OF CONTRACT CHARGED

When John J. Haley brought two actions in municipal court recently to collect a total of $400 alleged to be due in rent from Philip Dandrea and Peter Spina under a four-year lease covering a West Superior street store building, the defendants filed a counterclaim for $750 damages. A breach of a contract to purchase supplies is alleged, the defendants claiming that they were relying on this when they signed the lease. Because the amount involved in the counter-claim is in excess of $500,

DULUTH WILL HAVE MARKET

Will Be Available When the Truck Garden Season Opens, Says Mayor.

Duluth will have public market places in time for the opening of the garden truck season the latter part of next summer.

This announcement was made today by Mayor Prince in answer to the rumor that the city may abandon the market places this year.

"The matter has not been forgotten," he said today, "and action will be taken just as soon as we know what is to happen to the old armory. It would be folly to leave a site for a market place and then have the armory on our hands."

"Several sites have been considered, and we are even now negotiating with the owners for a lease, this coming summer, but nothing will be done for several weeks to come. The West End Commercial club asked for permission to find a suitable site in that part of the city, and I consider it probable that while the owners were making certain alterations and repairs, the stock and fixtures were damaged in the sum of $1,600.44. TODAY IN HISTORY.

First Ship Through Suez Canal, 1869.

The plan for a water channel between the Mediterranean and Red seas goes back into the mists of Egyptian history. The Egyptians made one about 1350 to 1300 B. C. and it filled in about 600 B. C. and completed a century later also filled in. It was temporarily restored by Trajan and again in the seventh century by Amr, Mohammedan conqueror of Egypt. Napoleon had surveys for permanent work made in 1798-1799. Egypt had de-Lesseps build the present canal, and the contract ruined Egypt, and which had opposed the canal, became its largest owner and through it and Egypt's debt gained control over Egypt.

PATHEPIC.

When a really great man—and Elihu Root really is a great man—has to become a demagogue to make out a Republican case against the Democratic administration —and Elihu Root had to become a demagogue before he could make that New York
"keynote" speech—then the case of the Republican party is in a mighty bad way.

If the Russians really do pull the British out of a hole in Asia Minor, Rudyard Kipling may feel the necessity of revising that sentence about the Russian who "tucks his

ABOUT THE WEATHER.

The mercury playfully mounts well above the freezing point. Great snow-banks lose their virgin whiteness, turn black and shrink. The sidewalks are festooned with slush. Heavy overcoats grow burdensome.

But it isn't spring just yet. Don't get out your marbles. Don't take 'em off.
There will be some winter yet.

Still, short February has but a dozen days left. The sun rises higher every day and stays out longer. Its rays, feeble indeed a few weeks ago, are developing real mellowness. There will be snow yet, and frost; but extreme cold is not likely. Pretty soon it will be safe to say that the well known backbone of winter has been fractured beyond repair. Another spring with its glorious resurrection of the flowers and grass and throbbing life will be here. But not today, nor this week.

No doubt some will be tempted to say that China's present increase in importations of American clocks is timely.

THE CONSTITUTION AND THE MILITIA.

A state of war would have to exist before the president could mobilize this force (militia). He has no power even to enforce the war department regulations. Militia organizations may take annual inspection or not, as they choose. They may take camp exercises or not. They may, indeed, do just as they please and usually do, owing to the inactivity of the national government.—Kansas City Star.

If this is true—and we do not doubt it—is the fault not that of congress?
And those who are urging that the state militia be made the reserve force of national defense are asking congress to remedy the neglect which made conditions as the Star describes them.

The fact that the state militia as a whole is not now much respected as a reliance in time of peril is that congress, influenced by regular army opinion, has made no attempt to bring it up to a higher level. The army proposed the impractical continental army plan, which is now virtually dead.
Congress should take the bit in its teeth and see what can be done with the militia—and that seems to be what congress has determined to do.

The Constitution will not be found such an obstacle as it has been represented to be by those who are looking for obstacles.
Here is what the Constitution says:

"The congress shall have power . . .
to provide for ORGANIZING, ARMING AND DISCIPLINING THE MILITIA, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States; reserving to the state respectively the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia AC-CORDING TO THE DISCIPLINE PRE-SCRIBED BY CONGRESS."

The words in capitals have little meaning—and that is true of very few words in our Constitution—if they do not give congress broad powers over the militia, which can be amplified by Federal aid made contingent upon state compliance with Federal regulations. That congress has so far made no effort to exert these powers, save through the ineffective Dick law, and that the militia in some states therefore is behind the times, cannot be blamed to the Constitution.

Suppose congress appropriated for the state militia what it was proposed should be appropriated for the Continental army.
Suppose the grant were made contingent upon compliance with certain regulations:
that the equipment and drill should be thus and so; that annual encampments and annual inspections should be held under regular army auspices; even that all state appointments of militia officers should be from lists of those passing examinations prescribed by congressional or war department authority. Without violating the provisions of the Constitution in any way, the militia thus could be built up into an adequate reserve army.

And in the meantime the states should take action toward divorcing the militia from strike duty, a misuse that has brought the militia into unfortunate disrepute with workingmen.

Ten to one the small boy is already thinking about war—and small blame to him with this kind of weather.

DOCTRINAIRE STUPIDITY.

Opposition to the administration's government shipping bill seems to have divided mainly to those who "on principle" are against government ownership of anything on any terms or in any form whatever.

Whatever practical objection there can be to government ownership of merchant ships—though it seems a lot more sensible for a government to own merchant ships than war ships—has been overcome by the provision in the pending bill that the government is not to operate the ships, but to turn them over to private capital to be operated under government regulation.

The remaining objection—that of those who are uncompromisingly opposed to even a suspicion of government ownership—is simply stupid doctrinaireism. Even those who prefer private ownership to government ownership are not so foolish, as a rule, as to refuse a benefit simply because it bears some resemblance to government ownership; and those who would rather go without the benefit than have the government help them to it—unless it comes in the form of subsidies, when they are very eager for it—are simply bigoted.

If the postal service had offered prospects of profit when it was first organized, it would have fallen inevitably into private hands, and a proposal now for government ownership of the postal service would evoke precisely the same horrified opposition that a proposal for government ownership of railroads does now.

On the other hand, if the government had first gone into railroad construction, private profit not being immediately discernable in it, government ownership of railroads would today be as commonplace a thing as government ownership of the postoffice.

And if there had seemed fat profits in hospitals and libraries and schools, they would be in private hands now and attempts to put them into the hands of the government would be bitterly resisted.

After all, it is likely that the old press gang system came the nearest of any system in history to democratizing military service.

BENEFICIARIES OF CHILD LABOR.

During the debate in the house of representatives on the child labor bill—which is now before the senate and needs every ounce of public backing it can get to go through—the opponents of the measure ran every imaginable change on the "wrong and infamy" to childhood of denying it its right to labor for its bread. Fortunately, there were plenty there to show the wrong and infamy of permitting greed to wring dividends out of the crushed joy of childhood, and the bill passed the house by a large vote.

Congressman Howard of Georgia read a letter "from a poor fellow who is a weaver in a mill in Anderson, South Carolina," that ought to be enough to shame every opponent of child labor laws into silence:

Dear Sir: I write you today to say I am glad to see in the papers the fight you are making for keeping child-labor laws. While the rest of our Southern crowd are trying to defeat it.

Then petitions they got up there from
S. C. was gotten up by the mill presidents and are nothing but forgeries. Mr.
Howard, and you know it is a true grate many signed them but they done it for fear of being fired out of job or else did not know what they was doing. What you told them about no account drunk daddy is very word the truth.

I know 500 at the mills at Anderson do the same thing. They do not want to thayre little children, some not ten years old to work all day some as low as twenty cents a day.

It is burning shame and I and thousands of others are glad to see you on our side and for right. I do hope you will get through and enacted into law and enforced, not no sham thing like our state law.

"Five hundred at the mills at Anderson that don't do nothin' but tote dinner to thayre little children, some not ten years old!"

Can anybody seriously oppose a Federal child labor law in the face of such a disclosure from one small town among many towns where greed wrings profits out of despoiled childhood?

Col. Roosevelt would seem to have a perfectly good case against the Republicans on a charge of stealing Rooseveltian thunder; but it's a long odds bet that he won't push the charge.

If America Faces Germany.

G. K. Chesterton in Everybody's Magazine:
A rich and disordered democracy across the Atlantic is something which the German empire simply could not afford to tolerate. If Germany gets as far as that it would be vain to discuss whether America should fight, because America certainly will; and in that fight, please God, she will have Burgoyne beside her as well as Lafayette.

Consolation.

Indianapolis News: Germany, however, may be able to extract some consolation from the exchange situation. If a mark isn't worth as much as it used to be, then she doesn't owe as much to herself as she thought she did.

Nagging Wilson

By Starwood.

Washington, Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The defeat of Governor Cleveland for re-election in 1888 was the greatest political calamity that has overtaken the American people since the American congress embraced the insane and demoralizing Southern Reconstruction policy of Charles Sumner and Thaddeus Stevens, and the refusal of the Democrats in the two houses of the Fifty-third congress to follow the lead of President Cleveland in 1893 was the greatest calamity that has overtaken the Democratic party since the split at Charleston in 1860.
Had Mr. Cleveland been re-elected in 1888 the tariff would have been reformed on lines laid down by Carlisle and Mills, Wilson and Henry G. Turner. The gold standard would have been established, the college question eliminated from politics and the financial panic and industrial depression of 1893, due to the Sherman silver law, would have been evaded. And had the Democratic party in congress stood by congress stood by the Democratic president in 1893, followed his counsel and supported his policies, the panic would have been overcome before the quadrennial contest of 1896.
The party would have been strengthened by both hands full, a Democrat would have beaten McKinley for the succession, the country would have escaped the dark years of dark saturnalia, and all would have been well.

But they would not have it so. It took sixteen years, eighteen years, in fact, for the Democratic party to come to its senses, and it is historical that when the Democratic party is sane it never falls back on its heels.
Mr. Wilson was elected president.
The first seventeen months of his administration were devoted to a reform of our domestic affairs and it was one of the most successful administrations in the history of the country. Why? Because the Democratic party in congress and out of congress recognized the president's leadership, followed his counsel and embraced his policies, with the result that, materially speaking, the country was never so prosperous as now.

And now this question is presented to the Democratic party in congress and out of congress: Is Wilson the leader of the party?
Are you going to treat him as you treated Cleveland? Will you help the Republicans to power?

This is a time for plain speaking, and plain speaking means truthful speech. Many Democrats in congress are hostile to Wilson, not openly, as was the case when Cleveland was serving his last term, but covertly, clandestinely, surreptitiously. A financial panic would be a godsend to these chaps; it would screw their courage up to the sticking point and they could then proclaim what they wish.

The man who gave us the jackass as the emblem of the Democratic party, without a word of explanation, was a Republican. A case in point. The Democrats of the Sixty-fourth congress, slaves to the archaic principle of primogeniture, appointed the Republican clerk of the house of representatives.
That was a stupidity when we reflect that Mr. Kitchin was not in accord with the Democratic view of the case. Mr. Kitchin should have been made a paragon of virtue.
And Mr. Kitchin accepted the post. That was a sample of bad taste, for Mr. Kitchin
should have been made a paragon of virtue.
And Mr. Kitchin accepted the post. That was a sample of bad taste, for Mr. Kitchin
should have been made a paragon of virtue.

Well, there are gentry do their da-—work. There are cumulative evidences that the great body of the American people support the president. The Republican party in numbers or respectable in talents as that Abraham Lincoln confronted every month of his administration. The Republican party depend on it the people will rally to Wilson.

And that is not all—the G. O. P. is separated into two camps—monkeys and parrots. The Bull Moose has laid the law down that it must be a Bull Moose platform and a Bull Moose ticket or the Bull Moose will know the reasons to a miscegenation: Col.
Roosevelt would make war on Germany because of the Kaiser. But all his virtues Borah, a Progressive, who acts with the standpatters, would aid Germany by declaring and enforcing an embargo on the shipment of arms to Germany. The Republican party in New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania is with the colonel on this issue that threatens to be vital, while the party in Ohio, Wisconsin and Missouri is with the senator.

So it will be observed that if there is mild sedition in the Democratic camp, there is open and flagrant revolt on the Republican side of the hedge.

Setting Things Right.

Smith County, Kan. Pioneer: One of the staff of our writers last week made us say that Jim Farris was blown up while kindling the morning fire. The writer said: "It was the worst blunder this paper ever made. Not that Jim took any exceptions to the item; in fact, he rather felt proud of it; but his wife was peevish and she said that Jim had not once got up and built a fire, and even if he had, she said, he was not going to let him get away with that kind of a lie."
The kerosene explosion incident did not take place in their home at all. It was at the John Ferris home, and John was the one who was injured.

Affection.

The men of simple manners please;
they boast not of their pedigrees, or look profound, or put on size, or get swelled up with futile pride. The wise man's every action states, "I'm just like other mortal skates; I'm here to white to toil and spin, and try to get my harvest in, and when I leave this vale of groans, like Tom and Dick, I'll make dry bones." It gives me stitches in the side to see a man swelled up with pride, assuming divers foolish airs, and who, in every act, declares,
"The clay I'm made of is so fine, there wasn't any more like mine. When I was formed, one fateful day, the Maker threw the mold away, and said, 'Improvements now shall cease—I have produced the masterpiece!' When your importance seems so steep that all the rest of us look cheap, laugh at yourself a while, my friend, and let your affection end. Sit down in silence and review the foolish things you say and do, and realize, with many a jar, how blamed ridiculous you are!"

The First Comic Opera

From the Baltimore Sun.

Somewhere in France and the Balkans English soldiers are cramped in trenches or meeting death in the open. In London there are about a dozen musical comedies are being produced nightly.
At first thought, there is something incongruous in the two things, something disturbng in the idea that people at home can be frivolous while kinmen and friends are dying at the front. Second thoughts are in order in this case, however. It is incongruous only because the human mind is so constructed that it can turn in this seeming light fashion from tragedy to comedy.
A too prolonged dwelling on the horrors of war would drive men mad. The imperative necessity of turning one's eyes away from ghastly truth is illustrated best perhaps by magazines of wit and humor which the soldiers on the firing line themselves are printing. It is illustrated again by the comic opera productions of London.

And so the English people have cause once again to bless the memory of old John Gay, the father of comic opera. He himself knew how to snatch fun from gloomy surroundings, as the epilogue, written by him and impersonated by the author, to his memory in Westminster Abbey indicates.

Life is a jest, and all things show it;
I thought so once, and now I know it.

That epiphany has scandalized a great many Englishmen since Gay was laid to rest in 1732. Various attempts have been made to remove it, but none has succeeded.
Perhaps, at bottom, John Bull realizes a certain amount of affection in his Puritan attitude, or perhaps his conservatism resents any change in historic Westminster; at all events, Gay's lightsome couplet remains the shining beacon of the nation's mood, placidly moralizing graven in the marble of the other tomb.

Of Gay's right to the title of "Father of Comic Opera" there seems to be little doubt.
The French opera comic, which antedates his invention by a few years, is a different thing. Any composition which has in it both serious and musical numbers, though the subject matter be as tragic as death, seems to come within the French classification.
Entirely different also were the old General's "Così fan tutte" was a specimen.

The English comic opera is inherently a musical burlesque, in which gay choruses, rollicking songs, plaintive love melodies and dance music are mingled with satirical comments and "punchy" gags. Gay's "The Beggar's Opera," first produced in 1728, was the original production of this sort. It was the "first popular success" of the history of the English stage. Its run of sixty-two nights was unprecedented. It was played by a company of which a somber individual named Rich was the manager. One of the time made himself famous by saying that it made Rich gay and Gay rich.

It was the legitimate forerunner of "Pinafore" and "The Mikado" and other Gilbert and Sullivan operas, of "Robin Hood" and "Milk and Molasses." Reading over the book again with the idea of quoting passages for a new edition of "The Beggar's Opera," I am struck by the fact that the subject matter is practically unquotable in the present reflection. What is now considered vulgarly or ob-scenely is found on every page and would be the cause of new to augment the excellent being yet more intelligent.—Monte-

Novel Drinking Declines

Detroit News: Perhaps it is no exaggeration to say that on at least one page in three of every novel of Charles Dickens somebody takes a drink. The libations range from a pint of bitter beer to an elaborately brewed punch. The punch is more than a drink; among them must be numbered the genial Mr. Pickwick and others similarly upright in character and good nature.

But a cursory survey of current English novels—and of one's friends, too, for that matter—reveals the fact that the hardy-bred punch is a character of fiction.
It is a person of importance and power in the real world, is passing. That this is so was brought home vividly by a recently published article from the pen of Arnold Bennett. In his comment on England's presented economical situation Mr. Bennett describes his attempt to get a glass of soda at a London public house. Given in America know that London's drink traffic is now in the grip of severe official restrictions. Bennett says: "When I picked up the entrance to a bar and determined to go in." Of course he never got in, but the amusing and valuable part of the experience is Bennett's confession that he has probably been in a bar not more than a dozen times in his life, and so far as he can remember has never bought an alcoholic drink at a bar.

Yet the man speaking is one of England's half dozen most eminent novelists—the greatest of them all, some think. And if one run over in his mind some of the famous Bennett novels—"Old Wives' Tales," the Clayhanger trilogy, "Dennis," the Audacious, "Buried Alive," "The Price of Love"—one cannot recollect a drinking scene. Bennett writes realistic novels of English life, novels filled with the minutiae of the life of the people, yet run has no place in his detailed examination of the motives of his characters; it simply doesn't exist for Bennett. And Americans in at least eighteen states this year find it simply inconceivable that there either. How uneasy must be the shades of Omar and Tom Moore!

Such a statement coming from the most vi-rather surprising, as we have been told and Union. It may be, however, that ulcers have been allowed to gather about its most vital organs, and an operation will sooner

so it may be with the state, but only the

NEW BUILDING FOR THIEF RIVER FALLS

Odd Fellows Plan on Erecting Substantial Addition in Spring.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—A two-story 50-foot addition will be built this spring to the Odd Fellows' building on Second and La Bree streets. A temporary building committee made preliminary plans for the improvement. The structure will then be 150 by 50 feet, one of the largest buildings in the city. The intention is to enlarge the meeting hall, add a kitchen, and provide for four offices on the upper floor. The lodge has between $5,000 and $6,000 available for this purpose, and have been feeling the effect of their cramped quarters for some time. The committee that made the preliminary plans is as follows: Anton Langseth, Louis Sidell, Herman Ohm, James Farr, and John J. Burke.

LOOKING BACKWARD 60 YEARS

An Interesting Bit of History Everybody Should Know

One of the interesting places in Lowell, Mass., is the old apothecary shop on Merrimack street, established in 1827. This location is still a drug store, although of course modernized in many departments. The old prescription books, however, have been preserved and form an interesting record covering nearly a century.

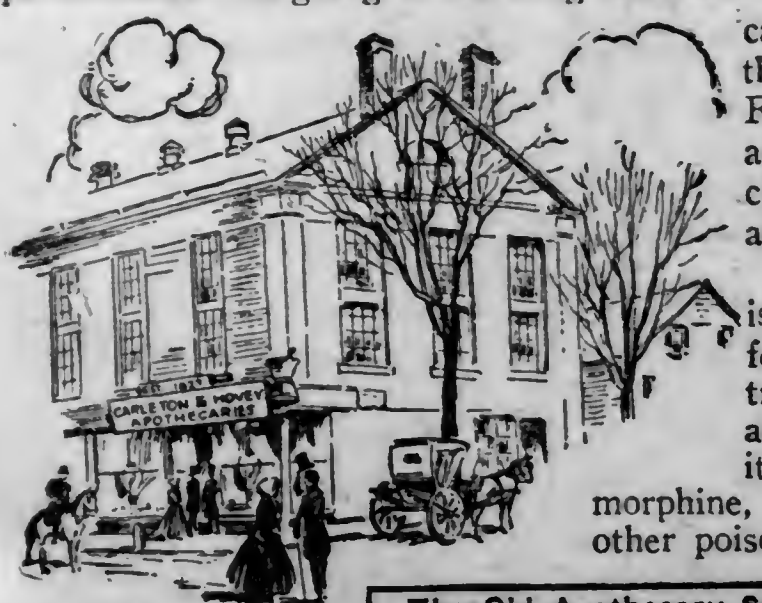

Perhaps one of the most interesting books is that of the year 1855. On one of the pages of this book, that dated June 9th, 1855, is written the original prescription for Father John's Medicine. This prescription was compounded for the Reverend Father John O'Brien at the old drug store on that date, and was so successful in treating Father John's ailment, which was a severe cold and throat trouble, that he recommended the medicine to his friends and parishioners. In going to the drug store and calling for the medicine, they always asked for Father John's Medicine, and in this way the medicine got its name and was advertised.

Father John's Medicine is a safe family remedy for colds, coughs, throat troubles, and as a tonic and body builder, because it does not contain opium, morphine, chloroform, and any other poisonous drugs, or alcohol, but is all pure, wholesome nourishing.

GLOBE-TROTTER "MOVIE" MAN IS HERE; TELLS OF ADVENTURES IN "MANY LANDS"

Joseph De Frenes First Photographer to Reach Victoria Falls in Africa—Took Pictures of Durbar By Royal Command.

If Joseph De Frenes, one of the Lyman H. Howe motion picture men, now in Duluth, would drop the taking of pictures and give a series of "travelogue" of his own, those who have heard him tell about his experiences believe that he would be a distinct hit. The trouble is, it is hard to get him to talk about himself, but that modesty makes him all the more convincing when he does begin. He also has a sense of humor, which, doubtless, has carried him through some trying situations. And that he has been through some trying situations is true. He is a member of that newest type of globe-trotter, the motion picture man who tours the world for the thrill that will give the tired business man a thrill when he sees the pictures on the screen.

"The pictures have to have the punch," declared Mr. De Frenes, yesterday. "The man who goes out after them must count on taking chances, and long ones, and better stay at home where he is reasonably sure of dying more or less than when he goes out. They are the American people take no interest in motion pictures unless, occasionally, at least, they have a thrill coming. What would have been sensational ten or even five years ago is considered extremely tame today, as the motion picture men are continually seeking new things that will stir the spectators who see the pictures."

Took First Panama Views.
Mr. De Frenes was the first photographer to take the first pictures of the Panama canal, in that famous tour from New York, through Panama to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco. Now they are touring the country, getting views everywhere.

But Mr. De Frenes' long suit has been picture-taking in Darkest Africa, interior India, the edge of Tibet, and other out-of-the-way places. His adventures would fill a book, but have become common to the photographer himself. He has been ten years in the business and began when he was not quite 21, so there you have his age. He was the first photographer to reach Victoria falls in Central Africa, and was there when he was 21 years of age.

Filmed Durbar by Royal Order.
Mr. De Frenes was the photographer commanded by King George of England to take the official pictures of the Durbar of 1911, where that monarch was crowned emperor of India, and the pictures of that famous event, shown all over the world, were the production of this young man now sojourning in Duluth. Because of his recognition by the British government in this connection, he was enabled to take pictures in the interior of India, of native life, religious ceremonies, hunts, events in which wild animals are opposed to being photographed, but, rather, seem to enjoy it; but the Mohammedans strenuously object, for their religion forbids reproduction of the human form even in paintings. In this connection he told of an adventure he had in the world of Mecca, in Arabia.

The photographer was the only white man and the only Christian in the city. He was there at the time that the pilgrims for Mecca started, and a large number of Arabs and Turks were on their way to the shrine. While a huge Mohammedan was in the city, he was included a great camel, carrying the holy carpet of Mohammed, Mr. De Frenes got on the world of Mecca, which was only one story high, to photograph the parade, despite warnings not to do so.

Stoned in Arabia.
"I didn't understand the seriousness of it," he explained, "but I did not much later. I had a boy interpreter with me and he was being pushed and man to stand at the door below to keep away interference. As the parade came along I was standing away with my camera when the leader of the parade, a huge Mohammedan, saw me, stopped and shouted something. The boy with me began to shake and told me to quit, that they would not let me take the pictures. I thought they were simply grouchy and kept on. A moment later, the leader shouted something else and instantly a shower of stones came from below and from the adjoining buildings. The boy bolted. I was knocked down and so was the camera. As soon as I could get up I bolted, too, for more stones were coming. When I got below my policeman was nowhere in sight and I never saw him afterwards. I guess he selected another beat."

But I got about 100 feet of film. Just the same," he added triumphantly. In 1906-7 while in Africa, Mr. De Frenes took part in a hippopotamus hunt which very nearly ended disastrously. It was between the Limpopo and Zambezi rivers, deep in the interior, where elephants, rhinoceros and hippopotami abound. The party he was with tried to get a hippo with trap guns but failed, so they took to the river in canoes.

"Ditched" by Hippos.
"Fortunately a hippo will not attack a man unless one stands between him and his bath, in which case he will likely trample the invader to death," said Mr. De Frenes. "This day we went out in three canoes. I sighted a hippo rise to the surface. You can see only a small patch when they do this. The warning was shouted, and we searched around, when suddenly a canoe near me was thrown into the air and the men it dumped into the river. I was startled—in fact, scared—and had not quite recovered myself when our own boat went up in the air, too, and we were thrown into the water. The third canoe escaped. Fortunately we were lucky enough to get ashore, which is a wonder, for the crocodiles are thick in the river and therein lies the chief danger. The hippos smashed our canoes to smithereens but did not attack us after we were ashore."

"I got a hippo later, however. It was in the jungle and my boy sighted a huge bulk, among the trees and shrubbery. I scouted around quite a distance until I got a view of the head. Then I fired. The animal toppled right over on his nose. I was afraid, so I pumped two more bullets into him, but it turned out that the first shot got him. I was pretty proud of that, for I am not much of a shot and the vulnerable space on a hippo is a very small one."

Near Fatality at Victoria Falls.
Mr. De Frenes told of a terrible risk taken and a near fatality which happened to a high German official in order that he might be photographed fishing just above Victoria falls, which are, by the way, the highest known falls in the world, much greater than Niagara. The name of the official is not given by the photographer because of the fact that it might cause him trouble with his government. This man, to oblige Mr. De Frenes, waded into the river up to his neck, following the fishing episode, to be taken apparently in swimming posture. Just as he was returning to the shore, his foot slipped on a rock, and the rapid current caught him. Less than two yards above the brink of the falls, the man grabbed a floating rock and held on until Mr. De Frenes could reach the tripod of the camera to him and get him out.

"My heart was in my mouth for an hour," said the photographer in telling the incident. "Fatalities are all ways bad, but when a man of that kind takes a chance, you should be killed or lost, it seems worse than ordinarily."

Wild Boar vs. Tiger.
Mr. De Frenes told of taking pictures of a herd of about 700 wild boars in India, staged between a wild boar and a tiger in an arena belonging to the maharajah of Udupur, in which the boar won.

"The boars can lick tigers any day," he declared. Recently Mr. De Frenes has been taking pictures of glaciers at Glacier Park in Montana. He declares that they are beautiful and "nature well in many ways, but not in size, with those in the Himalayas in India and the Kilimanjaro in Africa. He has had experience with glaciers, having taken some of the highest mountains in all parts of the world—all in the interests of the motion picture game. "Speaking of the Himalayas," said he, "the biggest swimming stunt I ever saw, was at the edge of Tibet. At said to oppose the use of the nickname, 2,000,000 people bathe. It was a religious ceremony, however, and they do it only once in twelve years."

Called "SILK STOCKINGS"

"Rookies" of Duluth's New Militia Company Under Verbal Fire.

But They Mean Business If They Have "Waiting List."

Traditions observed in the United States since the establishment of the first organized militia are being followed in Duluth.

At least that is the contention of militia men, who have dubbed the newly-organized "A" company the "silk stockings." Capt. Elmer McDevitt is said to oppose the use of the nickname, and prefers to classify the men as plain "rookies."

Veterans of "C" and "E" companies, under Capt. Stiles and Capt. Flodin, persist in their jokes about the newcomers, however, and so "A" will be known as the "silk stockings" from now on.

Eastern cities, even before the Civil war, had the "silk stockings" companies, which were social organizations, more than military, although they prided themselves upon their appearance and often wore elaborate high-top shoes because of their efficiency.

Methods used in selecting members for an exclusive club have been followed by the recruiting committee of "A" company, judging from the joking remarks of "old timers." To make up the other two companies, but this time the "old timers" are taking but little pains to conceal the fact that the new recruits are being selected on the basis of their "waiting list."

Just to prove that they mean business, "A" company frowned recently when one of its members proposed a dance, and it will be some time, judging from present indications, before there is a dance, even if the company roster does resemble a list of the younger people at a social function. Applications for membership in the new company have been so numerous that many men with no previous military experience are being accepted as members, say, for the full complement of seventy-six men already has been secured, and a waiting list is being considered.

Companies "C" and "D" are about twenty men short of the desired number. It was estimated last night at the armory that a three-day campaign, starting Monday and ending tonight, being carried on for the purpose of enlisting the additional number of men, so that all three companies will be at full strength before spring training starts.

GENEROUS TO UNFORTUNATE

Duluthians Raise Fund of Nearly $1,000 for Fire Victim.

Citizens of Duluth, true to the best traditions of their home city, became Good Fellows yesterday and rallied to the aid of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Mackyol, who lost their two babies Monday when fire destroyed their little cottage on Park Point, together with most of their worldly goods.

By noon today the fund was near the $1,000 mark, and contributions continue to come. More than $600 was raised yesterday alone, and one lodge of which Mr. Mackyol is a member will add between $200 and $300. The Camels raised $25.00 and the Eagles added $27.50. Mr. Mackyol formerly operated a cigar store at Fifth avenue west and Superior street, but now he is clerk in a shop at 214 West Superior street.

Various funds were started yesterday morning and by noon today citizens had established a new record for spontaneous giving, in order to lighten the burdens of an unfortunate fellow citizen. A fund sponsored by the News Tribune amounted to several hundred dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. Mackyol were overcome when they learned about the money. They expressed my gratitude to the people of Duluth for this wonderful kindness. May God bless every one of them," he said.

Mrs. Mackyol left the hospital last night, having recovered from her burns sufficiently to be taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tepel, 5516 Cumming avenue, Superior. She is still under physicians' care, however.

Funeral services for Adeline and Frederick, the two babies who were burned to death, were held from the that President B. B. Johnson on his arrival here will make public the names of the men who have invested capital in the Cleveland club.

The national commission soon promises to be a very busy one. Several tangled skeins of the Federal league have to be unraveled, not the least being the Baltimore difficulty in which President Barrow of the International league is playing a leading part. The commission, however, believes that it will be able to straighten out this and all other matters pertaining to the satisfying of a permanent peace compact.

Wilson to Pirates.
Chicago, Feb. 17.—Art Wilson, catcher, was sold yesterday to the Pittsburgh Pirates. Terms of the sale were not announced, but it is said Manager Calhoun consented to a large cash payment for the catcher.

Wilson who left the New York Nationals to join the Chicago Federals, earned the nickname of "Home Run" by his ability to drive balls over the left field fence at the North Side park. His last season was a good one, around catcher and batted .304 in the Federal league last season.

Tinkers and President Weighman decided they could not consistently keep three such catchers. Archer, Wilson and Fischer and concluded that the former, as longer in service here, had a larger following among old club fans. It is probable that Wilson will also be retained by the local club.

Fraternity Says Johnson's Night.
New York, Feb. 17.—Refusal of Jimmy Johnson of the Newark Federals to sign a contract with the Brooklyn Nationals to which he was sold, has been sustained by the Baseball Players' fraternity, according to a statement issued by President David A. Fultz. It is in compliance with that statement that Johnson signed a contract with the Newark Federals for 1916 and 1917 in which his salary was guaranteed for that period.

President Fultz of the Brooklyn offered him a contract containing a ten-day release clause, and naming a salary lower than he was to receive under his Federal contract. Johnson insists that the Brooklyn club should assume his existing contract.

Western Schedule Adopted.
Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 17.—Magnates of the Western Baseball league adopted the 1916 schedule shortly before midnight, and adjourned. The schedule calls for 154 games. The season will open April 20, with Sioux City at Lincoln, Omaha and Des Moines, Topeka and St. Joseph and Wichita at Denver. Early next week President Spreng will go to Chicago where a conference will be held on the umpire question.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 17.—The Boston National league players are to be denied the company of their wives on the spring training trip this year, according to a letter just sent to each member of the team over the signature of Manager George T. Stallings.

NORTHWESTERN LEADS CONFERENCE BASKET BALL
Chicago, Feb. 17.—Hopes of Northwestern basketball enthusiasts of winning the Western conference championship were considerably brightened today as the result of the victory of the purple five over Chicago last night by a score of 28 to 20. It was the second time this season that Northwestern had defeated Chicago.

Northwestern now leads in the conference standing with a percentage of 857, Wisconsin is second with .833, and Illinois third with .800.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 17.—Although Capt. Arthur M. Milburn of the Yale varsity baseball team, was one of five players, declared ineligible for the remainder of the college year for violating the summer baseball rule, he was unanimously re-elected captain at a meeting of the nine yesterday. It was said that while he would be unable to play, he will direct the team from the bench.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 17.—The Harvard lacrosse schedule just announced by the athletic committee is virtually the same as that of last year with the exception that Yale will play in Cambridge for the first time.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 17.—Yale's ice hockey team easily defeated Williams last night, 5 to 0.

Famous Runner Dead.
Boston, Mass., Feb. 17.—John (Kaiser) Powers, who thirty-five years ago, was internationally famous as a professional runner, at distances from 220 to 600 yards, died last night. His greatest race was a special match of 140 yards against Ed Tidale at Mystic Park, in 1880, when he won a purse of $20,000.

THIRST MAY PROVE TO BE EXPENSIVE

Andrew Johnson Bound Over for Entering Brewery Last June.

On a warm night last June, Andrew Johnson, with three friends, became thirsty.

One of the boys knew a man who worked in the People's Brewing company's plant at Forty-second avenue west and Traverse street, police said, and so they conceived the plan of breaking into the brewery to "buy" some beer after 11 o'clock.

They broke in, but before they reached the beer, Sgt. Andrew of the West Duluth police station, with other patrolmen, surprised them and arrested the three friends.

Johnson, escaped, so the story goes. The three friends were arraigned in court, one was sentenced to sixty days at the work farm, one to thirty, and the third was paroled.

Yesterday afternoon Johnson began to pay for the beer which he almost drank. He was bound over to the grand jury in $100 bail on a charge of unlawfully entering a building.

He had been away from the city for a long time, police said.

Intercostal Neuralgia

WILLIAM BRADY, MD.

Running around the chest from the spine, and sending sensory branches to the skin of the back, sides and front of the torso are twelve pairs of nerves, called intercostal nerves (inter, between; costal, ribs) because they are between the ribs.

These intercostal nerves are dishonest, or at least much misunderstood. For instance, the sixth and seventh pairs supply the skin over the "pit of the stomach," and when they hurt you have "stomach ache."

Pott's disease (tuberculosis of the vertebrae) the child is likely to suffer with stomach ache, when in reality the stomach is innocent. In simple neuralgia of the same pairs the patient, usually a woman, declares she has stomach trouble, when generally she takes treatment for the stomach.

A more frequent situation of intercostal neuralgia is in the fourth or fifth intercostal nerve, and for some reason we have never fathomed, it is usually the left nerve, so that the victim is positive she has "neuralgia of the heart" or "heart disease."

The twelfth pair join with lumbar nerves to supply the skin over the lowest region of the abdomen, and many a deluded victim of neuralgia or pressure upon these nerves considers himself subject to "intestinal indigestion," or mayhap appendicitis. It is probably along the right twelfth intercostal nerve that the pain of pleurisy or pneumonia is referred in those occasional cases where the doctor hovers threateningly between immediate interference and discretionary delay—and blesses his stars next day when I omitted sugars and starches from my diet for three months, but it did not stop gas formation. Why?

Answers.—How do you know it was starches? Gas may be due to many ailments outside of the digestive system.

Sounds Like Colic.
Could nervousness, a rapid heart and excessive flow in a girl of 14 years be caused by a colic? If the colic cannot be cured by medical treatment, how long should one wait before having it operated on?

Answers.—1. Complete rest (in bed) should be tried, and medical treatment for at least three months before even considering surgery, unless the patient fails.

WRITERS IN VICES AND VIRTUES CONTEST FIND GOOD IN WORST OF MEN AND WOMEN

Swearing, Use of Tobacco and Liquor and Extravagance Are Frowned Upon as Worst Vices of Women; Men Should Be Temperate and Clean Morally, Say Women.

The men and women are about evenly divided in the letters opened today in the Vices and Virtues contest being conducted by The Herald. No more letters are being received, but the majority of those received before yesterday will be published.

That there is good and bad in the best and worst men and women seems to be the opinion of most of the contestants. Temperance and morality in men appear to be leading virtues, according to letters today. Swearing, use of liquor, tobacco, and extravagance in women are frowned upon by the men. The letters follow:

Temperance Urged.
Della A. Denery, Duluth:
"The ten finest virtues in a man are:
1. Purity in word and deed.
2. Temperance in all things.
3. Honesty.
4. Frankness.
5. Broadmindedness.
6. Sociability.
7. Humor.
8. Politeness, especially in his own family.
9. Manliness.
10. Kindness.
"The worst faults a man could have are:
1. Intemperance.
2. Vulgar and profane speech.
3. Low ideals of honor.
4. Cowardice.
5. Stinginess.
6. Brutality.
7. Jealousy.
8. Narrowmindedness.
9. Laziness.
10. Unkindness."

Good and Bad in All.
I. W. Hibbing, Minn.:
"There's good and bad in every son of Adam.
How we all love a deferential man! Enthusiasm, too, appeals to 'mumdam.'
Diplomacy and honor lead the van. Under the banner of true loyalty, Let men of every nation take their stand, Until their enterprise and bravery, Tell of heroic deeds in every land! Humanity to man and beast as well,
"Ever denotes nobility. And now, "Vale to the virtues; I must rack my brain.
Even of vices horrible, to tell. Now, though I think hypocrisy is bad, Indifference to me is worse yet. Niggardiness, in men is very bad. Cluttering's something women can't forget.
"Harshness and arrogance have no charms for us. Everyone hates an argumentative man. Recklessness often causes quite a fuss. And despotism has, since time began, Laid many low. One more, and then I'm done.
Debauchery, I think's the very one."

A. T. N., Duluth:
"I am sending you my opinion of the ten worst faults and the ten best virtues in a woman.
1. Swearing.
2. Immorality.
3. Smoking cigars and cigarettes.
4. Chewing tobacco.
5. Extravagance in buying too much clothes.
6. Decidfulness.
7. Ignoring about other women and their clothes.
8. Dishonesty.
9. Having a dog for a pet when she ought to be a mother.
10. Wearing number two or three shoes when she ought to wear number four or five.
"The ten best virtues in a woman are:
1. Above all to be a mother.
2. Kindhearted to all, most of all to father and mother.
3. Love for her children."

COMMON SENSE AND HEALTH

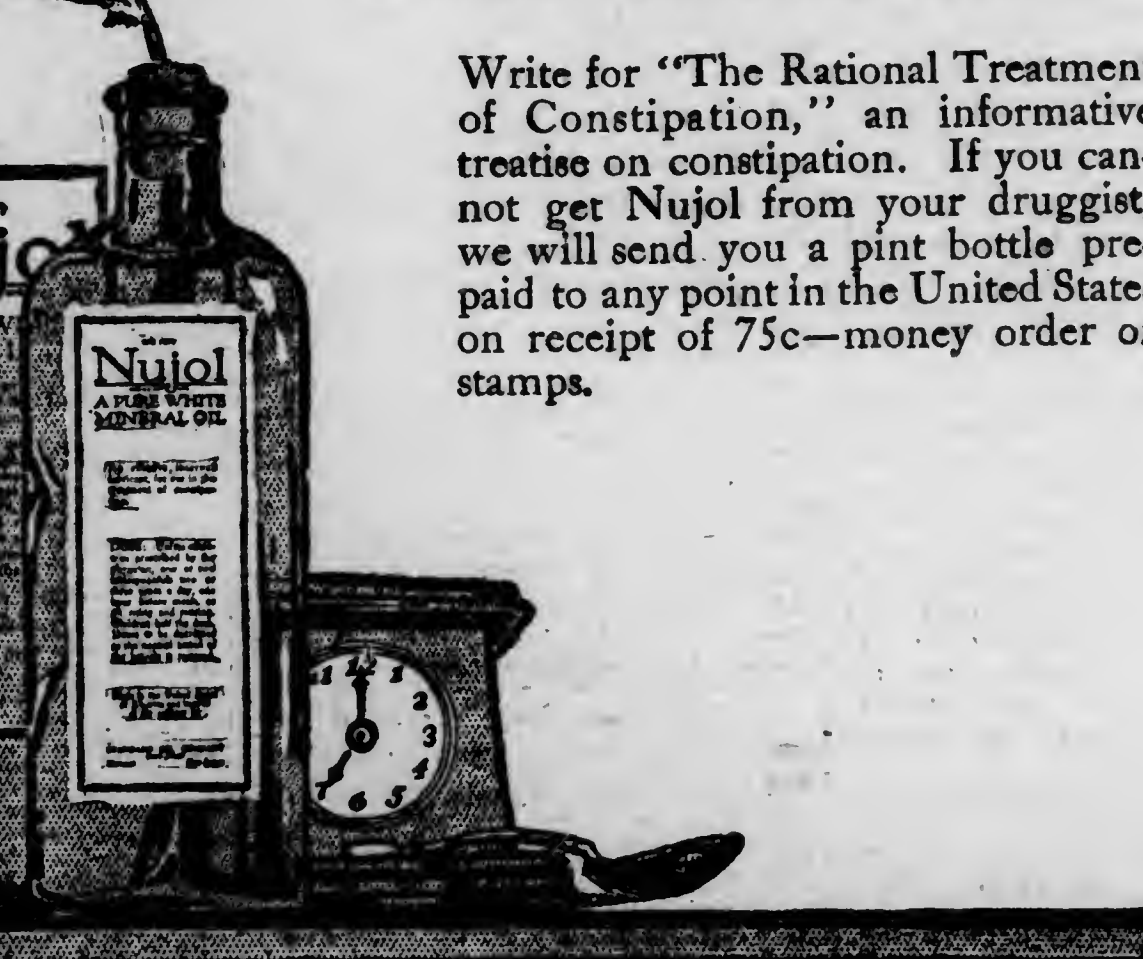

COMMON sense tells you that real health cannot be forever dependent upon the artificial stimulation of laxatives and cathartics.

Drugs relieve constipation temporarily, but never cure it. Nujol is odorless and tasteless, absolutely neutral, and is not digested or absorbed into the system. It acts merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick, temporary relief. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

DANGER!

Since the recent heavy fall of snow certain kinds of accidents, that might not happen under ordinary conditions are likely to be caused by the condition of the streets. While the Department of Public Works and this company has removed thousands of cubic yards of snow from the streets in the past few weeks it will be impossible to move it all and we would warn drivers of automobiles and other vehicles against the great danger of turning to the left to get around a street car when there is not room to pass the street car on the right by reason of the snow. Any driver who is tempted to do this should "think of safety first" and remain behind the street car until there is room to pass it upon the right.

The streets at and near the crosswalks are covered with ice and snow and it often slopes toward the street car track. Persons waiting for street cars or walking in the track ahead of street cars should be very careful to avoid slipping upon the track ahead of a car. We are constantly cautioning our motormen to use great care to avoid accidents and we would now respectfully request that drivers of vehicles, pedestrians and our patrons when about to board cars should also use care, thereby co-operating with us to prevent accidents.

ELY COUNCIL BEATS PROPOSED ORDINANCE

Municipal Act to Change Ward Boundaries Fails of Passage.

Ely, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular meeting of the city council held Tuesday evening, Mayor licenses were granted to Joseph Geertz, Bart Coffey, Loren Walsh and Frank Brisco.

The report of the state board of health showed Ely's water supply is abundant and pure.

Some recommendations from the state board will be carried out by Supt. William Mitchell.

City Engineer Nutter recommended the purchase of 200 feet of 15-inch sewer pipe to be installed in the center of Sheridan street, between Sixth and Seventh streets.

The matter was referred to the purchasing committee to purchase the necessary material and proceed with the work.

Boundary Ordinance Rejected.—The proposed ordinance changing the boundary lines of the several wards was lost by a vote of 4 to 2.

Algerman Mike Somero offered a resolution that there be transferred from the general fund to the light and water fund the sum of $8,387.45, earned for water furnished for sprinkling and fire protection and for the electric current furnished for street lighting from April, 1915, to Jan. 31, 1916. This resolution was passed.

Applaud Election Judges.—Judges and clerks who served at the coming presidential primary election were appointed. Alderman Knutson being chairman, and George Knutson, Fred St. Marie and Fred James, third ward, skating rink building, John Dinsmore, R. J. Toms and Martin Skalko.

The city clerk was directed to advertise for bids for the sale of the skin, engine and generator, the bids to be opened on March 21 at 8 p. m.

Mr. Park, consulting engineer, was directed to advertise for bids for a settling tank, bids to be opened on March 21.

HULL-RUST WILL SHIP MUCH ORE

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Butler Brothers yesterday started stripping at Nashua and Calumet.

A well-founded report has it that the Hull-Rust open pit, one of the largest in the range, will ship 4,000,000 tons of ore this year.

The Hull-Rust in 1915 shipped 3,457,000 tons and in 1916, 2,394,000 tons.

This year with a greater demand for ore, it is thought the 4,000,000 mark will be reached.

A prominent mining official stated that if all the ore that is expected to be shipped this year is placed in one big stockpile it will reach 300 feet into the sky and completely fill one city block.

Mining men on the range and particularly in this district, are looking forward to one of the busiest seasons in years this coming summer.

HIBBING'S JAIL IS INSANITARY

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Hibbing jail facilities are inadequate and insanitary is the opinion of M. G. Foley of the state board of control in a statement made to local officials.

He states that at the next meeting of the board the question will be taken up. Mr. Foley expects to make an examination of the local jail in a month.

He states that the jail is not properly ventilated. He went to Nashua to examine the jail recently constructed there.

AURORA POLITICS BEING DISCUSSED

Candidates for Various Village Offices Are Now Proposed.

Aurora, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—While all the candidates in the village election have not announced themselves, enough are in the field to make things interesting.

The office of township supervisor will attract most attention and the following are spoken of as candidates: Louis Horcher, Capt. J. J. Hudson, Roger Wood, Ludwig Hill, August Knut, Dr. Edward Darrow, H. Hoelvar.

He is the only one who has filed so far. O. F. Halstrom, present town clerk, will be a candidate to succeed himself.

John Nopola, assessor, has resigned and an assessor will be elected. There is considerable work entailed and candidates are not plentiful as easier offices are mostly sought.

FORMER VIRGINIA BOY LEAVES FRONT

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the state department's efforts, a former domestic science teacher here, her brother, William J. Barclay, formerly a piano salesman here, has been released.

WHEAT AGAIN SELLS DOWN

Market Declines Sharply on Reported Reselling By Exporters.

Flaxseed Turns Easy With Limited Buying By Crushers' Interests.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 17.—The market was still easy at the close, with a drab appearance. Trading was light.

May wheat closed 1 1/2% off and July 1 1/2% off.

May durum closed 1 1/2% off and July 1 1/2% off.

Oats closed 1/2% off at 45 1/2¢ for on the track; rye unchanged at 95¢ and barley unchanged at 65¢.

At Winnipeg, May oats closed 1/2% off at 45 1/2¢.

At St. Louis, May wheat closed at 1 1/2% off and July at 1 1/2% off.

At Kansas City, May wheat closed at 1 1/2% off and July at 1 1/2% off.

At Minneapolis, May wheat closed at 1 1/2% off and July at 1 1/2% off.

After securing a bulge of 1¢ during the early trading today, the market was again brought about by higher Liverpool cables, the wheat market slumped sharply in view of the fact that it was not expected from Argentina before April. Prices were therefor carried up in the enthusiasm before it was realized that on account of the congestion at the seaboard, shipments cannot be made from the terminals at the Head of the Lakes or from other points to any extent just now.

An embargo was announced yesterday afternoon against shipments to Baltimore.

Just 22 cars of wheat were received here today. Minneapolis had 229, 123 cars compared with 351 a year ago. The light marketings at Winnipeg are considered to reflect the extreme congestion in the Canadian West.

Clearings have been comparatively light of late on account of lack of ocean tonnage so the impression is being made upon the large supplies of grain now in the East awaiting export facilities.

May wheat opened 1/2% up at $1.29 1/2, advanced 1/2¢ and then receded 1/2¢ to 1.29 1/2¢ at noon-hour. July opened 1/2% up at $1.29 1/2, and sold off 1/2¢.

May durum opened unchanged at $1.26 1/2, gained 1/2¢ and then receded 1/2¢ to 1.27 1/2¢ at noon-hour. July opened 1/2% up at $1.27 1/2, and sold off 1/2¢.

Flaxseed appeared to be indifferent in today's market and quotations eased off substantially after a show of strength around the opening. It is estimated that all crushers are not anxious to present to follow up the advance in the seed. The speculative element has taken on waiting for a rise. Cables were easy and that contributed to the break. Buenos Aires closed 1/2¢ off at $1.44 1/2 and London 1/2¢ off at $1.43 1/2.

May flax opened unchanged at $2.36 and closed 1/2¢ off at $2.35 1/2.

At Winnipeg, May flax closed 1/2¢ off at $2.34 1/2.

TO INVESTIGATE ALLEGED PLOT

Important Evidence in Conspiracy to Blow Up Detroit Plant.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 18.—Investigation of the alleged plot to dynamite the plant of the American Car & Foundry company here will be turned over to the department of justice, it was learned today. It is understood the authorities have important evidence in connection with the arrest of two youths who formerly were employed by the company.
The prisoners, Otto Bartholme, 21, and Ernest McCord, 23, have answered numerous questions put to them but local officials have declined to discuss that phase of the case.
Investigation of recent acts of the two youths and discovery of correspondence which seemingly bears their names indicates both were greatly interested in the European war. McCord has been called a soldier of fortune and an assistant of Bartholme. The latter, it is claimed, has been corresponding with at least one consul of a nation involved in the European war.
The police admitted that a letter signed "McCord" had been written to E. W. Moir, 120 Broadway, New York, offering to sell his rights in a so-called bullet proof vest. This is said to indicate Moir is a purchasing agent for the British government.

PREACHING MISSION IS NEARING CLOSE

The preaching mission at Trinity cathedral showed no falling off in the way of attendance and no diminution of interest last night.
The mission is drawing to a close and as far as outward signs go, has proved to be a success. Last night Bishop Morrison preached upon "Decision." Tonight the subject of his sermon will be "The Master's Challenge." Tomorrow night he will preach on "The Church," and Sunday night at 8 o'clock on "The Atonement."

Commission Makes Report.
Frederickton, N. The document, containing about 17,000 words, was signed here yesterday and will be forwarded to Ottawa and Washington at once. No intimation of its contents was given out.

NO DISORDER AT ANSONIA

Nearly 5,000 Foreigners on Strike for Higher Wages.

Men Speaking Dozen Languages Quickly Organized at Plant.

Ansonia, Conn., Feb. 18.—Hundreds of the striking laborers of the American Brass company, who are demanding increased pay, gathered near the mills at the opening hour this morning, but there was no disorder and no recurrence of the scenes which marked the walkout yesterday of the greater number of the 4,500 men now on strike. The company through Vice President John A. Coe, Jr., at Waterbury had already announced that a sliding scale of increase, approximating 10 per cent throughout the shops of the company in the Naugatuck valley had been granted. This increase will affect about 13,000 men, including those in the shops here.

Mostly of Foreign Birth.
The peculiarities of the strike which closed all the mills here of the American Brass company are that the strikers, about 4,500 in number, are mostly of foreign birth, are unskilled, and although speaking a dozen European languages, have been secretly welded into one organization with the assistance of an officer of organized labor. The mill officials were taken completely by surprise.

The strike began late Wednesday when 800 laborers employed in the mill of the Ansonia company, struck for higher wages. Yesterday men began to dribble out of the other mills of the American Brass company and suddenly yesterday afternoon hundreds of men went through the wire mill of the company, making every one stop work. The company has posted a notice of a wage increase of 25 cents a day to unskilled laborers who had received $2.50 or less, and a 10 per cent increase to all over $2.50 a day.

STATE EDITORS LISTEN TO THORPE

Head of Kansas University Department of Journalism Speaks.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Merle Thorpe, head of the department of journalism of the University of Kansas, addressed the Minnesota Editorial association at the Radisson hotel this afternoon. Mr. Thorpe discussed the relation between a state university's department of journalism and the state press.

As an extension of the service performed by the Kansas university's department of journalism for the press of the state a new bureau has just been announced. This is to be an advertising bureau which will, on the one hand, undertake to provide large advertisers with information as to conditions in various parts of the state, and, on the other hand, will undertake to place advertising with the various papers.

In view of the fact that the University of Minnesota has been planning to establish a general bureau to provide similar service for the press of Minnesota, Mr. Thorpe's address is expected to give the editors of the state a clear idea of what the university expects to do.

'TEMPTERS' FOLLOW PASTOR ON STAGE

While Rev. John W. Hoffman is delivering his noonday talks from the stage of the Lyceum theater next week, "The Tempters" will be busy in the dressing rooms donning their tights and makeup.
The "Tempters" in question are the members of a burlesque company which will appear at the theater for the first four days of the week. They will give a matinee each day, and their performances will begin shortly after the noon meetings are ended. Possibly some of the "Tempters" will find time to hear the talks.

SOLDIER-ARTISTS PURSUE THEIR ART

Music, as Well as Painting and Sculpture, Is Cultivated.

Paris, Feb. 4.—Many soldier-artists continue to pursue their art at the front. Music, as well as painting and sculpture, is being cultivated. M. Ghesel, director of the Opera Comique, has found no decrease in the number of scores which reach him from all quarters, even from the trenches. But there is this difference, that whereas the civilian revels in martial themes the soldier-musician sounds the pastoral note and seeks inspiration from nature in her country aspects. Some of the latter contributions are of no mean order and there is notably one score—an opera in three acts—which bears the hallmarks of a masterpiece. The production of this work will prove anything but costly as there are only two scenes, the sea and a mountain pinnacle, and three characters.

M. Ghesel was so struck by the dignity and mastery technique of the score that he suspected the anonymous author of being possibly one of the luminaries of his profession, who by this subterfuge wished to test the merit of his work on its face value and to compete on equal terms with his less known rivals. Accordingly an assembly of musical Olympians was convened to hear a recital of the work, but none of them could recognize the style of any of their contemporaries. All agreed that a new masterpiece had been created for the glory of French music.

None of the works submitted at present will be definitely judged before peace is declared.

discussing any particular latent gift of generalship.
"When France alone was facing in 1792 the most formidable European coalition she has ever withstood single-handed," says Prof. Aulard, "she was saved by the appearance of exceptional generals, such as Hoche, Jourdan, Moreau and finally Bonaparte. Their talents were discovered by a system of close observation on the part, not only of the deputies with official missions, but by the personal contact of members of the government with the troops. By mixing and talking with the men, those officers who had their confidence and aroused their enthusiasm were discovered. Advancement was then of the swiftest. Lazare Hoche, for example, who in the beginning of 1793 was a simple captain, was appointed brigadier general in the autumn of the same year at 25 years of age."

Prof. Aulard declares that a similar system for the advancement of new men in the army would be both possible and desirable today. But it would be necessary that members of the government personally survey the troops in action, as Carnot, minister of war, and Saint-Just did in 1793-4.

It might seem that experiment with new leaders entails a greater risk today than in former times, when armies were counted by thousands instead of by millions, but Prof. Aulard is inclined to the contrary.

"A pitched battle, lost or won 100 years ago," said he, "could and generally did, decide the fate of a campaign, whereas today, with trench warfare and the definite means of elaborating a defensive action, failure to succeed in adopting new plans of offensive and possibly putting new leaders to the test would not necessarily spell disaster."

FORMER WINONA PUBLISHER MISSING

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The whereabouts of Scott Laird, publisher of the Oelwein, Iowa, Daily News and for many years publisher of the Winona Republican-Herald, is still unknown.
Mr. Laird disappeared from his room in a Chicago hotel early Wednesday morning, leaving his coat, hat and other belongings. He had settled there but had told no one, so far as has been learned, where he was going. He came here to attend a meeting of Middle West newspaper men. His friends, having been unable to get a trace of him, have called in the aid of the police.

LAMBERT INQUEST IS TO BE HELD MONDAY

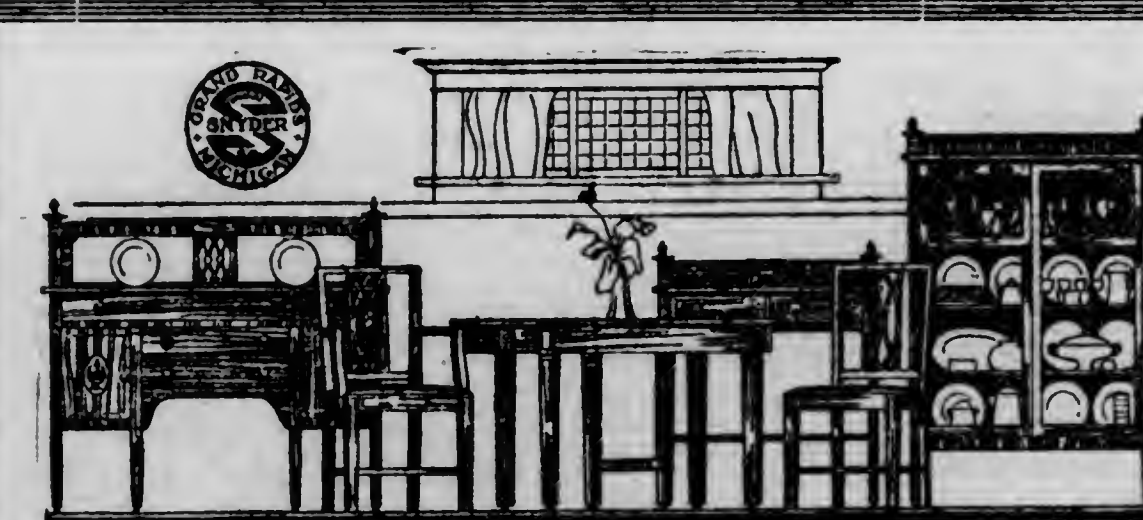

Chicago, Feb. 18.—The coroner's inquest into the death of Miss Marian Lambert, 18 years old, Lake Forest school girl, who was found dead in the woods near her home, and for whose murder Will H. Orpet, a student at the University of Wisconsin is held, will be held Monday. The testimony of Josephine Davis, who was a close friend of Miss Lambert, and that of the physicians whose post-mortem examination and subsequent dissection of the contents of the dead girl's vital organs disclosed the presence of poison, will be heard.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. Try them. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headaches—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

GOSPEL TALKS AT LYCEUM

Dr. Hoffman Will Conduct Annual Services at Lyceum Theater.

Continue All Next Week—Song Service and Brief Address.

Noon day services will be begun by Rev. John W. Hoffman, minister of the First Methodist church, at the Lyceum theater next Monday, and will continue each day up to the following Saturday, inclusive.

This has become an annual event for the pastor of the First Methodist church, and this will be the seventh year. Each year, these noon meetings have been a great success and are quite generally attended by men, women and children. No collections are taken and good singing is furnished, the kind in which the audience can join.

The meetings are brief. The song service begins at 12:10 and continues until 12:30. After Dr. Hoffman's brief address, the close is promptly at 12:50. The time is adjusted so that people employed downtown may have a light luncheon before the address begins, entering during the song service, and will have time after the lunch to get back to their places of work.

Dr. Hoffman's addresses will be on the following subjects:

Monday—"Prepare or Perish."

Tuesday—"The Helpless Christ."

Wednesday—"Loss of Nerve."

Thursday—"Ripples."

Friday—"The Helpless Christ."

Saturday—"The Last Chance."

UNITED STATES MUST INSIST ON RIGHTS OF NEUTRALS, SAYS LODGE

inate business calls them upon the high seas."

Practice of All Nations.

"Such," he added, "has been the practice of all nations in regard to the armed merchantmen. It seems utterly incredible that this position should be in any way altered now or that our government should be ready to surrender the unquestioned rights of Americans to travel or ship goods on a belligerent merchantman subject to all the rules which have been established by the courts and by all international authorities for at least two centuries."

"The abandonment of those rights by a neutral government on the ground that the invention of submarines with the necessary limitations upon the use of the right of capture and those boats is inconceivable. Such abandonment could only rest on the ground that the rights of neutrals, the rules which for centuries have been agreed upon by all nations for the protection of innocent lives upon vessels captured in war, must be thrown aside and discarded in order that a new instrument of military destruction must not be impeded in its work of death and murder. Such a doctrine is revolting to every instinct of humanity, to every principle of law and justice."

"There is, however, another side to this matter which is of even greater importance. There can be no neutral act by any act by a neutral which alters conditions created by the war is an unneutral act and places the neutral upon the side of one belligerent or the other."

True of Embargo.

"This is emphatically true of any form of embargo, and there is no need that I should repeat the unanswerable argument on this point embodied by Mr. Lansing in his note of last August to the government of Austria-Hungary. The war, and the war alone, has also created conditions under which any change at the time in the attitude which we took officially at the outset of the war in regard to armed merchantmen would be an unneutral act. The merchantman of one belligerent have been swept from the seas. Therefore if we should abandon the principles on which we have been acting since the late war, we would be unneutral. In his circular of September 1914, and declare that our ports were closed to armed merchantmen, or that goods and passengers from the United States could not be placed on an uncommissioned merchantman, armed solely for self-defense, our action would affect only one belligerent; it would alter conditions created by the war, and would therefore be unneutral. It would make us at once the ally of the belligerent whose merchant marine has been driven from the ocean. It would be a step toward war."

If I cannot believe that the administration thinks for a moment of altering the well defined position which it took at the outset of the European war, and I believe that it must stand as firmly on this question as it has on the question of the embargo. Should it act otherwise it would accept a humiliation, and incur a danger of war from which even the boldest statesman most unscrupulous would shrink."

Senator Sterling Speaks.

Senator Sterling, of South Dakota, spoke on his resolution to declare the Senate's concern at the recent German naval order to sink all armed allied merchant ships. He said the issue was not whether the United States is a belligerent or neutral, but whether it is a "great international crisis."

Instead of yielding to the claims of the German admiralty, he said, "they must meet with vigorous protest. Instead of denying this old right of the seas, we should now, at all times, vie with her or any other nation in seeking to uphold it. It is possible some danger will be incurred but I do not much fear dangers will be increased beyond what they are at present. But I do know that that honor in which American lives are involved and his administration and the world will know that there is real America, not supine, apathetic and hesitating, but strong, militant, if need be, and ready to respond to those noble impulses of liberty and humanity which have been our heritage from the beginning."

"For peace commissioners, for delegates to the Hague conventions, for internationalists, there will be a new problem and a new cause, and that will be to limit the hostile operations, at least the destructive operations, of the submarine to war craft, and to prohibit the destruction of the boat or strictly auxiliary vessels by means and at risks that shock humanity and shame our civilization."

Discussing the right of Great Britain to arm her merchant fleet for defense purposes, Senator Sterling said:

"Of all the peoples in the world wide it becomes us to deny Great Britain in diplomatic haggling to secure her remuneration of it. Our export trade has been growing by leaps and bounds. Each month has been exceeding by many millions the last preceding month. The manufacturers of arms and munitions of war are not the only beneficiaries, but the products of the farm, the forest, the mine, find a foreign demand and market never in the aggregate equalled. But with our own poor and inadequate merchant marine how would it have been were she not mistress of the seas?"

Senator Sterling also said that it "is not a remote inference that the present attitude of the German admiralty in regard to the right to attack and destroy armed merchantmen without warning was encouraged if not invited by the memorandum of our state department to the Entente powers."

CAPTURE OF ERZERUM BY RUSS ONE OF MOST BRILLIANT FEATS OF WAR

positions in that direction and even less apprehension of danger from a frontal attack.

Nevertheless after the Russians succeeded in taking by storm the first line forts on Feb. 2, there began a persistent bombardment of the Turkish center, followed by a bayonet charge, the impetuosity of which swept the defenders of their feet. The highest tribute is paid to the bravery of the Caucasian troops, who are considered likely to go down in history as one of the most brilliant feats of the war.

It is recognized here that the success of the assault was due almost entirely to the bayonet charge of the troops, since the artillery preparation was insufficient in intensity and duration, according to military experts to reduce even a strong field position. The wiping out of this Turkish base tends to disrupt the German and campaign of the Turks, as it is not only served as a base of the operations in the Caucasus, but also as a base in Mesopotamia. Its fall leaves no strongly fortified base about 230 miles to the west and brings more to the front constant operations of the Russian army upon Constantinople from the east.

GERMANY MUST CONDUCT WAR IN ACCORDANCE WITH LAW

the circumstances of the sinking of the British steamship Forster, probably will be withheld until Austria gives similar assurances to those now requested from Germany.

Explained to Ambassador.

The views of the United States were explained in detail by Secretary Lansing to Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador. The ambassador was informed, it was indicated at the state department, that the United States desires the German declaration regarding armed merchant ships to be a binding one, and that it would not be fired upon.

In the Same Class.

In this connection, it is explained at the state department that the United States considers unarmed merchant ships and ships carrying contraband of war to be in identical the same class. Furthermore, it is said that the United States is not prepared to give assurances that a submarine which warns a British steamship, armed and equipped for war, of its presence, would not be fired upon.

It was declared at the department that at no time had questions been made to the German government which would have led it to issue its latest memorandum. The German government's attitude was made by German officers that the American memorandum to Entente allies suggest violation and non-compliance with the disarming of merchant ships, was the direct cause of Germany issuing her declaration. From other sources outside the department came the information that the department had been advised informally of the German intentions in this respect.

The submarine situation with its new development was discussed at today's cabinet meeting. Secretary Lansing, who presided, stated that the cabinet assembled and discussed the question with the president also known to the German allies.

FRICION ARISES IN QUARANTINE ORDERS

Congressional Investigation May Be Asked By Illinoisans.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Fricion between the Federal and state authorities in quarantine orders growing out of the foot and mouth diseases was expected today to result in a proposal for congressional investigation of methods of the Federal bureau of animal industry to be presented to the Illinois stock breeders' association.

The stockmen have been summoned to attend a special meeting to protest against the quarantine on cattle, sheep and swine shipped from the Chicago stock yards to points within the state for purposes other than immediate slaughter.

The contention of the state officials is that the Federal order puts an unnecessary burden on the Illinois stockman. The state quarantine order is to be effective until the Federal quarantine is lifted.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain purified cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls of cocoon oil will make a hair cream, hair soap or anything else you wish. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

PRINCE IS BONAPARTE

Head of the Bonaparte Family Excluded From Service in War.

Is Civilian Auxiliary to Geographical Section of French Army.

Paris, Feb. 18.—Prince Roland Bonaparte, the only male descendant of the oldest branch of the house of Bonaparte having male representatives living, and consequently head of the family, according to the rules of primogeniture, is taking a most part in the war. Excluded from active service by the law of 1836, as a member of a family having reigned over France, he was attached in the quality of civilian auxiliary to the geographical section of the army.

Physically, Prince Roland Bonaparte is a man of great strength and endurance, and he is taking a most part in the war. Excluded from active service by the law of 1836, as a member of a family having reigned over France, he was attached in the quality of civilian auxiliary to the geographical section of the army.

"I should have liked to fight for France in the field," he said to a reporter, "but I have no imperial ambitions and no other desire than to serve as I can the cause of my country and the interests of science."

Physically, Prince Roland Bonaparte is a man of great strength and endurance, and he is taking a most part in the war. Excluded from active service by the law of 1836, as a member of a family having reigned over France, he was attached in the quality of civilian auxiliary to the geographical section of the army.

"Be so kind as to be seated," he said to the correspondent, pointing to an arm chair in the study. He sat down at work in his study. It stood in front of one of Napoleon's desks, on which were piles of scientific books and documents, among them a copy of his latest publication, issued since the war began, treating of 348 groups of ferns, among which are 35 new species and 24 hitherto unknown forms of old species. These studies, discovered during the prince's collection of ferns alone up to about 350,000 different varieties.

"Yes, I suppose I am really the head of the house of Bonaparte," he replied to the correspondent's question as to whether he considered himself a Bonaparte. "I don't think it matters much since empires and emperors have very little interest in me. At the time Napoleon did not care for me, and I would never have known had I been an emperor. Having lived with Napoleon, I have learned that once and then it was neither for pleasure nor for duty, but for the sake of the military campaign on his mind."

"Pretending to the imperial scepter is useless anyway," declared the prince, "for the Bonapartist doctrine is the plebeian."

The prince lives on the Avenue d'Orleans, in a spacious mansion big enough to be called a palace, but resembling a more the quarters of an aristocrat. He has a well-ordered commercial enterprise. There is an air of business about the place. The prince's collection of ferns, all catalogued and described in his own handwriting, is a library of 200,000 scientific works which the prince puts to considerable use, judging from the volumes lying about the floor, on the chairs and on the desk of his own study.

When Prince Roland was excluded from the army, he turned to the study of the human body. He has since been nearly every specimen of human life, from the most common to the most extraordinary. He has studied anatomy, botany, zoology, geography, glaciers and aviation subsequently occurred to him. He has also studied the history of the human body, from the most common to the most extraordinary. Friends in America.

"I have many highly esteemed friends in America," he said, "some of them are very famous. I am particularly fond of William E. Mason of the Smithsonian institute, and Miss Slossom of the University of Chicago. They are both very kind and helpful. They have been of great value to me in my collection."

ILLEGAL EXEMPTIONS FROM WAR SERVICE TO GUARD PATRONS OF CATHOLIC BALL

Sensational Disclosures Said to Have Been Made By Russ Paper.

Berlin, Feb. 18, wireless to Sayville.—A Russian newspaper published sensational disclosures concerning illegal exemptions from military service, says the Overseas news agency. The secretary of a recruiting committee at Petrograd and a large number of military surgeons have been arrested. They are charged with having accepted amounts ranging from ten thousand rubles up in each case.

"The Russian press also reports that a Moscow committee for the relief of refugees received 200,000 rubles from the government in December of 1915. The president of the committee, Prince Troubetzkoy, stated later that 200,000 rubles more was sent to the committee in December and January, but that this money never reached its destination. The leakage has not yet been explained."

"This corruption, together with the reactionary policy of the Russian authorities, caused a strong opposition movement among members of the duma. After the downfall of Premier Gorevkin, the new premier, M. Sturmer attempted to calm the storm by meeting the party leaders individually. Most of these leaders declined to receive him. He then invited the leaders to afternoon tea in order to establish harmonious social relations, but this move was equally unsuccessful, as was demonstrated by the recent convention of the party leaders."

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Brest Tea, or as the German folk call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieves congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

TWELVE FAMOUS STARS WILL

LEO DIETRICHSTEIN.

One of the Twelve Stars in "How Molly Made Good," to Be Shown at the Orpheum-Strand.

Leo Dietrichstein, the illustrious actor now starring in "The Great Lover" on Broadway with remarkable success, is one of the twelve famous stars that make up the cast in the motion picture achievement, "How Molly Made Good," to be shown at the Orpheum-Strand for four days only, commencing next Sunday afternoon.

"How Molly Made Good" sets a new high water mark in moving picture production, bringing as it does into one feature, twelve of the most illustrious stars that adorn the American stage. Not alone do these famous actors contribute scenes of interest to this picture, but they bring their wives, children and their homes into the setting.

BETTER SHOW AT GRAND.

"Two English Johnnies" Create Much Merriment in Varied Turn.

The new show at the Grand theater, which opened a week-end engagement at that popular playhouse yesterday, shows considerable more class than the one that preceded it. There is a fairly good variety of entertainment in the vaudeville and the photoplays are up to the average standard.

Probably the most entertaining act of the show is that of Clayton and Jennie, who are described as "two English Johnnies." The latter is clever in the use of dialect, and while it may be overdrawn at times, it is none the less amusing. Their best test material is that they keep their audience in almost continual merriment, and their jokes are clean and new in part.

Prinze and Derris, in a singing and talking skit entitled "Twilight," create a lot of amusement with their humor and pleasantry with their singing. Both have good voices, and put plenty of energy into their costumes that are stylish and very becoming.

The Georgetown jokers of human beings, are clever performers, and a midge forms the foil for the athletic activities of two men and a woman.

Mankin, the freeman and contortionist, is in Duluth again in his old act, which is noted for its elaborate setting and brilliant lighting effects.

He has about all of his old turns and perhaps a few new ones.

Richard Travers and Ruth Stonehouse in "Brought Home," a three-reel Vitaphone feature film, are seen at their best, and the play is particularly pleasing because of its heart qualities.

The Trail's End, a Marguerite story, the Selig-Tribune News, and two comedies complete the film program.

ADVISES PROMOTION OF COUNTRY DISTRICTS

Cities Must Do It to Hold Trade Says Burt
Williams.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 18.—Burt Williams, internal revenue collector for the Western district of Wisconsin, speaking before the industrial and commercial congress here today, said that the cities must do all possible to promote the country districts if they are to hold the trade of those districts. He said that where the cities did the districts, large trade zones have been built up. These trade zones are promoted, he said, by good city high schools, better churches, good newspapers, libraries and banks.

He illustrated his talk by showing the extent of each of these facilities in Walworth county.

R. A. Moore, head of the agronomy department of the university, emphasized the need of better seeds used by the farmers. He said the commercial organizations could urge farmers to use purebred seeds, and where these seeds had been used, greater production had resulted.

Hungarians Make Loan.
Berlin, Feb. 18, by wireless to Sayville.—The Hungarian minister of finance has concluded arrangements with a group of German banks for a loan of 150,000,000 marks. The loan will be covered by 5 per cent treasury bonds, redeemable in two and a half years.

IRREVERENCE AND INTEMPERANCE ARE MAN'S WORST VICES, SAY WOMEN IN HERALD CONTEST

Tale-Bearing, Vanity, Extravagance, Inconsistency and Haughtiness Are Declared to Be Women's Worst Vices.

Tale-bearing is the leading vice of woman according to the one man who is quoted in today's Vices and Virtues contest conducted by The Herald.

To women man's worst fault appears to be irreverence for God and intemperance, especially in the use of liquor.

Nearly all of the answers in the contest have now been published.

H. J. Smith, Duluth, writes:

"Tale-bearing leads."
"It is for tale-bearing."
"It is for haughtiness."
"It is for extravagance."
"It is for inconsistency."
"It is for vanity."

"Vanity is for vanity."
"It is for intemperance."
"It is for carelessness."
"It is for selfishness."
"These ten, taken together make 'Her Vices'."

"Vices."
"The ten worst faults a man can have."
"Irreverence towards God and all good."
"Lack of loyalty to his country."
"Disrespect towards and non-belief in virtuous women."

"Disrespect."
"Indulgence to his marriage vows."
"Intemperance."
"Extravagance."
"Procrastination."
"Lack of self-control."
"Neglect of family ties."

"The ten finest virtues in a man are:
"Love for God and brotherly love to all mankind."
"To serve his country honestly in every way he can."
"To be a booster for his own city."
"Courtesy toward rich and poor alike."
"Business ability."
"Promptness in meeting his obligations."
"Unselfishness."
"Love of home."
"To have self-respect without being egotistical."

"Edith L. Beardsley writes:

"3. Cholesterol—egoism.
"4. Immorality.
"5. Lack of loyalty—constancy.

STATE SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald).—The Minnesota supreme court today handed down decisions in the following cases:

TRASS & CO. V. ESTATE OF GEORGE RUPLEY.
Adverse Possession Defined.
George Rupley, appellant, vs. John G. Trass & Co., respondents. John G. Trass & Co. claim to be adverse possessors of land owned by George Rupley.

1. Possession must be actual, open, continuous, hostile and exclusive. By "hostile" is meant that the possessor must be with intent to claim and hold the land against the true owner and the whole world, but it is not necessary that the occupant enter under claim of ownership in fee.

2. A person may be in adverse possession of land though it is traversed by public streets, and while he cannot acquire by adverse user the rights of the public in the streets, he may by occupation of the whole tract acquire title to the portions not dedicated to public use, and he may also acquire title to the fee of the streets.

3. One in adverse possession may acquire a tax certificate on sale of the land for taxes, and may assign the same without breaking the continuity of his possession. An instrument of assignment given in this case by one in adverse possession, and in form a sale and transfer of all his interest in the land, is held not to break the continuity of adverse possession, first, because it was not delivered with intent to transfer, and second, because it was intended only as an assignment of the tax lien.

4. Though the instrument was in writing, still, in litigation between one party to the instrument and another, the real nature of the transaction may be shown by parol evidence.

5. There is no real forfeiture to the state for taxes in this state, and what is sometimes called a "three year statute" is the expiration of three years from date of sale to the state, not from date of delinquency of the tax.

Order affirmed. HALLAM, J.

WASHEKA COUNTY.
Wills and Distribution.
In re estate of Sarah J. Miller, deceased, vs. May Long, appellant, vs. Arthur E. Willsey, administrator, et al., respondents.

In the case of the estate of a testate the final decree of the probate court necessarily construes the will in distributing the estate and, unless made subject to the provisions of the will or unless ambiguous or uncertain on its face, the will may not be resorted to for the purpose of modifying or affecting the decree.

A final decree of distribution which in absolute and unequivocal terms has assigned the whole estate to one person is not affected by uncertainty or ambiguity by a recital that the distribution is in accordance with the terms of the will.

6. The court permitted to consider the will in the instant case, it should be construed as bequeathing and devising to the whole estate to the testator's widow absolutely. The expressions in the will of the testator's desire for his wife and family by a trust for the widow and children, in favor of testator's children.

Affirmed. HOLT, J.

LE SUEUR COUNTY.
Evidence Sustains Verdict.
John Shewch, administrator, respondent, vs. Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad company, appellant.

1. Plaintiff's intestate, who was employed by defendant as a flagman at a point where defendant's railroad tracks cross a city street, was run down and killed by a standing car which was shunted across the street.

Plaintiff alleges the existence of certain customs, of giving a signal or warning before moving cars over the crossing, of setting the brakes when a car was left standing and of moving slowly when making couplings.

That defendant violated these customs and that such violation was the proximate cause of the injury resulting in the death of plaintiff's intestate. Plaintiff had a verdict. No motion for new trial was made. A motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was denied and judgment entered.

Defendant appeals from the judgment. In such case, this court will only consider the sufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict. The evidence here is sufficient.

2. To entitle the defendant to judgment notwithstanding the verdict on the ground of deceased's contributory negligence, it is not sufficient that the evidence is manifestly against the preponderance of the evidence. "The undisputed evidence must conclusively establish a state of facts from which no other reasonable inference can be drawn, except that the deceased was guilty of carelessness, negligence or recklessness." SCHALLER, J.

NATURE'S ENDOWMENTS

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health for Pennsylvania.

Many people make the error of looking upon health as a crude possession that nature bestows upon man, and that it is his duty to resist it.

Every violation of the laws of Nature makes its impression on the vitality of man, who loses his resistance at every blow until the injury is so great that it becomes manifest to our grosser senses.

The maintenance of health is today based upon both science and art. For untold ages it is the result of the vast majority of our people and the art of woman who realizes the value of self-control has learned the first principle.

Appreciation of the things most worth while never comes from excessive indulgence. A rational life is fairly certain to be an important factor in health and happiness. Many a man or woman whom Nature has endowed with but a medium physique has cultivated and maintained a degree of bodily health and vigor through the use of a rational and pleasurable life.

On the other hand many a physical giant has so presumed upon Nature's endowment as to have wrecked that most precious gift—a good constitution.

NUMBER OF IDLE CARS DECREASES

Lowest Feb. 1, Since November, 1913—50 Per Cent Less Than Jan. 1.

Activity in railroad traffic was attested in a heavy decrease in the number of idle cars during January. The net surplus of idle freight cars on Feb. 1 stood at 21,435, as compared with 46,955 on Jan. 1, a decrease of 25,520.

The net surplus of idle freight cars on Feb. 1 was the lowest reported by the American Railway Association since November, 1913 and it represents a decrease of over 50 per cent compared with the January total.

It was shown by the figures that on account of the urgent need for cars to move grain and war materials and the large amount of equipment tied up at the Eastern seaboard through the congestion down that way, the railroads are working under pressure insofar as box car equipment goes. There was a net shortage of 9,416 box cars as compared with a net surplus of 3,391 on Jan. 1.

Coal traffic was in enormous proportions during the month, the net surplus of idle coal cars being down to 5,961 as compared with 14,706 on Jan. 1.

The changed conditions in railroad traffic compared with a year ago is evidenced in the statement that the surplus of idle freight cars on Feb. 1, 1915, stood at 27,411. During the year, too, the railroads added thousands of new cars to their equipments and great numbers of out-of-order cars were made available for service.

CAST IRON CORSETS FOR DULUTH "COPS"

Hereafter when Duluth police drill at the armory on Thursday afternoons one squad may be called the "Beef Trust," unless drillmaster E. H. Barber solves the problem in some other way.

"I'll have to organize a special squad for the fat fellows," he said, "because they spoil the straightness of the line."

"When I give the command 'right dress' and look along the line, these three men are too far forward. I go up and push them back, and look again. This time they are too far behind."

About three of those fellows either will be in drill in the near future, or get some cast-iron corsets," he added hopefully.

POTATOES ARE FAMILY'S FOOD

Spanish-American War Veteran and Dependents Near Starvation.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 18.—With a few potatoes saved from a swampy spot of the summer, all that was standing between them and starvation, Charles Peterson and his family of eight members were discovered by authorities in Laird township.

Peterson, who is about 40 years old, suffered an attack of typhoid fever while serving with a Wisconsin company in the Spanish American war, and his health has been so poor, it developed, that he could do little work.

String of Hard Luck.
He purchased forty acres of land from a lumber company and found himself unable to pay when installments were due, and a year ago he was granted a year of grace by the company. Early in the year Peterson sent out a cartload of birch bark and shipped them to Escanaba, but following a dispute over the logs with the company he was to sell them, the shipment was delayed, and the bill for demurrage turned in by the railway company came to more than the value of the logs.

Supervisor Earl Gillespie of Laird township, who is trying to get a pension for Peterson, told of the wretched conditions he found in the Peterson home.

"All the furniture that is contained in the man's small log house is a stove and an iron bed. The table, benches, etc., are made of rough hewn boards. Luckily, Peterson raised about 100 bushels of potatoes last year, and while he had to sell most of them to pay his taxes, they helped to keep his family from starving."

Oshkosh Man Badly Hurt.
Oshkosh, Wis., Feb. 18.—An examination of the injuries sustained by Emil Steiger of Oshkosh in the Chicago & Northwestern railway wreck near Clintonville Wednesday shows that several ribs were torn loose from their attachments to the spine and that the attending physician considers his condition grave.

How Grip, Pneumonia and Influenza Victims May Gain Strength

The Recent Epidemic Has Left Many Weak and Run-Down Systems Which Must Be Built Up

The epidemic of grip, pneumonia and influenza which recently swept the country with severe loss of life, has left in its wake a host of victims whose systems are weak and run down. How to build them up is a subject of interest as undoubtedly there are thousands seeking this advice.

After such attacks, disease germs have accumulated in great quantities, and the system of course is weakened thereby. To build up the system and in this way enable it to throw off the poisons is therefore necessary. The stomach is the key to health building as the majority of physical ills are directly traceable to it as a source.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey assists in building up the system because it is a predigested food in liquid form made from the choicest of health-giving grains thoroughly malted. It is acceptable to the weak stomach as it requires little effort of the digestive organs. It assists the stomach in its duties of converting food into blood by stimulating the flow of gastric juices.

Grip, pneumonia and influenza victims should take the prescribed advice of a tablespoon in water or milk before meals and on retiring. You will be surprised how the system responds to this treatment. Try it today. It is sold by most druggists, grocers and dealers, $1.00 a bottle. If they can't supply you, write us, The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

PLANNING CORNISH WRESTLING TOURNEY

Ahmeek Club Will Try to Match World's Title Contenders.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans are being made now for the greatest Cornish wrestling tournament ever held in this country, the Ahmeek Athletic association fathering the project. The tournament is to be held at Ahmeek, a suburb of Calumet, on July 4, next, and it is expected that the greatest Cornish wrestlers and jacket men of the world will be entered. Assurances have been received, for instance, that Sidney Chapman, the champion of England, will come over for the tourney. Cornish wrestling tournaments take in men of all weights at the Cornish or "old English" style, in which the men don heavy, short-sleeved and loose fitting jackets of canvas. Grasping each other's jackets and throwing the opponent with trip holds, hiplock, heaves and so on, the wrestlers put up a really splendid exhibition of endurance and ability. Strength in the legs and catlike quickness are absolutely necessary to the successful Cornish wrestler, the game which was made famous in this country by Jack King and Jack Karleck, both of whom have held world's championships. The game was brought to America by the old Cornish miners seventy-five years ago, and was for a great many years the chief sport of the miners of Northern Michigan. Not only the English and Cornish, but men of many other nationalities have become adept at it. Joe Ziehr of Detroit, a German who resided in Calumet many years, held the championship a half dozen years. Jack Rowett of Bessemer, deputy state game warden, is now accredited the world's championship in the heavy-weight class. In the Ahmeek tournament, $1,000 will be hung up in prizes.

WILL LABEL DANGEROUS REEFS AT EAGLE RIVER

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is anticipated that $100,000 to $200,000 will be spent by the government about Keweenaw Point this year in bettering the waterways, erecting lights and the like. At Five-mile point, five miles southwest of Eagle River, a $75,000-light-house is to be built, according to present plans. This will be equipped with the usual fog-warning station. A light-house at this point has been a necessity for a number of years because of the menace of the Sawtooth reef off Eagle River, which has caused the destruction and loss of many boats and cargoes the past twenty years. This reef lies in two ribs and the unlucky ship that gets over the first is certain to be snagged by the second, about a mile off shore. It is estimated that $10,000,000 has been lost in ships and cargoes on these reefs.

LACK OF DYES HITS COTTON INDUSTRY

Many Domestic Color Stuffs Are Being Tried Out.

The growing scarcity of dyestuffs and bleaching materials is said to be imposing great restrictions upon the cotton manufacturing industry at the Eastern centers. Some of the mills are reported to be far behind in deliveries on their old contracts though the drygoods interests are pressing them hard for prompt deliveries. Manufacturers fear that this shortage of materials will force them on short time despite the large volume of business on hand, estimated to be sufficient for no more orders are received to keep their plants going for the next two months. As a result of the present conditions in the trade American makers of dyestuffs are making progress, and are scoring good success in some colors. Commenting upon the situation, an official of E. A. Patrick & Co. averred that customers have expressed satisfaction over reports of woolsen goods in which domestic dyes have been used. The local house has this season been compelled to make separate quotations on woolsen lines in which domestic and imported dyes are used. The figures in the latter are higher to the extent of the added cost of the dyestuffs. Eastern mill men express the opinion that if given time, domestic dye makers can be depended upon to solve the problem, but it is thought that the new industry should be given some tariff protection to assure it against being wiped out through foreign competition after the war is over.

CZAR CONGRATULATED BY BRITAIN'S KING

London, Feb. 18.—On the receipt of the news of the capture of Erzerum by the Russians, King George dispatched the following to Emperor Nicholas: "My heartiest congratulations upon the splendid achievement of your brilliant troops in capturing Erzerum after such hard fighting, which I trust will have far-reaching effects."

LONDON PAPER IS FINED FOR CARTOON

London, Feb. 18.—The proprietors of the weekly Journal Bytander were fined $100, former editor, Vivian Carter, $50 and Lieut. Bernard, cartoonist, $50 today for publishing a cartoon depicting a British soldier lying intoxicated beneath a tree and clasping a bottle of rum. Beneath the cartoon were the words, "Reported missing." An appeal was entered.

EXPENSE NOT ALL ON HIM

Commissioner Farrell Refutes Silberstein's Statement on Incinerator.

Exception to the statement made by Commissioner Silberstein that the works division spent nearly $1,500 in operating the incinerator plant during January was taken this morning by Commissioner Farrell.

The works head claims that the total expenses, amounting to $1,464.11, covered a period of three and a half months, together with orders paid during the early part of this month. Last Monday the council transferred the management of the plant back to the safety department.

This morning, O. B. Thayer, chief accountant of the works division, prepared the following financial statement for The Herald, showing the total disbursement that has been made by that department in collecting garbage and operating the incinerator plant, for which reimbursement is requested by Commissioner Farrell out of the health fund:

Expense Analyzed.
The total of $1,464.11 is analyzed as follows:
January, 1916.
Incinerator $422.64
Garbage collection 218.80
Refuse disposal 117.00
Collection of garbage statistics 212.50
Total $970.94

Orders Paid by the Public Works Fund During February:
Incinerator 37.61
Collection of garbage statistics 6.90
Garbage collection 57.00
Total $101.51

Collection of garbage statistics from November, 1915 to December 31, 1915 $360.10

Less accrued insurance on incinerator entered as operating cost for January, 1916 8.14

Total disbursements for which reimbursement is requested $1,464.11
The $37.61 is two bills paid during February for repairing the incinerator plant. The $37 is the cost of feed paid for during February for the garbage collection team and probably will be sufficient to last for two or three months.

The collection of garbage statistics was commenced in November, 1915. At that time it was understood by the members of the council that the collection of garbage would be transferred to the division of public works at the first of the year. The expenses cover a period of three and one-half months.

RICH FINDS ARE MADE IN GREECE

Important Archeological Discoveries at Birthplace of Hercules.

Athens, Feb. 18.—The most important archeological discoveries of the past generation have just been made around the ancient city of Tiryns, which, according to one legend, was the birthplace of Hercules. The walls of the city are ascribed to the Cyclops, and earlier excavations there have unearthed some remarkable examples of Cyclopean architecture.

A number of workmen, digging at the Greek agricultural school some fifty yards beyond the walls of the ancient city, recently came upon some copper fragments evidently of very early date. The work was promptly stopped and guard placed over the spot until Prof. Arvanitopoulos could be called from Athens to direct the excavation.

On the arrival of the eminent Greek archeologist, the work was conducted with the utmost care. The first discovery was a perfectly preserved caldron, near which was a copper tripod in excellent state of preservation, bearing bas-reliefs of animals and birds—a rare piece. In rapid order followed a huge bronze plaque, three copper handles, three great swords, two copper brooches and some fragments of Mycenaean pottery.

The copper caldron was full of earth, and Prof. Arvanitopoulos sifted it out carefully. Here he made his great find—some golden beads evidently belonging to a valuable collar, some little gold plectrums studded with jewels, some wires of gold and a large ring engraved to depict a round boat upon which are several passengers about to land; four men and women on shore are shown coming out of a doorway to meet the travelers. Prof. Arvanitopoulos pronounced the ring most interesting and valuable from an archeological point of view, as well as intrinsically.

There was also a gold wheel some five inches in diameter, with bands of amber as spokes. Prof. Arvanitopoulos believes that this was used as a hair ornament, worn on the temples. In addition to the 500 gold beads and gold wires upon which they may have been strung, together with a number of little gold plaques which may have also belonged to the collar, four more gold rings were found, simpler, however, than the engraved one, several pieces of conical metal, also gold; a considerable assortment of beads of amber as well as of some softer matter and a tub bearing hieroglyphs. The chief treasure, however, was another ring of gold, large as a small egg, the engraving on the plaque of which represents a goddess seated on a throne, to whom four lions are bringing offerings; behind the goddess is a tree on the branches of which a bird is perched, and behind the tree, the horizon is indicated, with both sun and moon shown in the vicinity of an homeric archer.

The copper caldron with its precious contents was found near the ruins of some huts dating from 1200 B. C., and it is thought that the articles buried in the caldron are of that period. Continuing his investigations in the same neighborhood, Prof. Arvanitopoulos discovered the temple of the sixteenth or fifteenth century, B. C., as well as a tomb in the shape of a vault in which he now expects to make some more valuable discoveries than that of the copper caldron and its treasures. The king and queen of Greece and the Princess Helen, Prof. Arvanitopoulos deposited his golden treasures in the Museum of Athens.

WOLVES FOLLOW TEACHER AS SHE SKIS TO STATION ON HER WAY TO CONVENTION

A pretty little school teacher who is so diminutive that she might have trouble with the larger boys in her country school room near Paupore, Minn., if they didn't think too much of her, had a five-mile race with wolves while she was skiing to the railroad station Wednesday. None the worse for a thrilling experience that few men would undergo, she took a train for Duluth and today is busy listening to the addresses being given at the sixteenth annual convention of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association. She is Miss Olga Lakela, a former student of the Duluth normal school, who is visiting friends here today, while attending the convention sessions. "It's about seven miles from the school to the station," she said in a most matter-of-fact way, in telling her friends of her experience, "and I thought it was such a nice day that I would ride my skis. Before I had gone very far, I heard a wolf bark. He wasn't very near, at least I didn't think he was, so I didn't mind it so very much. "In a few minutes, though, I heard some more of them joining in the chorus, barking and howling, and I hurried along as fast as I could. I was I made the next five miles in record time. I could hear them close beside me in the woods but didn't see them. They followed me until I was within a mile of the station, where there are a few houses. Then I knew I was safe enough. We often hear the wolves out there at night but I had never been alone on the road while they were following me before."

Ashland Dockman Killed.
Ashland, Wis., Feb. 18.—Struck on the head by a heavy hardwood block falling from the Northwestern dock extension on which he was working, Spencer Russell of Ashland, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Russell of Madeline Island, was fatally injured yesterday, dying soon after being hit. His wife and three children survive.

COAL BARGES MAY COME BY APRIL 10

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the necessity of getting coal up to the copper and the iron ranges for the big winter, the copper and iron companies are making arrangements to have the winter supplies running low because of the unavailability of coal. There will be a much earlier rush than usual at the opening of navigation in the spring. If the weather moderates sufficiently it is expected the first coal ships will leave Puget Sound by season in a number of years. There has been plenty of cold weather this winter but not the extreme cold of other years, the thermometer at Calumet registering 15 below zero but once and seldom touching more than 8 or 10 below. There is an unusual amount of snow, both on land and on ice, which leads to the belief that the breakup will be earlier than usual.

NEW RULES FOR MILK MEN

Health Director Draws Up Regulations After Ordinance Is Framed.

Farmers, and Dairymen Are Blamed for Dirty Milk.

In connection with the enforcement of the proposed milk ordinance, Health Director Fahey has prepared a set of rules and regulations which must be observed by all farmers and dairymen in the city of Duluth. The ordinance will be turned over to City Attorney Samuelson before it is submitted to the city council. Commissioner Silberstein said this morning.

The rules for farmers and dairymen include the following statement: "Keep the milk and cream clean and when it is dirty it should be charged to the failure of human intelligence. Milk is clean in the pasteurization process, cleanliness and conscientiousness of the men beneath the cow."

"Safe milk saves babies and diminishes the prevalence of tuberculosis, typhoid fever, diphtheria, septic sore throats and other diseases." "Keep the milk and cream away from the animals, water, location and care of stables, sterilizing of utensils, clean milkers, the proper method of milking, the handling of milk and the shipping of milk and cream."

The notice to housewives includes the following instructions: "Keep the milk bottle to protect the milk from contamination, dirt, flies and domestic animals. 'Keep the milk and cream away from the sink, wash trays, or other plumbing fixtures.' 'Wash the milk bottle with soap and water, after it is empty, and put the bottle out for the milkman to take to the dairy for sterilizing.' 'Remember that the bottle is private property and must not be sold or thrown into a garbage barrel.' 'Do not use the milk or cream bottle for anything but milk or cream for which it was intended, namely, to hold milk and cream.'"

"The notice will notify the health department if bottles are not cleaned properly."

PAVING POLICY OF TRACTION COMPANY

General Manager Warren Testifies Before Court in Ninth Street Case.

Herbert Warren, general manager of the Duluth Street Railway company, took the witness stand in Judge Dandridge's division of the district this morning and testified what has been the practice of the city since 1907 in the matter of paving streets in which there were street railways. The trial involves the Ninth street paving job, and was brought to secure a judicial decision as to the proper method of paving streets in which there were street railways.

In former years, Mr. Warren testified, the city has been reimbursed by the traction company for the cost of laying the same pavement if the tracks were not there. This has been accepted as the proper method of paving streets in which there were street railways.

ACUTE AND CHRONIC RHEUMATISM

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood. It may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have been found to have any effect on the disease. All physicians however agree that the most effective treatment is the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the inflamed condition of the affected part. The relief of the pain is the first and most important step in the treatment of rheumatism. The relief of the inflammation is the second and most important step in the treatment of rheumatism. The relief of the inflammation is the second and most important step in the treatment of rheumatism.

YOUNG WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

Says Husband, Twice Her Age, Has Treated Her Cruelly.

Husband in Denial Blames Her Evil Companions for Trouble.

Serious discord has arisen in the place that Charles Johnson, 54, and his 22-year-old wife, Agatha May Johnson, used to call home, and now they have wound up in the divorce court, where Mrs. Johnson is seeking a decree of separation on the grounds that her husband has treated her cruelly. But Johnson is not willing to admit the charge. In fact, he absolutely denies it, and according to his version, his young wife is all to blame.

Mrs. Johnson, in her complaint, declares that while the Johnsons are living at French River, her husband threw her out of the house, Johnson denies this and says that she became angry at him and left and then told neighbors that he had thrown her out.

Admits He Spunked Her.
On Feb. 25, 1915, she alleges, he choked her almost to death. The Johnsons also deny this. She states that the only time he raised his hand against her wife was during August 1915, when he learned that she had spent a day in company with one Robert Dale, who is alleged to be a bad associate for her. He states that when he accused her of being with Dale, she denied it, and that he subsequently spunked her with his open hand.

Mrs. Johnson also charges that he has assaulted her on other occasions. On Feb. 28, 1915, she claims, he held the blade of a sharp ax against her throat and threatened to behead her. Tired of his antics, she said, she left him and came to Duluth where she sought work in a restaurant. Johnson, she says, followed her and in the presence of her employers vilified her by name and made her and making unjust insinuations as to her character.

Johnson Makes Charges.
On the other hand, Johnson asserts, she has repeatedly refused to give up her bad habits and making him angry. He alleges that since she has been living apart from him, she has become more and more of a drunkard and that she has lost all love or respect for him or for their child, Gertrude. It is expected that the Johnson case will be tried at the next term of court.

OVERCOAT BRINGS GRIEF TO TWO

Stolen Garment Pawned to Dealer Without License.

An overcoat, slightly worn around the cuffs and not good for another winter, has caused the arrest of one man at headquarters today, and may bring grief to another. In the first place, William Anderson, 40, who said he was a waiter in a local hotel, was arrested and charged with the theft of the coat. John Anderson, a roomer at the Rex hotel, claimed that he lost it and pointed out Anderson to Patrolman Le Beau. When arrested, Anderson didn't have the stolen property, and in searching for it, Lieut. Norman Terry found it in a second-hand store operated by Joseph Oreckovsky at 618 West Superior street.

"I pawned it," Anderson said. "Pawned it?" asked the officer. "You can't pawn things in this store." "Here's the ticket," said Anderson. City Prosecutor Walter Gonska issued a complaint late this morning, charging Oreckovsky with operating a pawnshop without a license. A charge of failing to report second-hand property, as provided in the city ordinance, may be preferred against him also, police said.

The difference in the pawnshop license and the second-hand license amounts to about $100.

SAMPLE BALLOTS For Presidential Primaries Need Not Be Published.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state legal department ruled today that county auditors will not have to publish sample ballots used in the presidential primary election. The department also holds that in printing the ballots the names of the delegates to be voted for will have to be rotated. The fact that no publication of the ballots in the official paper will be necessary, will save each county considerable money.

RESIDENTS LEAVE WORK TO SNOW PLOW

City May Remove Snow and Assess Cost to Property Owners.

Is the use of snow plows on sidewalks walks and lawns indifferent to the enforcement of the snow ordinance? This is the question brought before Commissioner Silberstein, head of the safety division, who is considering a resolution instructing the works division to remove snow and ice from all walks and charging the costs against the property beneficiaries. "Residents of the city send out plows after every storm," said Commissioner Silberstein. "I am told that Duluthians have become indifferent to the snow ordinance, which provides that walks must be kept free from ice and snow. I have tried to appeal to public pride, but find that it is useless, and drastic legislation is therefore necessary. Residents are constantly being reported, and it is up to the city to protect pedestrians."

MINNESOTA HIGHWAYS TO REALIZE $1,405,000

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to figures compiled by State Auditor Preus, the state road and bridge fund this year will realize the highways of Minnesota $1,405,000. This estimate is made on the 1915 tax levy.

Take Lime for Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (July 27, 1912, Page 265) Dr. E. Dickman of Minneapolis, holds that a "deficiency of calcium (lime) is responsible for the physical conditions which lead to tuberculosis, and the therapy he advocates rests on this basis." One of the reasons for the widespread success of Eckman's Alternative in the treatment of tuberculosis is its ability to supply this deficiency. It contains a lime salt in such combination with other valuable agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person. Many cases seem to have yielded to it. We make no exaggerated claims for it, but prefer that it be tried on the same basis as any other prescription, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. BREWER-WHYTES PLAYED WELL

Duluth Rink Home After Making Good Record at Portage.

Members of the Brewer-Whyte rink returned today from Portage, Wis., where the Wisconsin state bonspiel has been in progress. Owing to soft ice thespiel was postponed, the final game being played yesterday morning. The Duluth rink was in three evening losing but one game. The locals were in the eighth of two events and had just started play in the other event when the soft ice caused a postponement. The Brewer-Whites played in the final game. Play was to have been resumed last evening, but the ice was covered with water and it was found impossible to continue.

According to Elmer Whyte, some of the best rinks in the state were present. Parkinson was defeated yesterday by the Duluth rink. Thespiel was called with no rinks having reached the jewelry class.

MOTHER! LOOK AT YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE

Give "California Syrup of Figs" If Cross, Feverish, Sick, Bilious, Constipated--They love it

Watch Children Now! Guard Against Colds, Grippe, Sore Throat and Sickness by Keeping Liver and Bowels Free from Poisons

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has the grippe or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be given as first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. See that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't merely ask for Syrup of Figs, but ask for "California Syrup of Figs." Remember, "California."

EGG PRICES ON TOBOGGAN

Warm Weather Has Induced Hen to Return to Work.

Butter Is Firmer—Bigger Choice in Fruits and Greens.

Receipts of eggs have gone up with a rush and their price has taken a slump of 8 cents to 30¢22 cents a dozen in today's produce market. Householders will greatly appreciate the fact that the few days of warm weather has induced the hen to resume business at the old stand and that such a big slice has been taken off the cost of eggs. As compared with a year ago, the quotation in this food product is off about 10 cents a dozen, and it is thought in trade circles that they may go down a few cents yet. Local dealers say that marketings of eggs from Northern Minnesota points have gained so remarkably during the present week that they are now able to take care of consumption here. In the natural order of events in the trade, receipts should gain daily from now on until they reach their maximum for the season during April, when packing for the season will begin.

Butter, on the other hand, is up a cent, with the best creamery product at 32¢35 cents a pound, according to the Bridgman-Russell company, and the Victor Produce company.

The advance in butter is attributed to the higher market in the East. While the make of butter has gained materially at the leading points through the country, consumption has gained proportionately, due, in a great measure, to the standard of living having been generally raised at the Eastern manufacturing centers owing to good employment at high wages being furnished in the leading industries. Butter is being shipped regularly to the East from Duluth this winter and it is predicted that the resumption of service by the package freight steamers in the spring will lead to a large gain in the tonnage sent down from here as compared with last year.

Greater choice in both fruits and greenstuffs is being afforded in consequence of good shipments from Pacific coast points following the incoming of fine warm weather. It was reported by the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company, the Culbertson Bros. company and the Tracy-Merrill Fruit company that the movement of apples has been heavy this week on account of liberal local consumption and large shipments to the range towns, where stocks had become depleted during the long period of below-zero temperatures. Supplies of some varieties of apples are being rapidly run up and within a comparatively short time now only the later varieties will be available.

Grapefruit has been coming to hand in large quantities and with its average high quality and low prices sales to retailers have been heavy. Lower prices in oranges are expected, as shipments from California are expanding. Importations of bananas are running smaller than usual and higher quotations in them are likely in the near future.

Drop in Potatoes. Receipts of green vegetables are now satisfactory and their quality is improving with the advancing season. A greater variety is being offered.

In heavy vegetables, potatoes have taken a drop of 10 cents a bushel to $1. That came on account of the country movement being heavier with good shipping conditions. The demand coming from Southern points for Minnesota potatoes, it is thought that their figure will stay around its present basis for some time yet.

GERMANY APOLOGIZES TO DUTCH GOVERNMENT

The Hague, via London, Feb. 18.—Germany has notified the Dutch government that the investigation of the Artemis incident has established that the Artemis was blameless and that the torpedoing of this vessel was a blunder on the part of the commander of the German torpedo boat. The government has disapproved his action and taken necessary measures. Germany expresses regret for the incident, tenders apologies and offers to pay an indemnity.

The Dutch motor vessel Artemis was torpedoed early in February in the North sea. She reached the Hook of Holland. According to a dispatch from Amsterdam, the commander of the torpedo boat believed the Artemis was resisting his order for inspection and he attacked the ship.

Found Wounded and Dying. Meridian, Wis., Feb. 18.—Soon after daylight yesterday, Joseph Ciscena, a farmer about 44 years old, living four miles east of this place, was found a few rods from his house, unconscious with a bullet hole through the top of his head, his rifle lying under his shoulder. The bullet entered his head just above his right ear, emerging near the top of his head. He cannot live. It is said his young wife has been seeking a divorce.

MY CATARRH BALM OPENS UP NOSE AND HEAD---COLDS GO

Breathe Freely! Clears Stuffed-up, Inflamed Nose and Head and Stops Catarrhal Discharge. Cures Dull Headache.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm." Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils, penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed; nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dripping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Advertisement.

Found Simple Remedy that Relieved Child

Mild Laxative Compound Corrects Stubborn Case of Constipation

An important duty that devolves on parents is the regulation of their children's bowels. Health in later life depends in large measure on early training and a child should be taught from infancy to regular habits.

When from any cause the bowel becomes congested with stomach waste a mild laxative should be employed to open up the passage gently and carry off the congested mass. A most effective remedy for this purpose is the combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Mrs. W. D. Bulls, of Reed, Okla., used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for her baby boy, Harley Buren Bulls, and says "It did him more good than anything we have given him. His bowels are very stubborn about acting, but they act easily every time I give him Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin."

AMERICA'S GOVERNMENTAL AND EDUCATIONAL IDEALS

Prof. Jay W. Hudson of Missouri University Addresses Educational Convention on Two Subjects of Extraordinary Interest: War and World Reconstruction.

Two of the most notable and important addresses of the annual meeting of the Northeastern Minnesota Education association were those delivered last night and this morning by Prof. Jay William Hudson of the chair of philosophy, University of Missouri.

Dr. Hudson spoke last night on "American Ideals in Education." Education, he declared, is based on the same principle as true democracy, an adequate view of human personality, and he defended the growing tendency in education to permit the student to choose the line in which he shall develop rather than have the line chosen arbitrarily for him.

This morning, Dr. Hudson's theme was "The War and World Reconstruction," a subject that held the attention of his audience most closely.
Due, doubtless, to the fact that the chief interest of the world just now is in the war raging in Europe, what will happen when it is over, and America's part in readjustment of world politics, his subject this morning was received with more than ordinary interest. He contended, in brief, that America is an example of what all nations must come to in the desire to rule by strength to the rule by reason.

Dr. Hudson's addresses were in part as follows:

American Ideals in Education.

"What we call the American idea is best summed in the conception of democracy. Now, almost any one can tell what democracy is.
Many think of democracy as a kind of government best defined as the rule of the many. For others it means such vainglorious shibboleths as liberty and equality. But democracy is far more significant than any of these things.
The birth of democracy means nothing less than the appearance in the world of a new and momentous theory of what a human person is and what he may become. The basal fact of any civilization is the view it holds of the nature and the value of human personality. Out of this evolve all its institutions, social and political; and in this lies the secret of a civilization's ultimate triumph or defeat. Given a civilization that founds its fortunes upon an insufficient view of what men really are, and none of its triumphs can deceive its certain doom.

"Democracy proclaims that personality is social and then proceeds to install upon the infinite value of the human person. This man and woman are the final realities; second, that their capacities are infinite; third, that their progress is not to be the product of coercion, but of their own self-activity, their freedom.

Democracy and Education Akin.

"If true democracy is based upon an adequate view of human personality, so is true education. Indeed, I wish to maintain that American ideals and education are closely allied; that the definition of democracy is nothing less than the definition of education and that the ideal of democracy is precisely the ideal of education.

"I wish to show how this ideal of democracy is directly reflected in the modern view of education. The first premise of democracy is the infinite value of men.

When a man graduates, we no longer ask so much, 'What has he learned?'
as 'What has he become?' The ambition of European universities seems to be to turn out scholars; the true American American universities is to turn out men.

Capacities Infinite.

"The second premise of democracy is that the capacities of a human person are infinite. There are no limits in which her citizens shall be cast.

"The third premise of democracy, which is appearing in education, is that men develop only through self-development; that all thoughts that a man can think or deeds that he can do that are worth anything to himself or to the world are the result of his own convictions. More and more we realize that what the student accepts upon authority is worthless, even though it is the Aristotle's scheme of things entire. More and more we realize that a seeker learns through his own thinking is of infinite value, even if it be the commonplace detail of a butter-fly's wing.

Sources Rather Than Books.

"We teachers are learning to teach the student through the sources and not through books about the sources.
The laboratory method, where a student learns through his own labor, is spreading from the physical sciences to the social and political sciences. The one thing of all others to be taught the student is the adoption of the critical attitude toward all lectures that he shall hear, all books that he shall read, all facts that he shall observe.
Democracy will not tolerate a teacher who is making of the school a great experimental laboratory, whose instruments each student brings with him in his powers of original thinking, and whose product each student takes away with him in his own self-moulded character.

"It follows from self-activity as the ultimate value that all education is in the last resort a stimulating of every man to ask himself the question, 'What do I want?' For you can educate a man only through what he is convinced he really wants. No one ever truly acquires, save verbally and understandably, what he did not want. We are educated through our ideals, and no one can set our ideals for us. They must be encouraged, but they can never be coerced. It was only fifty years ago that Harvard adopted the elective system. Now, with all the mistakes the elective system is fundamentally right; it is the overt recognition of the fact that a student can never be educated through the things he does not desire. I repeat, the first thing for him to ask with regard to his school is, 'What do I demand of her, what do I want of her?' I am now referring to the want of the moment, to capricious desires that come and go; I am referring to the desire which you are to regard, after deep reflection, as your real need, your crying desire, in terms of which you will live. You will gain out of economics or mathematics what you want, and attain to the heights of philosophy where Teaching Success Lies.

"We teachers are successful in our teaching not as we expound theories and marshal facts however valuable;
we are successful only as we encourage students to want the right things to the extent that they utterly demand them, and then as we co-operate with them in the obtaining of just these

PARLOR ORGAN FOR GIFTED POOR FOLKS

Open Court Suggestion Brings Quick Fulfillment;
Two Replies.

There is a family in Duluth that will have a parlor organ as the result of a letter published in the Open Court of The Herald last Wednesday evening.

A correspondent, signing himself as "Interested," wrote to The Herald, suggesting that anyone having a parlor organ not in use would do a great favor by giving it to a certain poor family, the members of which possess marked musical ability, but are too poor to buy an instrument of any kind.
"Interested" offered to transport the organ and arrange for its delivery to the family.

This morning brought two communications in reply to the Open Court letter, and, as a result, this family will have the organ within the next day or two. One of the letters was from Mrs.
Mila Ekren, 623 Lake avenue north, who offered to donate an organ that is in very good shape, while the other was from Gregory & Kristensen, proprietors of the Piano Shop, 1895 West Superior street, who volunteered to repair the organ donated free of charge.

"Interested" had been informed of the two offers and the organ will be delivered very soon, he told The Herald.

are engaged in a desperate struggle of the primitive sort that endeavored to show how for himself a throne upon the ruins of our nascent freedom, and though that incomparable man spurred the offer, yet must war become either habitual or frequent, bring on, sooner or later, such exigencies as will make us at the mercy of some future Caesar or Napoleon.

But America's message to Europe in behalf of the reign of reason is not expressed merely in terms of words and theories. Our country itself exemplifies to the world in its union of the most in the world in which law may be made to replace war. The states of our Union do not settle their disputes by an appeal to arms, nor are their boundaries bristling with fortifications. The appeal to a federated reason has become a reality in a commonplace in this country that the average citizen hardly appreciates what significant triumph the American Union is and what a living example such a Union is of what may be achieved, however gradually, in the development of world politics. Let no individual lose its national integrity any more than our individual states lose their integrity, though combining for purposes of common welfare. But let the world learn, as we have learned, that variety and unity can go together—must go together if the highest things of human welfare are to be achieved. Let the United States of America be followed by the United Nations of the World."

"In view of this assault upon the supremacy of reason in civilization, America's message to Europe is not unambiguous. In terms of our own democracy and its appeal to reason, America should advance themselves and the rest of the world that there is such a thing as a logic in history; that no question of right or wrong is settled rationally and in accordance with righteousness and justice; that might without right is futile, since if a question is settled by might alone, it will arise to confront civilization in some form even more crucial than before, to demand settlement by intelligence and not by force. Thus indirectly the American people are constrained to feel that part of the solution of Europe's agelong difficulties is the gradual institution among the people of those efficient auxiliaries of reason, free speech and universal suffrage. In short, democracy. For the more democracy comes to itself, the more is it opposed to the war system, since the war system is itself opposed to democracy's reason and moreover is utterly against the fundamental interests of the common man. Democracy is essentially antithetical to war, and war is essentially incompatible with the genius of democracy.

War and Despotism Linked.

"In the first place, war and despotism go hand in hand. The spirit and principles of war are thoroughly despotic.
Even a democracy is transformed into a qualified despotism in times of war.
With war, says John Quincy Adams, 'comes a full power over the whole subject, sacred as every. It is a power which, when your country is actually in war, congress has power to carry it on with any will, in like manner to the laws of war; and by those laws a country has all its laws and institutions swept away by the board and martial law takes the place of them. Peace is essential to our prosperous or permanent freedom. Almost every republic in the world has fallen a victim to war, and if our liberties are ever lost, they will, in like manner be cloven down by the sword. The soldiers even of Washington urged him in a moment of passion to assume the —mere petty faultfinding and peevish cavilling—the G. O. P. is betraying the fact that its preparedness for the coming campaign is lamentably inadequate.

We might send Scoop and the Boss to take the place of congress—would at least have action of some sort every day.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

Comes a story—with a Berlin date line—that France has had to issue orders commanding French soldiers to stop talking and shaking hands with German soldiers across the trenches.

Well, why shouldn't they talk and shake hands? They have no grudge against each other, whatever their rulers may have at issue. They are just folks, on both sides of the line, created for some other purpose than hatred and mutual destruction. They die, but know not why, and others profit.
They are brothers and friends with common interests, if they did but know it.

And yet the war lords do wisely to forbid the practice. War feeds on ignorance, groundless distrust and hate cunningly fostered.

If the men in the trenches ever got down to a serious talk about it all, about why they are there and why they are killing each other and what it all comes to, there is grave danger that the war lords would have to go out of business—would be in great luck, indeed, if united armies did not trample their mangled remains into blood-stained earth, burying them and their grim business forever and forever.

Will Col. Roosevelt seek to bolster up his boom by paying a visit to Panama and Colombia?

FURTHER CONFUSION IN A DISTRACTED WORLD.

Just when the Lusitania case had apparently reached the point of a final settlement completely satisfactory to the United States, Germany announces that after this month it will consider all armed merchants as auxiliary cruisers; which apparently means that it claims the right to sink them on sight.

International law clearly gives belligerents the right to arm their merchantmen wholly for defensive purposes. This right the United States will contend for and Germany will deny.

Germany makes its case thus: While international law grants this right of defensive armament, international law knew nothing about the submarine. Though a vicious assailant, the submarine is a vulnerable thing which the little defensive gun of any merchantman may sink with one shot. Germany asserts, too, that Great Britain has issued secret orders to merchantmen to attack submarines whenever they are encountered. The submarine can't take chances; hence the new order.

This may not mean so much as it seems.
Germany has agreed to certain very wholesome modifications of its submarine methods; there is no evidence that the latest order contemplates any abandonment of this position. Yet it is a delicate situation, pregnant with unpleasant possibilities. It will not be forgotten that the Lusitania, according to German report, was armed;
yet when events proved that Germany was misinformed it did not restore the precious lives that had been taken.

If this nation accepted Germany's new rule, it would join in a radical amendment of international law. This we cannot do not only because it would be taking the side of war against commerce, but because the time may come when we shall want to provide our own merchantmen with defensive armament.

Europe is desperate, frantic, not sane.
The end of victory has become the chief consideration, drowning all others. Law, morality, humanity, are forgotten. The means, whatever they may be, are justified by the end. When a method of warfare is proposed the only test is whether it is effective—whether it will hurt the enemy.
Morality, law, humanity have little place
in the discussion.

It is against such an abnormal condition as this that the United States is striving to uphold international law and the law of humanity. It is a hard task, and is more likely to grow harder than easier. What with Germany determined to sink on sight merchantmen lawfully armed for defense, and with Great Britain wantonly violating neutral rights in her desperate struggle to maintain an impossible German blockade, the administration clearly has its hands full, and should have the singleminded, patriotic and wholehearted support of every American citizen.

Meanwhile weather pessimists content themselves with the remark that "we'll have to pay for this in March."

STUPIDITY.

International law never have come into existence if somebody had not created precedents. In the past every single war has endowed the world with a new precedent which has since been applied to as having the force of law.
It is unnecessary, therefore, to make excuses for any new departure, within reason, that may be taken by our navy.

Von Reventlow justifying the Tirpitz butchery of the Lusitania?
Oh, no! It's the London Spectator explaining why the British blockade of Germany should be pushed without regard to international law!

Britain's justification of its violations of international law is through and through an incredibly stupid proceeding that, if it were accepted, would leave America's case against the original German submarine methods utterly without a foundation. Great Britain cannot justify her own law-breaking on grounds of military expediency without at the same time confirming Germany's attempted justification of her law-breaking on the same ground.

It will soon be time to watch for the second robin.

WHEN PARTISANSHIP KILLS PATRIOTISM.

The Wilson administration had brought the Lusitania dispute to a triumphant and victorious conclusion, and was ready to turn its attention to the dispute with Great Britain, when Germany calmly announced that beginning March 1 it will treat armed merchantmen as warships and sink them on sight, though it is lawful to arm merchantmen for defense. Thus, apparently, the whole subject was thrown wide open again, and a new and critical issue presented.

It seems hard to believe it, but there is every evidence that there are so-called American citizens who, instead of regretting this unfortunate situation, are jubilating over it because they believe it offers embarrassment to the administration they are seeking to discredit and defeat so that they may put their own friends into the offices to draw the pay.

The hypochrit American who is a real danger to his country is the Republican-American.

There is an unmistakable tendency to expect Col. Roosevelt to make the islands take on the nature of West Windies.

TEACH SPANISH.

"There is logic," says the Chicago News,
"in the contention of our southern neighbors that as Spanish and English are the only languages spoken on this hemisphere
—now isolated from the rest of the world
—Spanish should be taught in all the North American schools and English in all the Latin-American schools."

As The Herald has said before, the public schools of America are missing an opportunity to be of service if they do not teach Spanish. The relations between this country and the Latin-American republics —social, political and commercial—are going to be much closer than they have ever been before. There will be a demand for Spanish-speaking employees in the many business houses that will deal with South America. There will be a demand for Spanish-speaking salesmen to go to South America to develop trade.

There will be, in short, vastly more practical use for Spanish than for French, German or the dead languages now taught in the public schools. Moreover, Spanish is a simple language, easily learned, and can be taught effectively. The rarity of graduates in languages from the public schools who can read, write or speak the languages in which they have "passed" indicates that that is more than can be said of the languages now taught.

Come to think of it, there never were any letters beginning "Dear G. O. P." and "Dear Theodore."

All in a Day's Work.

Life: The head of the great armament and ammunition works, sitting in his private office, summoned to his side his private secretary and said:

"Has our secret committee been sent to Washington to confer with congress about the need of having us supply the government with ample means of defense?"

"Yes, sire."

"Have you instructed the newspapers to control to publish editorials calling attention to the fact that we need a couple of hundred million dollars worth of shells at once?"

"Yes, sire."

"Have you notified our war-scare department that they must get a move on?"

"Yes, sire."

"Then send word to the chairman of the speakers' committee of the dinner which I am to attend to night, that I will respond to the toast, 'Peace on earth, good will to men.'"

Mark Twain on Education

Mark Twain in "Following the Equator."

In the first place, God made idiots.
This was for practice. Then He made school boards—Pudd'nhead Wilson's Calendar.

Suppose we applied no more ingenuity to the instruction of deaf and dumb and blind children than we sometimes apply in our American public schools to the instruction of children who are in possession of all their faculties? The result would be that the deaf and dumb and blind would acquire nothing. They would live and die as ignorant as bricks and stones. The methods used in the asylums are rational. The teacher exactly measures the child's capacity, to begin with; and from thence onwards the tasks imposed are nicely gauged to the gradual development of that capacity; the tasks keep pace with the steps of the child's progress, they don't jump miles and leagues ahead of it by irrational caprice and land in vacancy—according to the average public school plan. In the public school, apparently, they teach the child to spell cat, then ask it to calculate an eclipse;
when it can read words of two syllables, they require it to explain the circulation of the blood; when it reaches the head of the class, they bully it with conundrums that cover the domain of universal knowledge.
This sounds extravagant—and is; yet it goes no great way beyond the facts.

I received a curious letter one day from the Punjab (you must pronounce it Punjab) . . . It turned out to be the work of a Hindu youth, the holder of a humble clerical job in a railway office.
He had been educated in one of the numerous colleges of India . . . Apparently the colleges of India were doing what our high schools have long been doing—richly oversupplying the market for highly-educated service-men; thereby doing a damage to the scholar, and through him to the country.

At home I once made a speech deploring the injuries inflicted by the high school in making handicrafts distasteful to boys who would have been willing to get food and a roof over their heads by learning a trade and agriculture if they had but had the good luck to stop with the common school. But I made no converts. Not one, in a community over which education is mechanical trades, yet could find no market for their book knowledge.

The same mail that brought me the letter from the Punjab brought also a little book
 . . . There are many letters in the book:
poverty, impurity, help—bread, money, kindness, office—generally an office, a clerkship, a job, a way to get food and a roof over the applicant's unmarketable education . . . Apparently, like our public school boy, these letter writers' education has consisted of "TEACHING THEM TO MEANING" of them; he is fed upon the husks, not the corn.

History requires a world of time and bitter hard work, when you "educate" a man, further advanced than the cat; when you are merely stuffing yourself with a mixed mess of empty names and random incidents and elaborate GRINDING, not teaching you to interpret, and which, uninterpreted, pay you not a farthing's value
for your waste of life.

Helen Keller has been deaf, stone deaf, and since she was a little girl, she has been blind; and now at sixteen years of age this wonder of all ages, passes the Harvard university examination in Latin, German, French history, belles lettres, and such things, and does it brilliantly, too, not in a commonplace fashion. She doesn't know and doesn't understand the meaning of the MEANING of them. When she writes an essay on a Shakespearean character, her English is fine and strong, and her grasp of the subject is as good as any man's.
She knows, and her page is electric with light.
Has Miss Sullivan taught her by the methods of the American public school? No, oh, no;
for then she would have been deaf and blind and stupid than she was before. IT IS A PITY THAT WE CAN'T EDUCATE ALL
THE CHILDREN IN THE ASYLUMS.

I have by me "English as She is Taught," a collection of American examinations made in the public schools of Brooklyn by one of the teachers, Miss Caroline B. Le Row. An extract of two from its pages:
"The Puritans found an insane asylum in the wilds of America."
"The Stamp Act was to make everybody stamp all materials so they should be null and void."
"Washington died in Spain almost broken-hearted. His remains were taken to the cathedral in Havana."
In Brooklyn, as in India, they examine a pupil, and when they find out he doesn't know anything, they put him into literature or geography, or astronomy, or government, or something like that, so that he can properly display the assiduity of the whole system.

We will close with a sample of literature from America—a Brooklyn public school boy's attempt to turn a few verses of the "Lady of the Lake" into prose. You will have to excuse the didactic tone.
"The man who rode on the horse performed the whip and an instrument made of steel along with strong order not diminishing, but passing time by the time passing with hard labor overworked with anger and ignorant with weariness, while every breath for labor he drew with cries full of sorrow, the young deer made imperfect who worked hard fitted in sight."

According to Promise.

Life: Congratulate me, Freddy. Last night
you asked me to marry you.
"Oh, she promised mother she'd marry you long ago."

Bad Cooking.

What is it roughens true love's course, and makes men cuss till they are hoarse, and leads to quarrels and divorce? Bad cooking. What is it ruin's love's young dream, and queers the matrimonial team, and makes the married life a scream? Bad cooking.
What is it comes when women prance to euchre party and to dance, and leave the home at every chance? Bad cooking. What follows when the girls grow smart, and say they're wedded to their Art, and learn some Ibsen junk by heart? Bad cooking. What happens when they play the harp as well as some imported sharp, instead of frying German carp? Bad cooking. What is it fills untimely graves, out where the boneyard-bluegrass waves, with victims of the kitchen knives? Bad cooking. What is it drives the boys from home, in glaring, noisy dens to roam, and from cold steins to blow the flowing rills, and always paying doc-

The Land Where Hate Dies

By Albert Leon Guerdon.

"The Land Where Hatred Expires" is the title of a remarkable document published by the American Association for International Conciliation. It is by Albert Leon Guerdon, a Frenchman, a student of the history of French culture, Rice institute, Houston, Tex. The following excerpt shows the spirit of the article.

This is, indeed, "the land where hate expires," the land of universal reconciliation.
This is the land where all are given a fair chance, and where Englishmen, Frenchmen, Austrians, Russians, Germans can meet on a common ground of democracy, justice and good fellowship; where they have at last a chance of becoming acquainted with one another, and, knowing one another, to appreciate and love. For hatred is but the child of ignorance; all education consists in unlearning hatred.

One of my very good friends on the Rice faculty is a fiery young Prussian. If we were both in Europe we would be hurling at each other bombs, shrapnels, hand grenades, asphyxiating gases and other inventions of the Father of Wars; here, we do not hurl epithets at each other's heads, but meet socially, and even are able to discuss the tolerable coolness the philosophy of the present conflict. There is something in the American atmosphere which is deadly to hatred.

Just as the veterans of Gettysburg can be friends, the veterans of Gravelotte and Mara-tona remember naught but the heroism and forget the bitter animosity of their old quarrels. Only perhaps under the Stars and Stripes will men who fought on opposite sides at Liege, Charleroi, the Marne or Tan-nenberg be able to shake hands as men and brothers.

For generations France has been the "Erbsfeind," the hereditary foe, of Germany; for nearly half a century she has been preparing for revenge; Germany is singing today: "We shall never forego our hate—we have one foe and one alone: England."
And even Christian ministers are preaching the doctrine of the sinister wish: God punish England. Oh! What a blessing it is to live in this land which bears malice to none, this land which recognizes no hereditary foes but sin, ignorance and disease, this land where hate expires!

The reason for America's sanity as a nation, the unique power which enables her to welcome men from all parts of the world and to turn them into loyal citizens, is that America is a country that looks forward instead of backward—in other terms, a country whose ideals are principles instead of traditions. Allow a professional student and teacher of history to state the fact quite frankly: Europe is a land of the past, a land of the historical spirit; Europe lacks the healthy radicalism, the youthfulness, I had almost said the boyishness, of the American mind.

When you travel in dear old Europe you are delighted with the quaint villages, the churches and castles hoary with centuries, the bright costumes of the peasant women,
the narrow crooked lanes of medieval cities,
the pomp of court functions and military pageants. History is beautiful for the poet, the artist and even the casual traveler. But it teaches you to interpret, and which, uninterpreted, pay you not a farthing's value
for your waste of life.

All of us, when we come to America, are welcome to preserve our sentimental and artistic traditions; but we are expected to leave
the narrow crooked lanes of medieval cities,
the pomp of court functions and military
pageants. History is beautiful for the poet,
the artist and even the casual traveler. But
it teaches you to interpret, and which, uninterpreted, pay you not a farthing's value
for your waste of life.

Daily Strength and Cheer.

The child who has only sailed his paper

Prudence, as it is always wanted, is with-neither extensive view nor profound knowl-

Just a Very Few Less.

Oakbrook Northwestern: Though the National Association of Merchant Tailors has average man will continue to struggle along with just a few less than the specified number.

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin: The Gerposition to make March come in like a lion.

But "Cheapsies" Is Nix to Them If They Can Only Beat Wilson.

Wausau Record-Herald: It is about time to drop the Hughes talk. The positive and repeated announcement that he is not a candidate should be accepted. It not only reflects on the sincerity of Hughes, but it cheapens the Republican party to carry on a campaign for his nomination under such conditions.

"Seem to Be."

La Crosse Leader-Press: The Roosevelt

ly to return to the Republican party, but to take possession of it when they do return.

Well, for Gosh's Sake!

Marquette Eagle-Star: Your old rubbers are increasing in value daily, although to you they may seem worthless with each returning eve, but as the ports are closed against the importation of rubber in a crude state, scrap rubber has risen in price until it is now worth about $9 a hundredweight.

What An Irishman Means by "Macbrée."

Pray come and interpret this Gaelic for me,
And tell what an Irishman means by "Ma-chree."

What an Irishman means by "Macbrée":
"Tis the white of the eye."

And the warmth of the sun.

The ripple of water that laughingly runs,
The sweet bloom of youth,
And the harvest of years;

The gold of all smiles, and the salt of all tears.

'Tis the thrill of the hand,
And the light of the eye,
The glow to the cheek, and the lips' parting cry:

'Tis father, 'tis mother,
'Tis brother or wife,
The smile of woman's, the wine of man's life.

'Tis all that he lives for,
And hopes for above,
'Tis an Irishman's heart making vocal his love.

'Tis the whole of creation,
One life in the sea;
And that's what an Irishman means by "Macbrée."

But the Show Troupe Would Advertise.
Bemidji Pioneer: If a show troupe should yet the door of every church is open Sundays and the show is infinitely better than that of any troupe that travels the road.

Information Worth Watching For.

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: Watch

St. Louis County Continues to Lead.

Winona Republican-Herald: St. Louis county, this state, is leading the way in educational progress, and is becoming Americanized in thought as well as in language, night schools being opened where foreigners are mental principles of this nation. The plan is a practical one and is the application of suggestions made by educators and statesmen for a number of years.

Definition Requested.

Cokato Enterprise: Now that we know a buttheaded" game?

Or Maybe They Were Ford Tracks.

Hibbing Tribune: Now, after all the trouble
we've had learning about the "Ford tracks" of Mars, the director of the British Astronomical association says they don't exist. The planetary canal system which has been supposed to represent the struggles of a race of Martians to irrigate an arid world by bringing water from the poles to the equatorial region is merely an optical illusion, due to imperfect instruments and unscientific observation. The best telescope in the world doesn't show the canals at all. Which reminds us that it's better not to know so much than to know so many things that ain't so.

Well, Why Not?

Anoka Herald: If it is true that the unreasonable rise in price of gasoline is due to the war, why not place a good fat export duty on gasoline so that this government, at least, may profit by the outrageous robbery of her citizens?

Common Sense About Mexico.

Chaska Valley Herald: Congressman William Kent of California, a man of brains and sound judgment, is against intervention in Mexico. Mr. Kent's opinion is worth careful consideration. He knows what he is talking about. He is not only conversant with the actual conditions existing in Mexico today, but he is financially interested in that country, and yet he does not jeopardize his own life or the lives of his sons to protect his property by the following intervention:
"As one financially interested in Mexico, and inasmuch as I would not jeopardize my own life or the lives of my sons to protect my property, I would be a coward and mur-derer if I sent my countrymen to death on behalf of my property."

We should not be sacrificed and the people's treasure wasted to protect the property rights of citizens who have taken a chance on the laws and conditions of people beyond our control.

THE OPEN COURT

Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of the open court to express their views on any subject of general interest, but discussion of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters must not exceed 200 words, the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A stated letter is always more effective, however.

FIFTH AVENUE WEST IMPROVEMENTS ASKED

To the Editor of The Herald: I see that the city has bought lots near the courthouse for a new city hall, and that the new postoffice will be nearby. So the original grouping plan of the public buildings will be carried out. Incidentally, Fifth avenue, below the courthouse, will be a model avenue.

These buildings will certainly be something that all Duluthians will be proud of. But what of Fifth avenue from the courthouse to the Boulevard? This avenue has some of the nicest trees in Duluth—fine, big maples and willows. The park board sadly neglects them. The gutters—or more properly speaking ditches—are in such shameful condition that after every rain storm the roots of the trees are left exposed to the air. Between Fifth and Sixth streets it is impossible to drive because of the miniature ravines and gulches, which are made deeper after every rain storm.

There has been a petition from the property owners, to the board of public works, to have the avenue improved, but nothing has been done.

Tourists arriving from trains or boats travel this avenue to the Boulevard and they are not favorably impressed by the looks of the avenue.

Is Duluth going to be like the hypocritical man who has a fine lawn and flower garden in front of his house but the back yard an eye sore and can not stand inspection?

Hoping that many more people think of this little job to be done, I am courteously yours, Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 18.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

This department does not pretend to be infallible. It will answer, however, to answer questions sent to it by readers of The Herald to the best of its ability, bearing in mind that it is not a legal or medical authority, and that it is not a source of information on the question, or that ask for advice on legal or medical questions.

To receive attention, every inquiry must bear the name and address of the person sending it. Questions wanted for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

"Subscriber": Duluth: Kindly tell me through the Open Court: (1) Which is the proper way of saying "Bilby and I are going up town," or "Bilby and I are going up town?" (2) I am also in doubt about the following: If I were referring to a ring of keys on the table, whether it would be "that is them" or "that is they?"

Ans.—(1) "Bilby and I are going up town," is the correct form. (2) Both are wrong, since each involves the use of both a singular and a plural pronoun referring to the same subject. The correct form would be "those are they," but a preferable phraseology would be "There they are."

"I Love the Name of Mary," and "Mary is a Grand Old Name," from "Bert" of Duluth.
"The Dying Girl's Message," and "Roaming in the Gloaming," from Mrs. A. Brown of Duluth.

When You're a Long, Long Way From Home.
I know where the sun is shining
I know where someone is pining
Just a simple pal, a country gal,
I know she's true.

What's the use of tears and sighing?
After many years of trying Guess I'm going home—no more to roam—
I'm feeling blue.

When you're a long long way from home
It makes you feel like you're alone.
It's hard to find a pal that's true—
That you can tell your troubles to.
And when you send a letter home
Your mother's voice rings in your ears
And then you cross the Ts with kisses.

What a strange world this is.
Then you dot the Ts with tears and all the sunshine turns to gloom,
When you're a long, long way from home.

Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet.
On the old farm house veranda,
There sat Silas and Miranda.
Thinking of the days gone by,
Said he, "Dearie, don't be weary."
You were always bright and cheery.
But a tear, dear, dims your eye."
Said she, "They're tears of gladness,
Silas, they're not tears of sadness.
It is fifty years today since we were wed."

Then the old man's dim eyes brightened
And his old heart lightened.
As he turned and said:
Chorus.
Put on your old gray bonnet
With the blue ribbon on it,
While I hitch old Dobbin to the sleigh,
And through the fields of clover,
We'll drive up to Dover.
On our golden wedding day.

It was in the same old bonnet,
With the same blue ribbon on it,
In the old sleigh, by his side,
That he drove her up to Dover.
Through the same old fields of clover
To become his happy bride.
And the same old bells were ringing,
As they passed the old old church,
Where they were wed,
And that night, when stars were gleaming,
The old couple lay a-dreaming—
Dreaming of the dreams he said,
Chorus.

Tonight You Leave the Old Home, Jack.
You're going to leave the old home,
Jack, today you're going away.
You're going among the folk who dwell.

So spoke the gray-haired mother to her boy the night before his day.
"If your mind's made up that way, I wish you well.
The old home will be lonely; we'll miss you when you're gone.
The birds won't sing so sweet when you're not nigh.
But if ever you're in trouble, boy, just write and let us know."
She said these words and then she dwell.

said good-by.
Chorus.
When sickness overtakes you
And all companions shake you
As through this world you wander all alone,
When friends you haven't any
In your pocket not a penny,
There's a mother always waiting for you at home, sweet home.

Years have passed, and to that village came a tramp one summer's day.
His steps were halt, and ragged
The little children laughed at him as they passed the lane he came.
At last he stopped before a cabin door.
He gently knocks. No sound he hears.
He thinks, "Can she be dead?"
At last he hears a voice well known
To him.

"Twas mother's voice. Her hair had silvered by the touch of time."
She said, "Thank God, they've brought us back our Jack!"
Chorus.

Sympathy.
Has someone been such a naughty boy?
Um-hm! Um-hm!
Robbed your poor heart of its peace
and joy?
Um-hm! Um-hm!
Dry up those dew-drops and look at me!
What you're in need of is sympathy.

Chorus.
You need sympathy, sympathy, just sympathy!
You won't think I am free—
You will not scold
Or say I'm bold
When I treat you tenderly, tenderly!
I don't blame me, for you know
I'm but showing sympathy.

You don't think I am at all to blame?
Um-hm! Um-hm!
I think his actions are just a shame.
Um-hm! Um-hm!
There's not a thing that I would not do if only he would be sweet like you.

Chorus.
I need sympathy, sympathy, just sympathy!
I won't think you are free—
I will not scold
Nor say you're bold
When you treat me tenderly, tenderly!
You don't blame me, for you know
I'm but showing sympathy.

When It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy.
On a farm in Normandy,
There resided little Marie.
She was the pride of the countryside—
Fair as a milk could be.
A lover had she one day,
With a most persuasive lay,
Tho' she was grieving when he was leaving.
He consoled her in this way:

Chorus.
"When it's apple blossom time in Normandy,
I want to be in Normandy,
By that dear old wishing well with you,
Marie!"

When it's apple blossom time in Normandy,
I'm coming back to woo,
And the spring will bring a wedding ring,
Little sweetheart, to you."

Said Marie, "It's clear to me,
Tho' sincere you seem,
I am afraid of the promise made.
You may not come back to me.
By the wishing well you will stay."
Said he, despairing, "Love, I'm declaring
I'm in earnest when I say:
Chorus.

Apple blossom time soon came;
Rose Marie then changed her name.
For with the spring he had brought her leaving.

His loving bride to claim.
By the wishing well they stray;
You're here, but I'm away.
"Mid blossoms falling he is recalling
What he fondly used to say:
Chorus.

NURSES' HOME IS TO BE CONSTRUCTED
To Be Built in Connection With Tri-County Sanatorium.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Plans for a $15,000 nurses' home to be erected in connection with the $55,000 sanatorium which is being built on the shores of Lake Julia, near Puposky, are now being drawn by E. H. Sund of St. Paul on the authority of the sanatorium board of Beltrami, Koochiching and Hubbard counties, which at a special meeting Tuesday considered the advisability of erecting a nurses' home to increase the capacity for patients in the sanatorium building.

It is the plan of the commission that if the home is built, it will be ready for occupancy by next fall. The building will cost about $12,000 and the equipment about $3,000, which will make the total investment of the sanatorium $70,000.

It is believed by members of the commission that with the erection of a nurses' home the capacity of the sanatorium will not have to be increased for some time, and when it is increased, cottages will be built, which will mean but little added expense.

The nurses' home will be a frame structure and will receive its heat and light from the plant of the sanatorium. It will be occupied by about ten nurses when the sanatorium is opened, which will probably be about May 1.

Built by Three Counties.
The sanatorium will be completed and maintained by the counties of Beltrami, Koochiching and Hubbard only, as Clearwater county has refused to take a share in the proposition.

In the future the sanatorium will be known as the Lake Julia sanatorium, the name being changed from the original name which was the Tri-

County sanatorium, at the Tuesday meeting.

The members of the board present at the Tuesday meeting were William Durbin and A. A. Tene of Northome, representing Koochiching county; S. W. Walker of Ironwood, representing Hubbard county; and Dr. E. W. Johnson, A. G. Walker, Jr., and Charles Warfield of Bemidji, representing Beltrami county.

Business transacted at the Tuesday meeting was the approval of the plans of the ice house and the authorization of Charles Warfield to select an engineer to take care of the power and heating plant of the sanatorium.

The sanatorium when completed will be one of the most modern in this part of the state. It is also the plan of the commission that it shall be one of the most beautiful sanatoriums in the state.

TENSTRIKE IS TO HAVE BOX FACTORY
Concern to Be Erected Largely By Farmers of That Section.

Tenstrike, Minn., Feb. 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifty farmers living in the vicinity of Tenstrike are organizing a corporation for the purpose of erecting a box factory here. They have received and work on the building will begin next week so that the plant will be in operation in about a month. The name of the corporation will be the Tenstrike Manufacturing company and it will consume about fourteen cords of wood a day. It will be managed by Joseph Carter.

The plant is to be modern in every way. It will have several dry kilns so that raw material taken from the woods can be made into finished product within about thirty days.

The new company was organized by A. A. Carter of Bemidji, who has been in the company, but with the exception of a few stockholders, the stock is held by the farmers of the box factory here is because it will enable the farmer to clear land at a profit.

According to Mr. Carter, the rough woods that could be used in no other way will be manufactured into boxes by this factory and the amount received for the finished product by the factory makes the value of the wood about $20 a cord. This profit will go to the farmers who own shares in the company and, as the employees will be residents of Tenstrike, practically all the profits of the concern will go to this village.

FLORAL TRIBUTE FOR FIRE VICTIMS
Great Crowd Attends Funeral for Two Mackyol Babies.

Two tiny caskets bearing the bodies of Adeline and Frederick Mackyol were completely covered with white carnations at the Fifty-ninth Avenue M. E. church of South Superior yesterday, during the funeral services for the two babies who were burned in their home at 3630 Minnesota avenue Monday night.

A vast congregation crowded the church to mourn with Mr. and Mrs. Gust Mackyol and never in the history of Mackyol had there been such an elaborate collection of floral tributes. Mrs. Mackyol, who has her face and hands still showing the effects of the flames, which almost took her life, attended the funeral, accompanied by her husband and her 17-month-old son, Billie.

TELLS HOW TO SAVE QUAIL FROM STARVING
Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner, gives the following directions on how to feed quail:

"The quail should be fed wherever possible during periods of deep snow and low temperature.

"Find their usual feeding or roosting places, which can be located by their tracks.

"Do not place food in the open where the wind will blow the snow over it, but find where the birds frequent an old straw stack, brush thicket or clump of weeds.

"Loose straw, dead grass, corn fodder or other rubbish may be used in which to place feed, which may be loosely covered or protected with brush or evergreen boughs. The location should be on a south slope, protected by grove or otherwise sheltered from winds.

"It can be saved from destruction and made very abundant in Minnesota by proper care in winter.

STEEL SITUATION UNPRECEDENTED
Customers Seek Contracts for Supplies Up to End of Year.

An unprecedented situation exists in the steel trade in that consumers are this early endeavoring to contract for supplies up till the end of the year.

Mills in the Chicago district are reported as a special concession to be covering the requirements of their regular customers in bars, plates and shapes for the remainder of the year to the extent that they will have the material to spare. Pittsburgh plants, however, do not admit having made any contracts beyond next September. It is conceded in all quarters that if the present rate of production is maintained up till the end of the year, all past output records will have been broken by a wide margin.

Activity in Shipbuilding.
A feature in the trade lately is the heavy inquiry being received for shipbuilding materials. An idea of shipbuilding activity can be obtained when it is mentioned that twenty-seven steamers are under contract for North-western American, while plans are being made for more than 125 boats since the outbreak of the war. Eastern shipyards are said to be working on 30,000 tons of plates and structural shapes, which they have agreed to place. Some of the steel required immediately as work has been actually started on the keels of the boats.

An interesting development in the steel trade circles within the last few days is that negotiations for the purchase of the Pennsylvania Steel company by the Bethlehem Steel company are reported to be making headway.

Author Writes About

Heroine of New Novel

An interesting feature of the meeting of the afternoon class of the Bishop's club, which was held today in the club room, was the reading of a letter from Frank Spearman to Miss Jean Halley, who reviewed his book, "Merrill," at an earlier meeting of the club. Miss Halley wished to view his novel "Merrill Dawes," but as it was still in the hands of the publishers, coming out this month, "Dr. Bryson" was substituted. The following are extracts from Mr. Spearman's letter, which was read by Mrs. L. H. Corcoran:

"If I could talk with you, you might be able to extract from me something gossipy concerning Merrill, who was a favorite character of mine, but at a distance it seems difficult to invest anything I can say with interest. Merrill himself was an effort to picture the wonderful capabilities of the clear-headed, courageous and resolute American girl. I am by no means a chauvinist, and am far from thinking that we have the best of everything in these United States, far from it. But as to American women, I am a good deal of a jingo. They seem to be at their best, taken by and large, the flower of the world, and if you have read very much of what I have tried to do for them in any story of American life, beginning with 'Dr. Bryson' and following the titles down, you need hardly be told how much I fancy the novels have invariably been saturated with this conviction."

Contrasting "Merrill Dawes" with "Robert Kimberley," the author said: "Merrill, on the other hand, contained the merest hint of such an atmosphere. But to those who understand the fact that the wedding took place in St. Mark's, Venice, would be enough to indicate that the members of the Bishop's club would have felt quite at home in the company of the principals, had they been able to attend Merrill's marriage to John Adams."

Miss Anna C. MacDonald was the leader for the meeting, and Mrs. William Craig was the hostess.

The Bible reading, which Miss Gertrude Toben gave from the Acts of the Apostles, was explained by Bishop James McGillicuddy. Miss Marian Morley gave "Epithalamium," by Lucas, Mrs. Josephine Taphorn of Alton, Ill., sang "My Heart is Weary," from "Walden," and Mrs. C. E. Haley reviewed "The Story of Julie Page," by Kathleen Norris.

Benefit Card Party.

The Ladies' Camel club gave a card party last night in the Camel temple. Five hundred was played at twenty-three tables and the proceeds were turned over to the Mackay fund. Mrs. P. Cadatt and Mrs. L. M. Hulet won the first and second prizes for the card party. The first and second prizes for the card party were won by Mrs. P. Cadatt and Mrs. L. M. Hulet.

Littleworth-Winklasky.

The marriage of Miss Helen Grace Littleworth of 221 North Seventh avenue west and F. H. Winklasky will take place next month.

Children's "Circus."

The children of the Trinity cathedral Sunday school and the members of the Junior auxiliary are working enthusiastically for the circus they will give in Trinity hall Saturday, Feb. 28, beginning at 4 o'clock. The proceeds will be used towards making a tennis court on the grounds of Trinity cathedral.

The afternoon performance will be a matinee especially for children and the boys are planning for a circus ring which will offer continuous stunts.

Mrs. Arthur N. Starin is arranging a vaudeville performance for the evening, the "show" to begin at 8 o'clock, and this will be for adults, although it is expected there will be a large number of children at this performance.

The several booths and those who will be in charge are as follows: Dutch flower stand, where flowers will be sold and a Dutch lunch served, Mrs. W. Lyder, Jr., in charge; Gladys Wagner, Agnes Ewell, Mary Miller and Carolyn Lyder; hot waffle stand, waffles served with maple syrup, Mrs. R. S. Powell; Mrs. Carter, Mrs. MacLean, Katherine Lansing and Mary McGillicuddy; Japanese booth, with tea room, Mrs. J. T. Watson in charge; Patsy Watson and Myrna Ebert; candy, Frances Taylor; ice cream cones, Gordon MacLean; lemonade stand, Helen Pierson.

Pre-Lenten Dance.

The date for the pre-Lenten dancing party of the Acadian assembly has been changed from Friday, March 3, to Thursday, March 2. The party will be held at Coffin's academy. Miller's orchestra will furnish the music.

Three Marches for

Next Twilight Concert

Those who have a liking for martial music and have asked for the same on the programs of the Duluth orchestra, will have their wishes granted at the concert to be given by the orchestra at the new armory Sunday afternoon, as Director Bradbury, in the preparation of the program, had in mind the many requests that were made of him earlier in the season to include some marches. While a whole program of marches would no doubt satisfy a limited number of the concert patrons, it would require too many innovations to satisfy all. Mr. Bradbury, however, has consented to make room for three numbers of this nature, which will include Sousa's famous "Semper Fidelis" March, the "Crack Regiment Patrol" by John and "Parade Militaire" by Massenet. All are constructed on very high degrees of melodiousness and should prove whether this music is desired or appreciated on the orchestral programs.

A good military march is most inspiring when played by a band, which is generally recognized as the proper medium for interpreting them as they require a heavier instrumentation than that of an orchestra which is composed mainly of stringed instruments. However, many excellent marches easily adapt themselves to orchestral performance, and Mr. Bradbury has carefully chosen only those of which he can give a good account.

The principal orchestral number on Sunday's program will be the two movements from Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony, and much interest has been awakened in the city by the unusual people who have been making a study of the symphony the last week.

Church Meetings.

The annual dinner and election of officers of the First Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society will be held in the church parlors at 6:15 o'clock Wednesday, Feb. 23.

CRACK SKI RIDERS COMING TO COMPETE IN LOCAL MEET

ers for the success of the local meet, and Peter Wright, secretary of the Duluth S. C. club, today declared that he thought the show would be a thrilling conditions. Snow will be packed out of the field and with an ice base the two officials believe the race will be the fastest in years.

S. Bergerson, Al Portie and L. Rasmussen, all athletes already sent in their entries. It is expected that a number of other entries will be received today. Tomorrow evening the club directors expect a large number of entries will be in.

With the best of the professionals competing and a large entry list of the amateurs, the Duluth S. C. for every taking part, it is believed that the journey of next Sunday will be one of the most old-fashioned and exciting will prove one of the best that has ever been staged by the Duluth S. C. association.

Look for High-Class Meet.
We believe we will have one of the best tournaments at station, says Gray said Anton Borgren today. "When the Milwaukee organizers decided to postpone the meet, they were in a bad way. I got in touch with the crack professional skiers and they decided to come to the West will be here. We will have both the professional and amateur champions. We will have the best skiers the men who have been doing the best jumping at the biggest meets of the country. We will have the best one of the best tournaments staged in Duluth. If crack riders can make the meet, it will be a success. Our success is assured."

Grounds Easy of Access.
The show of the last few days has performed a vast amount of work for the organizers. They have shown how much of the show that would have had to be carted away to make the ski grounds a desirable place to go to attend the tournament. The roads to the ski grounds will be placed in excellent shape, the snow will be leveled by the skiers, the police will be in uniform, and the snow will be leveled on the grounds.

agreement would be signed until after the close of the college year.

It is understood that R. H. C. King and John Doherty, both Crimmon back field players of the past season, also will join the Wisconsin coaching corps.

FAST QUINTS WILL MEET

Cathedral High School and Superior Are Ready for Basket Ball Game.

The Cathedral high school basketball team will meet the crack Superior high school quint on the Cathedral floor tonight. The contest is expected to be one of the scrappiest and hardest fought games of the season on the local floor. The team which is repre-

representing the Superior Institution is one of the best teams that has ever been turned out by that school, and Coach Schnieder of the Superior team thinks his boys are going to "slip one over" on the Catholic lads.

The Cathedral squad has been practicing faithfully for this contest and hopes to get away with the long end of the score. Coach Daugherty was highly elated over his proteges' showing in Ashland and he thinks, from their showing there, that his boys have struck their stride and are going to make the rest of the games a string of victories.

This game will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, owing to a certain social function which is to be held after the game.

The teams are expected to line up as follows when time for play is announced.

nounced: Cathedral— Superior High—Fitzpatrickf....(capt.) Bradley
Quinnf..... Duff
MacDonnellf..... Nelson
Leef..... McKinnon
Coleg..... Lynch
Farahg..... Fowler
Gallagherg.....
Ray Fenton of Duluth will referee
the contest.

On the evening of Washington's birthday the Cathedrals will meet the strong team representing the Nelson-Dewey high school of Superior. Nelson-Dewey has the strongest team that it has ever turned out this year, and as they have won every game played this season are confident of defeating the team representing the Duluth institution.

ARMY OFFICIAL SENT TO FLOODED TERRITORY TO TAKE CHARGE OF RELIEF

Increased Apprehension Felt for 2,000 Persons Now Marooned.

Practically Without Food and With Only Scantiest Shelter.

Crevasse on Mississippi River Is Now 700 Feet in Width.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Senators Bruns and Hays today conferred with Maj. Gen. Scott, the army chief of staff, in regard to Mississippi river flood conditions. They were told that everything possible was being done and that Capt. William E. Hunt of the quartermaster's department, stationed at St. Louis, had been ordered to the flooded territory to take charge of the relief work.

Increased Apprehension. New Orleans, La., Feb. 18.—Increase apprehension was felt today for the 2,000 or more persons marooned around New Orleans, without food and with scant shelter. Most of them are negro plantation laborers who were unable to reach safety when the Mississippi river broke through the levee at the Buck Ridge plantation. The crevasse is nearly seven hundred feet wide. A quarter mile circle with a radius of twenty-five miles is flooded from six to fifteen feet, while beyond this another twenty-five miles is covered with water from a few inches to one and two feet deep.

The flood will not reach its climax for at least a week, authorities predict. Concordia parish in Northeast Louisiana is almost entirely covered with water. Flood waters from the Buck Ridge crevasse and backwater from the Black, Red and Old rivers, together with water from the broken levees of the Arkansas river, have dotted Northeast Louisiana with several large lakes. These lakes are reported gradually drawing closer to each other. It is believed they eventually will converge into one huge lake, 60 miles by 80 miles, covering the parishes of Tensas, Concordia, Franklin and Catahoula, except in a few high spots.

Below Melville Lake, the crevasse in the Atchafalaya river was reported having reached a width of 3,100 feet early today. Assistant Engineer Lombard estimated it would continue to widen until it had reached a mile and a half. Back levees still protected Melville from the back flow.

MAY SETTLE STRIKE AT ANSONIA PLANT

Prospects Are Considered Bright for Adjustment of Difficulty With Men.

Ansonia, Conn., Feb. 18.—Prospects were considered bright today for an amicable adjustment of the difficulties between the American Brass twenty pany and its 2,500 striking employees. A conference will be held this afternoon to consider the issues in dispute. The strikers representing eleven nationalities were not organized until last night, when a youth, Joseph Groh, succeeded in bringing the factions together.

There was no disturbance during the night. The augmented police force was further reinforced today by the arrival of fifty special deputy sheriffs from New Haven.

TURK GARRISONS OF FORTS AT ERZERUM LEFT TO FATE

Main Forces Withdrawn When Capture of City Seemed Inevitable.

First Details of Taking of Fortress Given Publicity.

Petrograd, Feb. 18, via London.—The first story in detail of the capture of Erzerum by the Russians reached Petrograd semi-officially today. It shows complete co-operation of Russian troops over a wide area, which made useless resistance on the part of the Turks. Apparently the Turks realized the fall of Erzerum was inevitable and withdrew most of their forces before the final onslaught, leaving the garrisons of the widely separated forts to their fate.

The campaign began to reach its climax in the last days of January. The troops of Gen. P. K. from the north and those of Gen. K. from the east moved against the first-line forts under the most severe weather conditions. The Russians dragged their artillery to the heights surrounding the fortress and when all was ready began to bombard Fort Kara Guduk, twenty miles, and Fort Dulan Gez, fifteen miles northeast of Erzerum, preparatory to the bayonet assault.

Fort Captured. On Jan. 29 both forts capitulated. The taking of Dulan Gez made a (Continued on page 4, first column.)

BRING SUIT TO RECOVER SHIP

Attorneys for Owners of Appam Start Admiralty Proceedings.

Would Regain Possession Under Convention of The Hague.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Attorneys for the British owners of the liner Appam, in Hampton Roads as a prize of a German crew, have brought an admiralty proceeding under the prize laws to regain possession of the ship. The state department holds that under the Prussian-American treaty the liner belongs to Germany as a prize, at least until a prize court passes on the validity of her capture.

Specialized Training Approved. Chicago, Feb. 18.—Specialized training for rural school teachers and extension, were the subjects of papers read here today before the north central council of state normal school presidents. President A. H. Yoder of Whitewater, Wis., discussed specialization in courses offered at schools.

To Submit New Plan. St. Louis, Feb. 18.—A new plan for the reorganization of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad will be submitted soon. The Missouri public service commission was so informed today by a telegram from James Speyer, who withdrew the application of the reorganizers for a hearing on the plan partially disapproved by the commission.

HUSBAND A BEGGAR; WIFE GETS DIVORCE. Finds "Swell Dresser" Seizes Money Posing With Hat in Hand.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Because she objected to her husband's calling Mrs. Mary Mack Powley has been granted a divorce. The decree was signed yesterday by Judge Kersten.

Mrs. Powley told the court that her husband, Clyde Thackeray Powley, was the acme of affluence and sartorially a splendor. He was a "swell dresser," she said, and wore spats. He told her he worked for himself out at the stock yards and she concluded he was a live-stock broker. Less than a month after her marriage in 1913 she went to visit a friend on the South side.

"There I saw him," she told the court, "standing on a corner with his hat in his hand. He was a professional beggar."

CHICAGO BANK WILL BE ASKED TO SHOW ACCOUNT OF HARVESTER COMPANY

Charged That Implement Concern Disciplined the Institution.

Senate Would Learn Truth in Regard to Sisal Representations.

Bank Official Says Request of Committee Will Be Refused.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The senate agricultural committee today decided to call upon the Continental and Commercial National bank of Chicago to submit a statement showing the deposits of the International Harvester company for the last three years in order to determine the truth of charges that the Harvester company has disciplined the Chicago bank for extending financial aid to the sisal growers of Yucatan.

The committee is investigating charges that the Harvester company and the Plymouth Cordage company combined to monopolize the sisal output and prevent independent twine dealers from obtaining raw material and counter-charges that the Pan-American commission, of which Sol Wexler, a New York banker, was the head, financed a sisal monopoly with the idea of putting up the price to American merchants.

Woman Reveals Plan By Which Farm Hand Was Killed.

Hit on Head With Ax and Quickly Buried By Murderers.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—A murder so carefully planned that even the grave was dug was revealed today in a confession by Mrs. Josephine Zdrovski, her husband, Teofil Zdrovski and Alex Metelski, who, according to the police, admitted having struck Tony Sandrovich repeatedly on the head with an ax, at a farm six miles west of Benton Harbor, Mich.

Sandrovich, who was 55 years old, and was employed on the farm rented by Zdrovski, was believed by the trio to have possessed a considerable amount of money. The police say he was killed. Only $35 was obtained, it was said.

Sandrovich was lured to the farm, when Sandrovich came and he had a lot of money. Hearing that the police were looking for him, he carried in his clothes considerable money, the police say Mrs. Zdrovski told them they asked him to come to work on the farm, planning to kill him.

On the night before the murder, the confession reads, according to the police, "we went to South Bend for a lot of whisky. We drank all we wanted, when Sandrovich came and he had a lot of money. When he fell asleep, Metelski hit him twice on the head with an ax. We already had the grave dug and we threw his body into it and left on the next train for Chicago."

Another man and his wife once worked on the farm. Mrs. Zdrovski is said to have told the police and it was planned to kill them for their money, but the woman became frightened and prevented the crime.

Zdrovski and Metelski, unaware that Mrs. Zdrovski had confessed, first denied all knowledge of the murder, according to the police, but later also confessed.

GERMANS ARE MOVING GREAT NUMBER OF TROOPS THROUGH SOUTH AND CENTRAL BELGIUM

QUESTION OF DEFENSIVE ARMAMENT IS LIKELY TO CAUSE LONG DISCUSSION

Teutonic Powers Not Expected to Modify Policy on Armed Ships.

United States to Be Asked for Definition in New Conditions.

Lusitania and Arabic Assurances Referred Only to Unarmed Ships.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Indications in official quarters today are that Germany's reply to the request of the United States that assurances be given in the Lusitania and Arabic cases to do only with unarmed vessels, that Germany must feel certain that its submarines which were a merchant ship will not be attacked and that this country will be asked for its definition of defensive armament.

It is considered certain that the problem of defining defensive armament will be the basis of lengthy negotiations.

Officials Notified. All American diplomatic and consular officials abroad have been notified in a circular communication from the state department that the position of the United States is that merchant ships have a right to carry defensive armament.

This move which became known yesterday is the first formal announcement that the United States does not accept as legal the announced intention of Germany and Austria to sink armed merchant ships without warning after Feb. 22, as coming within international law.

President of China Talks of Uprising in Some Provinces.

Believes Government Can Suppress It; Coronation Later.

Peking, China, Feb. 18.—In an exclusive interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press at the palace today, President Yuan Shi Kai minimized the importance of the rebellion now in progress, and expressed confidence in the ability of the government to suppress the uprising when adequate troops reach the upper Yangtze valley.

Today President Yuan Shi Kai said that he acted as interpreter. "This is no campaign," he said, "but it gives me so much work that it increases my appetite."

The president replied laughingly to a remark regarding his excellent physical condition and his refusal to retire, saying that he was not yet old enough to retire.

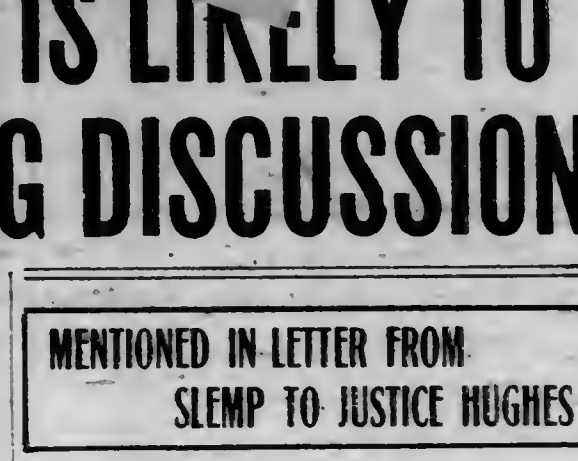

Although a disheveled and weary man, the president said that he was not taking place because of the Yunnan rebellion, which he considered a military operation. Therefore it was decided with saddened hearts to postpone it.

The president said the drafting of a new constitution would be begun in a few days. When it is finished, the constitution will be promulgated.

While no news has been received of organized resistance by the Turks in Turkish stronghold in Gallipoli that was taken by the Russian army, reports indicate that it was thought possible the Turks would make a stand on the eastern shore of Erzerum valley, eleven miles from the city. It is not thought probable, however, that they were able to erect any powerful fortifications there. The latest Petrograd official statement reported the Turks fleeing in disorder.

Details from the Russian side indicate that there were no large captures of men when the fortress fell. The bulk of the Turkish troops apparently were well on the retreat westward at the time the inner forts were taken, only the rear guard taking part in the last day's fighting.

Another Fruitless Attack. Berlin, Feb. 18, via London, 4 p. m.—Another fruitless attack by the British on the German coast was reported today. The British navy reported several hundred yards of trenches, was announced today by the war office.

On the French Front. London, Feb. 18.—With the exception of a French assault against the Germans south of the Somme which Berlin declares was put down, the artillery of both sides has been the sole instrument of warfare along the French front.

The Austrians and Italians at various points are still engaged in artillery duels and occasional infantry maneuvers, but no notable victories have been won. Vienna reports less activity than usual on the part of the Italian guns.

In Albania, the Petro-Hungarian, reinforced by Albanians, presumably irregulars, have occupied a small town, south of Durazzo. By the capture of this town, it would seem that the Turkish army was surrounded. The gendarmes of Esad Fasha, provisional president of Albania, who had been driven away, fled aboard a ship toward Italy.

Esad Fasha has been deprived of his rank and removed from the Turkish army list for having assumed the leadership of the provisional government of Albania, and joining the ranks of the Entente allies.

REBELLION IS UNIMPORTANT

Reinforcements which the Turks were sending to Erzerum are reported to have been five or six days' march distant when the city was surrendered. Meanwhile the Russians are active along the Black sea coast to the north. A Sebastopol dispatch reporting the bombardment of Vize, fifteen miles east of Trebizond, a Russian advance inland in the direction of Trebizond on the coast has been unofficially reported.

There appears to be somewhat greater military activity in Gallipoli than for some days past. Petrograd reports an Austrian offensive on the Danube, near Ulececko, an attack being launched after intense artillery preparation. The assault was repulsed, it is declared.

The recent comparative quiet on the Franco-Belgian front has not been seriously disturbed so far as current statements reveal. The only infantry movement reported in today's French war office bulletin is what is characterized as an unimportant attack by the Germans north of Blancy in the Ardennes. This is said to have been easily repulsed.

Summary of the War News. Indications that some important military movement by the Germans may be in preparation on the western front are furnished by advices from the Belgian frontier received in Amsterdam. Heavy troop movements have been in progress in South and Central Belgium, say the dispatches, long trains carrying artillery and infantry being dispatched along the railroads to the west and south.

LONG TRAINS FILLED WITH INFANTRYMEN

Many Conferences of High Officials Are Held at Louvain.

Another Attack By British Near Ypres Said to Be Futile.

Artillery Warfare Proceeding Steadily Along the French Front.

Amsterdam, Feb. 18, via London.—During the last six days great German troop movements have occurred in South and Central Belgium, says a dispatch from the frontier to the Telegram.

Long trains with artillery and infantry were running along the railroads to the west and south and some small detachments were transported by way of Louvain, Wavren and Genabou to the southeast.

Louvain, the dispatch adds, still is a strong point of support of German strategy and many conferences of high military officials are held there.

Cotton Broker Seizes Big Verdict From John Hays Hammond.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Daniel J. Sully of New York today was awarded $30,000 damages in his suit against John Hays Hammond of this city, who he claimed attempted to destroy his reputation as a cotton expert. A sealed verdict was given by a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court. The trial, which occupied five weeks, was made necessary by a mistrial about a year ago. Sully sued for $150,000 damages.

Bankers House Bombed. Chicago, Feb. 18.—A bomb exploded today at the headquarters of the Mas-tragiovanni and blew out the front of the house but no one was injured. Mas-tragiovanni is a well-known figure in the private bank, the affairs of which are now in bankruptcy court. He said he believes the explosion was the work of a depositor angered by the loss of his money.

THOUGH automobile manufacturers have almost two hundred tire brands to choose from, and though they could "save" money by selecting one of many other types, they give overwhelming preference to Goodyear.

This is shown by the fact that one in every three cars manufactured for 1916 will be Goodyear equipped.

What else can this mean except that motor car manufacturers have found, as individual tire buyers have found, that Goodyear Tires go farther and last longer and so cost less.

MACHINERY STANDS TEST

Cement Plant Is Ready to Turn Out Clinkers on Monday.

Kilns Will Be Charged in Morning; Much Raw Material.

The entire equipment, sufficient to operate at one-fourth capacity, the raw material mill at the Universal Portland Cement plant was given a trial run yesterday afternoon. The machinery throughout operated without a hitch, according to officials.

The plant will make clinkers Monday morning, the dryers will begin early in the morning, and before night the monster kilns will turn out the first product.

Large quantities of the raw material are being received at the storage bins adjoining the raw material mill. These bins are each capable of containing hundreds of car loads of slag, limestone and coal. Much of this material will pass through crushers and then will be charged into large rolls, 50 feet by 6 feet, where each will be thoroughly dried. Other processes of crushing, weighing and mixing will take place through machinery, automatically operated before passing into the huge kilns. From these kilns the product will emerge in clinkers of from two to four inches, and will after a cooling process, be ready for the finishing mill.

After this unit of the plant is started, every effort will be bent toward completing the remainder of the mill. The machinery for this finishing mill is being rapidly received, and this will be completed and ready for operation about April 1.

SIX RINKS WILL TRY FOR TITLE

No curling games are scheduled at the Western Curling club for this evening. Two games were played last night, F. H. Wade winning from T. F. Olsen, 10 to 7, and Charles Lits getting a game from Thomas Quinn, 12 to 11. Both games were in the Albert Jewelry event.

About six rinks of the Western Curling club will enter the state championship event for the Merriam trophy to be played next Tuesday at the Duluth Curling club. The title is now held by the Alex Donald rink of West Duluth.

West Duluth will be represented by rinks skipped by Alex Donald, Frank H. Wade, Richard F. Wade, Walter Everett, Emil J. Zent and Melvin Olson. It is probable that one or two other rinks will decide to enter before Monday.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE FAVORED

Better Mail and Express Service for West Duluth Urged.

Street and Road Work Also Advocated for Near Future.

Better mail and express service and street and road improvements were discussed at the meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club last night. Highways leading into West Duluth and their improvement came in for considerable attention.

Co-operation between the club and County Commissioners Charles Kauppi and Walter Swanson in securing additional money with which to complete the Getchell road, the Proctor highway and St. Louis river roads was advocated, and a committee consisting of A. Barnes, J. J. Frey and P. H. Martin was appointed to work with the commissioners in getting larger appropriations.

Dr. W. E. Judson complained of the mail service for West Duluth. He said it was almost impossible to send mail from West Duluth to Duluth, and that the mail service was very poor. He urged that direct pouches be made up at the local office for the western suburbs. A committee consisting of J. L. Morrison, Charles Kauppi and N. F. Nelson was appointed to bring the subject before the railroad officials.

The club would have the Northern Pacific install a Zenith telephone at its West Duluth passenger station. Only the Bell telephone is now in use at this station, and many complaints are said to have been made because the company has only one telephone. A committee will bring the matter to the railroad officials' attention.

A meeting of property owners of fifty-ninth avenue is called for Monday evening at the clubrooms. Differences of opinion as to the extent of the paving have arisen. The majority favor the petition including the entire street from Highland to Main street.

PURE RICH BLOOD PREVENTS DISEASE

Bad blood—that is blood that is impure or impoverished, thin and pale—is responsible for more ailments than anything else.

It affects every organ and function. In some cases it causes catarrh; in others, dyspepsia; in others, rheumatism; and in still others, weak, tired, languid feeling and other troubles.

It is responsible for run-down conditions, and is the most common cause of disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest purifier and enricher of the blood the world has ever known. It has been wonderfully successful in removing scrofula and other humors, increasing the red-blood corpuscles, and building up the whole system. Get it today.

In asking for the dismissal of the indictment, Mr. Content stated that Sanger was indicted almost two years ago, and since that time no copies of the magazine have been received through the mails. He concluded there was reasonable doubt as to the guilt of the defendant.

SECOND FURNACE A STEEL PLANT BEING BLOWN IN

Pig Iron Production Will Be Doubled By New Blast.

Three More Open Hearth Furnaces Will Be Added Soon.

Furnace No. 2 at the Duluth steel plant was due to be "blown in" at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

With this blast furnace in operation, the capacity of pig iron production at the local plant will be reached. Like the one that has been in operation since late last fall, this furnace has a capacity of 500 tons daily. While not the largest in the country, it is of the most modern in use.

The two furnaces tower far above any of the buildings at the plant. Each has an equipment of five monster hot-air blast stoves through which the air passes prior to being turned into the furnaces. Four powerful Thomas Chalmers twin double-acting four-cycle furnace engines and five double-acting blast engines, directly connected to double-acting cylinders of the Bethlehem blowing engine type, will furnish the blast.

In the construction of the two monster furnaces, in addition to the steel, which is represented by several thousand tons, it was necessary to use approximately 1,240,000 bricks in lining. Each of the furnaces required 420,000 bricks, and each of the ten hot-blast stoves required about 50,000 bricks.

Ore Coming Faster.

The shipment of ore from the range has been gradually increasing so that at present the plant is receiving a trainload consisting of about 2,500 tons. The two furnaces will reduce about this amount of iron ore daily in producing the 1,000 tons of pig iron daily.

The coke ovens are now working at almost capacity production. When this part of the company's industry started, only fifty-five of the ovens were put into commission. This number has been steadily increased until today nearly the entire complement of ninety ovens is in use. The coke ovens are capable of producing approximately 1,100 tons of furnace coke daily.

Adding Open Hearths.

Preparations being made to put into commission the other three open hearth furnaces at the plant. The company has seven of these open hearth furnaces built but so far only four of them have been utilized in the manufacture of steel. These four have been in use since prior to the Christmas holidays.

The three additional furnaces which will complete the complement of ten for the open hearth building are being rapidly pushed to completion. It is expected that these will be completed by the end of the month. The first of these three mentioned are put into use.

The plant is now giving employment to about 1,000 men. About four-fifths of this number are working in the daytime, the others working nights. Construction work is still making a large part in the activities at the plant.

DEMOCRACY OF AMERICA DEPENDS UPON SCHOOLS

Home, Church and School Should Co-operate, Says Dean Mathews.

Several Noted Educators Address Convention of Teachers Here.

Declaring that the future of democracy in America rested upon the public schools and that the Boy Scout movement was an indictment upon the school, the church and the home, Dean Shailer Mathews of the divinity college of the University of Chicago gave a broad and comprehensive discussion of "Education for Social Service" at the closing session of the annual convention of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association this forenoon.

The current expression "Boy Scout or bandit," he asserted, was an indication that a new factor in life was needed to handle the boy problem and that the church, school and home had partially failed.

The burden of Dr. Mathews' address was co-operation, a working together of home, church and school to train the youth of the land to be efficient and morally strong. The fact that boys become bandits and shoot policemen and do other criminal acts is a reflection upon society, he declared, but the boys' criminal tendencies, he said, could be controlled by proper training.

One of the most interesting phases of his address was that which dealt with the various forms of education and their purpose and effect. The imperialistic form he said was best illustrated by the German system, which is intended to develop in human society an average of efficiency and to make each person a part of the government rather than an individual. This system, he said, was wonderfully effective and was carried out with great skill. The other form of education he described as the democratic best, which he said was the system in the United States, which is intended to make individuals independent in their thinking and acting, rather than to strike off averages. The latter system he said was infinitely more difficult to carry out as each person instructed had to be dealt with separately rather than with a class of society.

Church Importance.

He said that the church also should have a big part in molding character, both in the family and the state, and that the best method of co-operation of church, home and school.

Vocational training was given a head-on endorsement by Prof. Nathaniel Butler, professor of education, University of Chicago, who spoke on "The Future of the Function of a Liberal Education." He declared that the great purpose of education was social efficiency, that of the person seeking an education should strive first to learn what was best in life and second to find out the best method of attaining the object sought. He said a person that had attained social efficiency had become expert in some particular line, had attained a working knowledge of the general points of the work associated with his line, had acquired perfect control of his mind and body, and lastly had formed a good moral character.

Indorses Vocational Training.

In speaking of vocational training he gave the work of the present day the highest possible endorsement. He said it in no way interfered with one's regular education, but was a great benefit as a supplement, whether the things learned were of direct benefit or not. The work of the hand is the best possible stimulus to the mind, he declared, and said many a boy had found himself through vocational training.

Scientific Methods Applied to Educational Problems was the subject of an able address by Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, dean of the college of education at the University of Minnesota. In his address Dr. Coffman told how the modern instructor attacks the problems of education by first getting a thorough knowledge of the subject and then applying the method best adapted to the solving of the problem.

Discusses Human Nature.

"Every Day's Traits of Human Nature" was the topic treated in a very interesting manner by Dr. M. V. O'Shea, professor of education at the University of Wisconsin.

and the two step for persons past thirty.

Tests show that girls are ahead of boys in the ability to possess their faculties, but the serious difficulty is resistance found in students of 12 years who are not yet past the resistance of the things for which the schools stand.

"We find many students in school today who cannot assimilate things worked out by their teachers. The dance has done much to mature the young and playgrounds and social centers have done much to prevent children losing their facility."

President Peter Oleson, Cloquet, presided over the reception and dance.

At the close of the address the visiting educators were given a reception and dance at the Masonic temple by the Duluth Teachers' association. Those who were present today were the visiting teachers left last night for their homes, but the majority remained over for the closing session today. A great many devoted considerable time to shopping today.

DULUTHIAN CATCHES SHARK WITH SLENDER ROD AND LINE

F. A. PATRICK AND HIS SHARK.

Catching a 9-foot shark with a kingfish bait and hook is some feat in piscatorial pastimes; and that is the achievement of F. A. Patrick of Duluth.

It happened off Miami, Fla., where Mr. Patrick is spending a part of the winter, and some idea of the size of the fish is given in the accompanying picture, which Mr. Patrick sent to some friends in Duluth.

Mr. Patrick was out angling for kingfish a week ago last Thursday and was equipped with only a No. 6 Van Hise rod, a No. 4 Van Hise reel and a 24-strand line. While engaged in the sport, what felt like a whale took the bait and the fight was on. As it rose and thrashed around in its efforts to get free, it was seen that the catch was a sand-shark, and a big one.

For an hour and fifteen minutes the battle went on, until both fish and fisher were nearly exhausted. The fisher had to be constantly on the alert to save his slender line, for one jerk would have snapped it. As it was impossible to land the sea-tiger like other fish, the expedient of bringing the fish close to the boat and shooting it was resorted to, after which it was towed ashore.

The shark was 8 feet, 10 inches long and weighed 35 pounds. A shark, fishermen say, seldom takes a small bait like that used for a kingfish.

Duluth are affected by the increase in the wage scale, just made in Cleveland.

MARINE ORDERS TWO MORE SHIPS

Pittsburgh Steamship Company Has Four Others Building.

Nine of Largest Type Under Construction for Lake Service.

The Pittsburgh Steamship company has just placed an order with the American Shipbuilding company for two additional 12,000-ton ships to come out early in 1917.

The company has two 12,000-ton ships building at the American Shipbuilding company plants for delivery early this summer and one for delivery in the early fall. It also has a 12,000-ton ship building at Ecorse for delivery in the summer. The new order makes a total of 12,000-ton ships placed with lake yards by this company within the last few months.

The vessels will be duplicates, 600 feet over all, 580 feet keel, 60 feet beam, 32 feet deep and built to classify with the highest rating of Lloyd's Register. All will be fisher-hull construction.

The price, it was said, is in the neighborhood of $560,000.

Nine Big Ones Ordered.

So far nine 12,000-ton ships have been ordered by lake owners. H. K. Oakes, H. S. Wilkinson and the Inter-Lake Steamship company, each have one such ship under construction. The American Shipbuilding company also has a 10,000-ton stone carrier for 1917 and a 9,500-ton ship for fall delivery.

Since the first order was placed prices have steadily advanced and today it costs better than $75,000 more for a 12,000-ton ship than it did last fall.

All of the yards have several orders for ocean ships and it is understood figures are being sought on twenty-eight ships for foreign trade. The buyer is understood to be seeking ships that can be bought immediately, but may place orders for new ships, falling in the first choice.

PEAVEY BOATS CHANGE HANDS

Four Steamers Sold to C. Reiss Coal Company—Tomlinson Had Them.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 19.—Announcement was made here today of the closing of a million dollar vessel deal by which the steamers George W. Peavey, Frank H. Peavey, F. B. Wells and F. T. Hoffelinger of the Peavey Steamship company were taken over by the C. Reiss Coal company of Sheboygan.

The Peavey steamers are at Buffalo and will be turned over to their new owners as soon as they unload their cargoes. A new company will be organized to operate the boats. The boats have been operated by G. A. Tomlinson for a number of seasons. They were built in 1901.

G. A. Tomlinson is in California, but at his office here, it was said today that no word of the sale of the Peavey fleet has been received. It was admitted that negotiations have been going on for some time for the steamers.

The purchase of the fleet by the Reiss Coal company is taken as meaning that the coal interests are beginning to fear that the demand for tonnage is likely to conflict with their transportation facilities via the Great Lakes, and that they are likely to become formidable bidders for lake vessels.

DEBATE WOMAN'S RIGHT TO PROPOSE

H. C. Fulton and I. K. Lewis Present Pro and Con at Hunter's Park.

"Should Women Have the Exclusive Privilege of Proposing?" was the subject of a debate which entertained those who turned out to the neighborhood meeting of the Hunter's Park Community club last evening at the Waaburn school and it furnished an hour of wit, fun and frivolity.

Homer C. Fulton, in his characteristic clever manner, championed the right of woman to propose the hymeneal cause. Then I. K. Lewis took up the cudgels and proceeded to demonstrate why this privilege was one in which men had vested right. Warren E. Greene presided and his dissertation on the subject was also very much enjoyed.

The evening was given over entirely to a program of fun and was largely attended by Hunter's Park people.

GREENING CHOSEN HEAD OF TEACHERS

O. B. Greening of Eveleth was elected president of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association at noon today at the close of the annual convention at the Central high school.

Retiring President Peter Oleson, Cloquet, automatically became vice president, and N. A. Young, superintendent of the schools of St. Louis county, was re-elected treasurer. Miss Imogene Austin, Duluth, held over as secretary for another year.

ORDINANCES UP MONDAY

Silberstein Will Ask Appropriation to Dredge City Dump.

Commissioner Silberstein, safety head, will introduce a resolution at the council meeting Monday authorizing him to advertise for bids on dredging the city dump in the rear of the incinerator plant at Thirteenth avenue west and the bay front.

As announced in The Herald last Thursday, it is Commissioner Silberstein's plan to dredge about 135,000 cubic feet of the dump, thus solving one of the pressing problems in connection with the collection of garbage and the operation of the plant. There is no more room at the present dump, and recently the city arranged for the use of property in West Duluth, while negotiations were also started for the construction of a crib on the lake front for the purpose of dumping ashes and refuse. This would cost about $10,000, it is estimated.

According to figures obtained by the safety head, dredging of the dump to a depth of fifteen feet will not cost more than $500, and will provide the city with dumping grounds for several years.

In addition, the Silberstein hotel ordinance will come up for second reading at the meeting Monday. The measures appropriating $20,000 for street sprinkling and $10,000 for oil and the ordinance authorizing the transfer of the city's interest in the work farm at Forty-fourth avenue east will be ordered passed from Superior to McCulloch street, after a sanitary sewer will be ordered in One Hundred and First avenue west, from Dickson to Helt street. The sewer will cost approximately $1,231.

EDUCATOR IS LAUDED FOR CONVENTION WORK

Peter Oleson, superintendent of the schools of Cloquet, Minn., and retiring president of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association, is given credit for the success of the convention program given by the association. Congratulations from every side have poured in to him from visiting educators and from local teachers.

Mr. Oleson has worked indefatigably for several weeks preparing the program and, through his energy and knowledge of educators throughout the country, he brought to Duluth the best talent ever provided for a convention of the association, so educators have.

The latest educational problems have been handled in an up-to-date and efficient manner by the speakers, and the departmental work is declared to have been a valuable experience to all that which characterized the other parts of the convention.

The Pan-American corporation was not formed until the planters had been unable to make loans from independent bankers who refused because of alleged threats from the Harvester and Plymouth companies.

A telegram was read into the record from the Continental and Commercial bank denying that the Harvester company had withdrawn its account. Levy Mayer of Chicago, counsel for the Pan-American corporation, who was the original charges that the Harvester company had attempted to influence the banks, read the telegram and similar denials were made in a message from the Harvester company read by its counsel, Walter L. Fleher.

Wexler charged today that the Harvester company had sought by intimidation to prevent the National City bank of New York as well as the Continental bank from loaning money to aid slavers.

KELLY LOSES IN ANOTHER FIGHT

Judge Landis Refuses to Give Contractor Freedom on Bonds.
Chicago, Feb. 19.—Thomas Kelly, wealthy Winnipeg contractor, today lost another fight before Judge Landis to obtain his freedom on bonds. He is to be taken from the custody of Sheriff Elvin J. Griffin of Lake county and turned over to the United States marshal for the Northern district of Illinois.

Evans after Judge Landis had said what orders, he would make in the case, Kelly's attorneys, John S. Miller and Arthur Butler, contended for the right of their client to obtain bail and asked that he be left in the custody of Sheriff Griffin. They maintained that the proceedings were on a writ of habeas corpus and not on extradition, and cited supreme court cases to prove their point.

"I am acting as though this were an extradition proceeding," Judge Landis said. "I am acting as if I had power to admit to bail of $100 or release him without bond to consider."

"In other words," said Attorney Miller, "with all the power you will not do it."

"With all the power, I will not do it," replied the judge.

SEYMOUR HOLLISTER DEAD AT OSHKOSH, WIS.

Oshkosh, Wis., Feb. 19.—Col. Seymour Hollister, pioneer lumberman, died today after two weeks' illness with what first appeared to be indigestion but which developed heart disease. A specialist from Chicago was called here and Mr. Hollister rallied for a time.

Col. Hollister was born in Racine, Aug. 17, 1845. His parents came to Oshkosh the same year where his father engaged in the contracting, milling and logging business. His father died in 1890 and the son became a timber cruiser and took up other departments of the lumber business at an early date. In 1897 he was elected to the Wisconsin assembly and served to the end of the war.

Col. Hollister was a director in several large business institutions of Oshkosh, including the old national bank. He was a Republican and a member of the G. A. R. and other fraternal organizations.

TURK GARRISONS OF FORTS AT ERZERUM LEFT TO FALL

beach in the outer line defenses along the Bova-Holm range in front of the city. The capture of Kara Gudek opened a direct passage through the Karadag pass to the city proper from the northeast.

Fort Taffia lies midway between these two fortresses. In a night attack on Jan. 30, this fort was captured, leaving only Chaban Beha, commander of the Karadag pass, in this quarter.

On Feb. 2, the Russians began to storm the whole from line on the Bova-Holm heights. By evening all these positions were in Russian hands, permitting complete junction of the troops on the northeast. The fall of this first line quickly decided the fate of the inner forts.

Garrisons Retreat.
Meanwhile the Pasha's Turkish group of forts, seven miles to the south, had been surrounded on three sides. The general assault on the second line began without giving the men time for a rest. The five inner forts made only a feeble resistance. Their garrisons beat a hasty retreat into the city and followed the bulk of the troops which already were on the roads leading westward.

Only the rear guard took part in the fighting of the last day. Signs that the evacuation was under way were observed immediately after the fall of the first fort.

It is thought possible the Turks will attempt to make a stand at the first favorable point, which is in the hills on the western edge of Erzerum valley, eleven miles distant, but it is not regarded as probable that they have been able to erect any extensive fortifications there.

Repairing Damages.
The Russians are hastily repairing the small damages done to the fortresses against a possible attempt of the Turks to retake them.

No news has been received of the fate of Elved Pasha, commander of the Ninth corps, who was in charge of the defense of Erzerum.

It is reported that reinforcements from Thrace were on the way to Erzerum, but that they were still five or six days distant when the city surrendered. Artillery had been shipped by sea to Trabzon.

A telegram from Sebastopol reports the bombardment of Vitozol, on the Black sea, fifteen miles east of Trabzon. The Turks are evacuating.

attention will go before a national convention for suggestions. He did not predict the date of promulgation of the constitution. Discussing its nature, he said: "We shall adopt from all countries the provisions best suited to the needs of the people."

NEW WAY OF CURING ROOT EASILY ANSWERED

A Painless Method for the Radical Cure of Piles, Varicose Veins and Strictures of Men.

For many years past, the Progressive Medical Doctors of Duluth have developed a method, which, to our knowledge, surpasses all others. It's quite a bloody affair if one reflects how piles are cut away in the usual way. A procedure of that kind seems cruel indeed.

It's different with the Progressive Doctors. They believe their method to be superior to all others, because it is bloodless. Patients are never confined to bed and never lose a moment's time. As a rule, almost all pile tumors are well with one day's treatment.

By direct education, which is applied with mild electric current to the suffering parts, the stricture and pile is absorbed without having caused the patient even the slightest pain. Other rectal diseases, like fissures and fistulas which are cured in the same way by the same painless method. This, however, is no "home treatment" proposition, as patients are treated at the Doctor's Office, and as a rule require more than one application.

Healing Truly Wonderful.

Almost the identical method is used in healing Varicose veins of the Leg, Big Knotted Veins, such as you find in "bad legs" and open legs (varicose ulcers). In men, such conditions often affect not only the leg but the most vital parts, in fact, the vital parts are often affected where the legs are completely free from it. It's the same tired feeling, the same drowsiness that one suffers from as much as any other.

Again, it's Electro power that restores new vitality to the seemingly dead and paralyzed veins and organs. It's that power which restores to them such elasticity which is seen in every healthy young man.

Is Death-Blow to Suffering.

To piles, electric power means death; to the paralyzed, almost lifeless veins, its treatments bring life, elasticity, so that they become young again, and establish normal circulation. The varicose organs perform their normal functions like so many machines. The average time of a cure is a rule of three months. During that time there is no detention from business, and that "tired feeling" leaves the patient, as new life and new vitality gets into his blood and veins. Such a cure moves absolutely and completely the man in a "top-top" condition. Such cures astonish people everywhere, for they think it's the most wonderful thing.

Men that desire to be cured have to apply personally to the Progressive Medical Doctors at their office at No. 1 West Superior street. The Doctors have made a life study of diseases of men, and should, therefore, know how to cure men successfully. Men living out-of-town may write for a symptom blank.

Office hours: Wednesday and Saturday, from 9 to 8; other days, from 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1.

Former Senator Towne Says That Speech Nominates Roosevelt.

Protest Against Belgium's Invasion Would Have Meant War.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 19.—A Washington dispatch from James Gray to the Journal says: The "tip" from the White House is that Ellhu Root's speech is easy to answer. Former Senator Charles A. Towne of Minnesota, now of New York, coming straight out of the White House, said today, Mr. Towne did not say he spoke the president's mind on the subject but fitting incidents into the statement it is to be deduced that Mr. Towne, who did not come to Washington to tell reporters about Root's speech, was temporarily stirred to the point where he wanted to talk about it and that point of time was reached just after he emerged from the office before mentioned.

Says Root Nominates Roosevelt. "The speech nominated Roosevelt," said Mr. Towne, "but it didn't elect him. It is not a knockdown argument but it is the easiest speech to answer that ever came from a statesman of such weight and party authority. It assumes that we should have protested about Belgium the very minute a treaty became a scrap of paper. Men who make such claim must face the alternative that we must have gone to war if our protest was not minded. There is one side. On the other side are the extreme pacifists of the Bryan type, who say that we should have given up a number of neutral rights for the very purpose of obtaining what we have to date obtained without giving them up."

There is a middle ground and the American people who had no wish to get into that war will follow the man who kept them out of it. And until we have finally lost neutral rights at sea, Mr. Root and others, who claim a weakness for our government, are merely begging the question. It is not settled.

Declares Tariff Issue a Joke. "If this is the Republican ammunition, they lost, because the attempt to revive the tariff issue is a joke. I have tried on a number of audiences this question. Who is there here who, if he could do it with his own vote, would abolish the present tariff and re-establish the Payne-Aldrich tariff, and never a single man has risen."

Mr. Towne was reminded that perhaps the alternative was too narrow, stated that there might be many men who would like to abolish the present tariff and substitute a protective tariff.

Leaves Toward Commission. But on this point he claimed first that the Republican party had never played square. It had promised its platform to revise the tariff downward, but congress and the president had revised it upward. Secondly, he asserted there was no man living who would abolish a single article in the present state of the world. The tariff could not be any revision of an intelligent character while the war continued, he declared. This might be an argument for the establishment of a tariff commission, he said, and on this question the administration was in as good a position as the opposition.

BENEFIT CONCERT FOR ISLAND OF LEWIS RESIDENTS

A concert will be given on Thursday evening, Feb. 24, at Foresters' hall, under the auspices of the Lewis Society of Duluth for the benefit of people in the island of Lewis suffering privation on account of their bread winners being killed in the war.

The island of Lewis is situated in the Atlantic about thirty miles from the mainland of Scotland and is a place of refuge for ships of all nations. The harbor of Stromness is a port of call and the hospitality of its people has often been extended to foreigners in distress. The most notable case being that of the survivors of the Norwegian ship Norge, which was wrecked on Lewis about fifteen years ago. Some of the children whose parents were lost at that time were adopted and now are citizens of the United States.

The population of the island is about 25,000, and four months after the outbreak of the war 5,000, or one-fifth of the population, were serving their country.

Native of Lewis have been closely identified with the upbuilding of the island from the beginning. Some of the first public contracts having been undertaken by Lewis men, the late W. L. McLennan, one of the original settlers of Duluth.

Fourteen days, the Hudson Bay service was largely recruited from Lewis and it is thought some of them were among the first white men who established the trading post at Fond du Lac.

Only one more White House function remains on the season's formal social program, which will be brought to a close March 3 with a reception in honor of army and navy officers.

HEALTH TALKS BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Counter-Irritation

The other day we observed that the skin of the thorax and abdomen is supplied with sensory branches from the intercostal (between-the-ribs) nerves, twelve pairs of which are given off from the spinal chord. We mentioned how thin in the appendix region (the lower right corner of the abdomen) sometimes means, not appendicitis or surgery, but pleurisy or pneumonia—the intercostal nerves evidently trying to get a joke on the doctor at the patient's expense.

Take the sixth and seventh pairs, which supply sensation, to the skin over the pit of the stomach. They leave the spine way up between the shoulder blades, and there is the spot to apply your counter-irritation for pain in the stomach. There is the place for the mustard.

If counter-irritation is of any value in the relief of inflammation it must act through the nervous system, certainly not through the circulation. The proper place to apply the hot stuff is, therefore, not necessarily directly over the situation of the pain.

Vigorous thumping of the seventh cervical vertebra—the prominence of the spine below the nape of the neck—is a recognized means of stimulating a weak heart. The thumping should be done with the closed fist, not gently, and at the rate of about five times a second.

Grandma instinctively thumped us a bit lower down on the spine when we choked on an excessively large hunk of her home-grown turkey. That is the place for bronchitis.

A patient of ours who suffered much from flatulence (he had pernicious anemia) discovered that moderate thumping of the back half way down the spine would relieve him for a time. There is the spot to apply counter-irritation for troubles in the colon and the small intestine.

Every woman knows that heat applied to the feet will relieve congestion of the pelvic organs.

Cold applied to the back of the neck will stop a moderate nosebleed.

Sometimes the "old women," after all, display an uncanny intuition. They have learned where to apply the mustard even if they don't know a nerve from a "bronchic" tube.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

An Impostion.

I am a girl of 25 and have suddenly become afflicted with a burning, itching rash on hands, neck and elbows. My doctor tells me it is of nervous origin. It does recur whenever I become nervous or frightened. Is it an impostion to ask your advice?

Answer—No one can ask a question in your courteous, brief way and impose upon this department by so doing. But frankly, it would be an impostion to attempt to give advice without examining you. Skin troubles, of all ailments, require inspection.

The Baby Sweets.

My 5-months-old baby sweats a great deal, even when but slightly covered or uncovered, especially about the head.

Answer—You do not state what you feed him. If you are using condensed milk, malted milk or any sterilized food you had better commence feeding some clean raw milk. Sweating may mean a tendency to rickets.

HIGH SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

Central Students Enjoy Several Days' Vacation; Better Work Features Second Semester; Big Crowd Expected at Class Party; Lambs' Circus Will Be Given March 4; Brenton Heads Thalian Society.

The sixteenth annual convention of the Northeastern Minnesota Teachers' association, together with Washington's birthday, are giving the students of Central high school two holidays which would not otherwise have fallen to their lot. Due to the convention, it was impossible to hold school yesterday, and, as usual, Washington's birthday on next Tuesday will cause the school to be closed for two days.

Judging from their feelings, which the students made no attempt to suppress when the announcement of the two holidays was made, there is very little regret connected with the vacation.

The student body is swinging into the stride of the second semester and much better work is evidently being accomplished than was done during the first semester. There were only four days' school during the week just closed, and no events of unusual interest took place. Second semester selections arranged for the annual senior class party and winter athletics occupied the major portion of the students' attention during the week.

What is generally expected to prove the largest and best party ever given by the class of 1916, will be held next Friday evening in the gymnasium. The committee in charge has made arrangements for several unique features, and it is expected that the affair will be one of the most successful of its kind ever held at Central. A canvass was made of the senior pupils and it was found that an unusually large number of fourth-year pupils would be in attendance. It is expected that before next Friday most of those who are as yet undecided or who have wavered will have made up their minds to follow the crowd.

The seniors will not be wearied by any "long" winded affair. The speeches, for each of these will be limited to fifty words. Great interest is being taken in what the several speakers will have to say in a short number of words. An unusual feature of the program is the presentation of two short sketches made up of members of the class. Miss H. E. Brown will have charge of "Miss Duluth Entertains," and Charles J. Richoux will present "Wanted, a Wife."

Saturday, March 4, has been decided upon as the date for the Lambs' club circus, the first one of its kind ever attempted at Central. The program of "spectacular" performances, one to be given in the afternoon and another in the evening.

An active and enthusiastic committee under the leadership of the treasurer, Allen Thacher, is making arrangements. Each department, or "side show," has some one in charge and they are all working hard to get something novel and new into their part. In addition to the several side shows there will be a main ring, as well as doll shops, candy booths and ice cream parlors. Five cents will be the general admission and the same price will be charged for each of the side shows as well.

The semi-annual election of officers of the school Agricultural society was held on Tuesday of last week at the regular weekly meeting of the organization. The officers elected were: president, Carl Johnson, corresponding secretary, George Watts, recording secretary, Allen Thacher, treasurer, Daniel Carver, sergeant-at-arms, George Watts and Victor Eva. They were chosen to represent the society on the school inter-society council.

It is planned to make the agricultural society more active during the second semester than during the first. The coming of spring and the "side show" work will increase materially and it is expected that the members of the club will then become more enthusiastic than ever before during the year. Prof. Gibson, head of the agricultural department of the school, is arranging to have several prominent men of the city, interested in agricultural work, address the members of the society at some of the meetings during the second semester.

The Thalian Mathematical society held its semi-annual election of officers at a meeting held last week. Raymond Brenton was re-elected president, other officers being: Margaret Jentoff, vice president, and Russell Burns, secretary-treasurer.

The Thalian have held several interesting meetings and programs during the first semester and they plan to far outdo their efforts during the latter part of the year. The programs for the second semester will cover a wide range of subjects, one of the most interesting of them being the relation of mathematics to the war. This subject is expected to prove extremely interesting and should arouse unusual interest in the organization. It is also planned to have several outside speakers. Prof. J. P. Taylor, head of the school mathematics department, is acting as advisor of the society.

Prof. A. E. Mall, speaking coach, has selected his team for the next inter-scholastic debate and will begin drilling them in the near future. The coming contest, Jacob Garon, Max Goldberg and Emanuel Cook, the same team which won from Minneapolis North several weeks ago, will also uphold the honors of Central in the debate with the Minneapolis East high school team on March 10.

The local team is one of the strongest which has ever represented Central and they should make an enviable record during the year. Minneapolis East high has an unusually strong team this year and the contest to be held here should attract a big crowd. The preparedness question, "Resolved, That the Army and Navy of the United States Should Be Materially Increased," is the subject, which will be debated, the Duluth team upholding the affirmative.

Practice for the big annual inter-class track meet, to be held in the Washington gymnasium March 1, was begun at Central last week and a large number of candidates for the several teams turned out. All of the classes have selected their captains, with the exception of the freshmen, the first men to choose their leader next week. George Lindsay will lead the seniors, Robert Berkelman will pilot the juniors, and Sigurd Hendricksen will have charge of the sophomores. It is expected that the affair will prove to be one of the liveliest indoor athletic events ever held at Central.

Due to the soft condition of the ice the interclass hockey games have been postponed several times, but with the reappearance of cold weather it is expected that they will be run off next week. The only games that have been played to date were held last Monday when the soph defeated the juniors by the score of 1 to 0, and the seniors took the measure of the freshmen by the count of 8 to 4.

Gymnasium Building Burns. Detroit, Mich., Feb. 18.—The gymnasium building of the Detroit University school here was destroyed by fire originating in a cloakroom late yesterday afternoon. Members of two basketball teams, about to start a game, and a few pupils who boarded at the school, were the only persons in the building and all escaped. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

FOUR ARE KILLED BY CHEMICAL EXPLOSION

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Four persons were killed, at least a dozen others injured, some seriously, and heavy property damage was caused by an explosion last night in the Spittrock plant of the Smet-Solvay company.

The plant, which was developed since the outbreak of the European war, is one of the largest of the country, engaged in the manufacture of synthetic dyes, which is used in explosives and synthetic dyes. It has been heavily guarded day and night.

The cause of the explosion has not been ascertained.

Butte Mine Still Burning. Butte, Mont., Feb. 19.—Fire, which caused the loss Monday night of twenty-one lives in the Anaconda Copper company's Pennsylvania mine, is still raging. The damage already done is estimated at $100,000. Concerning the mine being thrown up in various parts of the mine to check the fire's spread.

TODAY IN HISTORY.

Edison Phonograph Patented, 1878.
Leon Scott, 1855, invented an instrument to record sound. Edison's recording and reproducing phonograph, made in 1877, used tinfoil and the records soon were out. In 1888 he adopted a waxed cylinder, invented by C. S. Tainter and C. A. Bell as the graphophone. The phonograph now in vogue, using a disc, is from the graphophone, by Emil Berliner, an American inventor of German birth.
There are now at least six highly developed "talking machines" on the American market that are doing much to spread appreciation of music—
Aeolian-Vocalion, Edison, Victrola, Columbia, Pathephone and Sonora.

IT FITS.

Nor is there anything surprising or inconsistent in the spectacle of a man with the history and affiliations of Elihu Root appearing, while engaged in striking a Republican campaign keynote, as the partisan and defender of Huerta, tyrant and assassin.

Huerta never lacked strong support in this country from interests concerned, for reasons wholly and coldbloodedly financial, in maintaining his regime. The president, by refusing to recognize him, mortally affronted these interests and gained their undying hatred. That hatred very fittingly reveals itself in Mr. Root's key-note.
It belongs there. It rings viciously through all the Republican clamor about Mexico.

As a defender of Huerta Mr. Root is entirely consistent with his record as a defender of Tweed and the cunning adviser of Special Privilege—and with his spokes-manship for the Old Guard of the Republican party that, through his deit agency, triumphed at Chicago four years ago in June and was punished for it at the polls four years ago in November.

The latest is to take pennies from the babies to buy battleships with. Is Uncle Sam so poor?

ENCOURAGING THRIFT.

Before the war this country had always depended upon European savings for a large proportion of its capital. After the war, and for a long time to come, Europe will have need of all its own capital. We shall have to supply our own. The elasticity of the Wilson currency law will help. The increase in saving among the people will help some also. In the last analysis it is popular saving that America must find its funds for development. That's the national interest in promoting thrift.

This being the hundredth year since savings banks were started, there is a more or less definite and organized movement in progress to stimulate thrift and to encourage savings. The weekly articles on thrift furnished by the American Bankers' association and published on this page each Wednesday are a part of this campaign. It is taking many other forms.

For instance, A. S. Hibbard, who is associated with the Bell Telephone interests, has written a very informing pamphlet on the subject, with a view to making it easier to deposit savings. He proposes co-operation by bankers and employers. For instance, he suggests that an employer who wishes to help in this work designate some employee to receive for deposit in savings banks whatever sums the employees wish to set apart for this purpose. This will save the saving employee a trip to the bank, with temptations to spend flanking his route. It is not a bad idea at all. It would help the saving employee, it would help the banks, it would help the national need of stored financial resources, and it would do the employer no harm. Even if it cost him a little, it would be worth while, because a thrifty, saving employee is worth more than a thriftless one.

But there is something more the banks can do to stimulate thrift—something a few of them are beginning to do in a small way —and that is to increase popular interest in saving by helping savings bank depositors to find safe investments that will yield more than savings bank interest.

Suppose that whenever a depositor in a savings bank had a hundred dollars or so to his credit, the bank helped him buy a five per cent bond or a share of sound stock paying five or six per cent. Suppose, even, that when the depositor's balance was half that, the bank should buy the bond or share of stock for him and hold it until he paid for it, so much a week.

It would provide a new incentive for saving. It would widen the ownership of industry. It would narrow the gap between the large industries and the people.
It would promote a better popular understanding of corporation needs. If the securities were those of local industries, it would increase local patronage of those local interests. At the same time, it would make available for the uses of industry large sums not now available.

There is much the banks could do to stimulate thrift and encourage saving that as yet they have not brought themselves to the point of doing.

No, no, Huerta, there is no intrinsic similarity between a facade and a face aid.

FACTORY SITES IN DULUTH.

It is a reminder of old times to find this in the esteemed Telegram of Superior, Wisconsin:

But with reference to factories requiring considerable areas of ground for sites, Superior is alone at the head of Lake Superior. For topographical reasons Duluth has no available sites for large manufacturing plants.

Superior is a nice town, and we wish it well. Anything that can be brought to the Head of the Lakes to employ labor and create more pay rolls is all to the good, and benefits both cities.

But Superior mustn't be permitted to lay the flattering unction to its soul—or to advertise it abroad—that it has all the factory sites left available at the Head of the Lakes, because it isn't so.

Bring on your factories, Duluth will take its share, and accommodate them, one and all; and that regardless of the size of the site they need. Bring on factories enough to employ a population of a million, and to occupy uncountable acres of sites, and Duluth will accommodate them all—and still have room for more.

If anybody thinks "topographical reasons" will interfere with this it is because he hasn't studied the situation quite as carefully as some have.

It's predicted that it will take nine yards of cloth to make a woman's skirt next season. Every city dweller will admit that nine yards make a big lot.

STICK TO YOUR DREAM.

The Kansas City Star tells a story that is worth repeating here:

Two Dreamers.
In the mountains of Colorado some thirty years ago a freight train waited on a siding for another train to come and pass, and as it waited the locomotive engineer leaned out of his cab window gazing at the far-off mountain tops and dreaming. The fireman sat upon the tender, gazing into the purple haze and he, too, was dreaming.
"What you dreaming about, John?"
asked the fireman.
"I'm dreaming that I'm going to have a million dollars some day, and what's your dream, Cy?"
"That I'll write a real book some day and have it printed," answered the fireman.

Cy Warner, the fireman of the locomotive, became a poet and author, and writer of many books and a singer of songs that touched the hearts of a whole continent. He died two years ago.
His love for pure, sweet and beautiful things was shown in the last lines of his song, "Sweet Marie," which he wrote in a marriage proposal to the woman he loved, and which the whole world sang for a time.

Not the sunlight in your hair, sweet Marie,
Not because your face is fair, love, to see;
Not because your eyes are blue, and sweet Maiden, mayhap complete,
Makes me fall at your feet, sweet Marie.

John A. Hill, the engineer, made his millions as founder and publisher of the trade papers: Power, the American Machinist, Locomotive Engineer, Engineering and Mining Journal, Engineering News and the Coal Age. He put up a great building in New York and was one of America's captains of industry.
He died last week.

The dreams of both came true. Each saw the fulfillment of his wish. Each served in his own way the needs of his age.

Worth-while achievements are dreams fulfilled.

All the world's progress is made of dreams realized in pain and toil and perseverance.

The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts; and those who are doing great things in the world are men and women who have clung to the dreams of their youth, who have persisted in them despite discouragement, and who have wrought them at last into actual being with the tools of hope, energy and courage.

Stick to your dream!

It doesn't seem possible the president is overlooking the obvious possibility of making Col. Roosevelt secretary of war.

MASTER OR SLAVE?

Are you the master of the minor circumstances of your life, or are you their slave?
A good deal of your prospect for happiness in life depends on your answer to that question.

Some people have become miserable slaves to petty circumstances. A door bangs, and they jump and exclaim in irritation. A dog barks, and they fly into a tantrum. A slight disarrangement somewhere shocks their sense of order, and they find it almost unbearable. Tiresome people get on their nerves so terribly that they are in actual agony when they are about.
The weather is wet, and they complain bitterly and unceasingly. The weather is dry, and they complain of the dust. It is too hot, and they bemoan their fate. It is too cold, and they shiver at the thought of it even in warm homes.

This condition—and its victims are greatly to be pitied—comes of letting outside circumstances, trifles mainly, destroy self-command.

If these people would think what it means to sink into such a condition, it would spur them into self-mastery if there were an ounce of individuality left alive in them. It means to be a weak, impotent victim of circumstances, slave to a self-created tyrant.

Irritability, an easy thing to cultivate, is simply the result of giving way to petty irritations until susceptibility to outside annoyance becomes a morbid condition.

There may be a physical defect underneath which a doctor ought to search out; but in very many cases it is simply that the unfortunate person is the victim of his own weakness in giving in to the tyranny of outside annoyances.

The man or woman who is realizing his possibilities of strength and individuality, makes himself bigger than circumstances—
"bigger than weather," bigger than outside trifles of any kind. He is poised, secure, captain of his soul.

The best advice to any victim of this common condition of slavery to circumstances is to brace up and get a hold on himself. He should be master of circumstances; not their slave. He should shape them to his will; not be their feeble, flabby plaything. He should develop internal resources of strength and poise and self-command and thus not only defy all petty external annoyances but also strengthen himself to withstand outside circumstances that are not petty but serious.

The pitiful victim of petty circumstances becomes, in the end, not only their abject slave, but a mere straw in a gale when larger circumstances of real seriousness beset him.

When European nations get down to the job of paying up the war debts, every cabinet there will be a taxi-cabnet.

A CHARITABLE MAGISTRATE.

A good many "mashers" are brought before Magistrate John C. Guire of Brooklyn, and the other day he thus delivered himself on the subject:

Mashers, oglers of women and so-called flirts must be slightly unbalanced mentally, and fit subjects for the insane asylum. Any man who tries to make love to a strange woman as she passes him in the street certainly is wrong in the head. I send lots of these fellows to the county hospital for mental examination, and you bet I'll see to it that all of them found guilty in my court will continue to be sent there. The public thoroughfares must be safeguarded for women and girls.

Now there's charity for you. Most of us, confronted by such a problem, would have said, right off, "Jail." Looking upon the masher as an unmitigated nuisance, a disgrace to trousers and an affront to decency, we would incontinently consign every masher brought before our court to jail for just as long a term as the law would allow us.

But not Magistrate Guire. He is charitable. He says they must be "wrong in the head," and so he sends them over to the hospital to be detained while the doctors can watch the wheels go 'round and see how they work. It must be interesting to the hospital doctors, too, if a little distasteful, to have this opportunity of looking carefully into the mental operations of such a queer specimen of humanity as the masher.

Probably Guire's plan is as good as another, too. The masher inevitably has a good opinion of himself—an amazingly good opinion, when you think that he has such a splendid opportunity to judge of his qualifications—and it can't especially encourage mashing to have this disposition made of their cases. Jail or lunatic asylum, so they are put where they can't persuade their nasty-avocation, it makes little difference which.

The masher is an odd beast. You picture him as the reverse of prognathous—with a profile that comes to a point in the center and retreats sharply at top and bottom—with a slope in the forehead instead of a bulge, and an upper lip and nose sadly overhanging the gulf where the chin ought to be. Yet he isn't always that way, either; often he so closely resembles a human being that he would fool all but the most observing.

What he was made for only the good Lord knows; and certainly it seems blasphemy to ascribe to Him any knowledge of or responsibility for the creature.

One awfully good thing about it is that the average policeman is a good deal of a man and a real human being; so that if there is anything that "gets his goat," as he would neatly put it, it is a masher. Thus there is a pretty fair assurance that unless the masher is exceedingly careful he will quickly become a subject for the nearest judge's study.

And that's good and wholesome work for the policeman to be doing, and as for the judge, whether he says "jail" or "lunatic asylum" is all the same. Either one helps a lot.

Only some time a judge ought to pass on the problem of what to do with the female flirt who drags her womanhood in the dirt by flaunting her wantonness in the faces of strangers met in the street.

The dickens of it with earthquakes is that they can't always be confined to the seismographs.

BALD HEADS AND WHAT'S INSIDE OF THEM.

Says a Wisconsin doctor: "I have examined several hundred patients regarding their sanity. I have had the opportunity of studying many hundreds of others in the asylums of the country; and in all of my experience I have yet, with a single exception, to see an insane man who is bald-headed."

Now there's consolation for those whose pates shine rosily where once a fluffy foliage grew—and heaven knows they need consolation!

Civilized man wears hats, which block circulation in his scalp, and so he goes, slowly, fatally, certainly bald.

And what a pathetic progress it is! At first, the lad with the abundant shock of hair, suitable for growing long and wavy in the poetic period of his youth, or for training to stand erect in the pompadour period. His hair, bless him, may be his sole claim to beauty.

Yet one day he notices—or his wife notices—that his locks are growing thinner.
The brushes are full of hairs, and every brushing leaves the thicket less dense than it was before. Presently the scalp is faintly visible, then visible less faintly, and then in plain sight with no faintness about it at all.

At the first alarm begins a frantic mobilization of remedies to stop the loss, under the command of Field Marshal Wife.
There are plenty of remedies. There are remedies enough to provide one a day for an indefinite series of years. Everybody you meet knows at least one, and in every instance the proponent of the latest remedy is acquainted with a person who knows a man whose cousin's brother-in-law knows an authentic instance where a fine crop of hair was grown on a perfectly bald head by this particular remedy. So you try it.
Your hair only seems to go faster, so you try the next. You pass rapidly, frantically on from remedy to remedy, spending a fortune in money and energy enough to get rich.

It's of no use. The more you do, the faster your hair departs. Presently you are carefully training a few abnormally long side hairs across the Sahara of nakedness on the summit of your physical being. It's a pitiful subterfuge, and fools nobody. Also, you have to begin to learn wearing your hat further backward, because when you wear it at the accustomed angle a half-moon of baldness shows behind.

And, finally, comes freedom. You cease lamenting the loss of your locks. You realize that there is no use in crying over spilt hair. You are convinced, finally, that all "remedies" are imitations, and that baldheadedness is as immutable as fate. You accept your fate, and forget what is passed.
You quit spending money and time on remedies. You are baldheaded, and you know it, and you don't give a hang who else knows it; and therefore you are bald
but happy and contented.

And then, to have a doctor come along and tell you that he never met a baldheaded lunatic, gives you a new consolation by confirming the impression you had already formed of your mental capacity. That helps a little, too.

No wonder the birth rate is dropping off in the countries engaged in the war. Seeing men killed at the present rate is enough to make the stork say "what's the use?"

THOSE WHO DARE.

It is not enough that opportunities should come your way. They come to everybody.
You have to see them when they come, or they might as well not come. Many an opportunity is lost because it is overlooked.
Many a fortune-seeker has gone empty-handed, his eyes fixed on the stars, while others plucked success from beneath his feet.

But it is still not enough to see your opportunity; you must grasp it.
Doubt and fear often restrain you even when opportunity comes and you recognize it.

Before you lies an opportunity. It contains possibilities of success; but it also contains possibilities of failure. Absolutely sure things don't often come along.

Now comes the test of you. Will you look too much at the possibilities of failure, and in fear stand idle and impotent? Or will you, not forgetting the chance of failure but weighing it properly, look at the chance of success and take that chance?

Those who do things neither ignore the chance of failure nor let it paralyze them.

Doing is daring, too. He who never dares never does. Not daring, often, is not doing. So opportunity flashes upon your vision, waits a moment, is neglected through fear and doubt, and then is gone. It is not only that you have lost a chance; it is that giving in to doubt and fear has left you weaker, more prone to doubt and fear again, more likely to let your next chance get away also.

While your opportunity waited, you put the emphasis on the danger of failure, and did not dare. Another put the emphasis on the chance of success and, daring, won.

He either fears his fate too much
Or his deserts are small,
That he does not put it to the touch
To gain or lose it all.

Rippling Rhymes

By Walt Mason

My Neighbor.

I love my neighbor as myself, and wish him peace and pie and pelf. Yet human nature's strong in me, and when I look across and see my neighbor rending clothes and hair, and sorer than a poisoned bear, because hard luck has swatted him a grievous jolt right in the glim, I do not feel one-half as bad as if that luck myself I had. In fact—it's painful to relate—I rather like to contemplate my neighbor when he's in despair, and biting chunks out of the air. But when he toddles to my place, I pull a sympathetic face, and tell him how my bosom bleeds, give him the solace that he needs, and send him homeward with a smile; you see, my heart is full of guile. It's just a common, garden heart, responding more to private smart, than to the painful stings and pricks which may afflict the other hicks. My trifling boi will gall me more than big carbuncles three or four which may adorn my neighbor's neck, and make his life a grievous wreck. It is a sad thing to confess; and yet we're much alike, I guess.

Good and clever.
If all the good people were clever,
And all clever people were good,
The world would be nicer than ever
We thought that it possibly could.

But somehow, 'tis seldom or never
The two hit it off as they should;
The good are so hard on the clever,
The clever so rude to the good!

So, friends, let it be our endeavor
To make each by each understood,
For few can be good like the clever,
Or clever, so well as the good!

John Marshall, Chief Justice

By Sanford.

Washington, Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas F. Marshall was not the only distinguished Kentuckian of that name.
It is a family that ranks with the Lees, the Randolphs, and the Carters of Virginia, and with the Clays, the Breckinridges, and the Underwoods of Kentucky. The most distinguished family in America is the Pres-tons, though it should be called the Henrys, for its ancestress was a full sister of Patrick Henry, perhaps the greatest orator since Demosthenes. This family has produced more distinguished men than any other, and supplied the two houses of the American congress more members than any other families of the Union. It goes under the name of Preston, Henry, Breckinridge, Brownlow, Floyd, Woolley, Wickliff and others all descended from the sister of Patrick Henry, of whom tradition says that she was a stronger character and a greater orator than was her immortal brother.

If I had a competency, one that would enable me to live without grinding out stuff for the newspapers, I would spend the next twelvemonth at Knoxville, Tenn., in association with John B. Brownlow, the one man living, since the death of William C. P.
Breckinridge, who has stored in his capacious and accurate memory the history of the Preston family, and if I do say it that I read in this book that when the argument would read with interest and with profit.

But to get back to the Marshalls. Of course the greatest of the family was that remarkable man who was chief justice of the United States supreme court for more than thirty-four years. In blood he was half Welsh and half Scotch, and he was of a dozen brothers and sisters. We all say that Abraham Lincoln saved the Union, but it is scarcely too much to say that if it had not been for John Marshall there would have been no Union for Abraham Lincoln to save.

When John Marshall went on the bench he found the Federal government a house of cards, and he fashioned it into a house of solid as the Gothic, and pity 'tis that he could not make it as beautiful as the Renaissance, though we love to gasconade that it is beautiful, and, mayhap, it was in some ways. I read in some history possibly in a book written by Henry Cabot Lodge—though I am not certain, for the memory of an old man is not what it was years ago—I am sure I read in this book that when the argument
in the Dartmouth college case was finished, the chief justice was the sole member of the court whose judgment was favorable to the college. But that was a long time ago.
The court was the court. It was a long time, many months, ere the decision was handed down.
Marshall first brought Storey to his view, and then one by one the others fell, and the Dartmouth case was the major element of the mortar with which John Marshall cemented the Union of the states. After that was accepted, was comparatively smooth sailing for Abraham Lincoln to change the federated republic into a consolidated nation.
It was less than half a century later that William McKinley, with the indispensable aid of William Jennings Bryan, changed this nation into the empire that now exists and is a fair mark for the Socialism that is coming south with the shoes of awitness, if not clothed with the coat of invisibility.

In his social walk John Marshall was the simplest of all our great men, not excepting Benjamin Franklin or Thomas Jefferson or Abraham Lincoln. And let us drop into gossip a little.

One day after the sitting of the supreme court was adjourned, Marshall hastened home and there he found an urchin of seven or eight summers, with a note from his father, a leading member of the supreme court bar, relating to some business or social matter. The chief justice read it, sat down and wrote an answer, and as he made a motion to hand it to the boy, he detected in the child's countenance an expression of awe and veneration that was unmistakable.
John Marshall was demoted enough and great man enough to be grievously hurt at the thought that a fellow-citizen, even though a child, should think that he was made of a better clay than other men.

So he began to jolly the boy and asked him if he played marbles. The boy said he did. Then he was asked if he had his marbles with him, and he did. "Then, Johnnie," said the chief justice of the United States,
"come out in the back yard and let's play a game. I believe I can beat you." The boy, now with confidence much restored, assented, and they went to the yard. The game was formed and filled, and the two—one the most powerful individual then living, for that is what Marshall was while he was chief justice of the United States—went to play marbles. "No poking, Johnnie," admonished the great man, "a fair game." At it they went, the boy now entirely divested of awe and all his self-consciousness disposed of. The match was fast and furious and screams of triumph came from either as he made a fortunate shot.

That boy fell asleep that night the happiest mortal between the Atlantic and the Pacific.
I suppose that such a thing is unknown now, but in the early days in Virginia and Kentucky it was a mortal affront if a man passing a school gave vent to the epithet,
"School-butter!" I remember that my old teacher, Alexander Ford, in Barron county, Ken., the sixth decade of the last century, would thrash every male pupil above sixteen after some misdeed had passed and hurled the insult, "School-butter," if the outrage was not resented on the spot and the wretch promptly and thoroughly "ducked" in the nearest pond or stream, though the prisoner was allowed to ransom himself with a liberal treat of candy and cakes for the whole school.

It is a tradition that John Marshall, when a prominent lawyer and a distinguished statesman, found it impossible to pass a schoolhouse without crying "School-butter!"
and many a time was he chased by all the boys of the school, generally resulting in his liberal treating as the price of ransom.
And the gossip is that he declared that even when chief justice it required a supreme effort of his will to refrain from the mischief.

It is historical that when chief justice he accepted a shilling for carrying a dressed chicken home for a vain fool of a stranger who had bought it in the market at Richmond and supposed his shroud of solemnity would be wounded if he was vulgar enough to be seen in the street with a package under his arm.

Many a prosperous anecdote is told of his fondness for the homely amusement of pitching pellets, a sport at which he rarely met his match.

Next Saturday I shall try to tell you of some other Marshalls—Kentucky Marshalls, kindred of the great chief justice.

Good and clever.
If all the good people were clever,
And all clever people were good,
The world would be nicer than ever
We thought that it possibly could.

But somehow, 'tis seldom or never
The two hit it off as they should;
The good are so hard on the clever,
The clever so rude to the good!

So, friends, let it be our endeavor
To make each by each understood,
For few can be good like the clever,
Or clever, so well as the good!

The People's Century

By HERBERT KAUFMAN

This is a free country—have a piece of it. Not a dollar, an acre, an office or a distinction is beyond your reach.

Fame and wealth and power serve no man permanently—are loyal only to the strongest will.

There isn't a ten minute lease on a 10c piece, nor is there (except government domain) an unavailable inch of ground on the whole continent.

Take your pick of opportunity—any man with five senses in his purse can command whatever she offers. If you're that rich, the biggest sky-scraper in town is within your means.

The department store at the corner is merely under the temporary control of the present owner; when his enterprise fails, so must he.

All the titles in the trust companies' vaults and the millions in bank storage belong to anybody shrewder than the folk who deposited them.

The chairmanship of the Steel Trust and the presidency of Yale University are constantly open to all comers.

The White House is never bespoken for more than four years at a stretch.

There's a seat waiting for you in Congress and a space in the encyclopaedia.

Aim your ambition where you please—there's not a private target in the Republic.

Success lives on the block—is always up at auction.

What do you offer?—Desire? We all want to have and be more, but wishes are unsigned checks—worthless without backing.

How much brains will you bid—how much reliability—how much determination—how much originality?

A hundred million fellow citizens are competing against you—straining, striving, scheming, inventing, calculating, daring and doing, conserving their energies for vital undertakings, avoiding dissipations, dispensing with luxuries and comforts, applying every waking hour to knowledge and purpose.

They're ready to pay the top price in effort and talent. Are you?

Influence and social position won't avail against intelligence.

This is the People's Century—merit is supreme.

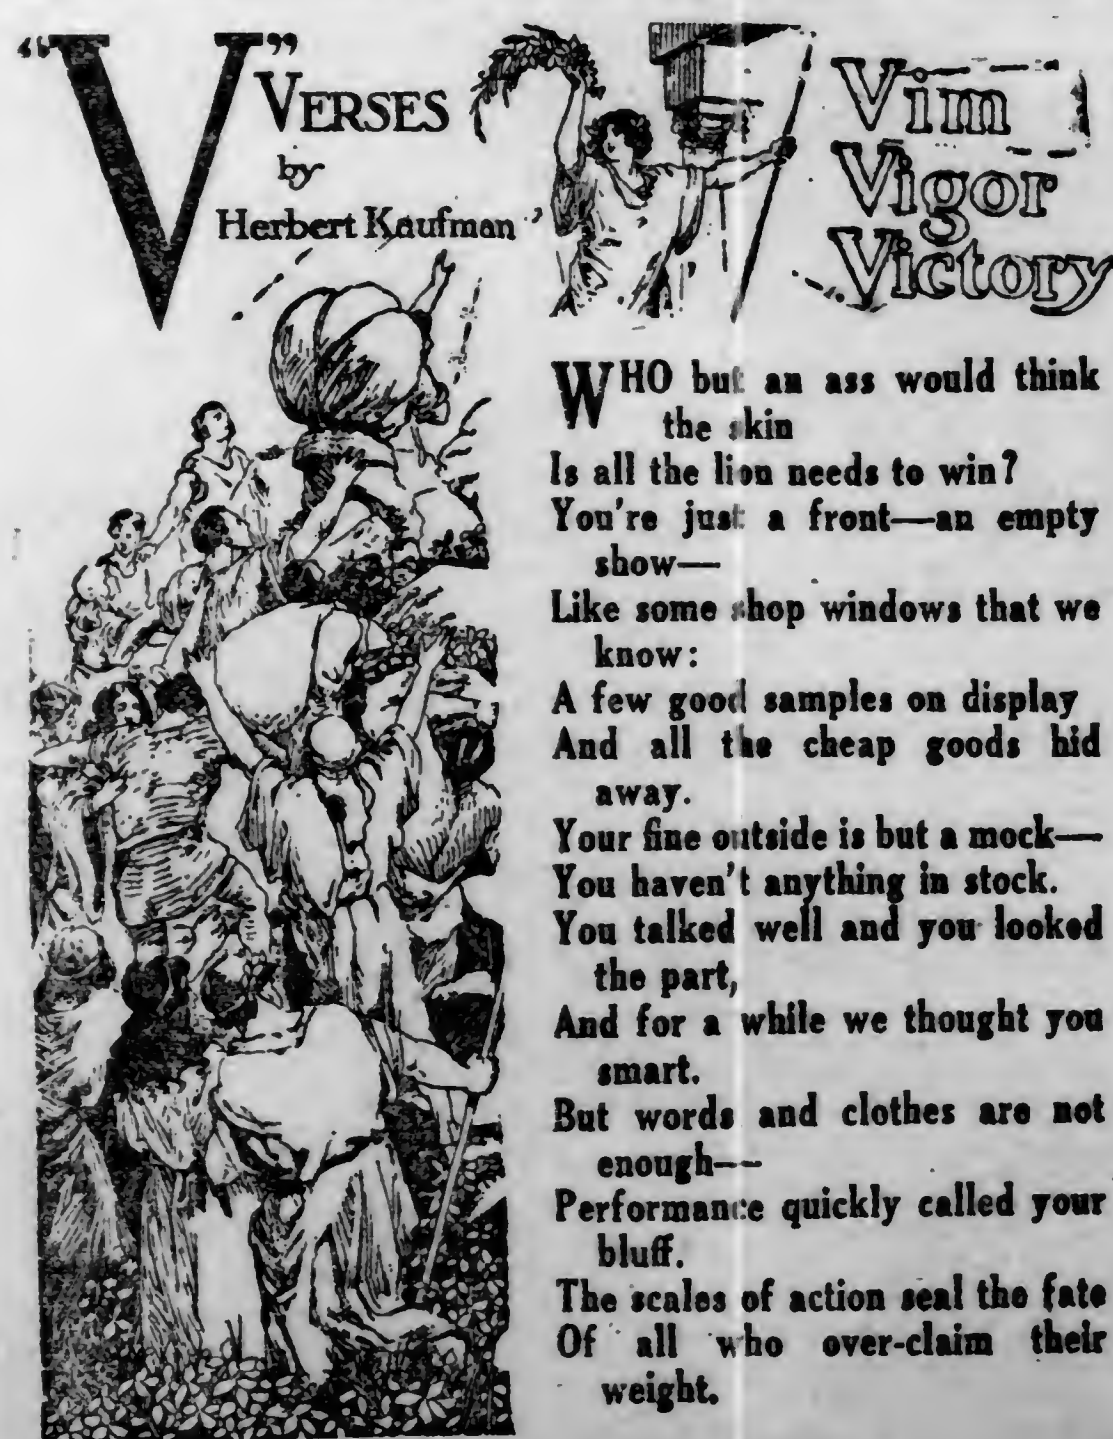

Privileges and inherited might are dying to Krupp music—the insurance rate on thrones is mounting by the minute.

The Open Game will soon be universal. Where kings are not MEN, men are supplanting kings.

"Once upon a time" cowards, slackers and idlers were able to blame their derelictions to restrictions of class, education and environment—but here, at least, we stand free and equal before possibility.

You're entitled exactly to what you get nowadays and deserve all of it.

LOST—"Somewhere in Europe," a little boy. Last seen, stumbling through the snow. Wore a flour sack and was without hat, coat or shoes. Has formed the habit of prowling around garbage pails and is known to sleep in pig-sties. One of "the children for whose sake we draw the sword." His name is Legion.

WHO but an ass would think the skin
Is all the lion needs to win?
You're just a front—an empty show—
Like some shop windows that we know:
A few good samples on display
And all the cheap goods hid away.
Your fine outside is but a mock—
You haven't anything in stock.
You talked well and you looked the part,
And for a while we thought you smart.
But words and clothes are not enough—
Performance quickly called your bluff.
The scales of action seal the fate
Of all who over-claim their weight.

Nature's New Hired Man.

YOU'RE getting better oranges since advertising began to jog Nature into more careful ways. When the growers undertook to exploit private brands they had to adopt brand-new methods. It was first necessary to produce uniform oranges—ones that would run true to type and flavor, year in and year out.

They had to raise better and harder goods or their publicity would have been empty talk—which doesn't bring orders.

Advertising leads you to expect better values—it trains you to look for the same thing the next time and forces the producer to have it the same each time.

You've had finer apples, grapefruit and pineapples since advertising entered the ranches. Growers who insist upon your demanding certain varieties must market superior fruit. It doesn't pay to leave a bitter taste in the purchaser's memory.

The New Business Conscience.

IT isn't a conscience at all, but a profitable policy. The man who seeks credit for the proper treatment of his employees is trying to collect interest in and on a shrewd investment.

People grow dull and torpid in an unpleasant, depressing atmosphere, and can't accomplish as much as when their health is safeguarded and their environment is stimulating.

Sunlight is golden with dividends. Well ventilated shops, dust collectors, accident preventers, competent sanitary facilities, rest rooms and reasonable hours may indicate kind-hearted employers, but more frequently hard-headed ones.

Cared-for tools outlast neglected ones. Enthusiasm is cheap at the price of decent surroundings. It costs less to keep men and women interested in their work than in their grievances.

The Smallness of Greatness.

THE last person to encourage a new idea is the individual who is profiting through an old one. Some men cease to be great as soon as they attain greatness. Success makes them vain and narrow-minded bigots, interested solely in their own notions and unable to spell "idea" except with a capital "I."

The bandmaster at the head of the procession always attempts to drown the music behind him. It is difficult to get a fair hearing from those who detect, in another's ability, the discount of their own importance.

Nones so little feel the need of further exploration as those who have just discovered continents of their own.
Comte, in the apogee of his fame, predicted that human reasoning would never discover the composition of the stars, which, within ten years of his declaration, was disclosed by Bunsen's spectroscopic.

ALEXANDER PHILIPSON.

("The Low-Brow on Olympus")

OLD PHILIP, the ruler of Macedon, had a son, Alexander—one fine, strapping lad. Kings worked for their wages in that distant day. They had to deliver the good or passay. The satraps who managed to hold to their jobs wore hardware, instead of gold hats, on their knobs. No semi-chained joker, with number 12 neck, could pass for a king in the ancient Greek deck. As Homer would say, "Glad to meet you—good-by, We are saving this throne for a regular guy."

Thebes, Tyre, Miletus, in turn sicked their princes on Alex, and he made the bunch look like quinces. The foremen of Persia and Ind raised their slogans of battle against him and then licked his brogans, Till the banks of the Nile and the shores of the Ganges Were lined with the loot of his bronze-shod phalanges.

Now, the ancients were great folk to ponder and fiddle Their wits on a puzzle, and many a riddle The old Greeks invented—some harder than thunder. But the Gordian knot beat them all—'twas a wonder. Whoever untied it, so ran the tradition, Would bring the whole world to his feet in submission.

Philosophers, sages and emperors tried it, The soldier, the trader, the priest—none untied it. "By the gods, there is one way with this knot to deal. "The riddle is plain and the answer is steel. "Who conquers all kings must prevail with the sword," Alexander exclaimed as he slashed through the cord.

Moral:

"No man who meant to do a lot Was ever thwarted by a not."

Repair Shops and Garbage Plants.

BECAUSE you probably belong in jail and may yet serve your stretch, prison reform deserves your close attention.

Nine out of ten men can't face Judge Conscience and escape sentence.

Most of us have, in degree, broken some of the laws and committed a few of the crimes for which the average "zebra" wears his stripes.

Do you mean to say that you never took part in a stone battle, raided an orchard, or "discovered" a quarter on circus day?

Are you willing to submit every transaction of your business career to the district attorney's office?

And how about the "almos"—what and where would you be today if lucky circumstance and self-control had not served you?

Half the inmates of our penitentiaries were no worse, at the time of their commitment, than the run of the outside community.

They were caught. Luck stood against them. They couldn't hold their tempers. They over-played weak hands. Some were merely mischievous boys who didn't run fast enough after the lamp was broken. Some threw a stone too straight.

Of course, there are "congenital" criminals. But that's just another name for defectives. They had bad parents or weak ones. They lived in terrible neighborhoods. They chose the wrong grandfathers. They're paying for the debaucheries and diseases of dead men. A lot of them belong in the hospital—a percentage in the insane asylums.

But there are thousands of poor devils damned to the cells by a single flaw of judgment, and thousands more of hot heads whom God didn't equip with quick enough brakes.

We can use nine-tenths of 'em over again.

The State can ill afford to lose the utility of a single man. Society is poorly served by a system of officialized revenge. It's unintelligent to eliminate any citizen from our calculations until we have demonstrated his congenital or confirmed unfitness for further communal service.

Year after year we reduce multitudes of possibly splendid fellows to garbage. Hosts of 'em aren't a bit worse than we are—in fact, eager and anxious to be better. They've had their lesson, experience has alloyed their temper.

We need a dozen repair shops to one penitentiary. Salvage is good business; reclamation, a profitable as well as humane process.

It's asinine to junk a machine until we've tried to tinker it into shape, and a human being is entitled to an equal chance for readjustment, before he is condemned to the scrap heap.

THE STARS OF THE AUTO SHOW

The cars and dealers represented on this page were among the many exhibitors during show week. Each drew its share of the crowds and received many comments on their displays and offerings. If you did not decide which car you wanted while at the show, it will pay you to look carefully at each advertisement and write or call for representative to give you a demonstration. Now is the time to buy. Why delay?

HERALD'S WEEKLY ROADS BUREAU AND BULLETIN

Washington, Feb. 19.—Evidence accumulates that the Adamson bill will find a generous support in congress, to an extent that will insure its passage within a few weeks.

Exactly this measure championed by the American Automobile association provides that a home state registration number will take its possessor to all parts of the United States for whatever period the motorist may select. Representative William C. Adamson of Georgia, who fathers the bill, is the chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, and he has received assurances of approval from members who hail from all parts of the country.

Senator Dupont and Representative Miller of Delaware have no hesitancy in going on record in favor of the bill. Senator Nelson of Minnesota informs his motoring constituents that he does not know of any reason why he should not favor the measure, and Representative Van Dyke comments that he has read the bill and is quite willing to vote for it.

Representative Kreider of Pennsylvania says that he is heartily in favor, and Representative Bailey of the same state expresses full sympathy with a plan which seeks to make the interstate use of automobiles less vexatious than it is under present practices.

Representative Sparkman of Florida thinks the measure timely and says that he will support it.

Representative Pratt of New York considers the proposed legislation entirely proper, for it only duplicates the attitude of the Empire state, which offers reciprocity to all other states for 365 days or any part of the year.

Representative Sherwood of Ohio believes in the merit of the bill and thinks it should become a law.

Representative Stephens of Nebraska says that the bill will have his favorable consideration.

Representatives Foss and Sterling of Illinois express similar sentiments. Representatives Sutherland and Neely of West Virginia both realize the value of undisturbed interstate road commerce.

Washington, D. C.—The Shackelford good roads bill, carrying an appropriation of $25,000,000 to aid the states in improving their post roads has passed the house. The appropriation is made in three ways. First, each state is awarded $65,000 arbitrarily; next, 50 per cent of the remainder is distributed to the individual states, according to the mileage of the rural mail routes and star mail routes; the remaining part of the fund is distributed proportionately to the population of the respective states. The construction and maintenance of roads built under provisions of this bill will be under the joint supervision of the secretary of agriculture and the state highway departments of the several states. If there is no highway department then the governor acts for the state. The next requirement is that the money shall be "economically invested." The secretary of agriculture would determine what roads would have federal aid, specifying where the roads shall be built. If the secretary of agriculture decides that the state authorities have been wasteful in the building of any road, that a road has cost more than it should have, then under the bill he has the power to give the state authorities only so much as the road ought to have cost.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The city cannot compel the street railway company to pave some parts of its tracks under the ordinance of July 11, 1912, according to a decision rendered by Judge Eschweiler. The question at issue was whether the ordinance passed in 1912 authorizing the extension of the street railway on Sixth avenue south from Greenfield avenue should be construed as carrying with the obligation to pave between the tracks in accordance with an ordinance passed May 23, 1905. The court held that the later ordinance, under which the action was brought, did not include the provisions of the 1905 ordinance and contained no

Augusta, Me.—A plan to have the principal trunk highway of every town in the state patrolled is now being worked out by the Maine state highway commission, and if the project can be carried into effect it will mean that an army of 500 patrolmen will spend their entire time on Maine's principal highways from early spring until late in the fall, keeping them in the best possible condition. Where state highways run through a town the patrolmen will devote their time to keeping these in shape, but where there are no state highways the principal artery of traffic will be designated to receive the patrolling. This plan, if successfully carried out, will mean the rehabilitation of hundreds of miles of highways now rapidly going to pieces for lack of maintenance.

Nashville, Tenn.—Three good roads institutes, or conferences of road officials are to be held in Tennessee during the month of February. The first will be held at Knoxville, Feb. 16 to 18, the second at Nashville, Feb. 22 to 24, and the third at Jackson, Feb. 29 to March 3. The conferences will be held under the direction of the state department of highways, with the cooperation of the University of Tennessee and the United States office of public roads. Each county in the section of the state in which the conference is held is urged to send at least one road official to the conference and as many others as can attend.

Chicago, Ill.—The new $425,000 Jackson boulevard bridge is open for traffic after many unforeseen delays. Traffic congestion on the adjacent streets has been greatly relieved. The old swing bridge was removed and has been replaced by the modern bascule bridge by the sanitary district of Chicago under the act of the general assembly of the state, empowering the district to remove obstructions from the Chicago river.

Sheboygan, Wis.—The state highway, known as the Cedar Grove-Random Lake road, and formerly as the old Amsterdam road, in the town of Holland, this county, settled sixteen and one-half feet in a few days for a distance of 130 feet, where it crosses what is known as the neck of the "Big Pocket" swamp.

AIDS EMPLOYEES TO BECOME CITIZENS

Packard Company Offers to Pay Fees for First Papers.

The Packard Motor Car company has announced that it will pay the fees required of any of its alien employees who may desire to take out first papers toward American citizenship. This follows the announcement made Jan. 31, to the effect that only American citizens or those of foreign birth who have relinquished their foreign citizenship and who have filed their applications for citizenship, will be given promotions to positions of importance, and that loyalty to the United States is a prerequisite to employment.

Practically every man of foreign birth who stands in the line of men, to be seen any day seeking employment at the Packard plant, has his first papers tightly clutched in his hand. This fact shows that even those who have not yet mastered the language, have thoroughly learned the meaning of the new Packard policy.

The company offers practical help in training foreign-born employees to become citizens. One class in English for foreigners is being conducted several nights a week at the factory, and two more classes are in preparation. Two welfare department men are studying the best method of teaching English, so as to be able to qualify as instructors.

Practical sentences, that will be of use in his citizenship examination, are being taught right at the start. "Landing is the capital of Michigan," was the sentence taught at the last meeting of the class.

COMBINATION OF UNIQUE FEATURES

An aeroplane propeller, automobile engine and ice boat frame is the unique combination of features arranged by Edsel Ford, secretary of the Ford Motor company, in a craft designed as an ice boat speedster.

A Ford motor supplies the propelling power and, as will be seen in the photographs, the engine is cranked from the rear end of the frame, the driver facing the radiator.

The craft is strongly built and simple in design. It has proven fully up to anticipated performance in point of speed, showing better than seventy miles an hour on the average.

NOTES FROM THE FACTORIES

Through Paul Smith, vice president of the Chalmers selling division, announcement was made yesterday confirming the appointment of Frank B. Willis as sales manager of the Chalmers Motor company.

Mr. Willis has been connected with the Chalmers sales force during the last year and a half, in which period he has been instrumental in developing new sales territory and increasing dealer representation.

Previous to joining the Chalmers company, Mr. Willis was connected with the Packard and Studebaker companies, having been Packard dealer in Indianapolis in 1907 and 1908. He has an acquaintance among motor car dealers from coast to coast and is one of the most popular men in the industry.

Indicative of the remarkable progress of the automobile business is the January record of orders just announced by the Saxon Motor Car company. In the month just closed this company received orders for 6,792 cars for immediate shipment.

This breaks all previous Saxon records, the total number of orders received in January being more than double that of the best previous month last May, when 2,318 were received. The showing is considered all the more remarkable when it is remembered that January is a winter month—ordinarily a dull period—while the best previous month was in the heart of the spring-selling season.

New buildings under construction at the plant of Dodge Bros., Detroit, will bring the total amount of floor space to approximately sixty and one-half acres. This will make the establishment one of the largest motor car plants in the world.

The buildings are of steel, concrete and brick and constructed along latest engineering plans with ample light and ventilation.

Modern testing machinery has made it unnecessary for automobile factories to test their cars on the highways. This eliminates one of the most interesting characters around automobile factories, namely the road-tester. With the passing of the road-testers goes the school for race drivers. The road-test department at the National automobile factory at Indianapolis has the distinction of developing more prominent automobile race drivers than any similar department or establishment.

MORE than 100 of the greatest mechanical engineers in America have purchased New Mitchells for their own use. They have endorsed the New Mitchell by the most convincing method of endorsement—buying them. They picked the New Mitchell from the entire field of motor cars, because they found it nearer perfect mechanically than any car on the market.

They say it is the easiest riding car in the world; the easiest car to drive; the simplest in construction. They say the Mitchell Lewis Company has completed the next step in the evolution of the automobile by building an extremely light car with better riding qualities than the heaviest models.

They say the New Mitchell is not a one-feature car, depending upon a certain type of motor or body design to attract the attention of the buying public—it is the combined efficiency of every part that appeals to the discriminating purchaser.

Bring a mechanical expert with you when you call. Ask him to examine carefully this car. He will tell you just what the 100 mechanical experts decided for themselves—that the New Mitchell is the most efficient and the nearest perfect mechanically of any car he has yet seen.

This car has been on the market seven months. There are thousands of them in use. There is no question of their ability to stand up. They are a proven success.

Not only were National race drivers "brought up" in the National road test, but many of the drivers who have become prominent with other makes received their early automobile education in this department at the National factories.

An idea of the extent to which the factory inspection is carried on in big motor car plants can be gained from the statement that the Chalmers company yearly spends $200,000 on its inspection department. There are 300 men on the Chalmers pay roll who devote their time exclusively to this kind of work and their services range from inspecting raw materials to the examination of the finished product. Until their "O. K." has been placed on the various metals and parts of the car, it is not allowed to pass from one department to another.

The calendar year ended Dec. 31, 1915, marked the largest in volume of business in the history of the Cadillac Motor Car company. The manufacture and distribution during that period reached the impressive total of 20,195 of the eight-cylinder cars, aggregating in retail sales value more than $45,000,000.

"January was the biggest month in the history of the Saxon company from the standpoint of orders received," states H. W. Ford, president and general manager of the Saxon Motor Car company. "It ran ahead of our best previous months, which were last May and June, right in the heart of the selling season, by over 50 per cent. Yet judging from present conditions February will shatter even this high record."

All the large successful automobile manufacturers built large additions to their present factory facilities during 1915. The Willis-Overland led with an added floor space of 1,765,840 square feet, with the Packard, Reo and Dodge following in value. Characteristically large quantities, Maxwell cars for domination trade, Canada dealers have been heretofore supplied from Detroit. The Windsor city council donated a site for the plant.

The Maxwell Motor company of Canada has begun construction of a large factory building at Windsor, Ont., where it will build in characteristically large quantities. Maxwell cars for domination trade, Canada dealers have been heretofore supplied from Detroit. The Windsor city council donated a site for the plant.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 19.—Rumors that the Olds Motor works would curtail the production of its celebrated overhead valve four-cylinder model, because of the tremendous popular reception accorded its new eight, have been branded as untrue by officials of the company.

When the last freight train pulled out of the big Overland yards on Jan. 31, it was found that a new shipping record had been established by the Willis-Overland company. Exactly 722 automobiles had been shipped during this day.

SALES INCREASE AS PRICE GOES UP

Buyers Secure Chalmers Before Advance Takes Effect.

"Following the recent announcement of an increase of $100 in the price of the Chalmers Six-40, we have disposed of more cars of this model during the last month than in any like month in our history," said E. J. Filiault, president of the Mutual Auto company, Chalmers distributors for northern Wisconsin and Minnesota, yesterday. "Our record sales of the Six-40 have been due in great measure to the anxiety of buyers to take advantage of the fact that the $100 raise does not take effect until March 1. All orders received up to midnight, Feb. 29, will be at the old figure, $1,350. On and after March 1 the Six-40 will sell at $1,450. The increase in price has been made by the big jump in the cost of raw materials. Practically every metal and bit of leather that goes into our car, costs from two to five times as much today as it did just a year ago. Chalmers engineers refused to sacrifice our present quality standards in order to maintain the old price, and the increase was therefore ordered to take effect.

"Probably our biggest selling feature in connection with the Six-40 car, is the powerful motor with its overhead valve and overhead camshaft design. The performance of stock and racing cars equipped with this style of motor during the past year has firmly established its reputation for all round service.

"In addition to the standard seven-passenger touring car, the Chalmers company builds the Six-40 in a three-passenger roadster style and a three-passenger physician's Stanhope. The new Stanhope is an ideal car for doctors and other professional men who demand a light, powerful closed car which will carry them in comfort in all kinds of weather. By abolishing unwieldy tops and substituting a beautifully designed black hand-dipped leather enclosed top with clear vision windshield, all squawks and rattles have been eliminated. The physician at last has a car that is as suitable for the snowy and sleety winter as during the fine days of summer."

MAXWELL DRIVER MAKES DARING RUN

Goes Over Mountain Peaks Covered With Glare Ice.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 19.—With the peaks of the Alleghenies covered by a glare of ice, and the hollows full of drifted snow, Ray McNamara, in a 25-horsepower Maxwell, has amazed all Pennsylvania motorists by driving from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh—234 miles—in 8 hours 19 minutes.

The former record, set last June by J. G. Vincent in a high-powered 12-cylinder car, was 9 hours 29 minutes. McNamara's run was thoroughly checked by newspaper men at both ends and at York, Bedford and Ligonier along the route.

McNamara was accompanied by R. F. Durham, who had shipped as relief driver. The hero of four trans-continental trips remained at the wheel for the whole distance, however, Durham watching the speedometer and sounding the alarm horn.

Among other records held by McNamara in the Maxwell are the fastest performance between Detroit and Indianapolis, and between Chicago and Cleveland.

WILLIS MAKES GOOD ON HIS PREDICTION

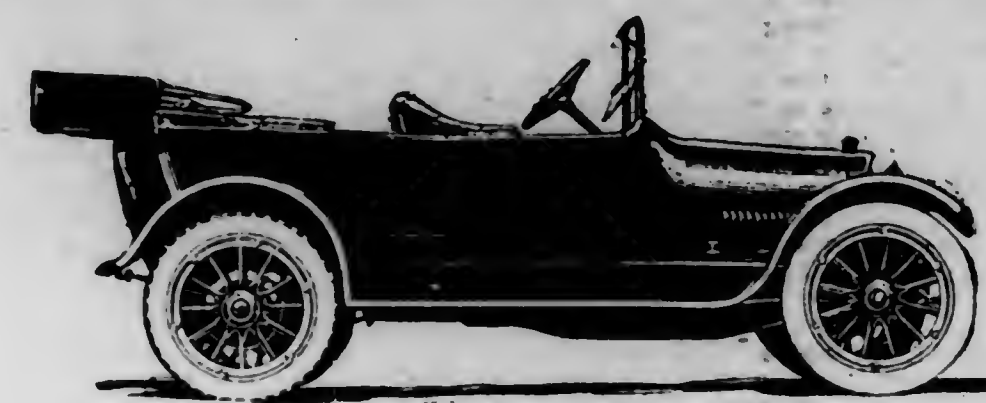

Overland Factory Quadruples Its Output in One Year.

Just a year ago, during the automobile show in New York, John N. Willis, president of the Willis-Overland company, made a prediction to the effect that before another year had expired the Overland factory would be shipping 600 cars a day.

At that time the Toledo plant was setting the pace for all motor car manufacturers exhibiting at the show. Its daily output was averaging around 150 cars, but even though its growth had been phenomenal, few outside of Mr. Willis and his closest associates believed it possible to quadruple its production during 1915.

However, by the end of May the factory was turning out 300 cars a day and from that time on new shipping records were almost of daily occurrence. By July the average had climbed to the 400 mark and before the end of August it had reached the 500 mark. On Sept. 29 the factory fulfilled the prediction of its president when it was found that 607 cars had been shipped during the day.

With three months to spare, John N. Willis had accomplished a manufacturing feat which was considered a physical impossibility by most of his advisers. Not only did he make good on his 600-car a day program, but he increased the manufacturing facilities of the plant so that it is now possible to build 1,000 machines every twenty-four hours at the big Toledo factory.

Some of the new buildings erected during the last year at the Overland more than equal the size of the average American automobile plant. One of the structures alone contains twenty acres of floor space and is nearly three times the size of the original factory when taken over by Mr. Willis. This building is 400 feet wide, 400 feet deep and five stories high and is said to be the largest and best-equipped factory building in the world devoted exclusively to automobile making.

AUTO SHOWS HAVE GREAT INFLUENCE

Act as Clearing House for Designers, Says Haynes Agent.

"The influence of the annual national automobile shows is further reaching than is commonly believed or even admitted throughout industry," stated M.

W. Turner, distributor in this territory for the Haynes America's first car, in answer to the inquiry of why the automobile and accessory manufacturers go to the enormous expense of supporting the various automobile shows.

"The individual dealer is affected as much as is the single designer and manufacturer. In a general way, the shows form a veritable clearing house for designers. They have a very decided tendency to dictate the designs for the coming season, and they are accepted as authoritative even as are the creations of the Parisian designers of gowns.

"The comparison of the various models on exhibit means much to the far-sighted engineer. It takes but little study to grasp the full importance of the prevailing undercurrent. The tendency of the industry is toward standardization of parts insofar as actual measurements are concerned. Even with such standardization, there is ample room for individual designing as is evidenced in the outward appearance of motors and bodies.

"Since the automobile is no longer regarded as a mere luxury, the business of selling an automobile is being reduced to a logical basis. Time was when all cars were sold more or less during a man's enthusiasm of desire for a car."

STIFF WORK FOR CADILLAC STUDENTS

Going to school in overalls, working hard in class, and ending the course with an examination, including a drive of the automobile—this is an experience no boy's school days ever included, but it is what happens as a regular thing to the service men's class at the Cadillac plant in Detroit.

A standard Cadillac eight is the subject on which the students are instructed. The school is made up of the service men employed by Cadillac dealers all over the country, and Cadillac owners are the chief beneficiaries of the instruction they receive while in charge of the factory expert.

No more than eight men are taken in a class, the company believing that proper individual instruction cannot be given to a greater number at one time. The course covers a period of two weeks. The first work is to take down the car completely. Body and fenders come off, and the chassis is taken apart to the last bolt and nut. Then begins the work of reassembling, and as this progresses, particular attention is given to the various adjustments. Special instruction is given on the electrical system and an insight into Cadillac manufacturing methods is afforded by a trip through every department of the plant.

MOTORIZING ONLY SPORT FOR PRINCE

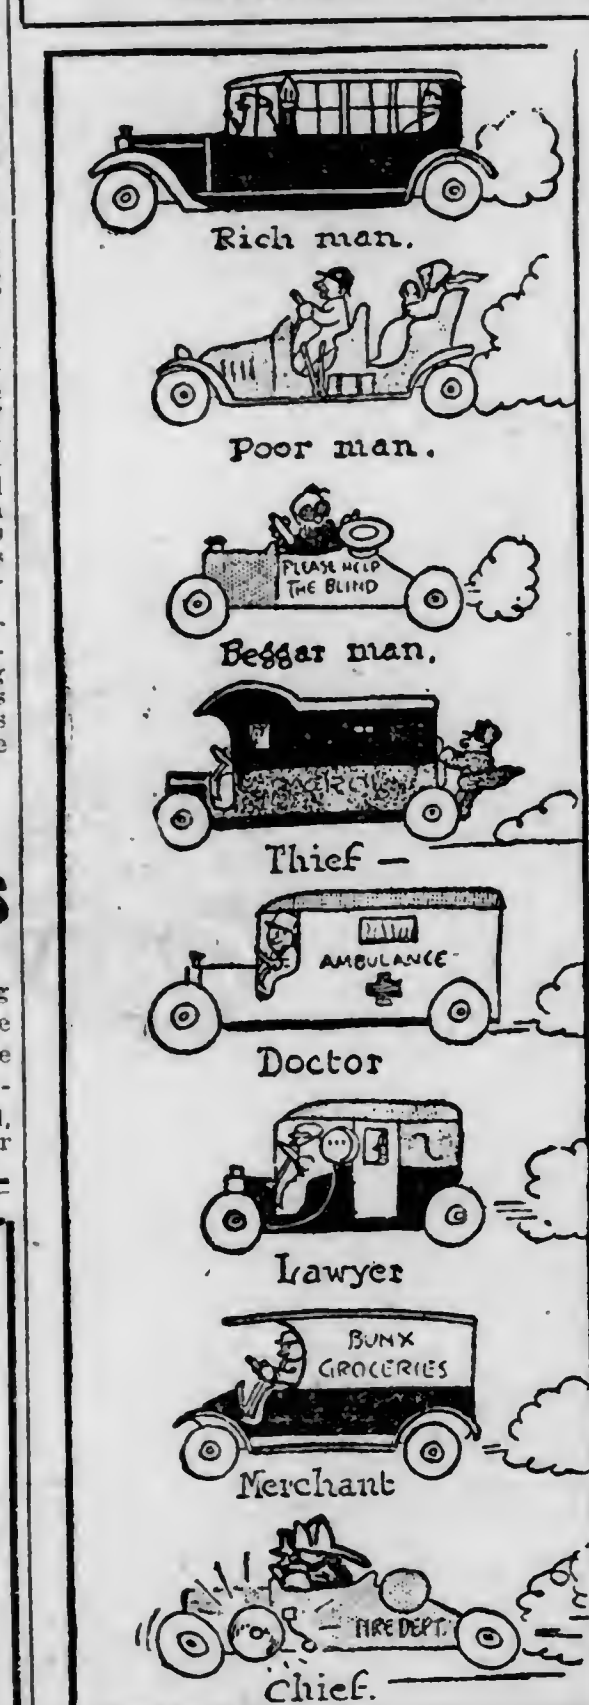

Sculptor of Russian Nobility Discusses His Auto Experience.

Prince Paul Troubetzkoy, member of the Russian nobility and world-famous as a sculptor, claims that his only real recreation during the last ten years has been derived from motoring. Prince Troubetzkoy is paying Detroit a month's visit in connection with an exhibition of his works at the Detroit museum of art.

"My experience with motor cars dates back to the days when they were still in an experimental stage and driving with me has always been one of my favorite pastimes," said Prince Troubetzkoy, recently.

"I have owned at various times, cars of every well-known European make, but I did not discover the really comfortable car until I came to America.

You know a tall man ought to have plenty of room in the front compartment of his car, especially if he does his own driving. Having seldom employed a chauffeur, I was determined to find a car with a comfortable driving position. Three years ago I purchased a Chalmers car, mainly because of this feature. I have since bought two others and they have given me the keenest sort of satisfaction.

"Another thing I have discovered is that your cars are built to withstand the severe tests imposed upon them by the rough cross-country travel. In Europe, where the roads are uniformly good, almost any car will give good service, but the American maker has found it absolutely necessary to build strength into his car to insure longevity."

FRANKLIN DRIVER MAKES GOOD RUN

What probably is the most consistent road performance that any car ever made between Jersey City and Baltimore was made when W. F. This time included a stop of 1

HOUSE FOR FIRE VICTIM

Duluth Company Offers 1,000 Feet of Lumber to Gust Mackyol.

Material to be used in building a new house is being offered Gust Mackyol. Robert E. Carroll, manager of the Duluth Lumber company, announced yesterday that his concern will give Mackyol 1,000 feet of lumber to begin rebuilding his house at Park Point, which was destroyed by fire last Monday evening, when his two children, Adeline and Frederick, perished in the flames. About 15,000 feet of lumber is needed to build the structure, it is estimated.

"We will turn the lumber over to Mr. Mackyol at any time he is ready," said Mr. Carroll yesterday. "Doubtless there are other dealers who will gladly help Mr. Mackyol with contributions of lumber and building supplies."

AVIATION SERVICE ROUNDLY SCORED

Senator Robinson Demands Investigation By Congress.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Sensational charges against the army aviation service with a demand for immediate investigation by congress, were made yesterday before the senate military committee by Senator Robinson of Arkansas. He declared that the service was "contemptibly inefficient," and that its head, Lieut. Col. Samuel Reber, not only was making no effort to improve it, but deliberately was preventing the facts from reaching his superiors.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT IS UNSUCCESSFUL

Anthony J. Henricksen Swallows Sulphuric Acid in Brother's Store.

Anthony J. Henricksen, 37, will recover from the effects of sulphuric acid, which he drank in a suicide attempt yesterday afternoon.

Attendants at St. Luke's hospital, where he was taken immediately after his attempt shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday, said this morning that his condition is much improved and his recovery is expected within a few days. None of the acid, it is believed, reached his stomach, although his mouth, throat and face were slightly burned.

SERVICE TO HERALD READERS.

Anyone interested in the purchase of a 1916 automobile can get information about the various makes and the local dealers by writing to the automobile department of The Herald. If you are interested in any machine, The Herald will tell you where to buy. The Herald is the recognized medium between buyer and dealer in the Northwest.

Duluth automobile dealers are now reaping the harvest of the automobile show.

Practically every dealer in the city reports business as the best in many months, with inquiries constantly coming in from persons who attended the show.

The executive committee of the Duluth Automobile Dealers association met Thursday afternoon and authorized the payment of all bills contracted during show week. A final adjustment of the finances was made and adjournment taken until next year.

Here is a story that is going the rounds: A prominent society woman of Duluth spent a rainy evening at the auto show last week and local agents, believing her a good prospect, spent considerable time showing her their machines.

Last Monday several of the agents called her up, inquiring whether she had yet decided on a car.

"Not yet," she told them.

One of the dealers, more persistent than the others, wanted to know if any particular car interested her, hoping, of course, that she would name his machine.

"Oh yes," she replied.

"The Ford," he asked, eagerly.

"The Ford," he asked, eagerly.

And he hung up.

It is rumored that the Pierce-Arrow and Pathfinder cars will be taken over shortly by new agencies.

John M. Ford expects four Wintons, including a limousine, and three Mitchells next week.

Thirty Maxwells, all sold during the show, arrived this week and were distributed by the Knudsen agency.

J. S. Sneve reports the sale of three Packards this week.

COUNTY FIRE LOSSES HAVE BIG DECREASE DURING PAST YEAR

Fire losses in St. Louis county during 1915 were $110,000 less than in 1914, according to the annual report of State Fire Marshal Hargadine, received today. There were 101 fires in the county, outside of the incorporated cities and villages, last year, as compared to 269 fires in 1914.

Following is the fire marshal's report: "St. Louis county ranks among those in Minnesota whose fire loss during the year ended Dec. 31, 1915, was considerably reduced as compared with the previous year. During the twelve-month period covered by the report there were 101 fires with an aggregate loss of $220,450. In the corresponding period in 1914 there were 269 fires and the loss aggregated $330,450."

"This is an appreciable situation and shows beyond a doubt that the people of St. Louis county are awake to the necessity of fire prevention. There is no doubt that the loss would have been considerably greater if the individual householders had not taken proper precautions for safeguarding their property, by eliminating the rubbish heap, keeping gasoline and other inflammable materials in their proper places and being ever watchful of the interests of the community in general in the prevention of fires."

NO CASE AGAINST THE EASTLAND MEN

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 19.—Holding that the government had failed to make out a case against the six men indicted in connection with the steamship Eastland disaster in Chicago last July, Judge Clarence W. Sessions, in the United States district court here yesterday afternoon handed down a decision denying the government's application for the removal of the accused persons to the jurisdiction of the federal court for the northern district of Illinois.

By the terms of the decision the indictments against G. T. Arnold, William Hill, Robert Reid, Charles C. Bolfe, Harry Pedersen, and Joseph M. Erickson, are held insufficient so far as they can be applied to hold

NICARAGUAN TREATY RATIFIED BY SENATE

Washington, Feb. 19.—The senate late yesterday, by a vote of 55 to 13, ratified the long pending and persistently opposed Nicaraguan treaty, whereby the United States would acquire a 99-year option on the Nicaraguan canal route and a naval base in the Gulf of Fonseca for $2,000,000. Included in the ratification resolution was a provision declaring that the United States, in obtaining the naval base, does not intend to violate any existing rights in the Fonseca gulf, of Costa Rica, Honduras and Salvador, which had protested against the proposed acquisition.

Inexpensive to Run and Easy to Drive—the New 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers

The mist of gasoline that whirls through the tiny perforation in the carburetor jet of the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers, rushes into action that has changed the whole aspect of automobile engineering.

The conditions surrounding the manner in which its dormant energy is awakened, brought to life, and compelled to perform, explain the strange ability of this new car.

The six cylinders of its engine are small—3½ by 4½ inches. The small area from which heat can be thrown away by radiation, reinforced by the incredibly short cooling process between the swift succession of its explosions, create maximum energy with minimum waste.

"Make her perform," said Hugh Chalmers to his engineers. "Get acceleration, long mileage on gas, activity."

The result—18 miles for every gallon of gas, anything up to 60 miles an hour, and supremacy of pick-up. 3400 revolutions per minute means that every gram of energy is wrung from every drop of gasoline that is inhaled by the powerful suction of the motor pistons.

It means that when, at the point of highest pressure, a spark from the distributor ignites the oxygen of the air with the carbon of the gasoline, every mechanical condition is such that loss of energy is cut down to the lowest possible degree.

It means that the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers gets twice the mileage on gas that many another high-speed engine will deliver.

The speed of its uncanny carburetion makes flight satin-smooth by bringing the explosions of gas so close together that you are unconscious of anything but an uninterrupted stream of might.

Unlike cars of superfluous might, the 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers has a pick-up so flexible that it's the first to make its get-away at the crossings, and the last to take another car's exhaust.

It's a cheap car to run and an easy car to drive.

RECRUITING SPORT THOUGHT FOR AN ASSAULT ON OLD SUBSCRIBERS

Duluth's Ski Tourney Will Have Some of the West's Greatest Riders as Contestants—Northwestern's Basketball Team Is Leading Western Conference Race—Hurrah!—Paragraph Comment.

BY BRUCE.

ASSEMBLE, citizens, and assist in making the tourney of the Duluth Ski Club a genuine success. This is not a call to the cudgels—merely a hint for a sport that has thrived excessively in the past and but indifferently in the latter years. It would appear to the casual observer that there must be a successful tournament staged this year to keep the sport alive. Once the greatest ski center of the United States, and famed throughout a wide stretch of territory for its ski meets, Duluth must put over a big tournament to regain some of the prestige she has lost in this regard during the last few years.

Judging from the high class riders who have already entered the meet that is to be held on the famous old Chester Park hill tomorrow, this year's tournament is going to be much better than the one of last year or any staged during the last five years. Directors and members of the club have labored like the unshrinking Trojan in the effort to make the meet a real success. Patronage from the public is surely needed to crown the efforts of those who have unselfishly labored to keep Duluth on the ski map. Should the tournament to be staged tomorrow prove a financial failure, blame could hardly be attached to those refusing to display an enthusiastic interest in future efforts to stage a tournament.

With both the professional and amateur champion jumpers entered in the Duluth meet, interest should be present in large volume. In addition to Hall and Anders Olsen, heading the professional and amateur classes, there will be a large number of the best riders in the West. Directors of the Duluth Ski association claim that the thaw will increase the speed of the riders, rather than interfere with the success of the meet. Without a head wind to bother the jumpers, some of the directors believe a new record for the hill will be set.

Roads will be cleared to the ground and accommodations have already been arranged for spectators. The club house will be open and warming places have already been provided. The snow has been shoveled away from the base of the ski and paths have been made to the bleacher seats and up the hillside to the seats opposite the takeoff.

Sunday's card bears the radiant promise of some fine sport, and if interest in the ski game is anything like it was in the seasons past, there will be a huge crowd out to witness the afternoon's contest.

What Do You Know About This?

Duluth bill collectors declare that all the old settlers of this city do not belong to the association.

Give the Boys a Chance.

Langford and McVey have only fought eleven times. But they are both comparatively young men as yet.

Here Is a Chance to Boast.

Northwestern's basketball team is leading the conference race. This isn't a fairy story and there is no puzzle connected with it—it's the truth. In some manner and in some mysterious way, Northwestern is for the moment supreme in a certain branch of athletics.

Upon contemplating this strange condition of Northwestern's athletic affairs, one is prone to speculate as to how the students will act, how this new prosperity will affect the school, and whether the players will be able to keep their heads through it all.

Every once in a while we read of some man, who has been poor and hard pressed by grim and unkind fate since the tender years of blooming youth, inheriting a huge sum of filthy money. In some cases the mottled life of the beneficiary of sudden and sudden wealth is turned topsy turvy and he runs financially amuck, buying special trains, inflating the revenue of wine companies, and buying automobiles by the gross; in some cases even going so far and becoming so prominent as to cultivate the acquaintance of a head waiter.

Will Northwestern lose its bearing? Will the students forget the grim retrospect of the bleak years, and go on an athletic debauch? How jealous, too, must the students of Indiana be! Coming down to local conditions, how will Northwestern's sudden success affect friendships that have been cemented by the years?

Will Elmer Blu suddenly become so obsessed with pride that he will gaze upon Judge Fesler with an attitude approaching superciliousness, and will the good judge in turn become consumed by the fires of jealousy and sulk and waylay the chesty Blu?

On this high and glorious wave of almost unprecedented athletic prosperity, wouldn't it be the meanest trick in the whole world for the conference puritanical representatives to declare the members of the Northwestern basketball team professionals?

Permit no one to cast sneers and asperities in the direction of your school, Northwestern alumni; make the best of the win and go on an athletic orgy if you will, for no man with a heart in his breast would censure you.

CUTLER IS UNCERTAIN

Wrestler Doesn't Know Whether to Pin Faith on Gotch or Stecher.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 18.—Charley Cutler, the wrestler, who is in San Francisco, will wait until he sees Frank Gotch at the Civic auditorium, Feb. 22, before he expresses an opinion as to whether Gotch can cope with Joe Stecher.

"If Gotch is as good as he is used to be," states Cutler, "he and Stecher will make the most wonderful wrestling contest ever held. With Gotch at his best, I would not try to pick a winner. He met both Gotch and Stecher on the mat, and they're both winners."

"Sentel, or Ernst, as we know him in the East, is thoroughly capable of giving Gotch a thorough tryout. I know Sentel very well, have worked with him, and he is generally considered the best 185-pound wrestler in the world."

"The only man who even disputes Sentel's right to the 185-pound championship is Earl Caddock of Iowa, who will be remembered as the man who one time won the amateur midweight wrestling championship in San Francisco. Caddock is also a very good wrestler."

"Let me tell you something about Gotch that people in general do not know. You often read that Gotch invariably throws his men with the toe-hold."

"That is a mistake. The favorite hold of Gotch is the inside croch. The toe hold he uses merely as a stall—like a boxer uses a feint."

"Foreign wrestlers, you know, are scared to death to have their opponents touch their feet. Gotch, an American wrestler, touches his foot a foreigner will give up trying to take holds and devote his attention to freeing his foot."

"Gotch knowing this, grabs at the feet, and then, when his opponent is thinking of his foot, and is off guard, he slips his hands down like a flash and takes the inside croch. When he gets that hold it's all off with the other fellow."

"Speaking of Joe Stecher, to whom he lost within a year, Cutler knocks another popular idea in the head. "They speak and write of Stecher's great 'scissors,'" said Cutler, "yet he didn't hurt or bother me with that at all."

"Stecher is a freak. When I first saw him in the ring, the time I was going to wrestle him, I was greatly disappointed in him. He did not look formidable at all."

"The way I sized him up as he stood there looking vacantly into space was that he was a big, innocent kid who had been boosted into the belief that he was a coming champion."

"But I very soon changed my mind about that when we went the floor a couple of times and he came up pawing and shaking me off with the slow, powerful moves of a big bear."

"Stecher does not depend on the 'scissors' to throw his men. He no more depends on the 'scissors' to win, in fact, than Gotch depends on the toe hold. Stecher is strong all over. He is just as likely to throw you with his arms and hands as he is with the 'scissors.'"

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 18.—The Central high school basketball team of Duluth won from the Hibbing quintet in the armory gymnasium last night in a game so close that only one point separated the contenders at the finish. GREAT HOCKEY RACE ON IN DULUTH AMATEUR LEAGUE Teams Closely Bunched With the End of Season in Sight—Universals Defeat Bagleys and Northerns Spring Surprise By Taking Measure of Big Duluths—Competent Officials Enforce Rules of Play.

TEAM	W.	L.	P.
Northerns	4	3	.571
Big Duluths	4	3	.571
Universals	4	3	.571
Bagleys	2	6	.286

A surprise was sprung last night in the amateur hockey league by the defeat of the Big Duluths on the part of the Northerns. The game was a corker from start to finish, the hardware men humbling the clothiers by the score of 4 to 2.

While Al Swanson's Bagleys made a strenuous effort to defeat the Universals, the flourmakers came through and won from the jewelry septet by the score of 5 to 3, though the Bagleys gave the winning team a battle every foot of the journey.

Miller of Buffalo was appointed referee, while Cline of Superior was made judge of play. President Charles Horn called the players together before the start of the initial contest and told them that any rough play would be severely dealt with in the way of penalties. The game was about a pretty cleanest played this year and also about the best.

Northerns Start Fast. The Northerns got the jump on the Big Duluths and ran up a score of 3 to 1 in the first half. Gust Olson, Peterson and Bastien counted for the hardware men, while Arnie Olson shot the only goal registered by the clothiers. Bastien scored the solitary Northerns goal in the first half. The jewelry septet came back strong in the second period and scored as they rushed and a clever shot from the side. Alder took the rubber far down into the Northerns territory and then made a neat pass to Sullivan, who shot goal. This ended the scoring for both sides.

Now, the speedy center for the Bagleys, did all the scoring for his side against the Universals. He registered two goals in the first half and one in the second. All of the scores as to Universals came in the first half. The jewelry septet came back strong in the second period and scored as they rushed and a clever shot from the side. Alder took the rubber far down into the Northerns territory and then made a neat pass to Sullivan, who shot goal. This ended the scoring for both sides.

official and he was on the play every minute of both contests. Horn has been after Cline all season, and his work last evening justified the incessant effort to land him. One of the surprises of last evening was the playing of the Big Duluths. The jewelry team played a whale of a game and deserved even a closer game than the score shows.

The Race Is Very Close. Next Friday evening the Universals and Northerns will meet and the issue of this contest will be virtually out of the running. Also the Big Duluths and Bagleys will meet next Friday, and should the Bagleys come through and defeat the hardware men, the race will be in a bad way. While the Bagleys are out of the running, the jewelry team is stronger right now than at any period during the season and is likely to beat any team in the league. The lineup summary:

other man into submission more through pain than leverage. Should Gatch get a hold on Stecher it probably would mean that Stecher would be pinned, but Stecher is the more active and may be able to apply his acrobatics before Gatch can get started.

Roller, Lewis and Cutler are worthy opponents, but it does not seem likely that they can make much hardship for the Nebraska youngster. Lewis probably is the best of the three, as he is the youngest, and it is safe to presume that Lewis and Stecher will be matched shortly for another show in the Garden.

FAST TEAMS WILL MEET

Undeclared Virginia Basket Ball Quint to Play Strong Duluth Five.

One of the best basket ball games of many seasons is looked for in the contest of this evening between the strong Duluth team and the Virginia quint.

The range team has not lost a game during the present season. This splendid record is not difficult to account for when the personnel of the team is known. All of the men on the range team have played on Western college quints and have been stars. Against this truly all-star combination, Lawrence Doby, manager of the Duluth

CAN FRANK GOTCH BEAT JOE STECHER?

Does this picture look familiar, Mr. Fan? Maybe you were of the idea you would never see it again. Well, most of the rest of us were, too. But something has happened to draw the once greatest athlete in the world out of retirement. That something is Joe Stecher, a 22-year-old marvelous wrestler of Dodge, Neb. Maybe it is the pride of Gotch that has plunged the big fellow into the grind of real training. You hear some say Stecher is greater than Gotch ever was. Gotch must have heard some of these remarks. It looks as if the big Humboldt man is going to make a mighty effort to show many folks that they hold the wrong opinion. Can Stecher do it? No one can answer it. Evidently Gotch thinks he can't.

team, will pit the strongest players that could possibly be selected from the basket ball material at the head of the Duluth.

Tonight's contest will be the first big one ever played on the new arcade floor. As the floor space is one of the largest in the West and the home team is considered very fast and its members have been especially drilled at floor covering, it is believed that the game will prove very fast.

Stangle and Cummings of the Virginia team are considered stars of the first magnitude. The work of these boys will be watched with considerable interest by followers of the game. Cummings and Stangle have been sensations all season and there is reason to believe their work will keep the Duluth forwards moving.

It is expected that a large gallery will observe the play. Many Superior curlers are coming over to lend a hand in encouragement to the members of the Gates rink.

On Tuesday Merriam medal play will be held. Several Twin City rinks are expected up to try to lift the medal now in possession of the Donald West Duluth kid rink.

Association Indoor Baseball Players Vanquish Rivals By 25-to-4 Score.

The Fitwells indoor baseball team proved no match for the Y. M. C. A. indoor team last evening, the association aggregation winning by the score of 25 to 4. The heavy attack work of the association players featured the contest. The result of the game shows that the Y. M. C. The association players want to meet some of the best of the outside teams, having defeated all the teams at the head of the Lakes.

SUPERIOR WINS FROM CATHEDRALS

Superior Central's basket ball team proved too fast and too well trained for the Cathedral high quint last evening, defeating the local team by the score of 27 to 19. The game was played on the Cathedral floor and was fast and well played.

Clever shooting and an aggressive defense that broke up many of the Cathedral plays, proved too much for the Catholic boys. The accurate basket throwing of the visitors excelled the floor work of the Cathedral boys.

CHAMPION WOMAN TRAP SHOOTER

Mrs. Ada Schilling, who has just moved from San Jose to Portland, Or., is the champion woman trap-shot of the United States. In the Interstate records just issued she led all women for 1915 and was 113th among the 3,400 persons who broke no more than 2,000 targets and 77.37 per cent. Mrs. Schilling weighs less than 100 pounds and persons who have seen her yield to the recoil of her 12-gauge have wondered that she could stand up for 100 shots in a tournament.

MODERN BOXERS POSSESS SHREWD BUSINESS HEADS

Many of the Present Day Mitt Wielders Can Outfigure the Match Makers When It Comes to a Financial Proposition—Many Boxers Possess Large Means.

Many of the modern, headline fighters of the present day seem to pay more attention to financing, than they do to the intricacies and study of the many art. Some of them, like Frank Moran, Willie Ritchie, Mike Gibbons, Johnny Kilbane, Leach Cross and others, have become a sort of lightning calculators, when it comes to figuring out purses, gate receipts and percentages. They must sit up nights juggling and puzzling their brains over arithmetic.

A few years ago it was supposed to be the duty of their managers to do the expert figuring, but nowadays boxers have become more enlightened and do most of their own financing and calculating.

Very few shrewd businessmen are more apt in figures than the present crop of star boxers, and can drive a closer bargain. They can size up a proposed contest almost to within a few dollars and generally outfigure all club managers and matchmakers in making a contract. The big headlines are variably get the lion's share of the gate and the clubs usually finish with a very small profit or loss altogether in the close, sharp transaction, says Jack Skelly.

McFarland Is Great Financier.
For a young fellow who didn't have the advantage of an early business education, Packey McFarland, star boxer, stock speculator and real estate investor, is certainly a great financier. He won't be 28 years of age until Nov. 1 next, and yet he's got stored away money enough in bonds, mortgages, and lots to live on the rest of his life in comfort if not in luxury. No one knows but Packey just how wealthy he is, but you can easily guess his fortune runs up to the $200,000 mark, if not over that some day.

No. McFarland didn't accumulate all this coin as a fighter, but he gathered up considerable of it in the prize ring. He got enough in the fist game to speculate in the stock market and other places and soon put himself on easy street. No wonder Packey declares he won't fight again within the ropes. He is indeed a very wise, long-headed fellow, who has taken up promoting bicycle racing and other ventures, where he can gather in more golden shekels and display his great ability as a financier and a bright business man.

So Packey will be one of the very few brilliant lights of the pugilistic arena who will retire with his honors and his cold cash, undefeated. In my opinion, he might easily have become the world's heavyweight champion, if he desired to train and work himself into the fettle, but no further fistic laurels, I'm now convinced, can tempt this marvelous boxer back into the ring. He'll probably never again be seen in another fistic contest, which I certainly greatly regret, as he almost stood in a class by himself as a manager of the many art. Good-by, Packey! I wish you luck, all the same, in no matter what calling of life you are in.

MUCH MONEY WAS WAGERED ON GLOVE BOUTS IN OLD DAYS

Famous Old Sportsmen Would Bet Huge Sums on Contests Engaged in By Fighters of a Generation Ago—Many Famous Boxers Had Wealthy Backers.

Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Where are the high rolling followers of the prize ring who used to bet each other to a standstill, some twenty years ago, when I was battling for honors within the ropes? Thus writes Jack Skelly.

They seem to have died out or passed away like the boxer of olden times. They were dead game sports with profile bankrolls, who would stake away like the boxer of olden times the outcome of a few rounds. Of course, ringsters fought more decisively, and there was no such thing as a draw, and the betting, pulling and stalling were considered disgraceful and bootless in the ring, as it should be at present.

Nowadays it's so different. Great fistic stars like Freddy Welsh, Johnny Dundee, Leach Cross, Jimmy Clabby, Mike Gibbons and others wait through no-decision rounds with all the tricks of the trade and the arrogance and bravado of a gladiator.

Pleas for Decisions.
These undecisive burlesques are certainly very discouraging to the betting men. They cannot depend upon the verdict of various boxing scribes, who agree to a draw, or a draw, or a draw. This is probably the principal reason why wagering on fistic combats has fallen away so much of late years.

How can a man lay his coin on a mill where there is no decided outcome? The modern boxer's much wiser. He banks his coin, and most of them will retire with a fat bankroll in time and enter into some other promising occupation or business.

Basketball Boxing

theatrical magnate; Harry Corbett, Maj. McLaughlin of San Francisco, Joe Ullman, the turf plunger, Jere Dunn, Herman Geirich, the millionaire clubman; William C. Whitney, Bob Pinkerton, Martin Whiting, Mayor Pat Gleason of Long Island City, Gus Tutill, Jack Dempsey's old backer and manager; James C. Kennedy, Warren Lewis and a host of other gallant fellows with their ready coin, who were always on hand to back their favorite fighters to a finish.

Yes, it is sad, indeed, to count the above list of thoroughbreds among our dear departed friends who'll never again figure around the squared circle. They were a fine loyal bunch of true-blue sportsmen who helped uplift the many art by their sterling qualities. It would be almost a sin to compare them with most of the present-day pikers.

However, I'm glad to see that many of the good old backers of boxers are still in the land of the living, enjoying the old sport. There's Phil Dwyer, the millionaire race track owner, who backed Jim Corbett, Jack Dempsey, Jack McAuliffe and other champions in their prime; "Doc" A. P. Ordway, whose money often went behind George Dixon, Joe Walcott, Bob Fitzsimmons and others; Johnny Maher of Pittsburgh, a real veteran of the game; Jimmy Wakely, who backed John L. Sullivan, Peter Maher, Charles (Kid) McCoy, Brooklyn Jimmy Carroll and other famous fighters for thousands; Alf Kennedy, the old backer of Billy Myers, of Streator, Ill.; Dick Roche, Jack McAuliffe's game backer, who bet thousands upon the former's lightweight champion and many other great ringsters in the early days of pugilism. Around St. Louis especially: Steve Maher of Providence, Alderman John Powers of Chicago, Honest John Kelly of New York, David Holland of Atlantic City, Michael J. Doyle of Newark, N. J.; Nat Goodwin, the celebrated star; Bill Brodurn of Pittsburgh, Bat Masterson of the New York Morning Telegraph, William A. Brady and a few other veterans who are still alive and well and in the ring, as it were.

They belong to the old school of my time within the ropes, but the veterans have also lost considerable interest in boxing on account of the silly no-decision boxing affairs. Can you blame them? I can't.

They tell me that Dan Morgan will bet his head off on a fighter who has a big bank roll in his kick, but Daniel has also the reputation of laying all the bets that he enters with his large stable of fighters on the horses. So he doesn't have very much left to back his judgment on fistic contests. In the last few years, however, Morgan has wasted big sums of money on some of his fighting headlines. He's a plunger indeed on fistic matters. So the bucks were long green flows his way, as it does very often.

Billy Gibson is another fearless backer of boxers, but has much more stability of judgment than most of the promoters and managers of fighters. He's a fine judge of pugilists and is on his way to a big fortune as a Irish champion, Jim Corbett, alone. He hopes some day to land the Roscommon Giant, the heavyweight king of the world. If he does he'll have the most popular money-getter the ring has ever known. For there's no nationality that will bloom and support a man of their own blood like the sons of "ould" Erin.

KEEPS KIDNEYS ACTIVE WITH A GLASS OF SALTS

Must flush your kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

Noted authority tells what causes Backache and Bladder weakness.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can escape the risk of flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter out strain from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of stinging, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days. Your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with neutral salts, has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in the blood and prevent the formation of uric acid, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure. It makes the blood pure, and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications. Advertisements.

LIQUOR IS SEIZED IN GRAND RAPIDS

Indian Agents Conduct Raid and Arrest Two Persons.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—Special Indian Officers Larson and V. H. Ellis dropped into Grand Rapids Friday afternoon and raided the place conducted by Ed Greife and William Dierbert if the building occupied by the former saloon of Mohr & Dierbert.

Seventeen quart bottles of whiskey were found and were kept as evidence. Warrants were sworn out by County Attorney Ralph A. Stone on information furnished by the special officers and Dierbert and Greife were placed under arrest on charges of running an unlicensed saloon. The place is a state estate and will be tried in the local courts. The place will be made today before Judge H. S. Huson in justice court and the state will ask for an injunction to keep the place in order to get time to assemble its witnesses.

Officers coming "Tipped" Off. Special Officers Larson and Ellis also visited three other places, which are known to be illicit booze business, but the action at the Dierbert and Greife place had warned the others, and they had cleaned up everything in sight. There are three other places aside from the three visited which are running a soft drink establishments. These three places were not even visited, as the special officers knew exactly what they were about—they did not waste any time on places which they had already learned were not running illegally.

In the Greife and Dierbert case, the place has been closed, and if a conviction is secured, the fixtures, etc., will be confiscated and sold. The proceeds of such sales go to the school funds of the state.

EVELETH'S MINES UNUSUALLY ACTIVE

Considerable Winter Work Is Going on in That Locality.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 19.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mine in the Adams district are working at full capacity, showing unusual activity for this season of the year.

Time for the coming season is being received daily and piled ready for the demands.

At the Adams mine two shovels are working, one at stripping and one in lean ore, which is being stock-piled all a change in mining conditions may make it merchantable. At the Spruce mine full crews are working underground, putting the stock-piles for the opening of the shipping season. No ore is being shipped from this district at this time for the Duluth steel plant, as was done earlier in the season, but the output of the mines was in no way decreased when they ceased shipping to the new plant.

About twenty men are employed in the Minnewas mine, which is located between this city and Virginia, on the car line. The mine was started in "striking." The Minnewas is a small producer at present, and will never be a large mine. It is a very good proposition, but will be stripped at some time in the future and take its place among the heavy shippers of the district.

At Norman Mine, the Northern Iron works at its full capacity, stock-piling ore for the next season. The Norman is one of the older mines in this territory, and will probably be the first in the Adams district to become exhausted. This will not be in the immediate future, however.

Work of dismantling the shafthouse at No. 4 Adams in this city has been completed.

Several stripping cars ordered by the Adams Mining company have a capacity about four times that of the cars now in use. The cars now used are listed as seven yard capacity, but in reality have a capacity of only about five yards. The new cars, which the company has just ordered have a capacity of twenty yards.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions: "Colder weather prevails over Southern Minnesota, and the Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic coast, the temperatures having dropped considerably over North Adams districts. The coldest reported was -18 degrees at Perry Sound, Ont. In the Northwest, the weather has become somewhat warmer, but a turn to colder will occur in that section in the next twenty-four hours. Light rain or snow fell during Friday or last night over North Adams, and will continue over Canada and the Northern and Eastern lake region."

General Forecasts. Chicago, Feb. 19.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday: Minnesota—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; warmer in east portion tonight; cooler Sunday. Wisconsin—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; warmer in north portion tonight; cooler Sunday. Iowa—Fair tonight and Sunday; warmer in east portion tonight; cooler in north and west portions Sunday. North Dakota—Fair tonight and Sunday; cooler in north and west portions Sunday. South Dakota—Fair tonight and Sunday; cooler in north and west portions Sunday. Montana—Fair tonight and Sunday; moderate temperature. Wyoming—Fair tonight and Sunday; not quite so cold in east portion tonight. Temperatures. Following were the highest temperatures as city health commissioner.

He is a citizen of Hibbing, and has been in the city for some time. He is a health officer, several of the hospital persons, and is a member of the position.

Hips are back! If Heaven didn't give you any, any department store will, while, if you are gifted by nature, all well and good, but hips you must have, by hook or crook.

Medieval way of acquiring them will be to give a mighty hoist to the strings of the old "figure"—whether it's a C. D., an R. and G., or an S. R. O.—but the waistline must practically disappear, leaving just enough to hold your personality together, at the same time giving up all thoughts of ever breathing again.

Ready for New Clothes. After your circulation is stopped and respiration a thing of the past, you will be in a frame of mind to have anything put over on you, beginning with the petticoat.

They are broadened, betrimmed and dazling and in many of them one might feel a sense of being becomingly, modestly and even fully dressed—which is the feeling the new "easy" rule tends to give also—but it's only a temporary feeling, coming before one has seen what the gods have in store.

Skirts Longer. To begin with the skirts are longer—which means that they are still short and many of them have smocking on the hips. Many of them are cut circular, with ribbon, ruffles, taffetas and moire put on to add to any svelte lines you may be trying to conceal.

Colors are high—everything is high including skirts and prices—but colors especially so. And one with high color will be decidedly comely if fault in the 1916 parade, for the high coloring will extend from top to toe, the shoes, not only the tops, but the whole foot, assuming a bizarre and blatant appearance.

Suits have no long coats and both suits and dresses are showing deep doesn't know why they will be large then, but he believes everything he hears. The hats—they are to be mushroom shapes—will be budding with foliage. Ivy foliage was mentioned, though whether it was poison ivy or the old English variety wasn't designated.

Chance for Ostrich. The ostrich, however, is getting in fine feather these days because he's heard right from the trenches that the new millinery. That bird hasn't had a chance to show what he can do for a long time and it's fortunate he didn't become discouraged and cape collars which is a military tendency—right from the front.

Don't Forget the Dye. Silk and wool—no, not what you are thinking, suits, not underwear—are very popular and if you use a certain kind of soap, naturally, you know what you may make over? As long as no one knows, it's all right—so far as you like, but be sure you dye 'em a high color or truth will out.

These jersey suits come in stripes, too, and they're worn with aashies, which are either thrown nonchalantly over the left shoulder—or left in the bureau drawer at home, or you can put them in one of your coat pockets because pockets are going to be used quite a lot and are so handy for week ends.

Up North the sweaters are worn with low necks. The South they have high necks and no sleeves. Either way they don't quite fulfill their mission, but are killed on the spot.

Belts Are Prominent. Belts are prominent. This sounds all right, but what if the waistlines have suffered a decrease (remembered is used advisedly), but the fact remains that the waists won't be as wide as lines there will be a belt line, and it can be used at your own discretion—

As to hats they are small just now, but after a while they'll be large. The man who gave this information

Down South, the Sweaters Have High Necks and No Sleeves.

Callot checks are all the vogue for outing and walking suits. One of these checks is good anywhere, on demand, but be wary what you demand, as stripes are only good on Sing Sing this year, and the demand is steadily decreasing.

Walking sticks are being worn to match the costumes and to lean upon in case your waistline breaks on you. They come in all colors and sizes and can be distinguished from parasols by their lack of parasoling. They are supposed to give a verve and dash to any costume at any time.

Harem veils again! This seems a crime in leap year, but it may add allure to many a countenance which otherwise wouldn't have had half a chance. The harem veil, in bathing suits, which as you all well know, the less said the better (and the bigger crowd).

Leather is being used a lot this spring, both in chairs and as trimming. Of course it is always good in trucks (not swimming trunks), but that's another story.

COMMENT ON PLAYS AND PLAYERS WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS PROMISE

"Wally" Decker is one of the "old guard" of advance men. He arrived in Duluth this week ahead of "The Bird of Paradise" and will remain until Monday.

Mr. Decker has been a soldier of fortune for some twenty-five years. He is a globe trotter and is as much at home in Europe as he is in the box offices of American theaters. His brother, Carl Decker, is a war correspondent at present sojourning, against his will, in a German prison. They caught Carl with some photographs he had no right to have," said "Wally," "and they started to back him up against a wall. The American representative managed to save his life, but Carl is leading a retired life until the war ends. If he had a deck of cards with him, I'll bet he has taught his German guards 'penny ante' by this time and taken away their bread cards. I never worry about Carl. I'd be in the grave if I did. He was scouting around the North Sea in a fishing boat waiting for a big naval battle for four months.

"We have a new Luana this year, and the best one we have ever had with 'The Bird of Paradise.' That is not meant as a reflection on the others either, but wait until you see our new leading woman. 'The Bird of Paradise' is almost as much of a perennial favorite as 'The Old Homestead.'"

Duluthians will remember James H. Morrison, a former resident of this city. Mr. Morrison is now appearing in the support of Ethel Barrymore in "Our Mrs. McChesney" at the Lyceum theater in New York. The play opened early in October and is still running to good business. Mr. Morrison is writing a new play for Miss Barrymore in which she expects to appear next season.

Last fall it was announced in The Herald that Duluth would be made the Western headquarters for the Jack Kline shows, which are probably the best known attractions in the carnival world. This plan has been abandoned temporarily because of press of Eastern business, but may be revived next season. It would make Duluth a center for the carnival business.

Mrs. Fiske rarely gives interviews. When asked for one she usually writes a few lines about the prevention of cruelty to animals which is her great hobby, but the New York Times man induced her to break her rule last week. Here is a brief extract from her crisp little interview:

"The one thing I have always abominated in the theater is the 'my part' factor—the actor whose attitude toward the play is utterly selfish and self-seeking, the actor who does not consider himself merely a part of a whole, but who cherishes some outside personal idea. (One means this 'my part' gentleman (it is seldom a woman) in the exalted places of the theater, and one encounters him, too, in the humblest ranks. Wherever he is, he is detestable."

The interviewer moved on to the next question—that of the actress' opinion of the motion picture.

"The motion picture is, of course, a new art," was Mrs. Fiske's unexpected reply. "An art chaotic and undeveloped now. In its infancy and I dare say neither you nor I will live to see what it will become. It is a medium, a new, imaginative writer, the new art has practically no limitations. Think of what a masterpiece will be able to do with such a means of expression at his command! Even in its crude beginnings the motion picture has already developed geniuses in their own sphere, men and women who have sprung out of oblivion into fame."

"What about the repertoire theater? Will there ever be a return to that?" "Now you have touched upon a topic that is too big to discuss casually. I have never been in sympathy with the idea of the repertoire theater. Some other time I shall be glad to go into that with you."

"BIRD OF PARADISE" COMING HERE AGAIN

Famous Story of True Devotion Will Be Lyceum Attraction.

Plays may come and plays may go, but it seems as if "The Bird of Paradise," Richard Walton Tully's romantic play of the Hawaiian Islands, will go on forever. It will again be seen for a week's engagement at the Lyceum, starting Monday evening, Feb. 23, with the usual matinees.

From the moment that little Luana, the poor little Hawaiian princess, comes on the stage and meets her white husband and contains many things are new, bright and up to date, that come under the head of novelties and sensations. The comedy situations are handled by Max Field, Sidney Rogers and George Betts, whose ability to entertain and amuse is long established, and they are ably assisted by William Harris and George Harrington. Bertha Gibson, aptly termed the whirlwind soubrette, Ruth Everett, Fern Wayne, Miss Fausel and Bonnie Reynolds are also seen to advantage and are assisted in the rendering of some very pretty and clever musical numbers by a chorus of twenty girls.

POPULAR SHOW AT THE GRAND

Clever Vaudeville and Photoplays Offered—All-Girl Bill Coming.

Vaudeville in the true sense, is on view at the New Grand this week-end, each act coming in for a good share of the applause and each act good in its particular line of endeavor. There is no conflict, every act being separate and distinct, and the arrangement is excellent. The photoplays are on a par with the vaudeville.

Witty chatter, comedy songs and some of the cleverest characterizations Duluth theatergoers have been offered this season, make up the offering of Clayton and Lennie in style themselves, "Two English Johnnies." Their routine is new and original, and makes things merry all through their allotted time.

The Georgettys are sensational jugglers of human beings. These athletes are a recent importation from Europe, and their routine is replete with stunts, two men, a single and a woman make-up the troupe.

Manikin, the frogman, is declared the greatest contortionist in the world. His act, while not new to Duluthians, having played at the Opeheum a few seasons ago, is always interesting, embellished as it is with good scenic equipment and lighting effects.

Prince and Deerie have a charming little singing and talking skit entitled "Twilight," that is clever and enjoyable.

Ruth Stonehouse and Richard Trav-ers are featured in "Bright Home," a heart-interest story of exceptional appeal. One of the clever Marguerite stories, "The Girl's End," a two-act roaring comedy, and the Selig Trib-

VALLI VALLI COMING TO ZELDA

Henry B. Walthall and Edna Mayo Are Also Billed.

Valli Valli, the Broadway favorite and screen star who was last seen at the Zelda in "The Turn of Mind," will head the Zelda program for three days, commencing with Sunday's show, in a Metro wonderplay in five parts "Her Debt of Honor." This is a picture that will hold the attention of its audience from start to finish with its unusual tone situations that are terrible in their frankness.

The story deals with a girl's devotion to duty, and in this feature it shows Miss Valli at her best. She is assisted by a cast of Metro's best players.

The management of the Zelda announces the engagement for three days only, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of Henry B. Walthall, "The Manifold of the Movies" who was the star in "The Birth of a Nation," and Edna Mayo, said to be the most beautiful actress appearing on the screen today in a thrilling drama of cave man methods, entitled, "Misleading Lady."

Mr. Walthall appears in the role of Jack Craigen, the modern cave man and successfully gives a characterization wholly new to him. The part of Craigen is a difficult one. As the play develops, he is a picture that will hold the attention of its audience from start to finish with its unusual tone situations that are terrible in their frankness.

Mr. Walthall, in the photoplay has become identified with the characterization of a dignity, tinged with thoughtfulness and often verging on melancholy. But in Craigen he is a normal, modern man, who has been pushed by his nature into the wilderness and the waste places. But the promptings of this nature and the emotions that it engenders are hidden beneath the conventional exterior.

The Strange Case of MARY PAGEWith
HENRY WALTHALL
and
EDNA MAYOThe Thrilling Essanay Series
A Tale of an Unconquerable Love

Manager Ralph Parker of the Sunbeam theater has just arranged for one of the most popular photoplay series ever produced. Beginning March 1 and 2 and continuing every week thereafter "The Strange Case of Mary Page," starring Henry B. Walthall and Edna Mayo. The photoplay series in story form has undoubtedly been read by millions of persons in the United States as it has been published in many magazines and newspapers and everywhere it has met with favor. The two stars, Henry B. Walthall and Edna Mayo need little introduction. The former, who is called the "Mansfield of the movies," was the star in "The Birth of a Nation," and is considered by many to be the best photoplay actor in the world. Edna Mayo is often called the most beautiful actress in the movies and has a charm that makes her a favorite whenever she appears.

Another unusual attraction will be a film series featuring vaudeville artists and starring Harry Watson, of Rieckel and Watson and Crimmins and Gore. These will appear each week beginning Feb. 28 and 29. The pictures are full of clever and interesting situations, and the comedy is said to be of a high class.

Tomorrow there will be another of the "Forbidden Fruit" series, starring Sarah Adler in "The Sins of the Parents." Lovers of outdoor sports will also be well entertained for Manager Parker has secured from The North-west Weekly the motion picture series of the St. Paul midwinter carnival, showing the outdoor sports and the gay throngs who gathered in the Twin Cities to see the fun. Bobbie Connelly, the famous Vitaphone kid, will furnish amusement in a clever comedy.

For Monday, one day only, Edna Mayo will appear in "A Bit of Lace," a charming three-reel Essanay drama.

For Tuesday and Wednesday there will be a grand Washington birthday program, and "America," the great New York Hippodrome show will be shown in its entirety. There will be "The Landing of Columbus," "The Marvellous Laddie," New York scenes, the "Fearless Fells Equestrians," the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and scores of other scenes.

For Friday and Saturday, "A Mother's Confession" and a number of other short films will make up a strong program.

Duluth by the important and well-acted part he played opposite Lillian Gish in "The Lily and the Rose." Mary Alden is co-star with Mr. Lucas in "Aequilus," and her characterization is as fine and strong as the part she played in "The Birth of a Nation." Bessie Love is charming as the daughter. Her training under D. W. Griffith, combined with her natural gifts of grace and beauty, make her endearing in the girlish role of Helen. Elmer Clifton, as her boyish lover, brings both tears and smiles while he waits for the roguish one's "yes."

Quite a novel subject is developed in the Keystone comedy, "His Hereafter," on tomorrow's program. It is a burlesque on the lurid tales of the Wild West, with exciting and comical scenes. While "His Hereafter" is funny, it is surely full of thrills, and the way men are shot off their horses makes the onlookers feel that they are really risking their necks in the fall.

The superiority of Triangle productions is never questioned and as a result they carry everything before them. Triangle has captured Broadway with will make her debut at the Lyric tomorrow in Israel Zangwill's famous stage play, "Merely Mary Ann," in which Eleanor Robson starred so successfully. The story is one dealing with the country girl who faces the big city all alone and wins. In Mr. Zangwill's stage play and also in his photoplay, the story is told in a different way, and the big cities are continually exciting their toll.

Duluth folks will have an opportunity Wednesday and Thursday to see Pauline Frederick, or as has been nicknamed, "Frederick the Great," the

TWELVE FAMOUS STARS IN BIG FEATURE FILM AT ORPHEUM-STRANDMAY ROBSON,
One of the Twelve Famous Stars in "How Molly Made Good" at the Orpheum-Strand Tomorrow.

Commencing tomorrow afternoon and running for four days only, the motion picture achievement, "How Molly Made Good" with twelve famous stars, will be presented on the screen at the Orpheum-Strand theater.

And commencing next Thursday for four days also, the dramatic masterpiece "Life Without Soul," adapted from the immortal classic "Frankenstein," will be shown, with the Gibbons-Ahearn fight pictures as an added extra attraction.

Molly Malone, arriving straight from Ireland as a surprise to her brother finds a greater surprise waiting for her. Her brother is not at his customary desk at the Tribune office, but has left unexpectedly for the war a few days previous. The little girl is at a loss what to do—her funds are limited, and she is a stranger in America. Just at this critical moment, Miss Hilton, one of the Tribune reporters, who has been detailed to interview Mme. Florde, upon her arrival in America aboard the Adriatic, comes in with the report that Mme. Florde was not aboard the steamer. It is Molly's chance, and with true Irish spirit, she is quick in snatching it.

"Sure, she was on the Adriatic, wasn't she after talking with me herself?" she blurts out. "Is that what they're paid for these reporters, for not finding a person? Sure I could do that well myself."

As a result of this frankness, Molly is detailed to interview Mme. Florde in Miss Hilton's place. Her try-out proves successful—so successful in fact, that the Sunday editor decides to give her another chance at the game. An idea for a big Sunday story has come into the office. It is a plan to interview ten theatrical stars in their summer haunts. The name of Lulu Glaser is given as a start-off. Each actor or actress as interviewed in turn, is to suggest the name of some other one, until a chain of ten has been interviewed. The impossible part of the task consists in the shortness of the time in which the interviewers are to get the task completed—three days being allowed for the assignment.

This is Molly's real try-out. From Lulu Glaser in her apron and flower garden at Mt. Vernon, the little reporter follows her Irish and newspaper nose first to May Robson at Sheephead Bay. From there, one by one, she makes a successful canvass of Henry Kolker, Cyril Scott, Julian Dill, Charles Ross and Mabel Fonten, Robert Edeson, Leo Burchstein, Julia Dean and finally Henrietta Crosman.

In her race across the country, she is constantly followed and handicapped by Miss Hilton who is very anxious for the youngster to fail, and does all within her power to cause such failure. But in spite of Miss Hilton's cross-country hounding of the little girl, and the constant blockades laid in her way, the last day of the chase finds Molly at Henrietta Crosman's place with her last interview well under way. And here it is that the little girl does its best to get the assignment and just as the Sunday editor reaches out his hand to take the money he has bet against the office that the little girl can't win, just at this exciting minute, in walks Molly with her task complete.

SHORT TALKS WITH SCREEN-STRUCK GIRLS

By Beatriz Michelen.

I had thought that with my last "talk" I was finished for a time with the fake school of motion picture acting, and myself, however, still in a belligerent frame of mind. An inquiry received with my last mail has probably had some effect on the thing to do with it.

"How am I to tell a fake school from a person, to teach the honest kind?" writes my young "screen-struck" friend.

I must frankly admit myself unable to answer, since none of the schools of motion picture acting that I have come across have had any of the earmarks of honesty.

Now I want to be fair in all my assertions, and so I will grant that there may somewhere be a few schools with honest intentions. Thus far, however, I have been unable to find them, and even though I discovered some such, I was convinced of their laudable intentions, I would still be decidedly doubtful about their efficacy.

I don't believe that there is a school of motion picture acting that can achieve a pupil anything or make her chances of ultimate success in the profession one whit better. A person, to teach a raw recruit the technique of picture acting must necessarily have genuine experience and caliber. If he possesses such, however, is it not reasonable to suppose that he will be directing or producing real photoplays at a salary much greater than he can expect from teaching in a "school"? Directors and producers of ability are in demand.

As far as my observations have gone, the preparators of same acting are invariably makeshifts to furnish an income to failures in the profession. The preparators of same have found themselves unable to make a living as actors or producers and so have begun to practice upon the gullibility of an inexperienced public. They promise their pupils a success they could not find for themselves. Nothing could be more ridiculous.

My advice then is, TAKE A COURSE IN ANY SCHOOL OF MOTION PICTURE ACTING.

MARY PICKFORD IN HER FIRST SEVEN-REEL FEATURE

For the first time in her career, Mary Pickford is soon to be starred by the Famous Players Film company in a big seven-reel feature, "Poor Little Peppina," which was written for the star by Kate Jordan, will be distributed by the Paramount Program, but it will be especially presented in New York and some of the other large cities in advance of the regular release date.

The story is as comprehensive in the matter of backgrounds as it is in actual length, for the action takes place in Italy and America. Miss Pickford, who appears in the role of Peppina, is the daughter of a wealthy American who has resided in Italy for many years. She has been kidnapped when a mere baby and raised by an Italian family in total ignorance of her true parentage. She escapes from Italy in order to avoid marrying a man whom she detests and then her adventures increase with startling rapidity.

In the course of events she is forced to dress as a boy, spending many months in the heavy, corduroys and flannel shirt of the typical Italian boy, appearing in the roles of messenger boy and bootblack.

"Poor Little Peppina" will mark Mary Pickford's first appearance on the screen since becoming a partner in the newly formed Famous Players-Mary Pickford company in the productions of which she retains a half interest.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

William Roosey, representing the London firm of Chappel & Co., is arranging a season in London for the triumvirate of Donald Brian-Julia Sanderson-Joseph Cawthorn in their new production, "Sibyl." It is said that the piece will open at the Adelphi theater in London some time in May.

William P. Sweatman, one of the foremost negro delineators in the business, will shortly be seen in a season of vaudeville in a comedy playlet entitled "In Old NulLeans." A. H. De Beer and Adam Hall Shirk are the authors of the skit, in which Sweatman is given the role of a veteran darky horse trainer. He will be supported by a cast of eight people.

A new company, the Stuyvesant Producing company, will produce its first effort, "Come to Bohemia," an operetta for which George S. Chappell wrote the books and lyrics, and K. M. Murchison the music. The scenes of the new piece are laid in the Latin Quarter of Paris.

A new farce is being written for

Frank McIntyre, who will be starred under the direction of the Dillingham office next season. The new piece is said to be a comedy without music, and will mark the digression of the Dillingham enterprises from the musical field.

Charles Dalton has been engaged by Sir Herbert Tree for the part of Buckingham in "Henry VIII," which will be produced in New York next month.

"The Fear Market," which was announced to close at the Booth theater recently, will continue at that theater indefinitely. William Elliott's production of "The Greatest Nation" will be presented at one of the Messrs. Shubert theaters at a later date.

Ethel Barrymore terminates her New York engagement on Feb. 26 to go on tour in "Our Mrs. McChesney." It is said that the piece would draw heavy business for at least six months more in Chicago.

In New York: According to announcement from the Frohman office a new play is being prepared for Miss Barrymore by Somerset Maugham, intended for her use in the fall. The "McChesney" play will be laid upon the shelf, possibly for good, after the end of its four weeks in Boston and a like period in Chicago.

One of the five "Twin Beds" companies which have been on tour this season has just commenced its third circle, swinging from New York, and will have played, by the time its tour closes, a few weeks more than one year. This company has made a circle including all the cities within a radius of 500 miles from New York, has made a larger one, including the cities just east of Chicago, and has just set forth for the vastnesses of northwest Canada, from which it will return through Eastern Canada in the early fall.

FOR THOSE WHO WANT A CONVENIENT HOME

A Small Modern and Up-to-Date House

We present this week a small house which nevertheless embodies all the conveniences of a larger home; a little study of this plan will reveal to you the convenient and practical arrangement. The interior is simple, still attractive, but we must do this to keep our designs within the means of those who are thinking of building a moderate cost home. This house would cost $3,700. This price is from actual figures. Why buy an old house when figuring on a home of your own? It costs less in the long run to build your own, and then the satisfaction of having it to suit your requirements is worth much to any one. Be progressive—build that home this spring. That's what Duluth architects and contractors are here for, to give you the best there is for your money, and make your home not only a pride to you but to the city.

VICE AND VIRTUE CONTEST WINNERS WILL BE ANNOUNCED NEXT WEEK

Last of the Letters Will Be Published Monday—One Woman Tells Ten Faults of Man, But "Knows Hundreds More."

Manish women and those who would wear a No. 5 shoe on a No. 7 foot are scored by men in the Vice and Virtue contest conducted by The Herald for the last month and brought to a close early this week. Hope, says one writer, is one of the chief virtues of a woman.

Mon, as usual, receive little sympathy at the hands of women, especially the one, who writes, "These are his ten chief faults, but I know hundreds more."

The result of the contest will be announced early next week, but so many letters were received that publication did not stop with the date of closing the campaign. The following letters and a few to be published Monday will be the last published until the contest winners are announced:

V. B. Severson of Morgan Park, writes:

"Following are the virtues, which I think are to be most desired in man: 1. Honor; 2. thoughtfulness; 3. cheerfulness; 4. truthfulness; 5. kindness; 6. courteousness; 7. observation; 8. kindness; 9. cleanliness; 10. faithful love for wife and home.

"By observing people closely I find the following vices to cause much of trouble and tragedy: 1. disloyalty to God and man; 2. neglectfulness; 3. deceit; 4. carelessness; 5. grouchiness; 6. profanity; 7. inconsiderate; 8. dishonesty; 9. use of tobacco, especially chewing; 10. disorderliness."

Laziness First.
Mrs. Robert Poling of Cloquet, Minn., contributes:
"The ten first vices a man can have are: 1. laziness; 2. drunkenness; 3. gambling; 4. brutality; 5. jealousy without cause; 6. selfishness; 7. grouchiness; 8. dishonesty; 9. cursing; 10. unfaithfulness to wife and family."
"The ten first virtues a man can have are: 1. industriousness; 2. kindness; 3. honesty; 4. faithfulness to wife and family; 5. unselfishness; 6. cheerfulness; 7. to be loving; 8. to believe in God; 9. to be courageous; 10. loyalty to his country."

Slothfulness First.
From Mrs. Elizabeth Cotton, Cook, Minn.:

F. A. H. of Crosby contributes the following as the vices and virtues of woman:
Vices—To be extravagant, to be slothful, to be a gossip, to be a fault-finder, to be mannish, to be vulgar, to be overbearing, to be overbold, to show vanity, to be immoral.

of the students, or at the most slightly modifies it.

Plans have been completed for the summer geological tours offered for university credit. Prof. Lohrstedt, the geologist in the extension department, will conduct the tours, four in number. Two will be through the northern part of Minnesota, including the three iron ranges and the industrial machinery of the mining regions and the new steel plant at Duluth. Two others will extend in Colorado and the western mining regions and the Yellowstone National park. It is estimated that the Minnesota trips will cost $100 and the western trips $200. Each trip gives the student three university credits in the department of geology and any student is eligible for two of the four tours. Last year over fifty went on each tour and it is expected that more will go this year.

The Women's Athletic association of the university held a penny carnival at the women's gymnasium on Wednesday night which proved novel and successful. A general admission of ten cents was charged and the various side shows required one cent as the admission fee. Every sorority, literary society and girls' club on the campus had a side show. There were about thirty in all, each adorned with gay posters and inviting declarations of what law within. There were snake charmers, wire walkers, freaks and accidents of every description.

Gerald Lightfoot, secretary to the prime minister of Australia, has been visiting the university to study our methods of scientific research as applied to industry. His government has sent him to this country in an effort to develop their own scientific methods in the great industrial boom which they believe will follow the present war. Mr. Lightfoot spent some time at the university farm, the chemistry laboratories, the mining laboratories, and the forestry college. He believes that science will be the determining factor in future progress, and is here to prepare his government to keep up with the procession.

A census taken at the door of the Men's union showed that on an average of 214 different men enter the building daily. In addition 894 meals are served daily in the main dining room and about 100 in the smaller cafeteria located on the campus.

One of the law students was taken with amnesia during the week, and as a result the entire law school and the medical school, which the students had visited just before the symptoms appeared, were treated to free vaccinations at the state health building located on the campus.

Compulsory physical training at the university was recommended by the alumni athletic committee in a report to the General Alumni association.

made public here today. The committee also went on record as favoring intercollegiate athletics on the present amateur basis with a one-year residence rule and scholarship restriction.

"The time has come," said the report, "for the university authorities to recognize more fully physical training as an essential element in college education, and that athletic sports should be one of the chief features of such a system, that they should be conducted for the betterment of the whole student body."

"We therefore recommend that compulsory physical training be included in the curriculum for at least one year, and that credit be given for this week. The director of physical education should be an ex-officio member of the senate committee on athletics and the athletic board of control, so that there may be co-ordination of this department with inter-collegiate athletics."

The report, which was printed in the Alumni Weekly, also recommended construction of a more adequate gymnasium and enlargement of the present intercollegiate athletics.

The report has been placed before the university authorities for consideration.

GRANDMOTHER SAYS:
For Chest Colds, Sore Throat, Rheumatism and Sprains—

You have taken the old time prescription—goose oil and turpentine that I always used, and mixed them up with your new medicines—menthol, lanoline, amber oil, eucalyptus oil and mustard and now call it

GOOSE-OLENE
My old prescription was good—but with the new Goose-olene, by rubbing over the throat and chest and covering with a hot cloth, you quickly relieve the inflammation of the internal parts. You are also breathing the fumes of the Eucalyptus oil (the great germ destroyer) which has a soothing effect on the membrane of the nose and throat. Goose-olene is so handy to use—just squeeze out of the tube enough each time—the rest keeps strong and pure in the sealed tube until needed.

BABY GOOSE-OLENE
Is made for the congestions and colds of the little ones. By leaving out the mustard it relieves without any smarting effect on the membrane of the nose and throat. Always use Baby-Goose-olene for the younger, and Goose-olene (which is stronger) for the older and adults. At all drug stores in 25-cent 50-cent tubes. —Advertisement—

DO YOU WANT TO BE A LANDLORD?

There is no better way than to first buy your own home. It will take only a few years of your usual rent money to pay for it.

THEN YOU WILL HAVE FORMED THE HABIT
of making a monthly payment on an investment, and as surely as night follows day you will buy another house, or build another, and repeat it to someone who has not yet learned the lesson of paying rent to himself.
On the second investment you make, the terms will work out easier because while you will be paying something out every month you will also be collecting a similar amount from your customer.

OTHERS HAVE DONE THIS
and why not you? The majority of our middle class people started with a small investment, just as a baby learns to walk by creeping.

Lusitania Settlement Does

U. S. Would Have Germany

Teutons Hold Ships to Be Immune Should Carry
No Arms.

Washington, Feb. 21.—State department officials said today they consider the submarine issue with Germany still in a grave state because the Lusitania agreement in the light of the newly announced submarine policy of the German government contains no assurances for the future.

The situation created by the announced intention of sinking armed merchant ships without warning after Feb. 25, officials said, was still in the abstract, and was being exercised as such but the Lusitania agreement itself, as it now stands, they explained, merely treats of the past and although it gives all in that respect for which the United States has contended, officials do not believe that it clearly guarantees against another such disaster, because while it refers to the outset to the assurance that German submarines would not sink unarmed liners, it does not reiterate them.

Secretary Lansing already has told Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, that assurances that the previous declarations will not be abandoned in the new campaign are highly desirable. It was demonstrated that the Lusitania was wholly unarmed, but the United States has since taken the position that it considers a ship armed for defensive purposes only and a ship carrying no guns in the same class. The German contention is that under the new conditions of naval warfare brought about by the advent of the submarine, a merchant ship to be immune from attack should carry no arms whatever.

RUSSIAN DUMA WILL CONVENE ON TUESDAY

Czar Nicholas Finally Allows Reassembling of Russian Legislature.

Petrograd, via London, Feb. 21.—The duma has been convened to meet tomorrow.

The duma was prorogued on Sept. 16 last and on Dec. 7 Emperor Nicholas issued a rescript postponing indefinitely its reopening as well as that of the council of the empire, this action being taken, it was announced, on the ground that the budget committee of those bodies had not completed the preparation of the budget. Demonstrations were reported as having taken place in Petrograd and Moscow in protest against the refusal of the emperor to permit the reassembling of the duma.

Four Steamers Rapidly
Taking Care of Sufferers
From Flood.

Waters Still Extending But Worst Is Believed to Be Over.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 21.—With four steamers and numerous flat boats engaged in rescue work, reports from the district flooded by the Mississippi levee break at Buckridge were more optimistic.

Two steamers loaded with refugees had reached Natchez today from the neighborhood of Newellton. Two other steamers were working between Natchez and the Buckridge levee where flood victims are suffering most of the exposure and lack of food.

Reports from Newellton say a number of parties with supplies have gone into the back country in shallow draft boats to search for persons whom it had been impossible to reach. By using these boats many rescues were expected.

Year.

From The Herald Washington Bureau.
Washington, Feb. 21.—Representative Charles A. Lindbergh today issued a statement of his reasons for withdrawing from the contest for the Republican nomination for governor of Minnesota. He says he has not withdrawn in favor of any particular candidate, although Governor Burquist's position on public questions suits him. Mr. Lindbergh says also that he does not know whether he will run for congress or any other office this year. Incidentally, Mr. Lindbergh "sideswipes" the newspapers of the state that have been unfriendly to him. The statement is as follows:
"In response to requests for statements on the governorship question, I will say that I did not file for governor to secure position or honor. I consider the honors conferred upon me in my district by the hearty support which has been accorded to me in my fights in congress as high as any I

Smith's Attorney Favors Continuing Case Over the Term.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter J. Smith, former state treasurer, and R. C. Pickit, former clerk in the state auditor's office, now under indictment for alleged irregularities, appeared in the Ramsey district court today for trial, but at the request of their attorneys the cases of both were set over to Feb. 28. The postponement was granted with the understanding that in Smith's case further continuance would be granted if his attorneys could make a confident showing that he was not in physical condition to undergo trial at that time. Smith said that he was feeling better and gradually getting his strength back. Pickit, who has been suffering from a severe cold, said that he had about recovered.

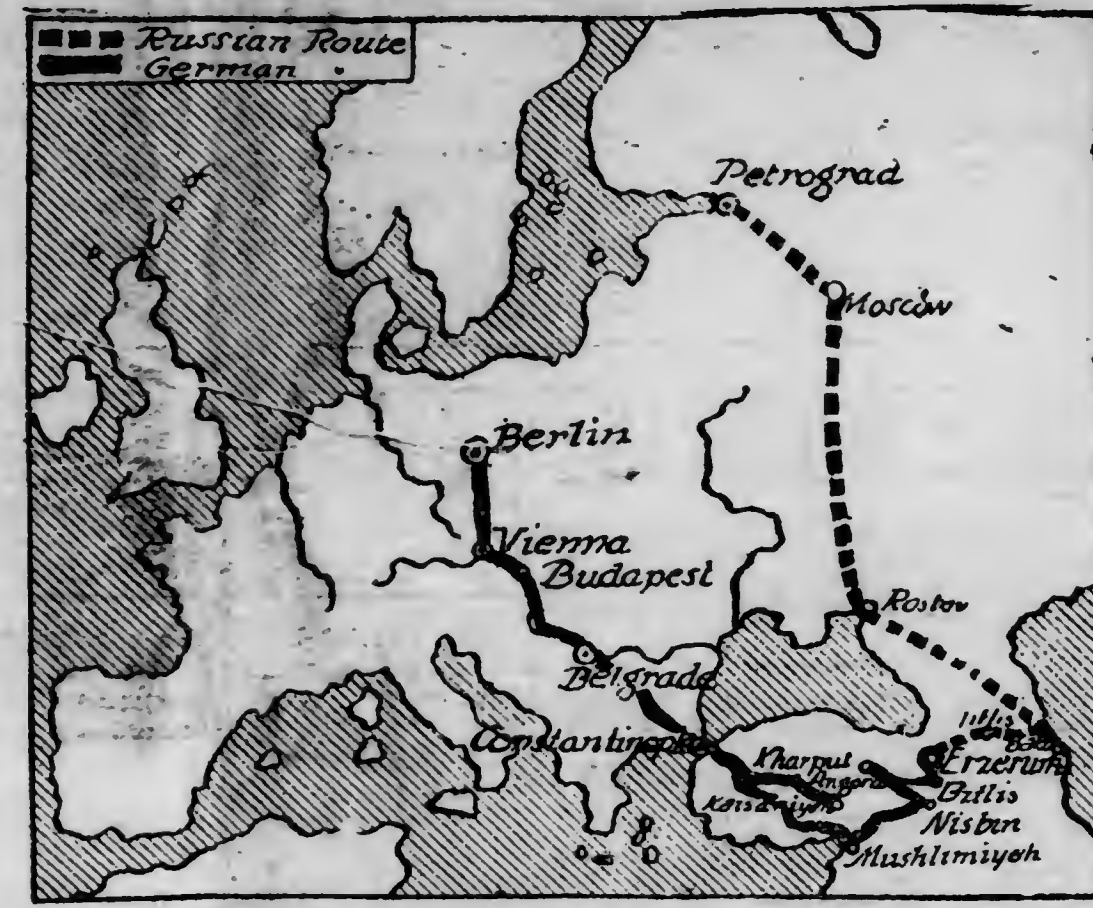

Both men, it was indicated by County Attorney O'Brien, would be tried first on the indictment involving the $18,000 Altkin school warrant. This indictment the county attorney regards Coast.

London Says Three Killed and Considerable Dam-

Berlin, Feb. 21, wireless to Saville.—The official German account of the raid by German naval aircraft on the British coast yesterday, issued today by the admiralty, follows:

"German naval aeroplanes on Feb. 20 at noon attacked the British coast. Bombs were hurled with good success on factories in the rear of the railroad and on the docks and gasometer in Lowestoft. The gasometer broke down under the effect of bombs. In addition, two tank steamers were damaged. In spite of the enemy's fire and pursuit by aeroplanes, all the German aeroplanes returned safely."

Three Killed.—Four German sea planes yesterday made a raid over the east and southeast coasts of England, according to an official announcement made last evening. The total casualties are given as two men and a boy killed and a marine wounded. Considerable material damage was done. The official communication says: "Four German aeroplanes made a raid over the east and southeast coasts at noon today. The first raiders, two biplanes, appeared over Lowestoft at 10:55 a. m. and circled over the south side of the coast."

London, Feb. 21, 2:30 p. m.—The Russians have occupied the entire Lake Van district, the Turks retreating southward and even evacuating Bitlis, according to a Petrograd dispatch received in Rome and given out here by the wireless press.

On the other wing, according to the dispatch, the Russian advance guards have arrived within a short distance of Trebizond on the Black sea coast.

Russ Press Advantage.—Petrograd, Feb. 21, via London.—The Russians are pressing the advantage gained at Erzerum on both flanks. On the right, along the Black sea coast, by the co-operation of the sea and land forces, they are driving the Turks from one position after another to the east of Trebizond, and it is expected that active operations against that important seaport will not be long deferred. In the last two days, the Russians have occupied Wilde and pressed forward ten or twelve miles westward. The fleet has destroyed in succession several shore batteries which might have been of assistance to the Turks and by keeping well in advance of the land forces, and by destroying bridges over several streams in the path of retreating Turks, has rendered their retreat more difficult. The fleet has been working so close to the shore that the warships have been reached by rifle fire from the Turkish troops. On the

No Attempt to Be Made to Pay Day.

Ansonia, Conn., Feb. 21.—Further efforts to end the strike of unskilled labor which has caused the closing of the mills of the American Brass company, were to be made here today. Conferences of the strikers were arranged, to be followed, it was believed, by a meeting with the company officials.

The mills remained closed and it was said no attempt would be made to reopen them until after Wednesday, which is pay day. The strikers, who will be paid the wages due them on that day, will find in their envelopes the increase of 2 1/2 cents an hour already announced and this, it is believed, may have a conciliatory effect.

SUMMARY OF THE WAR NEWS

Further progress for the Russians in their sweeping campaign in Turkish Armenia is unofficially claimed, a dispatch from Petrograd reporting them in possession of the entire Lake Van district with the Turks retreating southward and even evacuating the important city of Bitlis.

Lake Van lies 100 miles southeast of Erzerum and Bitlis, a city of more than 25,000 population, is southwest of Lake Van, not more than ten miles from the nearest point on the lake shore.

Bitlis is on the direct line of a force pushing from Lake Van toward Diarbakir, about 100 miles away, fifty miles beyond which city runs the Baghdad railway, possession of which by the Russians would cut Turkish communications with Syria and render hazardous the position of the Turkish forces facing the British down the Tigris in Mesopotamia and likewise that of their forces in Persia.

On the western fighting front the British are struggling with the Ger-

ITALIANS IN STATE UNION

Delegations From All Minnesota Societies Gather in Duluth.

Banquet at Holland Gives Keynote for Business Sessions.

Representative Italian of Duluth and Minnesota are holding a meeting today in Owls' hall for the purpose of organizing the Italian-American federation, an organization that, it is intended, will embrace every Italian club and organization of Minnesota, and whose purpose will be the general betterment and advancement of the Italian people in the state.

There are thirty delegates in attendance at the meeting. The morning session was spent in going over the by-laws and transacting routine business. The election of officers is scheduled to take place late this afternoon.

Plans for the organization of the Italian-American federation were formed at a banquet held in the Holland hotel last evening, by the Christopher Columbus society of Duluth. The organization of the federation will be followed by a dance to be held in the Owls' hall. Many Italians from the range and surrounding towns are here, and the delegates will be the guests of the Italia Nova society, an organization of younger Duluthians of Italian parentage.

"I believe this meeting is but a forerunner of greater and better things to be done in Minnesota by the citizens of Italian parentage," said the Rev. Fr. Farilli, in the principal address of the program which followed the banquet.

"I believe that by forming this organization we can weld among ourselves a class of American citizens who will work for the best interests of this great republic. And lastly, I believe that by striving to attain the ideals of American citizenship we can best achieve the aims of the parents who sent us to this land to obtain the liberty and democracy that was promised to us."

Castiglioni Is Toastmaster.
Attilio Castiglioni, royal Italian consular agent for the Head of the Lakes region, presided as toastmaster. Other speakers of the evening were Alonzo Lorenz and Frank Pichler. The talks being exclusively in the Italian language, and even the menu cards being printed in Italian.

The meeting was called by a committee appointed by the Christopher Columbus society about a year ago, with this object in view. The movement was first suggested during the Columbus day celebration in St. Paul on Oct. 20, 1914, by Mr. Castiglioni.

It was revived at a similar meeting held the following year, but plans were delayed on account of the war. The committee includes A. Castiglioni, chairman; Mario Bacchiarelli, secretary; P. Mainelli, treasurer; and Joseph Bianchi, Felix Janetta and Enrico Casola.

While no serious damage has resulted, a new surge of the ice will cause serious trouble. The Missouri river ice was still solid but raising, and high water is expected as the Yellowstone river ice went out at Glendive late Sunday afternoon.

"Y" CONVENTION HAD BIG RESULTS

Many Delegates Decided to Take Up Work, Says Hautoer.

The influence of the Minnesota State Y. M. C. A. convention was far-reaching, according to J. E. Hautoer, religious secretary of the Duluth association, who spoke yesterday on "The General Impressions of the Convention."

Mr. Hautoer declared that one-half of the delegates at Fairbault were college men and that many of them decided there to devote their lives to religious work.

STATE AMENDMENTS BALLOT IS ALL READY FOR VOTERS

The official ballot for constitutional amendments, to be voted on in Minnesota on Nov. 7, at the general election, has already been prepared by Julius A. Schmalz, secretary of state, and presents eight propositions to amend the fundamental laws of the state, several of which have already been rejected at former elections.

Mr. Schmalz explains this early preparation of the ballot as being due to the fact that the presidential primary, the state-wide primary and other official duties this year will have him and his office force as busy that he wants to get as much work out of the way at as early a date as possible.

The amendments that appear on the official ballot are as follows:

No. 1. Amendment to section 2, article 6, authorizing the setting apart of a revolving fund of not over $250,000 from the school and swamp land funds, to be used in constructing ditches and firebreaks in, through and around unsold school and swamp lands, and in clearing such lands.

No. 2. Amendment to section 6, article 6, relating to the investment of school funds and authorizing the investment and loaning of school funds on improved farm lands within the state.

No. 3. Amendment to article 9, authorizing the legislature to provide by law for the construction of public waterways and rivers, and for the mining and sale of any iron ore or other mineral situated under the waters of any public lake or river.

No. 4. Amendment to section 2, article 6, increasing the number of associated justices of the supreme court from four to six, and that the clerk shall be appointed by the court.

No. 5. Amendment to section 11, article 6, permitting the approval in part by the governor of single items of an appropriation bill.

No. 6. Amendment to section 13, article 1, relative to the taking of private property.

No. 7. Amendment to section 1, article 4, so as to reserve to the people the direct power of the initiative and referendum as additional means to secure and control legislation, and as an additional means by which the people may amend the constitution.

No. 8. Amendment to section 7, article 6, changing the length of the term of the judge of probate court.

Amendment No. 1, regarding the revolving fund, is the matter in which Northern Minnesota is most interested, and already a campaign has been begun to insure its adoption by the voters. A committee appointed at the Bemidji meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association, of which George D. McCarthy of Duluth is secretary, met recently in St. Paul and made plans for the propaganda. The campaign will be carried on untiringly from now on, and nothing will be left undone to acquaint the voters of the state with the benefits such a revolving fund will be to the state as a whole.

It is generally believed that this amendment failed of adoption at the last general election because it was not as well understood as it should have been. The present campaign is for the purpose of avoiding that lack this time.

FALLS DOWN ON JOB AS HUSBAND

Paul A. Nyman, 24, proved to be a disappointment as a husband, according to Vivian Elizabeth Nyman, 22, who was married to him less than two years ago and who is now seeking liberty through the divorce court.

In papers filed in district court, Mrs. Nyman charges that shortly after their marriage she took to drinking and that his favorite pastime while under the influence of intoxicants seemed to be to abuse her. She complains of being kicked, choked and cursed and adds that once he blacked her eye.

Their wedding took place in St. Paul on Oct. 8, 1914. Nyman is a bookkeeper and stenographer, but she says that he worked only one and one-half months after their marriage. She was obliged to return to the home of her parents because of his failure to support her, she says. He deserted her, she alleges, on Nov. 15, last.

Mrs. Nyman asks permission to resume her maiden name, Vivian Elizabeth Pearce.

WARREN STILL ON STAND IN PAVING TEST SUIT

Taking of testimony was resumed this morning before Judge Dancer in district court where the street railway paving suit is on trial. Herbert Warren, general manager of the Duluth Street Railway company, was on the stand all morning and his testimony was along the same line as that given at the hearing on Jan. 27. The city wants the traction company to pay for the additional strip of paving in Ninth street, made necessary by reason of the presence of the street

SUNDAY SERMONS IN DULUTH PULPITS

RELIGION

NECESSARY

Science, Art, Morals Are Unable to Bring Perfect Peace.

Serving God Only Will Satisfy Soul, Says Pastor.

That religion is the only thing that will produce complete happiness and contentment in life is the opinion of Rev. R. Edward Sayles, pastor of the First Baptist church, who spoke yesterday morning on "Christianity and the Higher Life." He said in part:

"The higher life of mankind finds expression in various forms. There is the artistic, the scientific, the philosophic, and the moral.

"We have found the words of Professor Tiele instructive. 'The difference consists chiefly in this, that while science, art and morality yield a certain satisfaction, or even a considerable measure of happiness, they never produce the perfect peace of mind that only the truly religious life can give. The greatest genius, the acutest investigator, and the profoundest thinker, who have studied the most difficult problems, and have made darkness light for themselves and others, will be the first to confess the limitations of their knowledge and the insolubility of many of their problems, and to admit that faith alone can answer the momentous and vital questions.

"Where and whether? Poetry and art may brighten this earthly life with their beauty, but they cannot give the true peace that only when they serve, they bring home to us some great religious truth in a beautiful and striking form. And even the strictly moral man, who is ever guided by the golden rule, and who is ever having kept all the commandments from his youth upward—unless utterly dominated by self-satisfaction—must often feel that he lacks something, the one thing needed.

"Religion, then, is something in itself and for itself, fulfilling a separate role, and not in any way to be confounded with art, or philosophy, or science, or even morality.

"This higher life of man finding expression in art, science, philosophy and morality makes certain demands upon Christianity.

"It must be simple in its nature. It must be reasonable in its demands. It must be a religion of toleration. It must be characterized by idealism.

"It must be ethical. It must be capable of affording comfort in time of trouble.

"I call you to this type of Christianity. Religion is an essential factor in a fully developed rounded life. Christianity can meet the needs of every individual, whatever his temperament. Here you will find a moral drive.

"The church of Jesus Christ is a challenge to modern men and women. She seeks to keep alive the sense of God, to foster faith, to educate in morals and religion, to stand for the highest idealism, to give to the world the best of men and women of ability and capacity. She has the most serious and gigantic task in front of her. Will you enlist? Or are you a slacker?"

OPPOSED TO

SUNDAY LAWS

Pastor Scores Churches for Demanding Civil Force in Religion.

Congressmen Are "Knifed" at Polls for Refusing Requests, He Says.

"He who would invoke the arm of civil law to force other people to be formally religious, should remember that while Jesus drove hypocrites out of the temple, he never drove them in. Religion by law simply manufactures hypocrites while the honest dissenter is punished, and Jesus Christ has never commissioned any man or set of men to do what he could never be a party to," said Pastor Stemple White last night to a large audience at the Seventh day Adventist church, corner of Tenth avenue east and Sixth street, where he spoke from the revelation prophecy on "The Beast, the Image, and the Mark."

Substituted Civil Power.

He said in part: "The primitive church in Paul's day preached the word of God with Holy Ghost power, kept back nothing profitable, and souls were converted who followed in the steps of the obedient Savior in spite of cruel laws administering capital punishment. Through continued apostasy from the word of God, divine power was lost, and the civil power was substituted in its place. Tradition gradually replaced the Bible truths, church and state were fully united and the logical result was the Dark Ages. Among the many things of human devising that were forced upon the people by civil power, urged on by church councils, and catered to by Roman emperors, was the exaltation of the venerable day of ancient sun-worship as a day of rest in place of the Bible Sabbath which is the seal of God's law and sign of Christ's power as creator and redeemer. This mark of papal apostasy was so persistently and so long pressed upon people that a supposed halo of divine authority was thrown around this festival day.

"Then came Protestantism, professing to take the Bible only as its guide-book. Many sects of Protestants are due to the fact that instead of following on in the light of God's word, the religious bodies have refused to go further than the instruments of their reformation and are creed bound.

Sunday Laws Scored.

"Why is it that today, in the face of the simple truth that Sunday has its basis in the Bible, and that, also, in the light of the original principles of Protestantism, thirty-two denominations have compromised, uniting together, dropping the very word of 'Protestant,' and are clamoring at the halls of congress for Sunday laws, which are unconstitutional, un-American and anti-Christian? When any church petitions the state for protection, it simply publishes to the world that it has lost Holy Spirit power, which in turn is lost by those churches and rejection of the word of divine truth. Sad picture indeed, to see religious combinations threatening to violate their solemn oaths to support the Constitution which absolutely forbids religious legislation. The church and state 'image' is being built up in the three departments of our government having already

STRUGGLE

MAKES MEN

Real Manhood Cannot Be Attained Without Overcoming Opposition.

Dr. Gebauer Tells How Jesus Became New Being After Temptation.

Real manhood is attained only by overcoming opposition and temptation, according to Rev. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, in his sermon yesterday morning in which he preached upon "The Temptation of Jesus." He said in part:

"Matthew, the gospel writer, tells us in most delightful naivety, that Jesus was led by the spirit to be tempted of the devil. That would seem like most reprehensible heresy, for to the church the devil has always been the exponent of absolute evil and the eternal adversary of God. But here in Matthew we find good and evil quietly joined in a common business. The spirit of good uses the spirit of evil for a possible better manhood. Jesus needed this temptation to realize himself. For that is in the end the goal of that picturesque little temptation story with its magic and internal pathos. The man who is tempted, tells us the story of the character of Jesus, of what ambitions were stirring him. For of course the bait of the devil is always according to the man's weakness. Jesus felt power in him; would he use that power for self-aggrandizement, for the sake of his own glory, for the sake of his own power, would he use that power for a purpose greater than himself? When he had entered the temple as the son of man, he came out of it a son of God, filled with new power on high.

Story of Manhood.

"The story of Jesus is the story of manhood. He is the man who believes in a devil with horns and hoofs, or in evil which is shadow, you know what that is. It is a very actual thing, and actual beings we have to meet every day. How we meet it, how we resist it, shall determine what we are. Our entire ethical life is dependent upon temptation to sin, to permit ourselves to be determined by selfish impulses. Moral life means moral choice. And moral choice is a struggle. There is a way in which conformity to the general ideas is healthful and stimulating, and necessary to be an oddity, and yet the thing about our personality which is most interesting is that which differentiates us from our fellows.

STINK BOMB CORPS STILL AT WORK

Patrons of Two Theaters Victimized Twice in Two Days.

Redoubled efforts on the part of police to identify disturbers who have driven Lyric theater patrons from the theater by dropping 'stink bombs' on the floor have been fruitless so far.

Saturday, for the second time in two months, the 'stink bombs' were dropped into the theater despite the surveillance of ushers, and dropped while the show was in progress. The audience quickly left.

Employees were busy during the day, in order to prepare for the Sunday opening. Last night the disturbers were successful in repeating their work, and many of the spectators were compelled to leave.

SAINTS ARE

CRUCIFIED

Advocates of Best in Life Always Unpopular, Declares Rector.

Ordinary Man Likes the Common Philosophy of His Time.

There is a conservatism about man which leads to be antagonistic to new taxes upon his time and attention, Rev. A. W. Ryan, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, told his congregation in his sermon yesterday morning.

"The leader in thought or action," he said, "like our own Washington, soon finds that he must stand criticism and condemnation. The world has always crucified its saints. And the same world today is quite ready to crucify all who stand out for the best in life and action."

The ordinary man likes the common philosophy of his time. He wants that which is popular, and he is always trying to feel the pulse of the multitude and then proclaim what they think is the last popular thing. Such men are opportunists and never are seeking above all for what the kingdom of God would demand. They are forever destined to follow a sort of ignis fatuus and never get on solid ground.

It may be possible to gain personal approbation by diplomatically seeking for what the public mind desires, but that sort of seeking prevents finding what the will of God is and following that. As Lincoln said, he did not know whether God was on his side or not, but he was a good deal more important to be on the side of the humble and teachable spirit is of far more worth in finding the truth, than all seeking for public approval and all the commendations of our kind.

The thing that abides is not the current fashion, but the principles which have been revealed to us, or which the idealist follows as a dream of the coming of the abundant kingdom of God.

It is a natural and common desire to be well-considered by our fellows. We would do much to gain respect and reputation among those whom we think are the desirable people of our association. It is proper to seek to have the approval of our kind for the most part, for that keeps us in the normal state of mind. There is a way in which conformity to the general ideas is healthful and stimulating, and necessary to be an oddity, and yet the thing about our personality which is most interesting is that which differentiates us from our fellows.

there was thought of a separation from England, when the colonies were a part of Great Britain and dependent on her for protection and aid, he insisted that he was a Virginian first, and a British citizen after that; that his first duty was to his state.

Throughout the war his steadfastness, his courage and his strength of character were put to severe tests, but he was faithful through every one of them. There were cabals and conspiracies against his leadership; there were jealousies and humiliations and discontent to be contended with, but he conquered every difficulty.

There was a scheme at one time to make Washington king of the united colonies, and he was offered an American crown. But he spurned the proposal indignantly, for he already had a vision of a democracy, and he held to that ideal until others also caught the vision. Clean living, courage, faithfulness to his duty, generosity that led him to serve his country without money, and the personality—there are the features of Washington's character that appeal to us strongest and that should prove an inspiration to us in our own lives.

Widor's "Serenade" by the Trio de Lutèce

WIDOR'S delicate conception (No. A1907, 10-inch, 75c) is played with consummate artistry by the Trio De Lutèce, an ensemble of great soloists—George Barrère, flute; Carlos Salzedo, harp; and Paul Keefer, cello. The music of their instruments melts into a unit of sound of unforgettable loveliness, so beautiful that it surpasses even the matchless trio records which established Columbia fame in this field.

This record indicates the character and unusual interest of all the

CHURCH INDORSES MOOTED AMENDMENT

Woodland M. E. Favors Prohibition Change in Federal Constitution.

An indorsement of the proposed prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution was voted yesterday by the congregation of the Woodland M. E. church, and W. E. Cowden was elected secretary of the congregation, with instructions to notify Minnesota's senators at Washington and Congressman Clarence B. Miller of Duluth of the action of the congregation.

Lessons from the life of President Washington were read by themselves and along the Great Lakes. He was in charge of the Omaha freight dock in Duluth at the time they were destroyed by fire in 1904. In 1905 he entered the employ of the Canadian lake lines as purser on the steamer J. H. Plummer, in service between Duluth and Montreal. ST. LOUIS COUNTY YOUTHS HONORED

Winners of Potato-Growing Contest Appointed U. S. Demonstrators.

Boys and girls in St. Louis county who devoted much of their time last summer to potato raising have been recognized for their efforts by T. A. Erickson, state leader of boys' and girls' club work, who has appointed several of them National Potato club demonstrators and presented them with national demonstration emblems. The emblems are in the form of pins and have been awarded to all boys and girls in the United States who successfully completed the work in the potato growing contests which were started last spring. The different parts of the emblem are a book, a four-leaved clover, a potato and four H's, representing equal training of the head, heart, hands and health of the child. At the top of the book appears the word "demonstrator" and at the bottom of the book, the words "National Potato Club."

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING IS IN THE EATING

What the sick want is to get well. They do not care whether they are cured by the most scientific physician or the most unlearned neighbor—they don't care how they are cured, if only they get well. For forty years women suffering from female ills have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have been getting well; and because they have got well, that great medicine continues to have a sale equalled by that of few proprietary preparations.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARIES HOLDING POLITICAL INTEREST OF STATE NOW

Would-be Delegates to Chicago Convention Quizzed as to How Long They Will Stick to Cummins; Lindbergh Topic of General Discussion; Kellogg and Senatorship.

State political activities are suspended in Minnesota pending the outcome of the presidential primaries of March 14. Some quiet work is being done for the election of delegates. The Cummins men apparently are taking things seriously and it is reported from St. Paul that, since Senator Cummins spoke there a week ago Saturday the Cummins movement has taken more distinct form. Would-be delegates to the Republican national convention at Chicago are being asked how long they will adhere to the Cummins banner in the convention and many of them are hastening to say that they will stick as long as there seems a reasonable chance for the Iowa senator. They declare that, with the chances of the senator gone, they will turn to others, but so far nobody has been quoted who will say whom they will turn to.

That the Roosevelt sentiment is strong, there is no denying, and it is noticeable that several Roosevelt leaders in the last presidential campaign are on the primary ticket for delegates-at-large. These are O. J. Larson of Duluth, A. A. D. Kahn of Duluth, and J. F. Jacobson of Madison. Speaking for those of this leaning, Mr. Larson said a few days ago: "We are all for Cummins and will do everything we can to support him at the convention. He is the only man who has been known as Roosevelt men, but we will act in harmony with the rest of the delegation. In case it is found that Mr. Cummins cannot be nominated, we will set together in deciding where to cast our votes in order to get the strongest possible candidate to head the ticket. It is not, however, probable that a Roosevelt man so expressing himself means the Colones."

The "keynote speech," made by former Senator Ellery Root in the New York convention the other day, is one of the straws which shows the direction of the political wind. It is not hard to figure out whose policy is being advocated in view of the previous and concurrent utterances of Mr. Root. He pulled the wires at the Chicago convention which Col. Roosevelt revolted, but it will be a horse of another color now, since Mr. Root seems to be about to stage the same kind of a play for and against the Colones.

That Mr. Root does not believe half of what he said is most probable, but, according to the teachings of the old guard, the former senator was a political creature and later one of the heads, what one believes is not important; expediency is the thing. Win-no matter how, but win-is the point.

Nothing is stirring in state politics just now, the latest ripple being the retirement of Congressman Lindbergh from the governorship race, which has already been mentioned upon.

It is charged that Mr. Lindbergh never gets out of the limelight; it would appear that they will let him. Since his retirement from the governorship contest he has been almost the sole topic of discussion among the Republican state office-seekers, and they have not ceased to wonder what significance his new move possesses.

It comes from Washington to the effect that he said to a friend there that he retired from the governorship to enter the fight for the United States senatorship. Meanwhile, his friends are anxious to see him in many quarters, and in no place more than in the sixth district, where three men are anxious to succeed the congressman in the halls at Washington. His announcement that he withdrew from the governorship race because Governor

Burnquist stands for the same things that he does causes the St. Cloud Journal-Press to make the following comments:

The fact that public sentiment in Minnesota is overwhelmingly for Burnquist, of course, had no influence upon our patriotic and unselfish M. C. If he thinks of getting back into the congressional races, Knutson, Buckman and Opsahl are each and all ready to assure him that, individually and collectively, they are for the people first, last and all the time, and thus relieve Mr. Lindbergh of the necessity of making further sacrifice by associating with the wicked representatives of trusts at Washington.

If Congressman Lindbergh should enter the senatorial race, it would make matters interesting, anyway; and it might develop into a four-cornered fight, for of late Frank B. Kellogg has been acting like a man who is planning to get in. His telegram sent from the Barbara Calo to be read at the recent banquet of the Lincoln club, St. Paul, cannot be set down as a mere chattering. As somebody said, it sounded much like a platform. Also "Bob" Dunn, who was one of the first to urge Mr. Kellogg to file for the senatorship, launched a movement last Friday among the editors attending the meeting of the Minnesota Editorial Association in Minneapolis, to obtain the consent of Mr. Kellogg to be a candidate to do. In other words, he wanted to get out and solicit votes, as the primary law seemed to require a candidate to do. Mr. Kellogg said, at the time he declined to run, that he would not get out and solicit votes, as the primary law seemed to require a candidate to do. Mr. Kellogg said, at the time he declined to run, that he would not get out and solicit votes, as the primary law seemed to require a candidate to do.

We are common with thousands of other citizens of Minnesota, having faith in your integrity and patriotism, and believing that you are eminently qualified to represent the state. We are common with thousands of other citizens of Minnesota, having faith in your integrity and patriotism, and believing that you are eminently qualified to represent the state. We are common with thousands of other citizens of Minnesota, having faith in your integrity and patriotism, and believing that you are eminently qualified to represent the state.

Mr. Kellogg's message to the Lincoln club banquet said: "I congratulate the oldest and most influential political club in Minnesota, and regret that I cannot be with you to celebrate Lincoln's birthday. In the midst of this great world war it is a good time to review our allegiance to the party founded by the great emancipator. It was based on the principles of equal rights and the elevation of the Union, that representative democracy might be perpetuated; to preserve the Union and our institutions we must be prepared to defend them. A nation not worth this sacrifice is not worth preserving."

While we are demanding, as we should, a strict accountability from the government throughout the state, we should be scrupulous in the observance of these principles in keeping our own hands clean and in preserving an honorable neutrality. This is a duty no nation can neglect without endangering its peace and its honor.

We should encourage foreign commerce and the building and the world needs these products, affords a most favorable opportunity, of which we should avail ourselves.

As agriculture constitutes the principal basis of the wealth of the country, everything should be done as far as is legitimate to improve it, increase the prosperity of the farmer and make farm life attractive. We should insist on tariff duties reasonably adequate to protect the products of agriculture, labor and the manufacturer, and to meet the demands of the public revenue. The duties should not be so high as to increase the cost of the necessities of life or build up great corporations or monopolies under the guise of protection.

We should strive for a more economical and efficient state and national government. We should strive for social justice and to preserve an equal opportunity to engage in all the branches of industry and civic preferment.

In our foreign relations we should be guided by the principles of justice and tolerance, which go far to prevent conflicts between nations, and that our cause may be just, submitted to the arbitration of war.

Can it be that our own congressman, Clarence B. Miller, is getting reckless or too sure? He is a lot of things that may hurt him. Some say, however, that he feels so sure that the next administration will be Republican and that he will be appointed governor-general of the Philippines that he doesn't give a hoot about the debts he may put in his strength in the Eighth district.

A while ago Mr. Miller declared that he will not be coerced by fear of the pro-German vote, but is against restricting the manufacture and export of munitions to the allies or anybody else who is in the line.

Recently Mr. Miller was recorded as against the eight-hour law, which before congress. Union labor is pretty strong in the Eighth.

He is against, or at least not friendly to, women's suffrage, and the sentiment for it is growing in this district.

He is at least looked upon as against the Federal government adopting a measure favorable to prohibition, and on the other hand some entity has been aroused against him because he will make no record in favor of the liquor interests in connection with the Indian liquor.

So Mr. Miller is getting it both ways in this regard.

Neil B. Morrison, who has filed as an Eatabrook candidate for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention, says that Mr. Eatabrook will make an address in Duluth on the evening of March 3 at the Spaulding hotel. Good thing, so far as it is only a name to most people.

It is not known whether A. C. Gooding, the Rochester banker who has been appointed state treasurer, is holding the job only until somebody else is elected, or intends to become a candidate for the place. In the latter event, the fact that he is "in" will give him a large leverage for nomination and election.

Thomas Frankson of St. Paul, candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, is sending out a postcard to the voters with the statement, "Frankson for His Own Cause," referring, of course, to combinations. Mr. Frankson can go ahead and campaign the craft so far as Northern Minnesota cares.

State Senator E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria is being urged to run for congress in the Seventh district this year. He was prohibition leader in the state during the last term. Whether this fact would help or hurt him is a question.

Four years ago Mr. Lobeck received more than 6,000 votes in the Seventh district. William A. Rice of Willmar is being urged for congress on the prohibition ticket in the same district.

Carlton Vidette, the Republican love-feast held at the St. Louis hotel in Duluth Wednesday afternoon was a huge success. It displayed the party loyalty of various branches of Republican ideas to the G. O. P. and showed the willingness of leaders to get together. There wasn't a dissenting vote on any measure proposed and every discussion where conflict of opinions occurred was amicably settled with a minimum of party right.

Princeton Union: On the 14th of next month the voters of the state are presumed to express their choice of presidential candidates. But they won't, as far as the Republicans are concerned. The only thing to do is to vote for delegates who can be trusted to use good judgment in the selection of a presidential candidate.

The definition of "good judgment" depends wholly on the point of view. What's yours, Bob?

Fergus Falls Free Press: Knute Weirald, representative in the legislature from Clay county, has announced his candidacy for reelection. Mr. Weirald is an able, fearless man and has stood squarely for the people's interests during the two terms he has served in the house. He became quite famous in the state for his "Money Back" bill, which he introduced in the legislature and printed in his home paper and reprinted prominently in the city papers.

From the southern part of the state comes the suggestion that Mr. Weirald would make a good treasurer. The suggestion is likely to be echoed.

Dr. Aidon Cwi Gets News of Family; Children Believed Safe.

To die of privation during the great German drive into Russia was the fate of Mrs. Aidon Cwi, wife of Dr. Aidon Cwi of Duluth. His three children are now facing a similar fate.

A ten-word telegram forwarded through the state department at Washington Saturday and giving this information, was the result of months of worry and frantic endeavor to communicate with his loved ones, on the part of the doctor.

The American consul at Koenigsberg, Germany, made a report of her death and Dr. Cwi received a copy of his report from Secretary of State Lansing. Privations and hardships encountered while fleeing from Wilkomir were the cause of Mrs. Cwi's death, the communication said.

Just before the outbreak of the war, in August, 1914, Mrs. Cwi went to Wilkomir to visit her parents. She left Duluth in the spring of 1914, accompanied by her three children, the oldest 7 and the youngest 4. When the great war broke out, Mrs. Cwi believed she was safe at Wilkomir, and remained there until the German drive into Russia began, when it was too late to escape.

Seeks Communication for Months. For the last nine months Dr. Cwi has been trying to communicate with his family, and to send them funds, but he did not have any assurance that the money had reached its destination until a few days ago, when a communication from the American embassy at Berlin brought word that part of the money had been delivered to the family.

Dr. Cwi said he supposed his wife, with her parents and the children, had fled from their home at the approach of the Germans, and that after her death, her mother, with the children, had returned to Wilkomir. Although facing privations, the children are believed to be safe for the time, under the circumstances.

The father forwarded additional funds to Secretary Lansing Saturday, with an appeal that it be forwarded to Wilkomir as soon as possible, and that he be notified of the babies' welfare. As such information is available, American consuls in Russia and Germany have been instructed to make every possible effort to care for the family.

APPAM'S CAPTOR NOT GOOD HOST

Deputies in Charge of Ship Had No Place to Sleep.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 21.—Two deputy United States marshals were in distress aboard the prize ship Appam yesterday, when Marshal John G. Saunders arrived from Norfolk to see how things had been going since his men theoretically dispossessed the German prize crew Saturday. The deputies had spent Saturday night on deck, with nowhere to sleep and nothing to eat, and had utterly failed to impress Lieut. Berg, the German commander, with the fact that his ship was subject to their orders.

Marshal Saunders informed the lieutenant that the Appam was under the jurisdiction of the Federal district court, the order having been issued by Judge Waddill in libel proceedings brought by English owners to determine the legal ownership of the vessel. Finally a compromise was reached. Four deputies were assigned to the task of guarding the liner, and in theory at least the lieutenant will be under their direction.

The guards will carry their own rations aboard, and will divide the duty into two watches of twelve hours each, so that half of the force may be sleeping while the other half stands guard.

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 Cents.

If everything was sold in as liberal and fair a manner as the Lyeum Pharmacy are selling Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectant, absolutely no cause for complaint or dissatisfaction could arise from anyone. These druggists say—"Buy a bottle of this remedy and try it for Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Severe Cough, Croup or any Bronchial Affection, and we will return your money, just as we do with Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, if it does not give satisfaction, or if not found the best remedy ever used for any of these complaints." Why not take advantage of this guarantee and try this medicine, and get your money back, rather than buying another purely on the exaggerated claims of its manufacturer or on the strength of testimonials from others and run the chance of getting something worthless and also wasting your money?

CARE OF THE BABY

BEFORE THE BABY COMES

Prepared By the Children's Bureau, United States Department of Labor.

In this series of articles we have been dealing with the early life of a baby, after birth. We have not considered the equally important care of the baby in the months of his life before birth.

The necessity for this care is apparent from the fact that statistics show that many thousands of babies die every year in the early days of life either because they were born prematurely or because they were born too weak to survive. A very large number of them lose their lives because the mothers did not have proper care before they were born, or at the time of childbirth. Every woman expecting a baby should have such care as will result in the birth of a healthy and happy baby.

A prospective mother needs a light, nutritious diet of digestible foods, such as she likes and her appetite demands. Fried and greasy foods, heavy puddings, and all heavy and indigestible pastries, or an excess of any one article should be eliminated from her diet as well as anything which she does not readily digest.

She should have a full movement of the bowels every day, and for this purpose should eat plenty of laxative foods, rather than resort to medicines. She should have at least eight hours of sleep at night and another hour during the day with all the bedroom windows open, if she has no out-of-door sleeping room. She should have systematic exercise in the open air every day, spending the time pleasantly in walking or in taking some form of light exercise, except at the normal time of the menstrual period, when it is better to rest. She should be careful not to continue her exercise beyond the point when she becomes tired.

She should have a daily tub or sponge bath, having the water neither hot nor very cold, and should rub the skin vigorously afterward. During the last eight weeks of pregnancy she needs special care. The nipples should have attention each day, according to directions given in a publication of the Children's Bureau called "Prenatal Care," which is sent free upon request to the Chief of the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Throughout this stage of pregnancy the mother should as far as possible be spared all forms of heavy and taxing labor, in order that her strength may be built up in anticipation of the coming demand upon it. The baby's proper development also depends largely upon the mother's condition at this time, since the baby gains half his weight in the last eight weeks of pregnancy. Therefore, if he is to be born strong and healthy, it is most important that the mother have plenty of good food and be spared undue work and worry through this crucial period. To help the mother, to afford her opportunity for rest and to relieve her mind of any burden, may entail both expense and trouble upon the family, but it will be repaid a thousandfold in the health of the mother and baby which will result from the effort, not only for the time being, but forever afterward.

The mother of the expected baby should be under the care of a good doctor as long before the birth as possible, in order that he may watch for and correct any untoward symptoms that may arise.

In a city where the mother has not only plenty of private physicians, but hospitals, dispensaries and clinics at her service, it should be possible for her to have the necessary medical attention to keep her well.

In rural districts where medical attention is more difficult to secure, owing to the long distance the doctor has to travel, the mother should endeavor to see him now and then, and be examined as often as may be practicable, particularly during the last three months.

The pamphlet on Prenatal Care, already mentioned, gives advice regarding the hygienic care of pregnancy, which mothers will find useful. It is exceedingly important that the ailments of pregnancy be dealt with in the beginning before they develop into more serious matters. At the first appearance of swollen hands and feet, or persistent headache, or pain in any part of the body, or of spots before the eyes, a good doctor should be called.

ST. MARY'S HOSPITAL WORKERS HOLD LAST MEETING BEFORE CAMPAIGN OPENS

The final meeting before the opening of the campaign to raise $50,000 or more for St. Mary's hospital was held yesterday afternoon at the Spaulding hotel. It was one of the most enthusiastic meetings yet held during the preparation period, and every Catholic parish in the city was well represented. Many non-Catholics were also present. The work of assigning the names of "prospects" to the various sub-committees was completed yesterday. At the meeting last Wednesday this work was begun, and about half of the 6,000 names assigned. Yesterday the remaining names were assigned, and each sub-committee now has its work outlined. There are thirty-three sub-committees, so each committee will have about 200 calls to make during the ten days of the campaign. There will be no duplication of work. Charles J. Sheffield, who is directing the campaign, has prepared a complete card index system, and each one of the 200 workers will have his or her work mapped out. Wednesday evening there will be a supper at the Spaulding for all of the workers to arouse enthusiasm, and each day during the campaign, which will open next Thursday, the workers will meet for luncheon to compare notes and report progress.

BURLESQUE AT LYCEUM.

"The Tempters" Offer Entertaining Performance With Little Vulgarity.

Burlesque is becoming respectable. The Lyceum opened an engagement of four days at the Lyceum yesterday afternoon, and not only was the performance a success, but it was almost free from vulgarity. There were a dozen or more women in the audience and apparently no reason why they shouldn't be there.

An attempt was made to justify the name "burlesque" by presenting what is called a travesty on "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The sketch, "For a Day," however, it is too much like a scene from the play. Aside from this, "The Tempters" offer a bigger and much better company than the one seen here three weeks ago. The chorus is better looking, better trained and better costumed.

The performance opens with a one-act sketch, "Maid for a Day," in which the leading characters are played by George Lewis, Fern Way, William Harris, Bertha Gibson, Ruth Everett, Max Field and Sidney Rogers. There is real action, and much of the slap-stick comedy popular in these shows, but the last is not overdone.

The travesty on "Uncle Tom's Cabin" concludes the first part of the show, after which the company stages "Circe's Life," depicting a street carnival. There are the stunts, a diving bell, "keechy" dancers (not in action), snake charmers, and everything that goes with an "honest-to-goodness" carnival.

A popular song revue brings the show to a close. "The Tempters" is the chorus girl contest to determine the most popular chorus girl in the company. The audience directed to vote for the girl, the contest coming to a close Wednesday evening. The girl receiving the most votes will be awarded $10 in gold.

"The Tempters" will continue with daily matinee and evening performances until Wednesday evening.

MANY STARS IN PLAY.

Orpheum Presents Clever Photoplay First Half of Week.

It is the privilege of seeing so many noted theatrical stars included in the photoplay cast of "How Molly Made Good," which opened a four-day engagement at the Orpheum-Strand yesterday before large audiences. Twelve noted stars are in the production, and it is considered one of the best features ever seen in Duluth.

It is an interesting story that winds its way so as to include so many noted stage folk. It all comes about when Molly Malone, fresh from Ireland, falls in love with a young man who is a newspaper office. The little girl is sort of a fund-raiser in dire straits. Luckily one of the reporters falls and Molly is given a trial. Her task is to interview Mrs. Flores, who is a good and the editor decides to give her a big assignment—write the story of the noted theatrical stars at their summer haunts.

First the new reporter visits Lulu Glaser in her flower garden and then calls upon May Robson at Sheephead beach. Then she interviews Henry Kolker, Cyril Scott, Julian Eltinge, Charles Ross, Mabel Penton, Robert Edison, Geo. Dittichson, Billie Dean, and finally Henrietta Crossman.

Molly is beset with many difficulties in her work as Miss Hilton, the reporter who failed, does everything in her power to prevent her success. She finally succeeds, and the picture ends very dramatically.

This photoplay will be shown for the first four days of this week, and beginning Thursday the famous picture, "Teale Without Soul," adapted from "Frankenstein," will be shown for four days.

Theater Gossip.

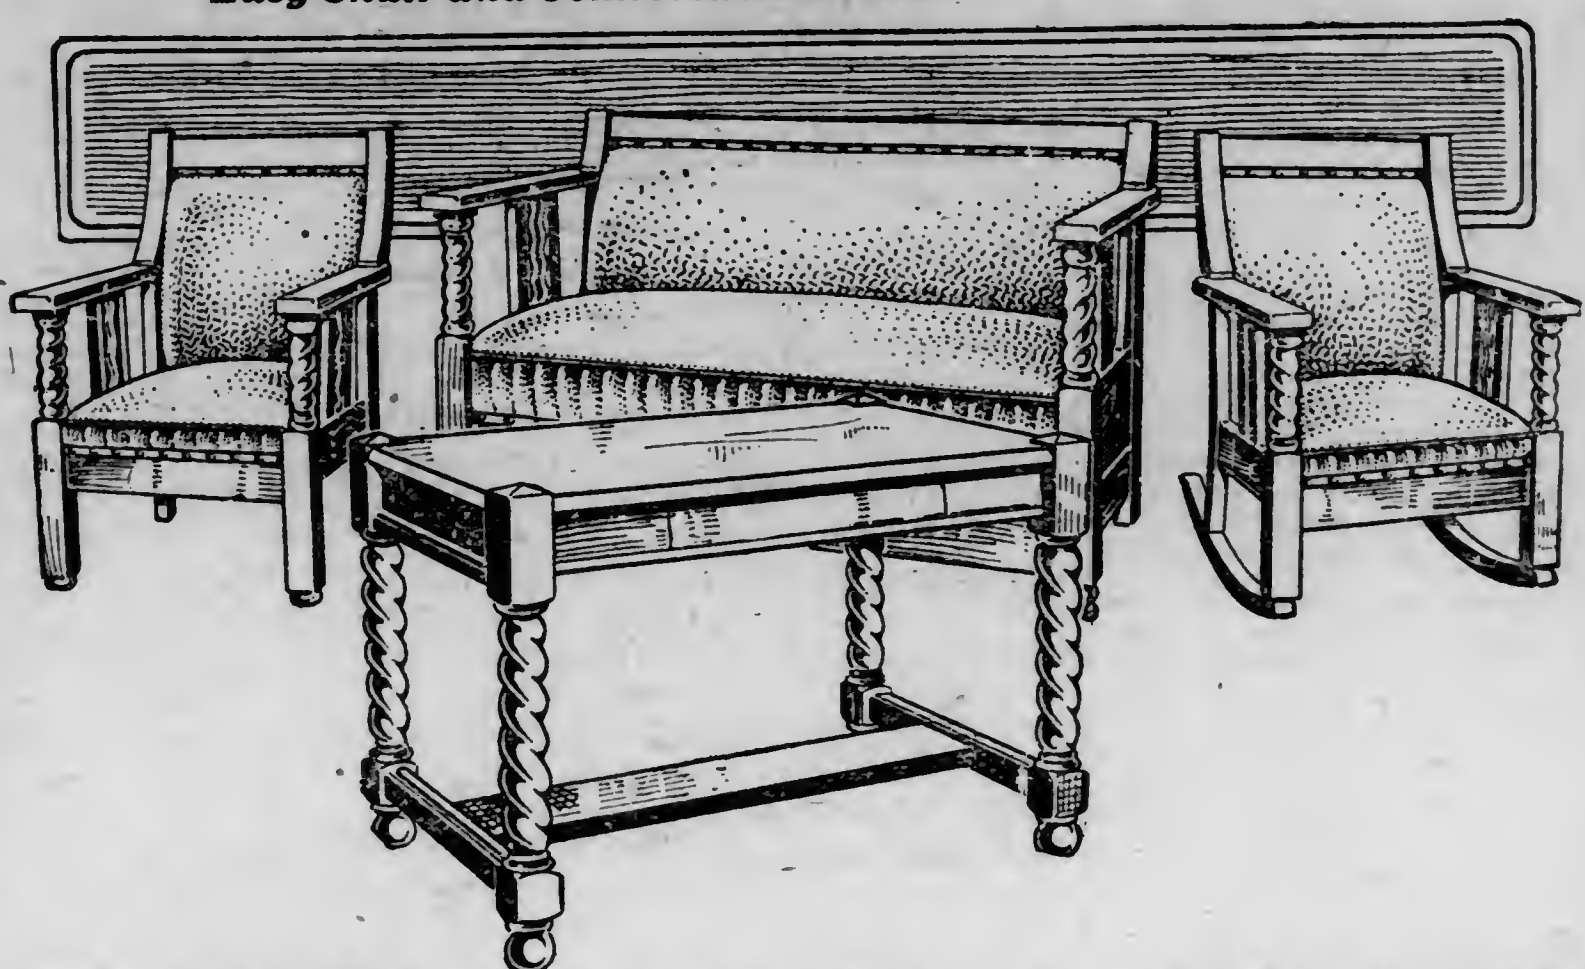

Dainty, demure and delightful femininity holds full sway at the popular Lyceum tonight, when the first ALL-GIRL SHOW half of this week. AT THE GRAND. Every act on the bill, from the opening to the closing number, is composed entirely of girls who present a varied entertainment, including singing, dancing, acrobatics; even a ventriloquist being much in evidence. The Six Tassians topline this grand array of feminine beauty and talent in offering a novelty in acrobatics and dancing. A routine of stunts is accomplished by these dainty maids, who feature a spectacular butterfly number in which they fly over the audience cowered in filmy and varicolored gauze.

The Misses Sadler and Howard offer a repertoire of clever songs and dainty steps and a wardrobe of stunning costumes.

Charming Grace de Winters offers a ventriloquist surprise. Miss de Winters' offering is said to be new and original. Beach and Lynn is offering their comedy skit, "The New Cook," displaying talent as versatile vaudevillians.

The story is laughable and sentimental with repartee.

Featured among the photodramas is "The Draget," written by Willard Mack and interpreted by Harry Mustaver and star cast. The story portrays the efforts of an ex-convict to stay straight. Vivian Reed, in portraying the character of a young girl who has loved not wisely but too well, ably supports Mr. Mustaver in this excellent three-act subject.

"The High Sign," said to be one of the funniest stories ever filmed, and "Sis," a drama, make up the rest of a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment. On Tuesday and Wednesday another of the Singapore stories in two reels will be added to the program.

Little Bessie Love is an attractive ingenue, who reflects credit upon the Fine Arts studio as "DESSIE LOVE" being responsible AT THE REX.

"Acquitted," at the Rex for the last time tonight. Miss Love appears as a young girl of 18, who is wooed by a lively boyish reporter, played by Elmer Clifton. All the comic features of such a courtship in a small town are worked out.

Each of the Triangle-Keystone shows new and thrilling stunts from the Mack Bennett studios. In honor to honor Washington's birthday tomorrow, Manager Furnish has arranged a special program of music, drama, and the big dramatic picture, "Victory." With the very probable increase of the United States navy so near at hand, there will be much interest in the condition of the two fleets when they met in the Hudson river last year, this forming one of the thrilling scenes of the big war picture, "Victory," coming to the Rex tomorrow and Wednesday.

A cast of unusual prominence is seen in the William Fox screen presentation of Israel Zangwill play Zangwill's famous AT THE LYRIC. "Merely Mary Ann," Vivian Martin, who appeared in "Over Night," "The Butterfly," "Little Miss Brown," and other New York successes, is the star of the production, which is at the Lyric today and tomorrow.

Mr. Adolf so arranged it that the inmates of a large boarding house were invited to the studio to witness the making of the picture. Tables were spread and the guests sat down to dine. Someone proposed that a motion picture be made while the meal was in progress. The suggestion met with approval, and the picture was made without the guests getting an inkling that they were acting for the camera. While the scenes are not devoid of comedy touches, they ring true of the boarding house, where a long reach is necessary for one's survival.

There is an "easy chair" journey to Mount Blanc at the Lyric today and tomorrow. While instructive, this Pathe travel picture is a bit of beauty that one will hardly forget.

"Her Debt of Honor," starring that emotional stage star Valli Valli, is one of the strongest AT THE ZELDA. A drama yet shown in the city, its change of program. Capacity houses greeted this photoplay yesterday.

This is without question one of Metro's best productions and nothing but praise is accorded this film by those who see it. The noticeable feature in this play is the acting of Valli Valli and William Nigh, who produced this picture.

Valli Valli, who will be remembered by Zelda patrons as the star in "The Turn of Mind," showed her real versatility in "Her Debt of Honor," which made her a sensation of Broadway.

William Nigh as the weak, pampered son, has a most difficult role, but his acting delighted his audience throughout the five reels. The picture is replete with tense situations. The story tells of a girl's devotion to her duty, which is very distasteful to her. "Her Debt of Honor" will show today and tomorrow for the last time.

STREET CAR DELAYS

We are endeavoring in every possible way to make our service as reliable and to keep our cars as closely on time as possible. When cars are not on time and appear to run in bunches following long gaps it is often due to conditions which it is hard to anticipate or control, and sometimes to occurrences which are entirely beyond our control.

In this column we propose to each day state the causes of delays and interruptions to street cars during the preceding day. Just now the condition of the streets is such as to greatly increase the delays to street cars from other vehicles on the track ahead of them.

The following are the causes of interruptions in street car service on Saturday, February 19th:

An Interstate car eastbound was delayed by a train at the terminal railway crossing in Superior, causing it to be seven minutes late, arriving at Third avenue west, where it was due at 7:45 p. m.

On Sunday, February 20th: Between 1:30 and 3:00 p. m., several cars going up the Third avenue west hill were delayed from five to nine minutes on account of extra cars ahead of them and the congestion due to the crowds going to the ski tournament.

Complaints and suggestions given promptly and courteous attention. Telephone—Melrose 250; Lincoln 55.

IRON FROM FURNACE NO. 2

About Twenty Tons of Metal Produced in First Cast.
Gas Will Be Turned Into Open Hearth Furnaces This Week.

Furnace No. 2 at the Duluth steel plant, which was "blown in" at 2:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon, produced its first cast at 10:30 o'clock this afternoon. Within the next few days this furnace will be producing between 400 and 500 tons of pig iron daily.

The ceremonial of "blowing in" the furnace on Saturday afternoon was attended by practically every official at the plant with the exception of George L. Reis, vice president of the Minnesota Steel company. Louis C. Reis, general manager of the plant, presided over the ceremony. The first cast of metal, which immediately was followed by "Three cheers" for furnace No. 2, was made by the plant's chief engineer, Arthur O. Baer, general superintendent of the West Duluth plant, and Mr. Reis. Cheers were passed around to the crowd by the officials.

Case Twenty-Two.
The new furnace this morning cast twenty tons of metal. The cast was gradually increased until its capacity of from 80 to 100 tons per cast will be reached. Iron will be taken from the furnace about every five hours. Iron is now being taken from No. 1 furnace to a 60-ton mixer in the open hearth building, where it is being daily consumed by the open hearth furnaces in the process of steel making.

The plant has produced about 30,000 tons of steel bars, billets and slabs since the first steel was tapped on the morning of Dec. 13. Cold weather has had considerable effect on the steel making, according to officials, but barring the weather, the local plant has made a most remarkable record in the process of steel making.

Open Hearth Furnaces.
The three completed open hearth furnaces, which have not as yet been put into use, will have the gas turned into them this week. The process of giving them their basic lining will then begin. At the present rate of consumption of the pig iron produced by the blast furnaces, the open hearth will be able to use all produced with about eight open hearths in operation. It is the belief of officials that ultimately another blast furnace will be built and that the open hearth plant will be furnished with fourteen furnaces and that these will be able to consume all pig iron produced.

Steel is being rolled with regularity at the plant. Great piles of steel bars, slabs and billets are being stacked up ready to be shipped to other markets. It will probably be early in the summer before the merchandise will be ready for operation, although at present a large force of men is employed in installing machinery and getting it in readiness.

CEMENT PLANT TO PRODUCE TUESDAY
Raw Material Almost Ready for Kiln Treatment.

The process of crushing raw materials for the dryers at the Universal Portland Cement company's plant has begun and the charging of these with the material will begin at about any hour now, according to officials. It was expected that the dryers would be charged at an early hour this afternoon and that tomorrow morning the material would be ready for kiln treatment.

BEST MEN NEEDED TO PREACH GOSPEL
Baptists Want 5,000 "Heroes," Says Rev. Herbert Ford.

"Five Thousand Heroes" was the subject of a sermon last night by Rev. Herbert Ford, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, Fifty-ninth and Grand avenues, last night, in which he directed attention to the number of missionaries that the Northern Baptist convention has called for. He said that the very best of our young people was, in reality, a call for 5,000 heroes. "It is for the very best of our young people, of diplomatic skill and insight into human nature required of the modern missionary," he said. "Many people assume that pious fervor is the sole requisite for missionary work. They could suit with the mission boards and see how many devoted persons of good intentions are rejected. They would begin to realize the rare combination of qualities that is necessary. It is for the very best of our young people, with wisdom, patience, tact, courage, the keenest mind, and a deep knowledge of education to say nothing of intense devotion to Jesus Christ and love of humanity."

PROPERTY OWNERS WILL DISCUSS PAVING
Property owners on Fifty-ninth avenue west will meet this evening for the purpose of discussing the paving of the thoroughfare. The meeting will be held at the West Duluth Commercial club room.

Paving is to be on each side of the street, to a width of eighteen feet, leaving a strip forty-two feet wide in the center which is to be reserved for park.

AREAWAY PROTEST.
West End Business Men Object to Granting of Requested Permit.

West end business men and property owners have filed two petitions protesting against the construction of an araway next to the new Stack building on the northeast corner of Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street.

The owners of the building have requested permission to build an araway into the sidewalk on the avenue, but it is practically admitted by city commissioners that the request will be turned down.

One of the petitions is signed by officers of the West End Commercial club and the other by forty business men and owners.

SUING FOR INSURANCE

Widow of Bert Olsson Would Collect on Accident Policy.

Company Alleges Suicide; Interesting Law Point Is Involved.

Although circumstances surrounding the death of Bert Olsson, 25, who was found in a snow bank at Thirty-second avenue east and Superior street during an early morning hour last Christmas day with a bullet wound in his breast, strongly point to suicide, Mrs. Alma Olsson, his widow, will press her claim against the Midland Insurance company for $1,000 on an accident policy which her husband carried. Suit to recover on the policy was begun Saturday afternoon in district court.

The insurance company has refused to pay the claim, and it is understood that it will interpose suicide as a defense. The policy, however, makes no provisions excepting suicide and it is probable that an interesting point of law may be raised on the trial. The widow takes the position that she does not know whether it was a suicide or not.

Olsson was a cook who had been employed at Wagner's saloon at 312 West Superior street. He resided at 123 West Seventh street. At 9 o'clock on Christmas eve, his home was discovered to be on fire. Firemen succeeded in putting out the blaze and an investigation led the authorities to believe that it was of incendiary origin and that Olsson had committed suicide.

Olsson looked out his insurance policy on Aug. 4, 1914, and at that time paid a premium of $1.40. His monthly payments were $1.00. He was discharged from a violent manner, that a bullet discharged from a revolver penetrated his heart and lungs and that he died shortly thereafter as a direct result of the wound.

other hand, the ships have spread confusion in the ranks of the Turks by dropping shells among them.

Diabek Next Objective.

The Turks have been southward toward Diabek, the next objective of the Russian army. Once in possession of Diabek, it is only a day's march to the Baghdad railway, the last remaining communication into Syria.

The rapid Russian offensive beyond Erzerum, it is believed here, makes it probable that the retreat of the Turkish troops operating along the Black sea coast, and of those troops which were active in the Mush district, will be entirely out of the main Turkish army.

This fate has already overtaken the thirty-fourth division of the Tenth corps, which was ordered from Oltu to Erzerum before the fall of the fortress.

As a telephone communication between this group of Turkish forces and the garrison at Erzerum had been entirely destroyed by the Russians, the thirty-fourth division marched secretly on to Erzerum, without suspicion that the fortress was then in the hands of the Russians.

The Russian occupation will be entirely out of the main Turkish army.

The retreat of the Turkish armies everywhere is impeded by deep snow and the difficult character of the country.

They are without food and lack war supplies and there seems to be little possibility of their offering even temporary resistance of any strength to the Russian advance.

TO BEGIN NEW CONSTRUCTION

Steel Corporation Will Invest Immense Sum in Expansion.

Earnings of Organization Leave Big Surplus; Growing Rapidly.

As an evidence of their confidence in the future of the industry, it is mentioned that the United States Steel corporation directors have decided upon a construction program that will involve expenditures of between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 during the present year. Earnings of the corporation during 1915 are placed as high as $10,000,000, and it is estimated that a surplus of $15,000,000 will be placed in the hands of the stockholders. Deducting $5,000,000 for new construction during the year, a balance of $10,000,000 would remain. Including this year's appropriation, the corporation's total expenditures for new plant construction and acquisitions since its organization in 1901 are placed at $47,306,788, or approximately $136,000,000 in excess of the present market value of its common stock.

Profit Heaviest in History.

Present profits of the Steel corporation are said to be the heaviest in its history.

The average price of the leading steel products is up $16 per ton, compared with that of February, 1915.

The average present is $46.27 per ton.

Current prices are the highest in most cases in the last two years.

Steel plates are the highest since 1899, wire nails and bars since 1900, tin plate and beams since 1902.

Current premiums added to base prices now being obtained would be the highest in history.

The present average price for steel bars, rails, beams, plates, and tin plate shows an advance of over $16 per ton in a year and higher for wire nails, $8 per ton than the highest average price of any year since the Steel corporation was organized.

German aeroplanes dropped some projectiles last night on Lunville, Diabek and Nancy. They caused only a small amount of damage.

Berlin, Feb. 21, wireless to Sayville. A British position 650 feet high, in the Yser canal, north of Ypres, has been stormed by German troops, army headquarters here.

O'LEARY LEAVES FOR EAST; WAS TO HAVE BOXED HERE

Frank Lajoy Going After Big Game in the Mighty Alexander Aberg; Fred Welsh Is Not a Popular Champion; An Attempt May Be Made to Legalize Boxing in California.

BY BRUCE.

MATCHMAKER Abrams of the Duluth Athletic club was seeking the services of Johnny O'Leary for the next boxing contest of the club, which, it is understood, was set down for the evening of March 3. According to statements emanating from Minneapolis, O'Leary has left for an eastern invasion. It is said that the Canadian broke his word with Duluth promoters in failing to remain and go through with an agreement to mingle here with Joe Welling.

Along the boxing alley comes creeping the announcement that Mike Gibbons may be seen here—not in a bout—but in connection with a theatrical offering. Mike has been offered some theatrical dates, it is said, and stage work may bring the lad generally recognized as champion of the middleweights to the Head of the Lakes—the metropolitan side of the Head of the Lakes, it may be well to add.

Going After Big Game.

Frank La Joy, who staged one of the most gruelling contests in the history of the American wrestling mat, in the Ketonen-Carr contest, is going after big game for his next card. The little impresario declared that he is seeking a Duluth appearance of Alexander Aberg, winner of the big New York tournament, also the winner of the Petrograd, Moscow, Vienna and Hamburg tournaments, as well as the winner of the Madison Square tournament, wrestled in 1915.

Since the immurement of Stanislaus Zhyzsko, Aberg is one of the most heroic figures on the padded canvas. This huge fellow weighs in the neighborhood of 250 pounds and is all man. He is not fat, but a huge human being, a modern Hercules who has beaten everything in the old and new worlds.

Aberg is idolized by the Finnish followers of athletics. Like Hannes Kolehmainen and Vaino Ketonen, this mammoth man is one of the greatest athletes produced by this hardy northern race of people. Aberg is bigger in every way than Stanislaus Zhyzsko. In addition to this, he has never lost a fall. The big fellow was the positive sensation of the New York tournament, winning the tourney and the money prize of $10,000.

Little Louie Zorbas Off.

Louie Zorbas will leave tomorrow for Lincoln, Neb., to meet Owen Dailey in a contest for the lightweight wrestling title. Zorbas has scores of personal friends here. The little fellow is one of the nicest kids that can be found in a hard day's tramp. Modest, unassuming, always ready with a smile, the stocky Greek will carry a large number of well wishes for his success in the strong-hold of Joe Stecher.

It is said that Dailey uses the leg scissors something in the manner of Stecher. If he is as expert in the manipulation of this body-weakening hold as the lank farmer boy, L. is surely in for a tough time of it.

Settle the Lightweight Title.

His long brother, is Freddy Welsh going to continue to hold the lightweight boxing title? A new champion would prove mighty popular. Welsh, take it from us, is a great boxer; perhaps one of the truly greats, when it comes to the purely scientific side of the sport. He should be a riot in Australia, where they dote on tapping and clever and elusive moves. Here the fans like real fighting—that lets Fred Hall Thomas out of the argument.

Joe Mandot is a veteran in fighting years. Leach Cross has been fixed nicely by war babies; Ad Wolgast is gone; Joe Rivers, it would appear, is out of the running for the championship. Who, then, is the logical candidate for the crown that adorns the classical head of the little Welshman? That's difficult to say. White, you say? Maybe. Some would like to see the Chicago Hebrew tangle over the twenty-round route. In ten rounds, as three contests proved, White cannot catch the elusive Briton.

Mandot was a contender. Clever press work upon the part of Tom Tecumseh Walsh assisted a lot in putting forward the claims of the Southern boy, one of the most popular of all present day boxers. Benny Leonard, almost an unknown boxer, came along and knocked the champion props from under the legs of Joe.

But, at that, Mandot is a card in the Southland. If he should beat Johnny Dundee, it might be that Mandot, a fighter who has taken the count on several well known occasions, will be the opponent of the shop-worn and somewhat leg weary Freddy Welsh in the first twenty-round contest the champion has appeared in since he acquired his title from Willie Ritchie.

Would Save the Game.

Thus early in places where inside gossip of the fight game is indulged in, there are tidings of the work that is being done in California to bring the fight game back. Bringing back merely means that it will have to be legislated back into legalized being.

Every lover of the sport who possesses any insight into real conditions, fervently hopes that the California legislators may be induced to let down the bars against the ring sport. Re-opening of boxing in California is about the only means that will keep the game alive.

New York boxers are not in the same class with the scrappers that California rings have produced. They produced real fighters in the golden state. The old instructors had left a trace of their influence. Boys were taught to step in, to counter, to time punches, and to shift with their bodies and slip blows, rather than to senselessly tangle around the ring.

COACH TEN EYCK OF THE BOAT CLUB

JIMMY TEN EYCK.

Many of the New York brood of ringsters have not the least conception of the fine art of boxing. A return to California days would prove a life saver for the game.

WILLARD ORDERED TO BED; QUITE ILL

Fight May Have to Be Postponed Again; Other Ring News.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Jess Willard was ordered to bed by his physicians yesterday, and according to information given out later he may not be able to fight Frank Moran at Madison Square Garden in New York, March 25, the date set when the meeting was postponed on account of the condition of the heavyweight champion.

While his physicians do not consider his illness serious, they think it wise for Willard to remain in bed until he is well enough to resume light training. Emphatic denial that Jess Willard was so ill as to make his appearance in the ring with Frank Moran March 25 doubtful, was made today by Tom Jones, manager of the champion heavyweight pugilist.

"All this talk about Jess being too ill to train for the fight is wrong," said Jones.

Willard was reported to be suffering from the grip.

At Willard's home it was said today that the champion was suffering from neuritis. It was also given out that he had made definite plans for beginning training.

New York, Feb. 21.—Tex Rickard, who is promoting the Willard-Moran bout, denied today the report of a probable postponement of the contest March 25 on account of the condition of the heavyweight champion. Rickard said he had been in communication over the telephone with Willard's manager, Tom Jones, at Chicago, this morning.

"Jones assured me," said Rickard, "that Willard had not suffered a relapse, but on the contrary was much better and had been able to be out doors yesterday. Jones expects to have Willard here by the end of the week and I am positive there will be no hitch in arrangements now made to have the men meet for ten rounds March 25 in Madison Square Garden."

New Weights Fixed. New York, Feb. 21.—Boxing rules and regulations announced today by the New York state athletic commission, provide for a new scale of weights. The new weights adopted are:

Paperweight, 108 pounds; bantamweight, 115; featherweight, 125; lightweight, 133; welterweight, 144; middleweight, 158; commission, 175, and heavyweight all over 175 pounds.

Kilbane to Meet Winner. Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 21.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, has been signed to meet the winner of the Mandot-Dundee fight in a six-round bout in Philadelphia, March 22, according to an announcement by a fight promoter here last night. Mandot and Dundee meet tonight in New Orleans.

JIMMY TEN EYCK DUE TO ARRIVE IN DULUTH FRIDAY

Definite Decision Regarding the National Regatta Will Be Made After Boat Club Coach Gets in; Staging National Will Involve the Spending of Large Sum of Money.

James Ten Eyck will arrive in Duluth on Friday. This is the news imparted today by Wallace Quimby, club captain. The arrival of Ten Eyck will be the signal for the start of rowing activities preceding the inauguration of real work in preparation for the 1916 season.

Since leaving Duluth early last fall, Ten Eyck has made a complete swing of the commercial territory of the United States. He trekked East via the cushion route and then beat it for the Southland, taking in New Orleans and other well-known stopping places. From the Southland, James ravaged the Southwest, with line of races, then swung out to the Pacific coast and steered his homeward course from Seattle after dropping anchor in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities where tourists are allowed to wipe their feet on the pavement.

Quimby's message was in this vein: Joseph and its contents stated that the boat club coach would be here early Friday. With the coming of Ten Eyck there will be a meeting of the boat club committee and a date for a meeting of the rowing boosters will be set. It is expected that when Jimmy arrives definite decision will be made as to action toward securing the national regatta for Duluth next August.

To Work Hard for Meet. Until Ten Eyck arrives it will not be entirely certain that Duluth is going after the big rowing event. It is believed that Jimmy is set on swinging the event for Duluth. If Ten Eyck gives the word, "Let's go," why Duluth is going after the big event in a grand dame manner.

It will cost a pretty penny to stage the regatta here. In the first place, as a sort of incidental and initiative expense, the medals and banners will cost in the neighborhood of $1,200. That's just to start with. The expenses and board of the directors of the association will devolve upon Duluth. Also, should Duluth wish to make the regatta a great and grand success in the matter of new entries, it is believed that the transportation of at least some of the Eastern crews will have to be guaranteed.

Much Money Needed. The only way Duluth can make a success of the regatta is to spend a lot of that stuff known as dough, according to Wallace Quimby.

"If we go after this regatta we will have to go into the task of staging it in a big way," says Wallace. It will cost us a lot of money. Plans will be discussed with the arrival of Jimmy. I believe there are some schemes for the bringing of Pacific coast crews here. I think there is some scheme on for the securing of a couple of college eights. Jimmy will go into the regatta work big, he is assured of that.

San Jimmy arrives no plans for the preliminary work of securing the national will be done. We are waiting to ascertain just what Ten Eyck plans. Whether the citizens of Duluth will eventually be asked to share in the expense of bringing the regatta here, we cannot say at this time. There is nothing definite. Things will perk up when Jim arrives.

SPORT NEWS FROM HERE AND THERE

Fohl Still Manager of Cleveland Indians; High School and 'Varsity Amateur Arrangements; Zuppke Trains Prospective Football Men All Winter.

Cleveland.—Lee Fohl, whose contract to manage the Indians goes on in spite of the change in ownership of the Cleveland club, will have a squad of training players at the New Orleans training camp. His roster, as he has just announced it, includes O'Neill, Egan, Billings and Mills, catchers; Mitchell, Morton, Coumbe, Harstad, Sam Jones, Hagerman, Klepper, Bagby, Coleman, Stanley Gonsky, Garrett and Carter, pitchers; Chapman, Wambach, Turner, Barbers, Thomas, Kirke and Evans, infielders; and Graney, Elmer Smith, Roth, Chappelle, Edmonson and Willie, outfielders.

The battery men are due in New Orleans, Feb. 25, and the rest of the corps on March 1. Exhibition games booked for the Indians in the Crescent City include three with the Cincinnati Reds and one with the Chicago Cubs, in addition to a series with the Pelicans.

Peoria.—Illinois high school basketball teams will fight it out for the championship of the state in series beginning Feb. 24. The state is divided into districts and elimination tournaments in the first round will be played at Peoria, Elgin, Joliet, Rockford, Galesburg, Jacksonville, Bloomington, Decatur, Centralia, Lawrenceville, Carbondale and Shelbyville.

Detroit.—Early entries for the Central A. U. boxing championships, which will be held in this city March 17 and 18, indicate that a large field will take part in the various events, with Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago well represented.

The present class champions are: 105 pounds, Howard Root, Cleveland; 115, Frank Gibbons, Chicago; 125, Oscar Gardner, Cleveland; 135, Frank Karpinski, Cleveland; 145, Cuppy Logan, Cleveland; 155, Julius Schmitt, Cleveland; heavyweight, Gene Ahlquist, Minneapolis. This year's contests will be held under the auspices of the Detroit Athletic club.

Chicago.—Five hundred entries are expected in the annual indoor meet of the First Regiment Athletic club, which will open the local athletic club season, Feb. 25 and 26. The meet owes its popularity, according to George K. Herman of the Central A. U., to the fact that it is a handicap event and thus allows novices a chance to win.

St. Paul.—An event of importance in middleweight circles is the bout on March 17 here between Jeff Smith, the fast New Jersey fighter, and Mike Gibbons, who has been practically a win-knockout of Les Darcy, the Australian, though it took place some time before Darcy learned as much about the game as he knows now.

Champaign, Ill.—Fifty candidates for Illinois 1916 football team are taking part in the winter drill instituted by Coach Zuppke. It is the plan of the athletic authorities to teach rudiments of the gridiron game in a winter season of six weeks, so that when the regular autumn practice begins, the squad will have been well trained in such ground work as tackling, blocking, punting, etc.

Already students at Illinois are praising Sternamen, who is being groomed as understudy for Pogue.

Bloomington, Ind.—Thirty-five ball players who hope to earn places on the Indiana university team have reported to Coach Beebe for preliminary gymnasium work. It is believed that Beebe will have trouble turning out a winning squad since the squad is considered weak in hitting and there is a dearth of good batting material reported. To overcome the first weakness, the coach has inaugurated stiff batting practice in the cage and is trying to teach the men the principles of fast base running. The only veteran battery other candidates for the backstop job are Willey, Bowers, De Tar and Lane. Pitchers include Riddle, Stuart, Salm, Stroh, Smith, James and Kunkle. Shive-

Here's a contest for every baseball fan that reads The Herald. This is the proposition:

Figure out the baseball play or situation on the diamond that would be the most difficult for the umpire to solve. There are many plays the baseball that require quick thinking on the part of the indicator handler, but you are to trick him if you can. Of course the play must be one possible in baseball, but the more difficult the better.

The Herald will have a committee of well-known baseball men and experts to decide who sends in the most difficult play that could be presented to the umpire during the heat of a game.

In sending in your idea of the most difficult play, limit your letter to fifty words, write on one side of the paper only, and sign your full name and address. Address all letters to "Bird of Paradise" baseball contest, care of the sporting editor, Duluth Herald.

Prizes will be given as follows: First prize, one box for Monday evening, Feb. 28, Lyceum theater; second prize, four best orchestra seats on same night. The contest opens today and will close promptly on Friday evening, Feb. 25, at 6 o'clock sharp. The winners will be announced on Saturday evening, Feb. 26, and will be given their seats at The Herald office after 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon, Feb. 28.

DUNBAR INTENDS TAKING MERRIAM MEDAL HOME

Great St. Paul Currier Has Entered Strong Rink in State Championship Bonspiel—Classiest Entry List in Years Will Start Play for Title Now Held By Donald West Duluth Rink.

St. Paul is after the Merriam medal. Winter sports officials of the Saulty City desire to have the medal played for in St. Paul next year at the big mid-winter sport carnival. With this definite and well formed idea in the back of the heads of the St. Paul boosters, Bob Dunbar has been sent to Duluth to play in the state championship bonspiel and will start tonight to win all of his games and convey the medal, now in possession of the Donald kid rink of West Duluth, back to St. Paul.

It was desired to have the Merriam medal play decided in St. Paul this year. West Duluth objected to any such plans and demanded that the state championship play be held here. St. Paul is after features for its winter sport carnival in 1916, and therefore Dunbar will have Lem Defiel on his rink, and Lem is considered one of the best curlers in St. Paul.

In addition to the Dunbar rink representing St. Paul, there will be Milton Griggs, one of the best curlers in the West; Mannheim, Strickland, whom many claim in the same high altitude with Dunbar, and Holmes.

Roy Hoople of Minneapolis is here with Johnny Treadle, the Harry Lauder of the curlers and a former well-known local curler.

In addition to these rinks there will be the great Donald kid rink of West Duluth, the bunch of youngsters who played a remarkable game last year and defeated George La Bat's Minneapolis rink in the final game of the season in a contest that will long be remembered by those who witnessed it. Flanagan of Hibbing and other rinks are expected here. From the present indications the sport will be far and away the best that has been played in connection with the Merriam medal.

Dunkard Was Willing.
J. E. MacGregor got in touch with Bob Dunbar last evening by means of the long distance telephone. When John asked the great skip whether he would come up here and play for the Merriam medal, he was surprised by the alacrity with which the great Robert came back at him. As a matter of fact Bob was intending to come for the last ten days; intending to come, in fact, from the time the declaration of Louis Hill, waited on the great curler and put the proposition squarely up to him, that of bringing the Merriam medal back to St. Paul.

Now it remains to be seen whether the man almost universally regarded as the greatest curler in the whole expanse of the world, will be able to carry out the contract that has been awarded him by his admiring fellow townsmen.

With a large number of rinks from Duluth, West Duluth, New Duluth and Merriam Park entered, in addition to the stars from the Twin Cities, the sport should produce some great curling. Following are the Duluth rinks entered to date:

F. G. German, H. S. MacGregor, R. C. Schiller, Oscar Martin, W. G. Hall, L. Catterton, W. W. McMillan, A. A. McMillan, G. P. Stillman, H. C. Markie, Walter Harris, S. L. GATES WINS FINAL GAME

Bradley Beaten for Head of Lakes Curling Title, 9 to 7.

Clough Gates won the Head of the Lakes curling championship for the 1916 season by defeating Ralph Bradley's rink at the Duluth Curling club Saturday evening by the score of 9 to 7.

The game was nip and tuck to the eleventh end, when Gates laid four stones, Bradley tried to freeze up to one of Gates' rocks with the Superior man laying three. Had Bradley's men swept his rock along he would have made a perfect shot. As it was, he laid where Gates could take him out and lay, giving the skip from over the way a four and that decided the contest.

Gates played a remarkable game. The same should be said of his third, Herb Russell. Bradley also played a strong game. The contest was witnessed by one of the largest galleries of the year.

HENRY HALL IS WINNER

Ishpeming Ski Rider Captures Professional Prize on Chester Hill.

Joe Clark, Duluth Boy, Is Winner in the Amateur Division.

Henry Hall of Ishpeming won first place in the professional class and Joe Clark of Duluth, first place in the amateur division in the annual ski tournament of the Duluth Ski club, held on the famous old Chester hill course, yesterday afternoon in the presence of a fairly large crowd.

While the quality of ski riding was very good, there were fewer riders entered than usual. There were but eight entered in the professional, while the amateur division was represented by but five somewhat lanky riders. Despite the lack of entries in both events, despite the fact that there was little opportunity given for boosting one's own record, the tournament produced some pretty good sport.

The marks failed to come up to expectations. Henry Hall, in addition to scoring the highest number of points for form, made the longest jump of the day, 141 feet. Bert Hansen of Coleraine made the longest standing jump, 139 feet.

Clark had the longest standing jump, 112 feet. While larger crowds have witnessed local meets, it was stated today by the officers of the Duluth Ski club that the tournament was a success financially, despite the fact that there was little opportunity given for boosting one's own record, the tournament produced some pretty good sport.

A banquet was held last evening in Forester hall. Following the stowing away of extra prizes were awarded and plans were discussed for next year. All of the ski riders and many of the Duluth boosters of the sport were present.

Virginia is to stage a tournament next Sunday. This will be about the last official date of the National Ski association for the present season, unless the officials of the Superior Ski club decide to stage a tournament.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 21.—Frequent sprinting victories in the six-day bicycle race, in convention hall here, resulted in rapidly increasing the riders' lead over previous records and caused the elimination of one of the teams in a bad split. Seven teams were tied with a score of 417 miles 1 lap when the racing closed after seventeen and one-half hours riding. This was announced to be eighteen miles, six laps ahead of the world's record for that time.

HEALTH TALKS

Non-Surgical Treatment of Goiter

At least 75 per cent of the cases of exophthalmic goiter are curable by non-surgical measures, declares an eminent Philadelphia diagnostician.

There is of late years a growing tendency to subject patients with exophthalmic goiter to operation. Surgeons claim that less than 5 per cent of the cases operated on succeed—but a "successful" operation is of course not always a cure of the disease. An operation, too often, is considered a success if the patient leaves the hospital in due time, after recovery from the anesthetic.

Some cases of exophthalmic goiter recover spontaneously, without any treatment. Some cases recover after several years of intermittent treatment. Some cases recover only after weeks of confinement to bed. And some cases, subjected to operations as a life-saving measure, recover. If we had exophthalmic goiter we should sidestep surgery until non-surgical treatment carried out through a period of at least six months proved futile.

Against operation are these contingencies:
1. The possibility of post-operative myxedema (due to the want of sufficient thyroid secretion).
2. The mortality rate, which is several times as great as that of appendicitis.

3. The fact that the majority of cases will recover without surgery, if treatment is persisted in for a reasonable length of time.
In favor of operation are these points:

1. The prompt relief of hyperthyroidism, or poisoning by the excessive thyroid secretion.
2. The fact that the majority of cases will recover without surgery, if treatment is persisted in for a reasonable length of time.

Conservation stands sentinel over the natural resources of our country, and forbids destruction of forests, mines and animal life.

Conservation multiplies the by-products of industry, and changes waste into profit. It is conservation that turns rags into miladi's dainty note paper.

It is conservation that gathers together worn-out garments, discarded sheets, carpets and similar objects which have served their useful purposes. In the General's big roofing mills, these are macerated, saturated, sterilized and beaten into pulp, which finally comes out of the rollers in one continuous sheet of clean, strong roofing felt.

It is then thoroughly saturated with the General's own blend of soft asphalt, and coated with a blend of harder asphalt, which keeps the inner saturation soft and prevents the drying-out process so destructive to the ordinary roofing. This explains why outlasts other roofing; also why the General can safely guarantee it for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to ply. Experience has proved that CERTAIN-TEED will out-last the period of guarantee.

The General makes one-third of the rolls of roofing made in America. Enormous production, economies due to cheap power, modern machinery and favorably located mills, combine to produce the best roofing at the lowest cost.

CERTAIN-TEED is made in rolls; also in slate-covered shingles. There is a type of CERTAIN-TEED for every kind of building, with flat or pitched roofs, from the largest sky-scraper to the smallest residence or out-building.

CERTAIN-TEED is sold by responsible dealers all over the world, at reasonable prices. Before you decide on any type of roof, investigate CERTAIN-TEED.

MARKET SYSTEM FOR PRODUCERS
National Farmers' Congress Opens Its Sessions at Kansas City.

Kansas City Mo., Feb. 21.—A national farmers' congress composed of real farmers and minus the usual delegations of business men, convened here today to formulate plans for a permanent organization that will strive to perfect a market system for farm products. The meeting was called by C. D. Reeler of Chanute, Kan., and I. M. Wright of Waukegan, Wis., representing a temporary association.

According to the promoters, "it is the intention, if possible, to organize a farmers' association somewhat the nature of The Landwirtschaftsverband in Germany, that will look after the business end of the producers' affairs, to establish market bureaus in all market centers of the United States.

No crack to defraud the government ever was perpetrated with more boldness, government officials said. The distillery was a legal institution previous to March 1914. Then, following notice that its operators had suspended business, the revenue department officially "sealed" the plant. The government charges the operators removed the seals, replaced old machinery with modern equipment, and began manufacturing liquor on an extensive scale. From March, 1914, to April, 1915, the government charges the illegal operations continued. The product of the plant was shipped to a distributing company at Kansas City, whence the liquor was sold to the Southwest.

There are two stories of how the government uncovered the racket. One is that a Fort Smith saloon keeper, convinced that the company could not sell whisky at $1.50 a gallon and pay the government tax of $1.10 a gallon, sent the revenue department a telegram signed "Citizen" wiring an investigation. The other has it that an internal revenue inspector, here to examine corporations to determine their income tax, found on the books of several grain companies, records of huge sales of grain to the Brew-baker concern, but no government record that such a distillery existed. He wired the Washington authorities and a raid on the plant followed. More than a score of persons were indicted. Six former revenue officials, who, the government charges, had knowledge that the distillery was in operation, were named. Two of them, James Surber of Atlanta, Ga., and Knox Booth of Nashville, Tenn., were high in the councils of the revenue service. Booth died under strange circumstances at Memphis, while returning from the trials of Casper and others at Fort Smith last year. He is said to have confessed to receiving bribes from the moonshiners.

J. C. Brewbaker of Kansas City was indicted but never apprehended. Out-Hartman of Kansas City, business associate of Casper, forfeited a $20,000 bond in Kansas City and is believed to be in Mexico.

LESS THAN $4,000.
Little Paper of Walter J. Smith Held By State Banks.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 21.—Reports that Minnesota state banks hold a large amount of unpaid personal paper of Walter J. Smith, indicted former state treasurer, have been investigated by A. H. Turrittin, state superintendent of banks, and he has found, he states, that the total amount of such paper is less than $4,000.

"The stories that Smith's notes of large amounts were held by different state banks proved to be greatly exaggerated," Mr. Turrittin said. He believed reports that national banks in the state held much of Smith's personal paper were also greatly exaggerated.

GET IT FIRST—NOT LAST
When a cold grips your system it is convincing proof that your condition is weakened—remember that. It is risky indeed to simply trust your strength to throw it off, because neglected colds have brought more serious sickness than any other one thing, while weakening cathartics and stimulating syrups are often depressing and dangerous.

The one best treatment for any cold—the one so often relied on when others fail, is the powerful blood-nourishment in Scott's Emulsion, which feeds the very sources of bodily strength to suppress the present cold and generate strength to thwart further sickness.

Get Scott's first, not last—and insist on the genuine—always free from alcohol and injurious drugs.

AT ONCE! STOPS INDIGESTION, GAS, STOMACH MISERY

"Pape's Diapepsin" Makes Sick, Sour, Upset Stomachs Feel Fine.

Neutralizes Acids in Stomach, Starts Digestion and Gives Relief.

If you had some Diapepsin handy and would take a little now your stomach distress or indigestion would vanish in five minutes and you would feel fine.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour, out-of-order stomach before you realize it.

If your meals don't tempt you, or what little you do eat seems to fill you, or lays like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist for a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a little just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or flatulence, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, no debilitating headaches, dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no undigested food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin instantly regulates out-of-order stomachs, because it prevents fermentation and takes hold of your food and digests it just the same as if your stomach wasn't there. Relief in five minutes from all stomach misery is at any drug store waiting for you.

These large 50-cent cases contain more than sufficient to thoroughly overcome any case of dyspepsia, indigestion or any other stomach disturbance.—Advertisement.

PRINCIPLES MAKE HERODES OF MEN

Grace Church Pastor Talks on Lives of Washington and Lincoln.

"Herodism" was the subject of a sermon last night by Rev. J. Emmett Porter, pastor of Grace Methodist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, in which he lauded the lives of Washington and Lincoln. These men, he said, have stood out in special prominence because of the principles for which they stood. Mr. Porter declared that all the world loves a hero, and that more than one-half of the world worships at the shrine of some form of heroism, either conscious or unconscious of the fact that their devotion approaches the seriousness of worship. Said he: "The history of the development of the human race reveals to us that each stage of development changed the character of the hero worship. In the earlier ages of Grecian and Roman history we find them worshipping at the shrines of the gods and goddesses to whom they had imputed extraordinary powers for accomplishing the spectacular feats of love and war. Later we find them at the feet of real men of athletic prowess—men who could vanquish their foes, be they men or beasts. The master of the art of war has always been the hero of them all, and has challenged the attention of all the ages, and still holds his place today. "The two heroes whose birthdays we celebrate in this month have both been accorded a place bigger than national characters, world heroes, because the principles for which both Washington and Lincoln stood are as big as the universal destiny of man, and personal liberty and freedom. It is not so much the military strategem of which they were capable, and which will- ingness to march because there was military music in the air, that makes them international figures. On the other hand, a man's heroism is to be measured by the willingness to give up his own place, his own wealth, his own life for the sake of those who are in distress and need. "The Hero of the Cross is the universal hero. He who knew no race or tribe or clan, but all men were His brothers, and worthy to be saved even if it should call for the sacrifice of heaven's richest treasure."

LETTER-WRITING MAY TRAP JEAN CRONES

Police Believe Passion for Notoriety Will Prove His Undoing.

New York, Feb. 21.—The police today expressed confidence that the passion for notoriety shown by Jean Crones, the Chicago anarchist, who attempted to poison Archbishop Mundelein and 300 other guests, would result in his capture in the same manner as a similar desire for publicity trapped Ignatius T. Lincoln, the German spy. Crones' latest exploit was to call up a local newspaper twice and announce that he intended to stay in New York until Thursday. He also threatened his brother, Paul Crones, because of an interview with Paul in the newspaper.

Crones' love of writing boastful letters has inspired imitations. Two letters signed "Jean Crones" received by the police are declared fakes.
